He Confessed that He Had Been Implicated in Twenty-one Murders—Killed a Companion at the Age of 14—An Oath-Bound Band of Robbers.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 21.—To-day the written confession of the murderer, Ben Elsey, who was hanged Friday, was given to the public, and if it is all true, as he swore it was, his career of crime probably never was surpassed.

Elsey was born near Dalton, Ga., and at the age of 14 killed another boy over a game of cards. For this crime he was sentenced to the penitentiary for 20 years, but was pardoned after serving 8 months. Soon after his release from prison he began a career of crime, which continued for 10 years. First he became a thief and gambler, and at the age of 16 committed his second murder over a game of cards. Soon after that he joined an oath-bound organized band of robbers and murderers, who had headquarters in Chattanooga, and operated in the principal southern cities. A white man was the captain and leader of the band. They robbed stores and residences and committed highway robbery whenever opportunity offered.

The leader of the gang had an invention for blowing open safes, which is described by Elsey as follows: "His usual way of using it is to put in a box about the size of a cigar box, light it and then wrap it up so as to look like a bundle. It burns very slowly and emits no smoke, and usually takes from four to six hours to explode, making a very slight noise. About dark he carries it to a merchant and asks him to lay it in a safe till morning, when he will call and get it. Some time after midnight he goes back and unlocks the door (we always have keys that will fit any lock) and takes the money out of the safe. He would never let me know how he made the machine. He also had a way of blowing them open when he found them locked."

At Fulton, Ga., in 1885, Elsey and other members of the gang murdered a merchant and robbed and burned his store. In 1886 they robbed and murdered three white men in Chattanooga and threw their bodies into the Tennessee River. The same year they murdered and robbed two men at Rome, Ga., and committed four highway robberies in Knoxville, Tenn., securing several thousand dollars. At Pinson, Ga., in the latter part of 1886, Elsey and three others murdered and robbed his grandmother, Rosa McCorner, a negro woman 70 years old. Elsey had lived with her awhile and knew she had $340. He planned the murder to secure the money.

In 1887 Elsey assisted in the murder of a white man and woman in Mobile, Ala. In 1888 Elsey murdered Mrs. Hargrove in Cobe county, Ga., by splitting her head open with an axe. Mrs. Hargrove had $800 in a trunk, which he secured and then he came to Alabama. His two murders here were the killing of an unknown peddler and the Meadows murder, for which he was hanged.

Elsey's confession concludes as follows: "I will have to bring this to a close, as I cannot spare any more time on it. While I have mentioned only a few of the many crimes I have committed, I have mentioned the most important ones. I have been a gambler and a thief ever since I was a small boy, and I have been a murderer and a robber ever since I was 14 years old. I can remember all the crimes I have committed. I followed my crowd most of the time for five years. I have been implicated in the killing of 21 people—18 men and 3 women. Nineteen were white and two colored. I have no idea of what I have stolen, nor of how many burglaries I have been implicated in, nor of how many safes I have helped to blow open, nor of how many people I have helped to rob. I have a wife and children at Atlanta. I was married to another woman here two months before I was arrested."

An Unfortunate Remark.

Bagley—How's that pretty little widow in Harlem that you have been raving about lately?

Bailey—Oh, she's married.

Bagley—You don't seem to have very good luck in your matrimonial ventures, do you, Bailey?

Bailey—Oh, I don't know. You see, I'm the one she married.—Judge.

TO BE SHOCKED TO DEATH

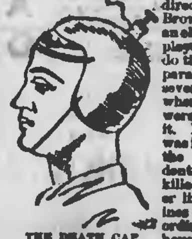
Full Description of the Apparatus Which Will Do the Fatal Work Some Day Next Week—Kemmler a Changed Man—The Story of His Crime.

AUBURN, April 21.—The case of William Kemmler, the Buffalo murderer, has made the tour of the courts of this state, resulting in the confirmation of the original sentence. There is no hope for him and he will be put to death in Auburn Prison by the application of electricity some day in the week beginning April 28. The day will be selected by the warden, Charles F. Durston. Kemmler is a rough, ignorant fellow and brought all his trouble upon himself by the excessive use of whisky. During his trial several witnesses testified that he frequently absorbed as much as a quart of whisky in half an hour, and often made wagers with his companions that he could hold more liquor than they—wagers he invariably won.

Tillie Zeigler was a "partially divorced" woman, and most of the testimony agreed that on the whole she was a pretty bad specimen. She and Kemmler went to Buffalo from Philadelphia. Kemmler had been married before, and, it is said, Tillie was constantly harping upon the subject of his former wife. The morning of March 29, probably stung by something his mistress had said to him, Kemmler literally chopped the woman to pieces with a rusty hatchet. He maintained a brutal stolidity when arrested, and his only remark was: "Yes, I have done it, and I am willing to take the rope for it."

Kemmler was sentenced May 14, was removed to Auburn Prison May 23, and has only been outside its walls once—when he was taken to Buffalo to be resentenced. After Kemmler had been sentenced his counsel, Charles S. Hatch of Buffalo, got Bourke Cockran, the Tammany Hall leader, interested in the case, and the eloquent Cockran pleaded for Kemmler's life in the General Term and the Court of Appeals, arguing that the law was unconstitutional because it provided for cruel and unusual punishment. The courts in every case sustained the law.

The electrical apparatus at the prison is all ready for the execution. It was purchased and set up in the prison under the direction of Harold P. Brown of New York, an electrical expert employed by the state to do this work. The apparatus was tested several months ago, when a horse and a calf were put to death with it. In each case death was instantaneous, and the experts are confident Kemmler will be killed neatly and suffer little. The machines to be used are ordinary Westinghouse dynamos for the generation of alternating currents, which experiments upon dogs and other animals have shown to be peculiarly deadly in their effect.



THE DEATH CAP.

On whatever morning shall be decided upon in the week of the execution the prisoner will be notified, and whatever opportunity he desires for religious consolation and farewell words will be given him. Just before the hour fixed upon for the execution the officers will enter his cell and the death warrant will be read. His shoes will then be removed and a pair resembling regular army brogans will be substituted. In the sole of these there will have been inserted a metal plate covering the whole sole and connecting with wires passing out through the heels. While one officer is making this change of shoes another will fasten the prisoner's hands together in front, and will place around his body just beneath the armpits, a stout leather strap with a buckle fastening it in front, and snap hooks projecting from each side at the back. Another officer will place upon the back of the prisoner's head a peculiar close-fitting cap, apparently of black rubber, made around a small metal piece in the center. The cap will fit over almost the whole of the head, from the base of the brain to well toward the forehead. Inside of it, in the center about the metal piece, will be a spiral arrangement of copper wire about five inches in diameter and made to fit down over the part of the head that it will cover. The wires, just before the cap is placed on the prisoner's head, will be covered with sponge saturated with salt water.

While these arrangements are being put on the prisoner will be sitting on a chair in his cell. The chair, not differing apparently from an ordinary one but which has been made especially for the purpose, will be connected with wires leading to another room, and the prisoner sitting in the chair will without knowing it be subjected to a current of electricity, too light to be felt but heavy enough to give an expert electrician in the other room an exact measurement of his electrical resistance.

From the cell the procession will be much as now to the execution-room, where the deputies and other persons permitted by law to witness the execution will be waiting.

Near the centre of the room, raised upon a small platform about eight inches above the floor, will be a chair made somewhat like a large reclining chair. The long, straight frame that forms the slanting back will be of hardwood pieces, three inches square, and will be long enough so that if a 7-foot man should lie in the chair his head would rest upon the back. The seat and arms will be of plain wood and without any peculiarities. The upper part of the back frame on each side will be fitted with a slot, on which will slide back and forth a small arrangement with a ring at the top and a thumbscrew beneath. The rings are to receive the hooks in the back of the belt about the man's body, and the screws are to fasten the arrangement in place at the spot where the rings will meet the hooks, which will vary according to the height of the prisoner. In front of the chair will [illegible] a pivot to permit it to tip forward or back, so that the foot will [illegible] [illegible] be secured with a screw at the point where the prisoner's feet will rest upon it.

From the ceiling over the back of the chair and over the foot rest will dangle two flexible wires, like those from which small electric lights swing. On the wall at one side will be a small round dial attached to a brass instrument. A hand upon the dial will indicate the intensity of the current that will pass over the wires. Near it on the wall will be a small double pole switch, a brass instrument similar to the familiar switches used to shut off or let on the current wherever electricity is used, but designed especially to show at a glance whether the current is off or on, in order to prevent accidents which carelessness in handling the apparatus might bring about. This will be all of the apparatus apparent in the room.

The prisoner immediately on entering the room will be led to the chair, and in a moment will be pushed back into it, the hooks in the belt about his body slipped into the rings in the chair and there fastened in place by the turn of the screws. At the same moment his feet will be raised and the foot rest slipped under them and fastened by a turn of the screw, and a strap on top of the rest will be buckled tightly over his ankles. In another moment the two dangling wires will be fastened, one to the metal at the center of the back of the cap and the other to the metal connection on the heel of each shoe. A black cloth will be pulled over the face of the prisoner, the officers will stand well back from the chair, and at a signal the executioner at the switch will turn on the current, the volume of which has previously been adjusted to suit the resistance of the prisoner, as shown by the test in the cell.

Only the experience of William Kemmler can certainly tell what will happen then, but if the confidence of those in charge, or the efficiency of the apparatus is well founded, at the instant that the switch is touched there will be a little stiffening of the prisoner's body, a little quivering of the limbs, life will flutter for a bare instant, like the needle that will be dancing upon the dial on the wall, and then it will all be over. There will be no pain, no convulsion, scarcely a movement to mark the passage from life to death.

And Kemmler, what of him? What are his feelings as he sits in his dungeon in a secluded part of Auburn Prison? He is not clothed as a convict. He does not wear the prison garb and does not eat the prison food. His food is furnished from the warden's kitchen. When received at the prison he could neither read nor write. Now, in consequence of the labors of Mrs. Durston and Donald McNaughton, the death-watch, he can sign his name with a pen in plain, bold letters. He can read also, but very slowly. One day after listening to McNaughton read eight chapters of the Book of Job, Kemmler remarked that if he had heard that read a year before he would never have harmed Tillie Zeigler.

WILDCAT BANKING.

A United States Senator's Plan for Unlimited Paper Money.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Senator Hiscock (Rep., N.Y.), a member of the Finance Committee, has introduced a bill to amend and re-enact the national banking law. The Hiscock bill allows national banks, in order to "provide necessary circulation for the transaction of the business of the United States," to issue national bank notes against deposits:

1. Of government, state, railway and municipal bonds—to the amount of 90 per cent.

2. On first mortgage loans on improved real estate—to the amount of 50 per cent.

3. On gold and silver bullion—at their coin (not market) value.

4. On storage warrants and warehouse receipts for pig iron, cotton and wheat, which are to be assigned to the Treasury by the banks—to 75 per cent. of their market value.

On the basis of all these things—railway and municipal bonds, real estate, gold and silver bullion, pig iron, cotton and wheat—the national banks are to be allowed to issue their bills.

Further, Mr. Hiscock provides that the notes so issued shall be a full legal tender for the payment of public and private debts, having thus the same quality as greenbacks; and he further provides that in case of trouble the Government shall be the preferred creditor; the bank's guaranty to the treasury is to have "priority over every other obligation or claim against said depository bank," which, of course, leaves the poor bill holder in the lurch.

ABOUT THIS TIME.

Look Out for Mermaids—Mate Stanton's Queer Catch in Florida Waters.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 21.—W. W. Stanton, mate of the schooner Addie Shaffer, while fishing for bass yesterday three miles off St. Augustine drew his line and found entangled therein the strangest creature ever caught in the waters off this coast. It is about six feet long, pure white and scaleless. The head and face are wonderfully human in shape and feature. The shoulders are well outlined and much resemble those of a woman and the breasts are well defined and show considerable development, while the hips and abdomen continue the human resemblance. It has four flippers, two of which are placed at the lower termination of the body and give one the impression that nature made an effort to supply the strange creature with lower limbs. When it was drawn on board the schooner it gave utterance to a low moaning cry like the sobbing of a child. The schooner has been thronged with visitors all day to view the strange object. Mr. Stanton will present his mermaid to the Smithsonian Institution

A Colborne Mystery.

COLBORNE, April 21.—A coroner's inquest was begun here this evening upon the body of an infant found by Nelson Casey, a schoolboy, on Friday afternoon last while fishing in the creek which crosses the Bennett farm. The lad gave evidence to the effect that while stirring up the water with his fish pole he stirred up the body, which he at first supposed to be a wax doll. He then caught it upon his hook and lifted it out. A string was around its neck to which a stone was attached. The child has the appearance of being still-born. A post mortem is to be held and the jury adjourned till next Monday evening.

QUESTIONS FOR THE JURY.

FORTY-ONE INTERROGATORIES PROPOUNDED.

The St. George Accident Case Nearing a Verdict—The Judges' Summing up—A Remarkable Trial—Expert Fact and Expert Fancy.

TORONTO, April 22.—At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Justice Rose commenced his charge to the weary jurymen in the St. George case.

After complimenting them on the patience with which they had listened day after day to evidence and argument, he dwelt at some length on the difficulty in disposing of the questions which he was to lay before them. He doubted whether their technical education during the last nine weeks of the trial would enable them satisfactorily to sift the wheat from the chaff of the expert testimony. Such cases, he considered, should be tried by judges of the courts whose experience would enable them to disentangle from the scientific knot the expert fact from the expert fancy. The jury, however, must not disregard this line of evidence.

His Lordship sympathized with the jury in their long sitting and said that they should be better paid in such cases. A juryman had informed him that his presence had involved an actual loss of money. He was sorry that he had not the power to remunerate them, but he would forward any petition from them to the Attorney-General.

His Lordship then read the 40 questions to be answered by the jury and which had been arranged by himself and the counsel.

They are as follows:

1. What was the primary cause of the accident?
2. Was the west switch in order at the time the train passed over?
3. If not, what was out of order?
4. And when did it get out of order?
5. What was the space between the ends of the floating and the stock rails?
6. Was the use of the stub switch west of St. George station reasonable or unreasonable?
7. Was there a flaw in the tire?
8. What caused the tire to break?
9. Should the breaking of the tire have reasonably been anticipated?

9a. Was the use of a tire of the thickness of this tire reasonable or unreasonable?

10. If so, what reason was there as shown by the evidence for such anticipation?
11. In what condition was the engine at the time it entered upon the bridge? Answer as fully as you are able.
12. State also its condition at the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh spans, or at any of such spans?
13. In what manner did the engine engage with the bridge? Answer as fully as possible.
14. At what point did the cars, or any of them, become derailed?
15. What was the cause of the derailment?
16. In what manner did the derailed cars engage with the bridge?
17. What caused the coach to leave the bridge?
18. How was the bridge destroyed?
19. Were any of the needle-beams broken by the engine or cars?
20. If so, by which?
21. How broken?
22. If broken, with what result?
23. Were any of the beams which were in the bridge at the time of the accident so affected by decay as to materially weaken them?
24. If so, state what beams referred to in the evidence you say were so decayed and what became of them? Note—What I desire by this question is that if you find that there was decayed timber in the bridge you should show that you are able to trace such timber to the place to which it was carried, or in other words to trace back to the bridge any found at Greenfield's or Stewart's or elsewhere that you say came from the bridge or to otherwise account for the same.
25. Having regard to the general practice and the increase of speed over this bridge, was it reasonable to have this bridge in the condition in which it was built until the expiry of its life?
26. Should the entering upon the bridge of the engine and cars in a condition similar to that in which they were have reasonably been anticipated?
27. If so, what reason was there, as shown in the evidence, for such anticipations?
28. Were the brakes set before the train reached the bridge?
29. If so, how and when?
30. Was Blackwell, under the circumstances, guilty of negligence in omitting to attempt to put on the brake earlier than he did?
31. Having regard to the condition of the engine and train when entering upon the bridge, would the result have been avoided by the adoption of any means which the company ought to have adopted with reference to the bridge?
32. If so, state what ought to have been done?
33. And state how, if such means would have prevented the result.
34. Was the defendant company guilty of negligence? Note—The charges are neglect as to the engine, speed, switch and tire, engine driver, curve, bridge, brakes and safety devices.
35. If guilty state specifically the ground of negligence.
36. If you find any ground of negligence what was the result caused by such negligence?
37. If so, how?
38. Was it reasonable to anticipate an accident similar to the one in question happening to the tire in the running of a train as it was run on the day named?
39. Was the speed of the train as she approached St. George station unreasonable and improper under the circumstances?
40. At what rate of speed was the train going?
41. What under the circumstances would have been a reasonable and proper rate of speed?

After a few additional explanations suggested by counsel, the court room was cleared at 4½ and the jury left to consider their decision. His Lordship stated that he would remain in the building for some time and would give any assistance they required.

At 8 o'clock, as there was no likelihood of a decision being arrived at, His Lordship left orders that the jurors were to be locked in until 10 o'clock this morning, when it is hoped they will be ready to report.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Collector of Customs at Burlington, Vt., reports to the Treasury Department that a number of Canadians recently sent back to Canada from Newport, Vt., for violating the alien labor contract law, have returned to Newport and have been put at work by the same persons by whom they were formerly employed under contract. He adds that while the presumption is strong that they came back under an implied contract to work it is impossible to obtain positive proof to that effect. The department has so far been unable to suggest a remedy in the case.

Burglary at Alliston.

ALLISTON, April 21.—Friday night C. C. Lee & Co.'s store was burglarized, goods to the value of $500 being taken. The greater portion were recovered and yesterday evening Mr. Lee, accompanied by a constable, saw the suspected thief about two miles south of the town and gave chase for some distance. He turned and fired, the ball grazing Mr. Lee's ear. Discretion being deemed the better part of valor pursuit was abandoned.

BOBCAYGEON BUDGET.

A New Hotel—Preparing for Navigation—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

BUILDING NOTES.—Mr. Jackson Reid has let the contract for erecting a large hotel on the old site of the Rokeby House that was destroyed by fire last fall. The building is to be a frame veneered with brick. A number of our villagers have shingled their houses in the new this spring, which adds to the appearance of the buildings as well as to the comfort of the inmates.

BOATS.—Mr. John McDermott is making some very nice skiffs this spring. He is also making a regular flotilla of punts for the Gilmours, who intend to use them for river driving. In fact some of them seem large enough to be taken on a whaling cruise.

REPAIR OF BRIDGE.—Mr. Wm. Kennedy, our local Superintendent of Public Works, has a number of men at work repairing the swing bridge these days. A temporary bridge is constructed for the public, just a few rods up the canal, and will serve very well till the repairs are completed.

GIPSIES.—Two or three families who seem to be prepared for a nomadic life, encamped just east of the school house, for two or three days last week. They put in a great time horse trading, and it is generally believed that they left the village with better horses than they arrived with, but some of our jokeys are wiser men.

THE STEAMERS.—Carpenters, painters and engineers, are busily engaged trimming up the boats lying in harbor here. In fact the painters have brushed, varnished and manipulated till every boat shines like a bran new sideboard, just turned out of the furniture shop for inspection. The worst of it is our eyes will tire feasting on their beauty, before we realize the reality of the pleasure in gliding over the azure billows in one of the beauties, if these cold nights still remain.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

Labor Legislation Forthcoming—Gen. Laurie's Scheme—Divorce Bills.

OTTAWA, April 21.—In answer to Mr. White (Card.), Hon. J. A. Chapleau said the labor legislation promised in the Speech from the Throne would be introduced this session.

Mr. Bergeron brought up the case of certain laborers for a sub-contractor for the Canada Atlantic bridge at Coteau who had been defrauded of their pay. He thought the men should be paid out of the Government subsidy in such cases. Sir John Macdonald having pointed out that this could not be done by law as the Government's agreement was with the railroad company, not with the contractors or sub-contractors, Mr. Laurier held that the necessary change in the law should take place. Mr. McDougall (C.B.) advocated the abandonment by the Government of its preferential lien so that the laborers could have the plant as security for their wages.

General Laurie moved for correspondence between the Imperial and Dominion Governments with reference to the abrogation of such articles in the various treaties of commerce between Her Majesty's Government and the Governments of foreign nations as preclude preferential fiscal treatment of goods of British and colonial production by the Government of the Dominion. He spoke at considerable length in favor of the facility for intercolonial trade possible consequent on such abrogation. Canada, he held, had much to expect from an extension of trade with the West Indies, Australia, New Zealand and South America, much more than from any scheme of commercial union with the United States. Mr. Casey followed, extolling the advantages of trade with the States.

After recess the Keefer and Glover divorce bills were read a second time on a division.

Mr. Brown having moved the second reading of the Walker Divorce Bill, Sir John Thompson moved the six months' hoist. He took the ground that no adultery had been proved or alleged in this case and that Parliament would be stigmatized were it to grant divorce for any other cause.

The House then divided and Sir John Thompson's amendment was carried, 79 to 58.

Mr. Blake gives notice of this motion, to be moved when the next Committee of Supply or Ways and Means is proposed: "That it is expedient to provide means whereby on solemn occasions touching the exercise of the power of disallowance or of the appellate power as to educational legislation, important questions of law or fact may be referred by the executive to a high judicial tribunal for hearing and consideration in such mode that the authorities and parties interested may be represented and that a reserved opinion may be obtained for the information of the executive.

A Bridegroom Arrested for Perjury.

KINGSTON, April 21.—Saturday evening Fred Schultz of Odessa was married to Lillie Berry, the 15-year-old daughter of a Kingstonian. A few hours after the wedding the groom was arrested on a warrant charging him with perjury in having made affidavit before the license issuer that the parents of his intended had given their consent to the marriage. At the Police Court this morning the young couple were allowed to go in peace.

QUEEN VICTORIA AT HOME

The Royal Household Costs $450,000 and Consists of 1,000 Persons, Including Eight Duchesses and a Rat-catcher.

Of all the principal Courts of Europe that of England is the cheapest, and yet the household maintained by the Queen consists of over 1,000 persons. The discipline is strict and admirably carried out. The Queen pays the highest salaries paid at any Court, and in return exacts the most unswerving integrity, the greatest discretion and most faithful service. For her household expenses the Queen receives a yearly grant of £485,000.

Her habits are very quiet and unostentatious. She rises at 8 a.m., and her breakfast consists of a dish of oatmeal, some fish, and a cup of cocoa. The lords and ladies in waiting, thirty-five in number, breakfast in the most sumptuous style, and it is principally for these important personages that the following kitchen staff is maintained: One kitchen clerk, a chef, six cooks, and fourteen helpers and [illegible].

At 10 o'clock her Majesty receives her letters and news. In accordance with strict court etiquette, the Queen is not expected to handle a single newspaper, magazine or periodical; neither does she receive any written communications, except family letters. The newspapers are read through by one of the secretaries to the Private Secretary, who makes cuttings of any news likely to interest her Majesty, and these are fastened to a sheet of silk and laid upon the table.

It is strictly forbidden to any member of the royal family or to any one in the household to convey any newspaper or periodical to her Majesty, or to direct her attention to any news in the daily papers. No political news is clipped from the dailies.

The principal attendants upon the Queen are six pages of the back stairs, whose office have certainly not a very honorable name, but who receive the tolerable salary of $2,500 a year apiece. One of them is in constant attendance at the door of her Majesty's apartment from early morning until she retires at night. His position is no sinecure, and he has frequently to carry the Queen's reprimand to some member of the household who may have incurred her displeasure. He has also to keep a sharp eye upon any unwelcome intruders, and must keep ever alert to avoid any unpleasing contretemps that might come, by announcing a visitor when the Queen is closeted with somebody antagonistic to the new arrival. He must display great tact and firmness, and yet great delicacy withal. Recently when Prince Battenberg had incurred the displeasure of his royal mother-in-law, she sent her page to summon the delinquent to her presence. He refused and was promptly informed by the page that "the Queen commanded him to appear, and disobedience would place him under the painful necessity of summoning the guard!" When the Prince complained of this insolence, the Prince of Wales, who was present, and who cordially detests "those German outsiders," informed him that laws were made to be obeyed; that he seemed to have succeeded in making himself exceedingly unpopular, so much so that it might be of benefit to his health to take a holiday and go back to Germany for a month or two.

The Queen drinks only a glass or two of Beaune at luncheon and dinner, having been forbidden by her medical men to take beer, her favorite beverage. When beer was drunk at the table only a quantity sufficient for use during the meal was drawn and the cask was then given to the housekeeper's department. The Gentleman of the Cellar receives $3,000 a year and has three assistants.

Dinner at the palace is served at 7 o'clock, and the setting and arranging of the table is a most artistic performance and occupies about two hours. For this service a table decker is maintained at $1,000, who occupies a suite of rooms in the palace, and three assistant deckers, besides a wax fitter to arrange the candles and three lamplighters to light them.

The Queen enters the dining room preceded by the head usher bearing the White Wand, the symbol of the "royal command," and without which no Queen's messenger can appear in the House of Lords to transact any affairs of State. During dinner the proceedings are frequently enlivened by the presence of the Queen's piper, who marches round the table discoursing music more or less sweet. Since Prince Battenberg evinced a great dislike to the "skirling" of the bagpipes, they are always "en evidence" when he is present at table.

Her Majesty always gives the signal for rising from the table, and proceeds to her private apartments, where she spends the remainder of the evening, either doing some fancy work, or listening to reading by one of the ladies of the family. During this time she also reads over the various poems and congratulations, of which she daily receives quite a number from her loyal subjects, who dearly love the letter of thanks which is sure to follow, and which looks so well framed and glazed! Court etiquette demands that all communications (excepting personal ones, which never reach her) shall be printed in gilt letters on silk, and with a bullion fringe round the edges. Some London stationers make a speciality of the work, and know the exact depth of the bullion lace and all the other acquirements. A letter of thanks is returned and is accompanied by the gold lace and trimmings which adorned the loyal tribute, and the latter is filed away in the archives of the royal dust-bin. Quite recently a lady in Florida forwarded to the Queen a beautiful collection of leaves which she had spent three years in preparing, and which were subsequently returned to the sender with an expression of deep regret that custom strictly forbade retaining any presents at court. The Queen kept it for three months (the limit of time) and spent many a pleasant evening poring over the three immense volumes comprising the handsome collection.

The Queen retires at 10 o'clock, excepting on special occasions, when she retires as early as she can manage to without disturbing her visitors. There are eight ladies of the bedchamber, who serve by turns, a fortnight at a chamber. These ladies are all of the highest families, and rarely rank under a Duchess. There are besides eight bedchamber women, also persons of quality, who really do the work of ladies' maids, and receive $1,500 a year. These women serve by turns to occupy a month at a time. The blankets on the Queen's bed are made from the wool of Australian sheep; and they are beautifully soft, warm and light of texture. The sheets are also of the same wool, and no linen sheets are ever used. The ventilation of the room is perfect. Throughout the palace the rooms are kept at the same cool temperature, no over-heating is permitted, and in all the private rooms wood is burned instead of coal.

There is a complete sanitary establishment, supported at a cost of £3,700 a year. Perhaps of all the long list of appendages to royalty no one earns his wages more fairly than the obscure personage who figures at the end of the pay roll—The Queen's rat-catcher, whose duty it is to keep the royal premises free from "all rats and mice and such small deer," and who in return for this service receives the modest stipend of $75 a year.—N. Y. Sun.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

ST. JOHN'S VESTRY.

The Adjourned Meeting—Mr. Seward's Resignation Accepted.

There was a fair attendance at the adjourned meeting of the vestry of St. John's church, which was held in the school house last night. Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector, presided.

The Warden's financial statement, with the Auditors' certificate, was presented and adopted.

The report showed a marked increase in the receipts over former years, the total receipts being $4,[illegible], as against $3,[illegible] for last year.

A grant of $[illegible] to the Sunday school for the purpose of improving the library was recommended by the finance committee and was ordered by the Vestry to be paid.

The names of Messrs. W. H. Sherwood, G. W. Hatton, John R. Belcher and Alex. Elliott were added to the finance committee and the committee was given power to add to its number at any time.

THE ORGANIST'S RESIGNATION.

Mr. Seward's resignation as organist was received, and it was decided that the three months notice should be waived and that Mr. Seward should be allowed to leave about the 1st of May.

A committee was then named to collect subscriptions for a purse for Mrs. Seward in recognition of her services in the choir.

After a discussion on financial matters a motion proposing reduced expenditure was voted down by a large majority.

The meeting then adjourned.

A Society's Anniversary.

It is just about a year ago that the Christian Endeavor Society was formed in connection with St. Paul's church, and the close of the first year, which has been a successful, pleasant and profitable one for the organization, was marked last evening by an anniversary meeting to which the public were invited. Mr. W. W. Webster, the president of the society, was in the chair, and quite a number of friends outside of the members were present and enjoyed the evening's programme. The regular meeting of the society was first held, a topic being taken up and considered. After this a pleasing programme of music was rendered and an interesting debate took place. Quartettes and duets were excellently rendered by Miss Sophie Cameron, Miss Montgomery, Mr. McCallum, Mr. Webster, Mr. Crane and Miss Mary Paterson and Miss Sim. The subject for the argumentative warfare was "Resolved, that ministers, government officials and church property should be exempted from taxation." Messrs. A. McCallum and A. Johnston ably upheld the negative of the debate, while they were combatted by Messrs. J. W. Bennett and F. J. Hall for the affirmative. The decision was given in favor of the affirmative.

A Visit to Smithtown Hill.

Chief Roszel and Constable McGinty were out on a tour of inspection in the sanitary interests of the town this morning and in the prosecution of their visitings they reached Smithtown hill. Their visit to this elevated portion of the town did not fail to bring forth fruit, although it was of a very unexpected character. Instead of inspecting the back yards of the residents, one man, two horses and one buggy were taken in charge by the officers. The man, one horse and the buggy went in one lot and the other horse made up the second installment. The latter animal was taken to pound, while the man was locked up in the cells and his horse and buggy placed in an hotel stable. Michael Hickey, of Emily, was the gentleman who fell into the hands of the police with his horse and buggy. He was intoxicated and had driven into a yard above Smith-st. and fallen from his buggy. When found he was lying asleep under the rig with one of the wheels resting across his body. His recumbent form was sheltered from the cooling breeze of the beautiful spring morning by a heavy coon skin coat. He was tenderly gathered up by the officers and placed in his buggy. Constable McGinty took the ribbons and landed him at the police station and locked him up. Chief Roszel paid his attention to the stray horse and landed his prisoner safely in the Murray-st. pound.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

AN EQUAL RIGHTS CONVENTION HELD AT NORWOOD.

Mr. A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer, Chosen as Their Candidate for the Legislature—A Good Attendance and Several Speeches.

A meeting was held in the Town Hall at Norwood yesterday, called by the Equal Rights Association, to consider the question of putting a candidate in the field for the Legislature. There was a good attendance. Mr. Carnegie, President of the County association, and Mr. E. B. Stone, Secretary, were on the platform, and also, by invitation, Messrs. R. Weir, Peterborough, and Wm. Graham, Smith.

Mr. CARNEGIE, President of the County Association, took the chair, and in opening the meeting read the notice issued by the Association calling the meeting. He explained the origin of the Association, which was formed to oppose Papal aggression in Dominion and Provincial affairs. He and the Secretary were electors of the West Riding, but had no desire to influence their action. He asked them to choose a chairman for the meeting.

Mr. Carnegie was asked to preside, on motion of Mr. A. R. Kidd, seconded by Mr. H. Drain.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS.

The CHAIRMAN said the first question was whether they would put a candidate in in the field on the Equal Rights platform. He read the platform of the Association and argued that action on that platform was required. He pointed to the Jesuit Estates Act, to points in regard to the school laws and read from an encyclical of the Pope dated January, 1890, to show that such action was required. He did not care what the political views of the candidate had been, and he did not care what they were or would be on any questions but these. He cared not how strong a supporter of Mr. Mowat a candidate was, so long as he was sound on the principles of the Association. Both parties had tried to secure the support of Roman Catholic voters and to do so had done what that church wished. It was for them on this occasion and also when the Dominion election came on to try to rectify this. He would rather try and fail than not to try at all, because they were bound to do their duty. He thought that the electors present should put a candidate in the field and work for him and he believed that even in East Peterborough they could carry a candidate to victory. It would very likely be said that this was a Tory device to defeat Mr. Blezard, but in East Durham they said the Equal Rights candidate, Mr. Campbell, was run as a Liberal device to defeat the Tory candidate. He read from the catechism that was taught in the Separate schools, and said that, while he would not say they should not be taught, he did not believe their money should be used to aid in teaching such doctrine.

TWO OTHER SPEAKERS.

Mr. W. GRAHAM was called on and said that he had for years been a rigid Reformer, but he could not longer act with that or either of the existing political parties. He argued that neither party should have their support. It was said that they were arousing sectarian feeling, but he denied it, and said they only desired equal rights. Action was required, and this was a time to act. It was said that this was a device to turn out the Mowat Government, but that was absurd. A Reformer had nominated Mr. Carnegie at Peterborough and another Reformer had seconded the nomination.

Mr. R. WEIR said that up to confederation he was a Conservative, but since that time he had been a staunch Reformer and he had opposed Mr. Carnegie before. If the Reformers had been as they were in George Brown's time he would be a Reformer yet, but they were not and he could no longer act with that party. He was opposed to Separate schools, but if the law had been left as at confederation they would not have so much to say. If Protestantism was wrong, then discard it; if it was right, then support it. He had been told that this movement was a Tory dodge. It was not. It was a Protestant dodge, and it would be a successful dodge. The Jesuits were incorporated in Quebec and in Ontario the law was shaped so that they could come into Ontario and teach in schools. What they wanted was to send men to Parliament who would not simply follow a leader, but he would act on principle. No man's religion should be known in the law, but all should stand on the same footing as citizens.

THE SECRETARY.

Mr. E. B. STONE said that he had never given a Tory vote and his father before him had never done so. It had been after a severe struggle that he had been able to cut loose from his old political associations. They had been accused of raising the cry of race and creed. It was not true. The political parties had done so, and they were endeavoring to pour oil on the troubled waters. He had been told by a man of this village that Protestants were permitted to have Separate schools in Quebec, and some people were hoodwinked in that way. There was no parallel, because there were no public schools in Quebec such as there were in Ontario. The so-called public schools in Quebec were Roman Catholic schools. They were told that this was a Tory dodge, but wait until the Dominion elections come on and there would be a different story. He believed that the principles they professed were the principles of the majority of the people of the country, and would prevail throughout the Dominion. They were told they could do nothing on account of the constitution, but their laws were not like the laws of the Medes and Persians and if the constitution was bad it must be changed. If there were no Separate schools, there would be no question of race and creed. With the children growing up together, and not separated, they would grow up in friendship. The only difference between him and his former associates was that he was an Equal Rights Reformer, while they were Archbishop Cleary Reformers. He believed that they could put a candidate in the field and elect him.

A RESOLUTION.

Mr. T. G. CHOATE, of Douro, moved, seconded by Mr. DAWSON KENNEDY, of Otonabee,—That our duty to posterity and our loyalty to the true interests of our country make it advisable, nay, make it our duty to take such action in the present political crisis of our country as will best secure equal rights to all citizens. This meeting therefore resolves that it is advisable at this meeting to nominate a candidate who will pledge himself to support the principles and resolutions of the Equal Rights Association of Ontario.

After remarks by Messrs. Choate, Hugh Drain, of Dummer, P.W. Reynolds, of Norwood, W. R. King, of Douro, J. Knox, of Asphodel, R. Hanbridge, of Otonabee, D. Rose, of Warsaw, W. Stewart, of Otonabee, Mackie, of Douro, E. McIlvaney, of Warsaw, J. Rose, of Otonabee, D. McNaughton, of Belmont, and R. Deyell, of Otonabee, the resolution was put and carried with one vote against it.

MR. KIDD THE CANDIDATE.

The chairman then asked for the nomination of candidates.

Mr. A. R. Kidd, Reeve of Dummer, was nominated by Mr. W. Stewart, of Otonabee, seconded by Mr. R. Hanbridge, of Otonabee.

Mr. Dawson Kennedy was nominated by Mr. W. R. King, of Douro, and seconded by Mr. A. R. Kidd.

Mr. F. W. Reynolds was nominated by Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Dummer, and seconded by Mr. M. Knox, of Asphodel.

Mr. KIDD said that he heartily subscribed to the Equal Rights platform.

Mr. KENNEDY said that he had always been a Liberal, but he stood on the Equal Rights platform. There was an impression in some quarters that they wished to deprive Roman Catholics of some privileges they should have, but they did not wish to deprive them of any privileges that others possessed. He had no intention of being a candidate, but would support whoever received the nomination.

Mr. REYNOLDS said they should have a candidate who was known throughout the county, and he withdrew in favor of Mr. Kidd, who had filled many important offices in the county and had much to recommend him. However, he would support the choice of the convention.

Mr. KENNEDY moved, seconded by Mr. REYNOLDS,—That Mr. Kidd's nomination be made unanimous, and the motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. KIDD assured them that he felt there was a grave responsibility on his shoulders. He had been told to-day that he was a renegade Grit. He had been a Reformer, but he believed that partyism was ruining the country. Every reformation must have a beginning, and no reason other than that he believed it was his duty would lead him to accept the nomination. As an instance of how things were worked in the parties, he said that at a Reform convention in this riding Mr. Dumble, of Peterborough, wrote on a blackboard "400 Roman Catholics in the riding," and the question was how would they get their votes. He had independence enough then to kick them, but supported the candidate in the election. But things had gone on until independent action was necessary. He would accept the nomination if there was not a third candidate put in the field. An opportunity should be given the people to show how they stand on this great question that was agitating the Dominion. He was in favor of placing all citizens on equality, and was opposed to class legislation. He was opposed to church influence over the affairs of the state. He continued at some length to give his views, but said he would say more when he had opportunity again. Mr. C. F. Fraser in his intemperate speech in the House had thrown down the gauntlet, and in taking up the gauntlet they were not raising race and creed cries. He thanked them for the generous way in which they had received his nomination, and he would do all he could to carry the Equal Rights banner to success.

After some remarks by the chairman the meeting closed with cheers for the Queen, Mr. Kidd and the chairman.

Wedding at St. Peter's.

At eight o'clock mass at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning a marriage ceremony was quietly celebrated in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties. Miss J. McNamara, daughter of Mr. P. McNamara, was united in holy wedlock to Mr. John Finn, of the C.P.R. The bridesmaid was Miss J. O'Brien, cousin of the bride, while Mr. T. Moriarity, of Havelock, assisted the groom. Rev. Father Whibbs performed the ceremony. The happy couple, who will be the recipients of the well wishes of a large number of friends, will take up their residence on Perry-st.

Gone To Pay The Penalty.

Thomas Bowen, the handsome young Auburn butcher, whose wholesale operations as a cattle stealer and midnight marauder have been spread before the public and who was sentenced to five years in the Kingston penitentiary at the assizes last week, was taken to Kingston on the noon train to-day. The sentence which the man has received is deemed by no one to be any too heavy and his detection and conviction are something for which the farming community should feel grateful. To Chief Roszel the credit is due for this, for that officer, with a good deal of labor and skill, wound the chain of evidence around the neck of both Bowen and his accomplice Peacock, so tightly and securely that the latter wilted at the first stage and the former, who was the bolder of the two, after keeping a bold face finally pleaded guilty. It was a case in which, if it had not been ably handled the guilty parties might have escaped the just penalty of the law. Judge Dean remarked himself that Chief Roszel deserved great credit for the manner he had worked up the case, and so he does.

The West Riding.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—What are the Conservatives in this riding doing that they allow petty differences as to selection to interfere with their duty? I have understood from the chief men of the party that the Conservatives really intend to oppose in a determined way both Mr. Blezard and their former chief, Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie does not pretend to represent (what he certainly does not) any other than the Equal Rights party and I think it a high time that men should lay aside their difference and bring out their man.

Yours,
CONSERVATIVE.

VANDERFELT'S ROAST PIG.

A Feast Fit for The Montezumas Prepared by a Well known Actor.

E. H. Vanderfelt the actor, has an accomplishment which many of his friends enjoy as much as he. He can roast a pig as never pig was roasted, before, these friends think, and he roasts one often, and when he does this a merry party sits around the board on which the savory, crisp, brown and tempting dish is placed.

The man whose heart will not warm over a deliciously roasted perfectly dressed and handsomely garnished pig, must be a misanthropic cynic. But the man who could watch Vanderfelt in the kitchen from the time he begins his cooking until he pulls from the oven the great pan, steaming and crackling, without getting into a sympathetic condition of intense and breathless interest, ought never to have the good fortune to eat a well roasted young porker.

Vanderfelt adorns himself with a great spotless apron, and, armed with a wonderful roasting-fork, he marches to the kitchen and takes possession of it. No part of the preparing of that meal is done by hands other than his. He dresses the pig, places it in the oven, savors it, bastes it, plunges his fork into the golden brown of the flesh, takes it out in triumph when it is done, and with a radiant face bears it to the table for the "feast in the Halls of the Montezumas."

As he carves it, his satisfaction is so great that he begins eloquently to sing the praises of roast pig, and then the "fun" begins.—New York Tribune.

I Saw a Tragedy in a Dream.

Some time ago a lady from Macon was visiting relatives in Athens. She had been there about a week when she suddenly received a telegram one morning from her home in Macon saying her nephew was quite sick. On reading the telegram the lady suddenly grew pale and appeared unduly excited about the news received. She did not speak, however, about it until she was leaving Athens on the Georgia Railroad.

Then she told another lady from Athens, who accompanied her, that one night before receiving the telegram she had had a most frightful dream about this same nephew. She said that she dreamed he had become engaged in a row with one or two other men and had been horribly shot and fatally wounded. The frightful vision was so impressed on her mind that she could even at that moment see her nephew shot down like a dog, and bleeding on the floor.

The sight made her sick and the lady almost fainted on the car. She was told that it was only a dream and that it could have no bearing on the telegram whatever, as the telegram had only stated that her nephew was sick. When the ladies changed cars at Barnett for Macon, a friend of the Macon lady came in the car, and, in the presence of the Athens lady, told her that the nephew had been shot, and in very much the same way that the dream had recounted.

A Chimney Sweep as LL.D.

A correspondent in an Edinburgh paper relates that not long ago, in one of the Scotch Police courts, a sweep, who was about to give evidence, on being asked his name, replied, "Dr. Thomas Macleod."

"Doctor! Doctor of what?" inquired the Sheriff, in amazement.

"Well," asked the judge, "and how did you acquire the distinction?"

"Weel, sir, it was like this. A Yankee chiel, that was agent for yin o' the colleges in his ain country, cam' tae bide hereaboots wi' this family for the Summer. I soopit his three lums twice, but deil a bawbee could I get oot o' him. Ane day I yokit, sair, at the crater for the siller, an says he, 'Weel, Tammas, I'll mak' an LL.D. o' ye, and that'll pit us even.' I just tuck him at his offer, as there seemed tae be nothing else for 't. I've gotten me diplommy framed at home, and I can tell ye, sir, a bonnie pictur' it mak's."—London Truth.

A St. Louis Husband's Hint for Bashful Young Men.

A writer in the St. Louis Globe Democrat says: "I was very much amused at the article published a few days ago on 'How Girls are Proposed To.' I think the way I proposed was just as unique, and the time and method a little more novel than the methods the fellows in that article adopted. It was a case of love at first sight, but the girl didn't know how I felt, neither was I sure that she cared a continental for me. She was a modest retiring, bashful little thing, and while I wanted to tell her how much I thought of her I was afraid to. One Sunday night, the fourth time I had called, I made up my mind fully that I wanted her, but she was so shy I thought it would frighten her away if I spoke. About 10 o'clock I proposed a game of cards, and in a joke suggested that we play for a wager, and that she put herself up against me. She modestly consented. I thought I was going to lose, and I knew if I did it was a lost chance, even if it was a joke. Well, I won, and told her with a laugh that she belonged to me. After sitting and looking at each other a few moments I took her hand and said she must always pay her losses, and the hand that I held was mine. She looked at me with a smile and said quietly, 'Well, if you want it you can have it.' I won that girl by a game of cards on Sunday, but we neither have regretted the violating the fourth commandment. Perhaps my method may help some other bashful couple."

SPRING EXHIBIT!

Any one will recognize the benefit of dealing with a house that shows a Large Range of Goods as well as the Newest Colorings and Styles.

In this connection we would mention the fact that we have several hundred different Styles in our Tweed Department embracing many new and novel effects. Our selections have been made from the markets' choicest offerings.

We would state to those who contemplate ordering their Spring Suit that we have been favored with a very large trade and would esteem it a favor if buyers would order early.

Our facilities are now taxed to their full capacity and early orders will prevent delays.

Never since our existence have we been so overwhelmed with work. What is the cause? The answer is easy. Our Styles are right, our Goods are right and our prices are right.

The Daily Review.

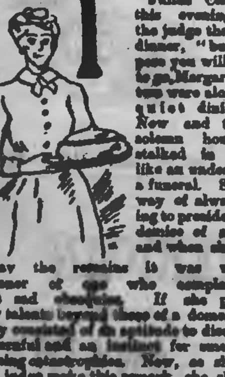
TUESDAY, APRIL 22, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"One thing you will do well to keep in mind, Miss Margaret, and that is that no one in this world is benefited by the death of Henry Leiter except his nephew. The fact is there for you to make much or little of. And it's best you should know it and weigh it. I do not apologize for having spoken to you of that other matter. I had to speak. I see you do not want my help, but still, if you ever need me—and you may do so yet—do not hesitate to come. Good afternoon."

"Oh, God in Heaven!" cried Margaret, as the door closed behind him, "what is going to become of me? How can hearts be made so hard!" and she climbed the stairs to where Nat lay, and throwing her arms around his neck, wept as if joy had taken its departure from earth.

CHAPTER VII.



"I have tickets for "Julius Cæsar" for this evening," said the judge that day at dinner, "but I suppose you will not care to go, Margaret?" The two were alone in the quiet dining-room. Now and then the solemn housekeeper stalked in and out like an undertaker at a funeral. She had a way of always seeming to preside over the demise of a dinner, and when she cleared away the remains it was with the manner of one who completed the last sad obsequies. If she possessed any talents beyond those of a domestic sort, they consisted of an aptitude to discover the mournful and an instinct for smelling out coming catastrophes. Now, as she heard the judge make this remark, she shook her head dolefully. This, and not her father's question, decided Margaret. She never could help entertaining a desire to shock Amanda.

"We may as well go," said she, feeling her heart lighten as her brooding misery gave way for a moment to the sense of irritation. "I shouldn't like to go in a box, of course, but if we go quietly I see no harm in it."

"Julius Cæsar isn't much of a diversion, it must be confessed," said the judge, "but I have a horror of the house this evening. I feel as if I must go somewhere."

"Dear old papa!" murmured Margaret lovingly. "we both feel as if the ground had suddenly vanished from beneath our feet. I am sure we have need to love and trust each other more than ever before. Let us have no secrets from each other, dear."

"Secrets," cried the judge, peevishly, "pray why should we have any secrets? Women—even the most sensible of them—say remarkably childish things at times."

"Well," said Margaret, pouting a little and playing with her fork, "if you insist that I am not to think of poor Harry, then I have no choice but to have a secret from you. All I want is that you should let me be frank with you, dear."

"Margaret," returned the judge, flushing from some cause that Margaret could not discover, "I am sure your mother would never have spoken of affairs of the heart with the freedom that you do. I sometimes fear, daughter, that you have lost something of that deep—I cannot just tell how to put it—you have been, I would say, most unfortunate in being deprived of your mother's counsels."

"I know that better than any one else can," returned the girl, with a scarlet face, "and I am sure if the occasion were an ordinary one that I would be as reticent as you could possibly desire. Of course, if poor mamma were alive, I should go to her with these matters and be listened to with sympathy. I am certain she would never suspect me of immodesty. But as I have so long ago lost her, I have no one to come to but you, and you listen to me like—like a man. You forget that I have always thought of you as most girls do their mothers."

Two tears rolled slowly down the soft cheeks and salted the soup.

"Well!" cried the judge, "I am a villain. Come over here, sweetheart, and kiss your old father. You are the loveliest woman in Chicago, dear. You can not wonder that I am tender of you, and shudder when I think of your name being associated with that of a man under suspicion."

Margaret had not the heart to break this comforting season with another plea for Harry. She concluded to wait till a more auspicious time. As for going to the theater, she saw nothing disloyal in that. She had not been raised according to conventional standards, and was not conscious of committing an offence against good breeding. All she wanted was to find a forgetfulness for an hour or two. So the carriage was called, and the judge in irreproachable evening attire helped Margaret down the steps to it at a quarter of 8.

"You are certainly the best dressed man of your age I ever saw," said Margaret proudly and half banteringly. "Now when I get to your age I shall be dowdy. Dowdy is a purely feminine adjective, isn't it? How many disagreeable things are purely feminine?"

"Daughters, for instance," said the judge with loving accent.

Margaret nestles close to him, and he threw his arm around her. So, side by side, they rode to the end of their journey, neither speaking but both filled with comfort for the time in spite of the widening breach between them. Perhaps the consciousness of this breach and all that must inevitably come from it, caused them to draw closer together, as if to shield their love from harm. As lovers find their tenderness increase when parting seems imminent, so these two felt the danger in which their affectionate trustfulness stood, and both strove to protect it. Margaret had never looked more beautiful. Her anxiety lent an almost dazzling brilliancy to her eyes; her cheeks were flushed to a deep crimson; her mouth tremulous; her carriage full of pride that was most defiant. A peasant's cloak of black satin draped her from shoulder to shoe; a close fitting cap of velvet, circled with plumes, covered her dainty head, and in her hand she carried a prodigious fan of sable plumes, which she waved with a slow and stately motion, that gave the young man in the row behind her the idea of the plumes on a hearse. Indeed, the young man behind her was filled with lugubrious thoughts. For the first time in his life he was suffering with a pain at the heart—the sort of a pain that youth knows often. That morning he had come upon life in that strange and awful way that is appointed to all to do. He had, in short, seen a woman. Men may live among women for many years without seeing them. And when the knowledge of all that a woman is to man is conveyed to them there follows one of two things—unspeakable happiness or indescribable misery.

"I know I'm imaginative," said Dennis Pond to himself, watching the slow movement of those plumes and breathing in the perfume that blew from them, "but this is not imagination. If it were I should not be so sure that it was hopeless." He was in that sensitive state where all his perceptions were sharpened. He knew that Margaret was watching the play listlessly, but that the judge was concentrating on it all that keen critical faculty that had made him famous. And, indeed, the production was well worth the attention. There was the high and melancholy Brutus moving on a plane above his fellows, and speaking through the mellowed and splendid tones of Edwin Booth; there was the classic Cæsar of Lane, with its undertone of tenderness; there was the fiery Antony—not the Antony of Shakespeare, to be sure, but one that the public applauded; and there was the rasping red impulsive yet calculating Cassius of Barrett. The young man behind Margaret was conscious that it was on this man that the judge fixed his closest attention. Each changing passion of the man elicited a sympathetic understanding in the judge. Margaret's eyes wandered over the house restlessly, but not once did the judge take his eyes off the stage, and the young man took out his sketch book and drew a rough outline of the back of his head, writing underneath, "Intensity expressed by the back of the head," and smiling at himself at the idea afterward.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

TORONTO, April 22.—Eggs are unchanged at 10½c. The butter market is in a most discouraging state, the only gleam of comfort being an increase in the receipts of choice grades the past few days. There is now enough good stock to satisfy the general demand, but the market is glutted with low grades, for which there is positively no demand and dealers are low spirited about it. Any amount of this stuff can be bought at 5c. Choice tubs are selling at 16c to 18c, and during the last two days there have been good receipts of nice large rolls which have sold at 16c. Medium rolls sell at 13c to 15c. Other produce is unchanged. We quote: Dressed hogs, $6.25 to $6.50; beef, 7c to 8½c; new lambs, $5 to $8; lamb, 12c and 12½c; veal, 6c to 8c; potatoes, 58c to 55c in cars and 65c in small lots; baled hay, $10 to $10.50 for No. 1 and $8.50 to $9 for mixed; baled oat straw, $6 to $6.50.

BREADSTUFFS.

There is no change in the local breadstuffs market. Flour is firm. Straight rollers are quoted at $1.05 to $1.10. Wheat is strong, holders asking $1 outside for white and 94c for spring. Oats are away up, holders asking 33c outside with buyers not willing to pay that figure. Barley is firm at 46c outside. Peas are steady at 56c and 57c outside.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports: Wheat, quiet and steady, demand poor, holders offer moderately. Corn firm, demand improving. Spring wheat, nominal; red winter, 7s ½d: No. 1 Cal., 7s 2d. Corn, 3s 7d. Peas, 5s 5d. Pork, 56s. Lard, 33s. Bacon, long clear, heavy, 31s, and light, 31s 6d; short clear, 31s. Tallow, 24s 3d. Cheese, 54s 6d.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat and corn nil. Cargoes on passage—Wheat and corn firmer. Mark Lane—Wheat improving, corn firmer, flour improving, spot good. No. 2 Club Cal. wheat 33s 6d, was 33s, present and following month 33s 6d, was 33s 6d; do, spot, good, mixed American corn 18s, was 17s 9d; straight Minnesota flour 23s, was 22s 6d; good cargoes No. 1 Cal. wheat, off coast, 35s 9d, was 35s 6d. London—Good shipping No. 1 Cal. wheat, prompt sail, 35s 3d, was 35s; do., nearly due, 35s 9d, was 35s 6d. French country markets, turn dearer. Liverpool—Spot wheat, easier; corn, good demand; No. 1 Cal. wheat, 7s 2d, Walla, 7s, both ½d dearer; red winter, 7s; Indian, 7s 0½d, both unchanged; corn, 3s 7d, ½d dearer; peas, 5s 5d, unchanged.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Little Falls reports: The sales were 913 boxes at 9¾c; 135 boxes at 9½c; 58 boxes at 9⅝c; 118 boxes at 10c; 117 boxes at 10¼c, 1400 boxes on commission. There were 67 packages of farm dairy butter sold at 15c to 16c, nearly all at the latter figure. There were also 29 packages of creamery butter sold at 17c, one cent better than last week's prices.

Utica reports: The sales of cheese on the Utica Board to-day were 470 boxes at 10c; 60 boxes at 10¼c; 1000 boxes consigned. The market is strong but conservative.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, April 21.—At the Police Court to-day W. Day, a Toronto agent, laid a charge of assault against John Eustice, who keeps a store at the corner of John and Young-streets. Day claims that he went into the defendant's store and they got into a quarrel, which ended by Eustice striking him. At the request of the defendant the case was adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Fishery Inspector Kerr went out on the bay on Saturday night and seized 1200 yards of net.

The Hamilton & Barton Incline Railway directors held a meeting this evening and listened to an address by a Cincinnati expert.

A lad named George Spence was knocked down and trampled on by a horse this afternoon, receiving serious injuries.

Ormond & Walsh

FIELD, GARDEN & FLOWER SEEDS.

Purchasers of seeds must now be convinced of the disappointment experienced in buying seeds in boxes or packages already put up and placed in stores on commission and in many instances transferred from place to place for many years before being sold, the disappointment experienced not only from their non-vegetative powers but from the small quantity contained in each paper. To prevent these disappointments Messrs. Ormond & Walsh sell the whole of their seeds by weight at a fair and moderate price with a guarantee of their Freshness and Vegetative Power.

DRY GOODS NEWS

—AT—

TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

CRONIN SUSPECTS FREED.

THE CHARGE OF MURDER AGAINST KUNZE DROPPED.

Woodruff Not to be Tried for the Chicago Butchery—Alleged Mysterious and Suspicious Deaths of Simonds and Cooney

CHICAGO, April 22.—State's Attorney Longnecker has had the case against John H. Kunze stricken from Judge Hawes' docket. Kunze has been out on bail ever since Judge McConnell granted the [illegible] Cronin [illegible] a new trial. [illegible] Attorney believed that it would be useless to prosecute the German.

Frank J. Black, alias Frank Woodruff, the lone Cronin suspect, who has occupied a cell in the county jail almost a year, was discharged on the charge of murder by Judge Hawes. Attorneys Browne and Porter for Woodruff claimed that their client had been under indictment for murder more than [illegible] months and had not been given a trial. According to the law, they said, he should be given a trial or discharged.

"The fact is," the State's prosecutor admitted, "I cannot try him for murder, but he ought to be kept in jail as long as possible on general principles. Such a liar as Woodruff is better off in the ca[illegible] than [illegible]. As to the murder charge, I can't [illegible] anything with him, but he'll go up for horse stealing."

State's Attorney Lo[illegible] he knew who took Cronin's body away from the Carlson cottage, and it was learned to-night that this man was none other than the J. B. Simonds who has been so eagerly wanted. It is said Simonds died suddenly and suspiciously not long ago in an eastern city, while it is also said Patrick Cooney died suddenly and unnaturally in a Wisconsin village.

These facts have come out in consequence, it is claimed, of the misdirection of funds raised for the defence of the Cronin murderers. The relatives of Sullivan, the iceman, and Dan Coughlin, have been compelled to mortgage their property to raise the necessary funds to pay legal and other expenses, and they now threaten to tell what they know. Should they do this it is confidently anticipated those of the conspirators now out of jail may soon find themselves in a bad box.

No Verdict Yet.

TORONTO, April 23.—The jury in the St. George case spent all day yesterday conning over the problems contained in the 41 questions submitted to them. They were locked up at the Palmer House over night and the probability is that they will be discharged to-day, whether they arrive at a verdict or report a disagreement. Judge Rose had intended leaving last night, but in view of a possible agreement consented to remain over and allow the jury to consider the case yet a little longer.

The Salaries Will Be Cut.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Vice-President and General Manager C. H. Crosby of the United States Express Company states the company will not recede from its position on the cutting down of salaries. A strike that will extend throughout the entire express system in all the cities of the United States will therefore probably result.

The Hoosier Strike Settled.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 23.—The carpenters strike here has been settled on the basis of an 8-hour day and 30 cents an hour. This is an advance of 5 to 10 cents an hour. About 500 men will resume to-morrow.

Brickmakers Strike at Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 22.—All the brickmakers in the northern and northwestern parts of the city, numbering 1200, struck to-day to enforce the demand that 7000 brick shall constitute a day's work instead of 6000.

Hanlan to Row Plaisted.

ATLANTA, April 22.—Edward Hanlan and Fred. A. Plaisted have been matched to row three races on the Tennessee River at Bridgeport, Ala., May 6, 7 and 8, for the one-mile championship of the United States and a purse of $3000. Each race will be one mile straightaway.

A Blaze at Hagersville.

HAGERSVILLE, April 23.—Beattie's storehouse full of grain owned by Lynch, Beattie & Co. was burned to-night. Fully insured in Northern, Caledonia and City of London. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

FURTHER TARIFF MODIFICATIONS ANNOUNCED.

The Resolutions Agreed to and a Bill Founded Thereon Introduced—The Anti-Combines Bill Passed—Mr. Charlton's Notice of Motion.

OTTAWA, April 22.—Mr. Blake having at Mr. Foster's request deferred his motion advising a reference to a judicial tribunal of vexed questions relating to disallowance, the House this afternoon went immediately into Committee of Ways and Means. Further modifications of the new tariff were announced by the Finance Minister, discussed and agreed to. The changes were as follows:

All manufacturers, and not merely those of woolen and cotton goods, are allowed the privilege of free importation of blood, albumen, tannic acid, antimony, salts, tartar acetic and gray tartar.

The item providing a duty of 20 per cent. on building stone is made to read dressed building stone.

Ginger wine is to pay 75 cents in place of 60 per gallon.

Repairs made to ships are no longer to be dutiable.

The Skelp iron duty, now $13 a ton or about 35 per cent., is to read thus: Skelp iron, sheared or rolled in grooves not wider than eight inches nor finer than 20 gauge, until such time as it is manufactured in Canada, 20 per cent.

Buttons of hoof, rubber, vulcanite or composition are to be five cents per gross and 20 p.c. ad val., in place of 10 cents per gross and 25 p.c.

Wire for the manufacture of [illegible] pins is no longer to be free.

A discussion arising on the pork duties, Mr. Foster reiterated his statement that under the terms of the General Inspection Act clear cut pork may be entered as mess pork at 1½ cents per pound, but said that in view of a difference of opinion on this subject the Government would consider the advisability of further defining the term mess pork.

Mr. Weldon (St. J.) urged the abolition of the duty on lime for fear that a larger duty might be put on by the States in the McKinley Bill.

Mr. Foster, in reply, said there was a standing offer by this Government to the States to abolish or reduce the lime duty in accordance with whatever action may be taken by the States.

The committee having risen and reported the resolutions, Mr. Foster moved that they be read a second time and concurred in.

Mr. McMullen moved in amendment that the resolutions be referred back for the purpose of reducing the duty on binding twine and cordage.

The House divided and the amendment was lost, 44 to 83.

Amendments by Mr. Charlton that nursery stock be free and by Mr. Platt that refined coal oil be free were lost on the same division.

An amendment by Mr. Taylor that cheese imported from the United States for export be branded when in bond was declared out of order, but Mr. Foster said the Government would give attention to the matter.

The resolutions were then read a second time and agreed to and a bill founded thereon was introduced and read a first time.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, taking up several items of the main estimates left over on previous occasions.

After the [illegible] Clarke Wallace's bill amending the combines bill was read a third time and passed.

The House adjourned at 12.50.

Mr. Charlton to-night gave notice of this resolution, to be moved as an amendment to motion to go into supply:

"Resolved, That regard being had to the fact that the competency of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec to pass the act entitled an act respecting the settlement of the Jesuits estates was called in question, and that a belief in the unconstitutionality of the said act was widely entertained, and in view of the deep feeling of dissatisfaction in large sections of the community incited thereby and generally the disturbed state of the public mind on the subject thereof, and further having regard to the fact that His Excellency was advised to obtain the opinion of the law officers of the crown in England as to the course which His Excellency should pursue regarding the said act:

"This House is of the opinion that the question of the constitutionality of the said act should have been submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada in pursuance of the powers conferred by the Supreme and Exchequer Courts Act, when the question after submission of evidence and full argument of counsel on both sides could have been definitely determined by such court, and that the reference upon the ex-parte and incomplete statement of the case submitted to the law officers of the crown in England, who were not called upon to hear the question argued but were merely to express an opinion founded upon the incomplete statement made, thus ignoring the Supreme Court of Canada especially empowered to determine such a matter, was unwise and calculated to increase instead of allaying the distrust which the course of His Excellency with respect to the said act has excited among large numbers of the people of Canada."

Mr. Ellis has given notice of an amendment to the Banking Bill, providing that the Government shall have no preferential claim in case of failure of any bank.

Notes and Gossip.

OTTAWA, April 22.—The Clapp divorce case was thrown out by the Senate to-day, 35 to 8. The co-respondent was a music dealer named Pingle. The parties reside near Guelph. In evidence it came out that Mrs. Clapp spent several weeks with Pingle in Detroit.

A meeting of the Committee on Privileges and Elections [illegible] to consider the Ryk[illegible], Deputy Minister of the [illegible] the first witness examined. He gave evidence in regard to the area which the limits of Mr. Adams covered. The overlapping of one limit over the other was agreed by both parties to be decided by [illegible], so as to save putting them up again for competition. Shortreed & Laidlaw withdrew their application so far as the limit covered Mr. Adams', the other being the first applicant. The arrangement between Shortreed & Laidlaw and Adams was that the only part of the former limit to be interfered with was the part which overlapped Adams' limit. This arrangement did not appear to be carried out, since Shortreed & Laidlaw got part of Adams' limit, the prairie part, which did not encroach on his limit in the first instance. It was impossible to carry out the arrangement as entered into between Messrs. Shortreed and Laidlaw on the one hand and Adams on the other. Some other officers of the department were examined, but nothing very important elicited. Mr. Rykert [illegible] about 1 o'clock to make a statement on his own behalf, but the committee decided to adjourn until to-morrow morning.

News has been received here that Secretary Blaine has taken steps to stop the sale of liquor to Canadian Indians who may be in the States. The Canadian Government last year called the attention of the Washington authorities to this evil and asked that it be prohibited; now it is announced that the Secretary of the Interior has reported in favor of an amendment to the law which will cover all cases of furnishing liquor to Indians within the United States, irrespective of the relations of the Indians to the Government.

A banquet was given to Alonzo Wright, M.P., to-night in the House of Commons restaurant by his fellow-members. The occasion was the 27th anniversary of his representation of Ottawa County in the Dominion Parliament. Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Speaker of the House, occupied the chair. The vice-chairmen were Hon. Peter Mitchell and Mr. Cargoin.

A deputation of gas men waited upon the Government to-day in connection with the bill relating to the inspection of gas, now before the House. The deputation consisted of Messrs. Jesse Joseph, L. W. Smith of Montreal, W. H. Pearson of Toronto, F. W. Gates, T. Littlehales of Hamilton, N. H. Goggin of Quebec, Robert Baxter of Halifax, William Duffield of London, J. Stevenson, M.P., of Peterboro and Smith of Quebec. The deputation were accompanied by several members of the House, including Messrs. Brown, Small, Cockburn, Wilson (Len.), Innes and Bain (Went.). The deputation complained of the proposed more frequent inspection of meters, which they held would produce inconvenience more than offset by the possible benefit. They also objected to the proposed fine of $10 per day for supplying inferior or impure gas. Complaint was made that the competition of electric light companies had very largely diminished the profits of the gas companies and therefore it was urged that no higher fees should be exacted by the Government. After hearing the representations of the deputation Hon. John Costigan said the matter would receive his attention. He intimated that probably the suggestion made, that instead of making the inspection more frequent the fees should be raised, might be acted upon. The Government desired to make the revenue more nearly equal to the expenditure, and thus there had to be an increase in some shape.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOODS.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—Governor Nicholls has received the following:

BAYOU SARA, April 22.—We have been overwhelmed by the storm and rain. Crevasses numerous along the front. Old Morganza levee broken. Send a boat at once to save the people or there may be great loss of life. MARTIN GLYNN, president of police jury.

The Governor arranged to have a steamer and several barges proceed at once from Baton Rouge to Point Coupee. Other boats will be sent up to-night. Thousands of men worked in vain for sixty days to strengthen and save the Morganza levee. Governor Nicholls has telegraphed to United States Senator Gibson asking him to secure Government aid.

A Bayou Sara special says: The Point Coupee front has crevasses at Preston, St. Maurice, and to-day one just above Morganza which will before many hours take away this grand levee. We have had two days heavy rain and the situation is beyond description. People are resorting to trees for safety. Skiff-loads of people are passing through our inundated streets seeking safety on the hills. They make a sad and gloomy procession. All tell the same tales of woe and destruction. The situation in Bayou Sara is frightful; not a house in town is above the flood. The break at Morganza is now 400 feet wide.

THE STORY RE-AFFIRMED.

Grand Trunk and Northern Pacific to Parallel Canadian Pacific.

WINNIPEG, April 22.—Despite Sir Joseph Hickson's lack of knowledge on the subject it is pretty generally understood that the Grand Trunk has an understanding with the Northern Pacific Railway to build in conjunction a new line clear through to the Pacific coast, paralleling the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is known that the Northern Pacific has had expert engineers in the Rocky Mountains hunting for an eligible pass. The scheme was to run the line north of the Canadian Pacific Railway over the route first projected by that road, through Yellow Head Pass, but it is hinted now that the intention is to run the line south of the Canadian Pacific through Crow's Nest Pass. Both routes penetrate excellent country.

INTERRUPTED AT THE ALTAR.

SALISBURY, Md., April 22.—Henry Lercallette and Victoria Wright were being married in a country church near here and the clergyman was about to declare them man and wife when an aunt of the young woman appeared with a letter from the wife of Lercallette. The woman asked the minister to read the letter aloud. When the minister finished reading the letter the would-be bride fainted and Lercallette in the excitement disappeared.

The Tea Lottery Fake in Halifax.

HALIFAX, April 22.—The Merchants' Tea Company have opened business here by extensively advertising the sale of cans of tea at $1 each with gold watches, diamond rings, etc., thrown in. The attention of the police authorities has been called to this method of doing business and they will be immediately proceeded against for running a lottery. The parties who purchased tea will be summoned as witnesses.

Burglaries at Caledonia.

CALEDONIA, April 22.—Three places of business here were broken into by burglars last night. The Caledonia Mills office was entered, the safe door drilled and powder inserted but the door remained locked. At R. E. Walker's hardware store a revolver and some jack-knives were secured. The post-office was entered, $30 in stamps, $7 in silver and a watch taken.

Murdered Each Other.

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—Advices from Dallas County, Ark., say two well-known farmers, Kit Walsh and Henry Owens, disputed yesterday about a piece of land. A desperate fight ensued. Walsh nearly severed Owens' head from his body with a brier cutter, killing him almost instantly, and Walsh was fatally injured by blows from a hoe in the hand of Owens.

The Duluth Regatta.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 22.—Edward Hanlan, the oarsman, has received a telegram which announces that $20,000 has been raised for a tournament to be held in Duluth, Minn., July 21 to 25 inclusive, to be called the World's International Regatta. Hanlan goes into training at once to take part. George Hosmer will also enter.

MEETING FOR MEN ONLY.

AN INTERESTING TIME AT THE JOLIET BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Charlottetown Record of the Pastor, Dr. Whitman, Read to the Male Members of the Church—Reporters Excluded from the Meeting.

JOLIET, Ill., April 22.—The meeting of the male members of the Baptist Church to discuss the findings of the Charlottetown Church in the trial which expelled Dr. Whitman, was held in secret. Reporters were not allowed admission. The papers were seen, however. The evidence is exhaustive, covering over 37 pages of legal cap. The first count, misappropriation of funds, is shown by the books and Dr. Whitman's statement admitting the shortage. He justifies himself by saying he received the money at all hours and places and that he could not always remember to put it down. He offered his note of hand in payment of the amount—$120—but it was refused.

The second count, "undue familiarity with a woman under an assumed name," is sustained on the evidence of the hotel-keeper, liveryman, and a policeman at Summerside, near where the girl, Mary McWilliams, resides. They state that on the night he went out to McWilliams' he did not return till 9½ the next morning, and that he gave the name of Churchill.

Dr. Whitman stated that he only stayed till 9½ in the evening. On this evidence the charge of untruthfulness was sustained.

The report of the Trial Committee of sixteen states that when Dr. Whitman was first summoned for trial he told them that he would give them every facility to get at the facts of the unfortunate matter; that he would remove the band of secrecy under which he had placed the McWilliams family; that they appointed a sub-committee of three to go to Summerside on a certain date to take evidence; that before that date Dr. Whitman despatched a message to Mrs. McWilliams begging her to say nothing to the committee when they came. The letter of Dr. Whitman is given. This is the serious part of the testimony. It is a long and fervent appeal to Mrs. McWilliams imploring her for God's sake, for the sake of her daughter, who is now married, and for the sake of his reputation to tell them nothing; that it would ruin him and his family, and destroy his life and that of the girl; that by silence the only cloud on his life will be lifted. He enjoins her to remember her promise of secrecy. The report also states that the committee requested Dr. Whitman to have the correspondence between him and Mary McWilliams exonerating him, which has already been published in these despatches, with the committee, church clerk or an attorney, and that he refused.

The clerk states that the committee's report was sustained by the church without a dissenting voice. Dr. Whitman claims that it is a plot to ruin him, and he is fighting against it with all his power. He appeals to his friends, he says, like a man about to be hanged innocently, and as yet there is no sign of weakening among his followers; though what the effect of the report of the Charlottetown Trial Committee of 16 will have cannot be told till later.

It has been ascertained that the meeting was adjourned till to-morrow night at the office of Mr. Howard, a leading member of the church, for the reason, it is said, that the church was an improper place.

FOUR BABIES AT A BIRTH.

The Children Are All Girls, Healthy and Promise to Live.

SCOTTDALE, April 22.—The quartet of girl babies born to the wife of Michael Newton of this place, Feb. 12, were baptized Sunday at St. John's Roman Catholic Church. Only a few persons were present, mostly friends of the Newton family. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Lambing, pastor of the church. The little ones were christened Agnes, Aloysia, Ada and Agatha. The children are all healthy-looking and it is with difficulty one can be distinguished from the other.

The parents are natives of Ireland and are in poor circumstances, Newton working at mining and getting only four days' work each week. The pictures of the babies have been taken and one sent to Queen Victoria, also one to President Harrison. They have been copyrighted and will be put on sale for the benefit of the family.

Mr. Newton a few days ago received the deeds of six town lots from a land company in Colorado, who have named the streets of their town after the children and parents. The Newton domicile is besieged daily by people anxious to see the infants.

Calling "Anarchist" No Libel.

CHICAGO, April 22.—In the case of Vladimir Cervany against The Daily News for $25,000 damages for characterizing him as "an anarchist, hot-headed and fiery," decision was rendered in favor of The News. In his declaration the complainant alleged that the epithet had a tendency to connect him in the public mind with the Haymarket anarchists who were hanged. On this point the court says:

"The difficulty that is met on the threshold of this case is that if it be libelous to impute to anyone the holding of opinions, with whatever historical preface as to misconduct of persons holding the same opinions, there is scarcely a sect or party in religion or politics in the Old World or the New that a plaintiff may not be at liberty to bring before a jury for a condemnation or approval of its opinions. There is no precedent for such action. It is true that definitions by judges and text-writers seem to be authority for it, but they are supported by no adjudged cases."

The opinion is written by Judge Gary, who sat as trial judge in the anarchist cases, being then upon the Circuit Court bench.

Carroll Beats Smith.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Jimmy Carroll of Brooklyn and Billy Smith of Australia fought before the Athletic Club to-night for a purse of $1500. Carroll was favorite in the betting until to-day, when reports that he had been dissipating caused the odds to shift in favor of Smith. Carroll won the fight in the fourteenth round.

The California Club to-night almost unanimously approved the recommendation of the directors that a purse of $20,000 be subscribed for a fight to a finish between Sullivan and Jackson. It is understood the fight will not take place before September.

YOUNG'S POINT.

As Work on the New Wharf—Farm Sold—Ready for Navigation—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

FARM SOLD.—Mr. W. J. Young has purchased the farm known as the James Nugent farm, lying west from Mr. Blewett's farm near here. This farm has been in the market for some time and the moment Mr. Chas. Stapleton was talked to by the owner to dispose of it a purchaser was soon found. Any one having their farms for sale, Mr. Stapleton is the man to apply to.

MCFARLANE HOTEL.—Mr. McFarlane is having his new hotel painted outside and reflects great credit on the painter, Mr. Cunningham, who has come here lately from Uncle Sam's domains. We hope he will reside among us and get lots of work to do

THE STEAMER MARY ELLEN.—This fine passenger steamer is now in fine trim for a big summer trade. She took a spin down the lake on Monday and looked well with the new coat of paint that Mr. Cunningham has donned her with.

THE WHARF.—A gang of men under the superintendence of Mr. DeLoury, from Lindsay, with Mr. J. Griffin as foreman, commenced building the new wharf on Monday last. It is to be 125 feet long and 12 feet wide, with all the modern appliances for snubbing the steamer, etc. The approach to the wharf is to be levelled off and gravel laid down for carriages and waggons to drive alongside.

THE ICE.—The ice on Clear Lake is beginning to clear out and when it gets all cleared out so much the better for all concerned.

THE STAGE.—Hugh Sutherland will be no more seen for some time to come driving through this place from Peterborough to Apsley and vice versa as Mr. Eastland has wisely come to the conclusion that driving passengers and freight over these roads without the mail service has no money in it. We will miss our old friend Hugh, as he was an obliging chap and was always at his post of duty when he was mail carrier.

We are often deceived in the age of people having beautiful and luxuriant hair, not knowing that they use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep gray hairs away.

EPSOM SPRING MEETING.

LONDON, April 23.—The race for the Great Metropolitan stakes of £694 at the Epsom spring meeting to-day was won by the Duke of Beaufort's 3-year-old brown colt Partington, Harding Cox's 3-year-old brown colt Armando was second, and H. T. Barclay's 3-year-old black colt Galway was third.

The race for the Westminster Plate for 2-year-olds was won by Wadlaw's Tambourine, Lord Hartington's Hear Hear 2, Abington's Macuncas 3.

The race for the Prince of Wales' stakes was won by Hammond's Forest Dancer; Homfray's Mount Eagle 2, Marshall's Woodland 3.

ODDS AND ENDS.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

Trees Planted by Artillery—Bits of Information.

The Duke of Athole consulted my father as to the improvements which he desired to make in his woodland scenery near Dunkeld. The duke was desirous that a rocky crag called Craigybarns, should be planted with trees to relieve the grim barrenness of its appearance. But it was impossible for any man to climb the crag in order to set seeds or plants in the clefts of the rocks. A happy idea struck my father. Having observed in front of the castle a pair of small cannon used for firing salutes it occurred to him to turn them to account. His object was to deposit the seeds of the various trees amongst the soil in the clefts of the crags. A tinsmith in the village was ordered to make a number of canisters with covers. The canisters were filled with all sorts of suitable tree-seeds. A cannon was loaded, and the canisters were fired up against the high face of the rock. They burst and scattered the seed in all directions. Some years after, when my father revisited the place, he was delighted to find that his scheme of planting by artillery had proved completely successful, for the trees were flourishing luxuriantly in all the recesses of the cliff.—James Nasmyth's Autobiography.

To Remove Spots from Books.

Grease-spots, if old, may be removed from books by apply a solution of varying strength of caustic potash upon the back of the leaf. The printing, which looks somewhat faded after the removal of the spot, may be freshened by the application of a mixture of one part of muriati acid and twenty-five parts of water. In a case of fresh grease-spots, carbonate of potash (one part to thirty parts water), chloroform, ether or benzine renders good service. Wax disappears if, after saturating with benzine or turpentine, it is covered with folded blotting-paper and a hot flat-iron put upon it. Paraffine is removed by boiling water or hot spirits. Ink-spots or rust yield to oxalic acid in combination with hot water; chloride of gold or silver spots to a weak solution of corrosive sublimate or cyanide of potassium. Sealing-wax is dissolved by hot spirits and then rubbed off with cuna sepia.

Bloodhounds to Locate Dead Bodies.

There have been so many lives lost by falling of walls in this country during the past few months that firemen have been exercising their ingenuity in devising a method of discovering the whereabouts of the victim without loss of time. It is stated that in Paris bloodhounds are used for this purpose. The animal's feet are protected from injury by a mixture of suet, vinegar and borax, the latter being the principal ingredient, and thus he is able to pursue his search in safety among hot ashes. The utilization of the services of a dog gives one a new idea of his value, and the fact that a bloodhound, instead of being employed to track living human beings, is used to discover the remains of dead ones, is suggestive of the progress the world has made in humanity.—Commercial Advertiser.

Some Peculiar Crabs.

In Bermuda the soldier crab carries heavy shells up the hills to puzzle future geologists. Another species climbs the mangrove trees. A shore crab in the Cape Verde Islands may "be seen running along like a piece of paper blown by a strong wind." In Ascension Island there are crabs which "climb to the top of Green Mountain, and the larger ones steal the young rabbits from their holes and devour them." The famous robber crab of the Philippines, that cracks and eats cocoanuts, is itself routed out of its hole and feasted on by the wild swine.—Edinburgh Review.

Long-Sightedness of a Detective.

Whitely, the former Chief of the United States Secret Service, had a most invaluable gift. He was long-sighted and could accurately read a written letter at a distance of thirty feet. I have recently heard of a man who has cultivated an equally valuable accomplishment. He can sit in a room at some distance from a person writing at a desk and tell by the motion of the hand and pen what the person is writing. Most any hotel clerk of experience can read writing upside down. This will explain the readiness of the greeting you receive at the hands of the hotel clerk. whom you have never seen before.—St. Loui Interview.

A Big Co-Operative Experiment.

After many weeks of figuring, fifty-two Decatur families, including many of wealth and position, have united in a novel manner of living. They have joined together to maintain a co-operative boarding house, the expense to each person for the best of food and cooking being not more than $2.50 a week, or 11 cents a meal. The ladies take charge a week about in turn and buy all the food, while a paid housekeeper attends to the details and serving. Another similar establishment is projected.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Cultivating Woodchucks' Tails.

Unadilla pays ten cents for a woodchuck's tail with the view of exterminating these animals, which at certain seasons of the year do the farmers much damage. The boys, however, set traps, catch the wood-chucks, cut off their tails, and let the animals go, that they may rear their young. Some of the farmers say that, unless the bounty business is stopped the town will be overrun with "chucks." An effort will be made at the next meeting of the Town Board to repeal the ordinance granting the bounty.

The Queen of Spain's Success.

A prominent Spanish statesman was asked the other day to what he attributed the strange fact that a woman, and a foreigner, held the reins of Government successfully in her hands in a country so undermined as Spain by political intrigue. "The marvel, if marvel there be," was the reply, "can be explained in the simplest manner. The Queen maintains her position because she is the exact opposite of an intriguing and conspiring woman. She tells no falsehoods, has nothing of the hypocrite about her, is as simple and modest as she is honest, and there is nobody in Spain who is not convinced that she tries to do her best for the country. The Queen's popularity—especially with the women of Spain—is a real power which gives her much of the hold which she has over her subjects Natural tact, intelligence, and kindness are also among the the weapons by which Queen Christine maintains her position."

Like our own Queen, the Queen Regent of Spain has worn mourning ever since the death of her consort, and only quite lately she has begun to wear jewelery on state occasions. In public the Queen, who is thirty-one years old, appears only with her son, the little King, with whom she takes drives in the neighborhood of Madrid. The Queen's two daughters, aged nine and seven, respectively, talk Spanish, French, German, and English fluently, and are both very strong and healthy-looking children. Since it has become known that the Queen calls Alphonso XIII. "Bubi," in memory of her Austrian home, Spanish ladies have begun to call their children by the name, which—ignorant of its real derivation from Bube, boy—they trace back to the English term, baby, or more ingeniously from "puppy."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Always with You.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Before the Congressional Committee investigating immigration matters here to-day, John R. Washburn of Watertown, superintendent of the poor of Jefferson County, said that among the people he had to care for were many foreigners, some of whom were from Canada. There was no inspection of immigrants in Canada and anyone could come into the United States at will. Mr. Washburn said he could not send indigent Canadians back under the law and his only course was to treat them so badly that they returned. Some of this class of people had been in the poorhouse over 20 years.

The Name Changes.

The Snow Shoe Club is no more, as far as the name is concerned, but the organization itself still survives in all its vigor and will continue to thrive. A general meeting of the club was held last night and as a result the name has been changed. The title of "Snow Shoe Club" was to a certain extent a misnomer, and it was therefore decided to make a change. Now the club will be known and will be chronicled in the future history of Peterborough by the aristocratic name of "The Olympic." Mr. R. B. Rogers, President of the club, presided at the meeting, and considerable other club business was transacted beside the change in the cognomen. The fees and dues were regulated and a committee was appointed to furnish a boxing and fencing room in connection with the club. It was also decided to subscribe for all the leading sporting and illustrated papers, to be laid on the tables of the reading room for members. The new name will be none too high sounding for the club, for the organization is to be made first class in every particular.

Three of the now most celebrated child actresses began their stage career with the child's part in "Kit." The little girl now playing the part promises a greater future than any, and is a feature of the performance. 1d95

Where Were the Tickets?

Mr. John McQuade and his family, who reside at Auburn, were badly frightened last night by a calamity which they supposed had befallen them, but their cloud of misfortune was blown away and their horizon cleared, not by the gentle spring zephyrs, but by the thoughtful longheadedness of Mr. T. E. Boddy, of the C.P.R. office here. Mr. McQuade is about leaving for the Western coast to try his fortune in pastures new, and yesterday morning he purchased six through tickets to the Pacific coast from Mr. Boddy. Mr. Andrew Taylor, travelling passenger agent for one of the roads interested in the trip was present when the sale, which amounted to quite a sum of money, was made. Nothing was thought of the sale after it was concluded until late last night when Mr. Taylor and Mr. Boddy were sought out by Mr. McQuade whose countenance was clouded by a troubled look and whose tongue was trembling as he told his tale. His six tickets which had cost so much were gone, lost or stolen and no where to be found. The man said he had taken the six tickets and a letter of introduction to some residents in the balmy west and put them in an envelope together. This envelope he had left at his residence but when he went home his wife had enquired if he had the tickets. He said no, that he had left them in the house. His wife replied that they were not there. Search was instituted but the valuable passports could not be found. A number of friends who had gathered to give Mr. McQuade and his family a farewell joined in the search but all in vain. Woe and lamentations filled the home, and finally the man sought the railway men from whom he had purchased the missing tickets. He said he had an idea they were stolen and was pretty sure who had stolen them. The railway men listened to his story and consoled him by saying that they would do their best to have the missing tickets posted along all the railway lines interested and if possible make things all right. Just as the man was departing somewhat consoled, Mr. Boddy, knowing a woman's liability to hustle things, inquired if they had searched in the boxes that had been packed. The man said they had not. A claw hammer was procured and down to the freight sheds went the party. One box was selected from among the number containing Mr. McQuade's household belongings and this was torn open. Out came goods and chattels of all descriptions until finally Mr. Boddy produced a basket containing some nick-nacks and there among them laid the envelope with the missing tickets. A load was lifted from the troubled man's heart and the find was joyously celebrated.

THE HALLELUJAH GAS CO.

THE NEW NAME GIVEN TO THE SALVATION ARMY.

Enthusiasm Runs Wild at the Army Barracks—Commissioner Adams and Staff Officers Visit the Local Salvation Army—The Musical Musketeers Form a Novel Attraction—The Wealthy and Titled Who have Been Enlisted in the Ranks—Dedicating a Child.

The echoes in the Salvation Army barracks on Simcoe-st. have been awakened with clamorous enthusiasm times without number, but never did the rafters ring or the walls re-echo with the shouts of soldiers, the singing of the multitude, the volleys from the throats of a hundred enthusiastic Salvationists or attendant of musical instruments as they did last evening. Commissioner Adams, commander of the Canadian forces, accompanied by Majors Spooner, Holland and Leighton, made his second visit to Peterborough. With the officers came a new attraction under the name of "The Musical Musketeers," and as the name would infer they carried music in their train. There was Staff-Capt. Griffiths, "the renowned violinist," Adjutant Tom Plant, "the famous banjo player," Sergt. Nellie Griffiths, "the female violinist," Sergt. Emma Lee, "the great colored singer and guitar player," and Master Dick Griffiths with the grand-pa bass viol. Then with the local musicians on the cornets, trombones, bass drums, etc., it will readily be believed that the musical part of the programme was varied and by no means limited.

Before the meeting in the barracks a grand march out was held, which was rather novel in its character. The band headed the procession and were followed by fifteen of the "Musical Musketeers." These hallelujah lassies were all dressed in spotless white—white skirts, white blouses, and white shawls of linen twined gracefully about their heads after the style of the bridal veil. These white-clad lasses were quite a novel spectacle under the bright glare of the electric lights, while the music of the band and the frequent volleys of the soldiers bespoke that though ghostly in their attire, the beings were flesh and blood, blessed with good lungs. A glaring illuminated transparency announced the special attractions to the public, and a large crowd followed the Salvationists to the barracks.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC SCENE.

The building was well filled and the audience seemed to enjoy the meeting, which was one of unusual enthusiasm and Army characteristics. The appearance of the Commissioner and his fellow officers from headquarters was the signal for a deafening volley, and the band struck up "There's a Welcome Home." The Commissioner entered into the spirit of the occasion and a waving offering was given, the soldiers and officers waving their handkerchiefs with shoutings, while the musicians, in want of something better, brandished their violins and guitars above their heads. It was a lively scence and a right royal welcome.

A BURNT CORK ARTIST.

The enthusiasm somewhat abated and Major Spooner took the lead of the meeting, and, after a hymn had been sung, introduced Adjutant Plant, the banjo player, who was to give a solo. He introduced the Adjutant as the man who used to be one of those minstrel chaps who went around the country blacking their faces and painting their lips to make people laugh, but now he could make them laugh without any of these things since he had joined the Hallelujah Gas Company. The ex-minstrel man sang a Salvation song, "Now Isn't it Funny They Don't," which had a real old-timed minstrel air and sounded rather well with the violin and guitar accompaniment.

THE WEALTHY CAUGHT.

Commissioner Adams then took the lead of the meeting and, after more singing, made a short address. He referred to their uniforms to which so many objected and said that the Army wore the uniforms for the same reason that a man took a fishing rod with him when he went fishing—they were fishing for human fish. He spoke of the advances the Army was making. Since he had spoken here last some eight or nine hundred more soldiers had been enlisted and the work was advancing in every branch. This was not only in Canada but in every country. He told of a member of the House of Lords in England who had been convicted by the Army and had been promoted from the House of Lords to a Captaincy in the Hallelujah Gas Company. They not only gathered the poor in their net, but also the wealthy, and he instanced the case of a Russian Princess of Royal blood who had been converted in the Army and was now laboring as a captain on the Army platform. They had also caught some wealthy people in Canada. He had received as an officer a daughter of Sir Thomas Galt, a Chief Justice of Canada, and she was now learning not theology but "scrubology" and he hoped would make a devil-driver. He spoke of the work that had been done among fallen girls by the Rescue Home in Toronto, and said he intended establishing similar houses in St. John, Halifax, Montreal and Vancouver. The enquiry branch was also doing a good work, and he gave a couple of instances where lost sons had been found through the agency of the Army after they had been unheard of by their friends for eighteen or twenty years.

Sergt. Emma Lee, the colored guitar player, and Sergt. Nellie Griffiths then sang a duet with guitar accompaniment which was very pleasing.

Short testimonies and singing made up the balance of the programme until the interesting ceremony of dedicating a child was reached.

DEDICATING A CHILD.

The ceremony of dedicating the infant was as solemn and perhaps more lengthy than that which ties the nuptial knot. The Commissioner addressed the parents and asked them if they were willing that their child should be dedicated to the Saviour's work and, if needs be, die in the cause, to stand to the front. The father and mother then stepped to the front of the platform, the Commissioner took the infant in his arms, while the soldiers sang the familiar hymn which begins "When mothers of Salem their children brought to Jesus." Above the interested parties floated the Army colors, while the Commissioner offered a short earnest prayer, asking God to take the child and use him for His work. He then addressed the father and mother, handing the child to the former who in turn presented it to the mother. Each of the parents promised to have the child abstain from intoxicating drink, tobacco and from reading novels or anything that would interfere with the Work of God, the glory of the Lord and the salvation of the world. The parents were admonished to lead exemplary lives and the ceremony closed by the Commissioner invoking the Divine blessing on the parents and the child. Capt. Jones and his wife, the parents of the infant, then each gave a short testimony. While the mother was speaking the child was toying innocently with her white head gear and seemed little afraid of its peculiar surroundings.

The soldiers then went into the usual prayer meeting before dispersing.

Special services will be held the balance of this week and all day Sunday next.

The Queen's Own Coming.

That Peterborough will entertain the Queen's Own Rifles on the 24th of May may now be said to be an assured fact, although no official notification of the acceptance of the invitation has been received by the officers of the 57th. This morning word was received by Mr. T. E. Boddy, C.P.R agent here, from Mr. W. R. Calloway, stating that the Queen's Own Rifles had arranged to come to Peterborough for the 24th. The Queen's Own officers meet to-night, when the invitation will probably be formally accepted and word immediately sent here. This ensures a gala day here on Her Majesty's Birthday and every citizen will be glad to know that the Toronto boys are coming.

A Peculiar Burglar.

A peculiar nocturnal visit was made to the residence of Mr. A. Comstock, on Water-st. some time between eleven o'clock last night and four o'clock this morning. The visitor is unknown and his actions were of a most unusual character for a man who was after plunder. This morning upon rising for the day a member of the household missed six loaves of bread from a batch which had been left on the kitchen table last night to cool. The loss of the bread immediately led to the suspicion that some one had been in the house and upon investigation it was found that a silver watch and a quantity of jewellery had been stolen from the bed room in which Mr. and Mrs. Comstock had been sleeping. The nocturnal visitor must have been a bold and fearless fellow, for the watch, which belonged to a son of Mr. Comstock, was hanging on the wall close to the bed in which Mr. and Mrs. Comstock were lying asleep, and the jewellery that was missing had been taken from the top drawer of the bureau which also stood near by. The strange part of the story is now to come. The question naturally was how did the bold visitor gain admission to the house. All the doors and windows were locked upstairs, but it was found that the cellar door which opens under the verandah was standing open. It had not been forced open and, as the last thing young Comstock done before going to bed was to lock the door, the conclusion was that the person who took the bread and jewellry must have been in the cellar before the door was locked, and after his tour upstairs had let himself out. Looking outside the cellar door what was the surprise of all to find the six loaves of bread, the watch and jewelry lying just at the verandah steps, where they had evidently been left by the peculiar burglar. A fright would not have caused the man to leave the watch and jewellry, as he would probably have them in his pocket, so that his object in carrying his booty just so far and then relinquishing them is inexplicable. If it was not someone who was playing a lark on the household, the action of the would-be burglar was most peculiar.

A Mistake Corrected.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Under the caption of "An Erroneous Inference," Rev. J. C. Davidson, in last Saturday's papers replies to my letter of last week and says:—"It is entirely based upon the supposition that 'by the one visible church' I mean the church of England." and he further says "nothing could be further from my convictions or those of my colleagues." No, Mr. Editor, I neither supposed, inferred nor said that. What I said was this:—"I understand that by 'but one visible church' Rev. Mr. Davidson means the church to whose clergy he belongs—the Episcopalian church—known here as the Church of England."

I used the same term again when I said "these statements say in effect to all outside the Episcopalian Church, 'You are outside the Kingdom of God.'"

I am quite aware that the "Episcopalian Church" is a more comprehensive term than "the Church of England," but I am quite aware also that it does not include the churches outside the Episcopacy.

Mr. Davidson regrets that his utterances should have given rise to misunderstanding and controversy.

Surely all this can be easily obviated. He might spend years telling what he does not mean, and still be liable to be misunderstood.

Let Mr. Davidson kindly tell "those from other religious bodies" what he does mean by "the one visible church," and if it then appears that I have misunderstood and consequently misrepresented him, I will make apology as publicly as I have made my strictures.

Till then, I am,
PROTESTANT.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE CANADIAN CHEESE.

A Deputation Asks for Protection for the Standard of Canadian Cheese.

An important deputation from Ontario waited upon the minister of Agriculture last week. Among those present were Messrs. E. W. Caswell and John Podmore, of Ingersoll; Messrs. D. Derbyshire and F. H. McCrea, of Brockville; Mr. R. Hopkins, of Brownsville; and Mr. W. H. Cook, of Belleville. The gentlemen were present as representatives of dairymen's associations, and other organizations. They asked protection from the government on the use of a brand on "Canadian full creamed cheese," skimmed milk cheese and sometimes "filled" cheese, which are made by the removal of the cream from the milk and the substitution of animal or vegetable fats for it, and are sometimes shipped from American points in bond through Canada. When such products arrive in port on the other side of the Atlantic the unsuspecting buyer believes them to be cheese of Canadian make, since they come from a Canadian port, and sometimes on a bill of lading reading from a Canadian town or city. The deputation urged upon the Minister of Justice the desirability of giving effect to their requests by immediate legislation. An act is wanted which will constitute it a punishable offence for any one to put the brand "Canadian full cream cheese" on any cheese that is not the product of whole pure milk only, or any cheese not manufactured in Canada. Regulations were also asked for requiring that all cheese of United States make that are shipped from Canadian ports shall bear the brand "United States product in bond." Mr. Caswell particulary urged the apointment of government inspectors of milk, with power and instructions to prosecute any person found sending or offering adulterated or skimmed milk to any cheese factory. Prof. Robertson, dairy commissioner, accompanied the deputation and will present a memorandum embodying the views of these representatives for the consideration of the ministers and Government. Hon. Mr. Carling expressed his pleasure in receiving a deputation representing so vast and important an interest as the cheese business of the Dominion. He said that everything that could be done to protect the superior reputation which dairymen had established for Canadian cheese in England would be done readily. He would lay the matter which Prof. Robertson would reduce to writing before his colleagues. After thanking the ministers for the courteous reception and hearing the deputation withdrew.

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

The "Letter from a Protestant."

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I was very much pleased to see the "letter from a Protestant" which appeared in your issue of the 16th inst., for two reasons. First, because it gave me an opportunity of perusing the extract from Archdeacon Farrar's truly admirable sermon; and, secondly, because I believe it to be an excellent thing for thinking laymen—and I presume that "Protestant" is a layman—to occasionally make known their ideas through the medium of the press. It is certainly amusing to observe the easy confidence with which young clergymen, of average ability, will—when secure from interruption in the sanctuary of the pulpit—pooh-pooh the opinions of some of the intellectual giants of the present day, because those opinions are contrary to the teachings of "the church," not of the Bible, remember, but of "the church." Has not the time for that sort of thing gone by? The clergy, of all denominations, should remember that they no longer have the monopoly of education. The opinions of the great leaders of religion, and of science, cannot now be so easily set aside by "the church" as they could a hundred years ago. The press, and not the pulpit, is now the universal educator. Men do not turn, naturally, to the "parson" now-a-days for advice in temporal, or even in spiritual matters. They read and think for themselves; and it is right that they should do so. The Bible is open to all, and men can now avail themselves of the opinions of the greatest writers that the world has known, and are quite as able to draw their own inferences, from what they read, as the clergy themselves are, perhaps even better able to do so, because they are not trammelled by a circumscribed course of reading. Comparatively few of our Church of England clergymen, in Canada, have been to either of the great English Universities. "What of that?" They may say, "We can learn as much of theology at Toronto as at Oxford or Cambridge." Granted; but they must remember that books are not the only factors in education. Men learn by association, and he who has had the opportunity of mixing with some thousands of young men of his own age is likely to have acquired, if not a higher intellectual polish, at least a greater liberality of mind than the man who mingled with only one or two hundreds. Small universities are not likely to produce Farrars, Kingsleys, or even Rainsfords. The difference of opinion between Trinity and Wycliffe is scarcely calculated to promote brotherly love or noble minded toleration. Strip nine-tenths of our young clergymen of their surplices and stoles or of whatever other medieval or pre-medieval costumes, which they delight to array themselves in, dress them in the every-day garment of modern civilization, take them out of their pulpits and place them on platform with other equally well educated young men of other denominations, or of no denomination at all, and there let them propound and defend their particular line of doctrine, and they will find that they will require something more than Apostolic succession to enable them to maintain their arguments. And—by the way—what splendid training for them this would be!

Accident has made me a member of the Church of England, as it has hundreds and thousands before me; by which I mean I was born of Church of England parents, and consequently brought up as one of her members. I have a great regard for most of her doctrines, but I cannot help thinking that it is a pity that the hand of Reform, which has fallen so heavily upon everything else since the time that Henry viii. established her should have touched the church so lightly. I should feel no less respect for her clergy were they to lay aside their cassocks, their stoles and their surplices, and dress as other men do. Let them cease to be called by high sounding titles, remembering our Lord's special injunction on this point. And with their titles and their vestments they would probably cast off much priestly pride and old fashioned narrow-minded prejudice, and thus be the better prepared to meet their fellow men on the grand, broad, truly Christian basis of brotherly love.

Yours etc.,
ANOTHER PROTESTANT.

P. S.—I wish it distinctly understood that none of the above remarks are intended to apply particularly to the clergy of Peterborough or vicinity.

—OUR—

SPRING EXHIBIT!

Any one will recognize the benefit of dealing with a house that shows a Large Range of Goods as well as the Newest Colorings and Styles.

In this connection we would mention the fact that we have several hundred different Styles in our Tweed Department embracing many new and novel effects. Our selections have been made from the markets' choicest offerings.

We would state to those who contemplate ordering their Spring Suit that we have been favored with a very large trade and would esteem it a favor if buyers would order early.

Our facilities are now taxed to their full capacity and early orders will prevent delays.

Never since our existence have we been so overwhelmed with work. What is the cause? The answer is easy. Our Styles are right, our Goods are right and our prices are right.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 23, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

At length came the scene in the forum. Cæsar, crowned and haughty, enters. The judge raised his glass and fixed it on the face of Cassius. There came the plea, the refusal, the awful immobility of the countenance, the fated unsuspicion of Cæsar; then the swift rush—the thrusts—the shuddering end. Margaret raised her hand to shut out the terrible scene; but the judge, with his eyes still fixed on Cassius, raised unconsciously from his seat and stood there staring till Margaret touched him on the arm. As he felt her touch he started, looked around with a blush and sat down, saying in a half-audible voice, which was meant to apologize for his absorption:

"Lawrence Barrett has done that as no other living man could do it." There was a sound of "sh, sh" from his neighbors, and he relapsed into silence. Perhaps he was mortified at the exhibition of emotion he had been guilty of. At any rate he seemed restless and flushed, and at the end of the act he said something to Margaret which the young man could not catch, and they left the theater. As they did so, Margaret's eye fell on Pond and she bowed with a smile so sweet and yet so mournful that the young man actually drooped his head to hide the tears that sprang to them. His heart beat so that it almost suffocated him, and he arose suddenly and rushed into the open air.

Margaret slept but little that night, and several times she thought she heard her father moving about his room, as if he, too, were restless and disturbed.

There were others who for similar reasons were wakeful that night.

Harry Leiter paced his cell many hundred times. A dull light shone in from the corridor and threw the line of bars across his path. He stepped on these shadows with something of the same feeling that a man might have who trod on burning ploughshares. Again and again he tried to review the evidence against him, and to make it plain to himself why he should be suspected of that crime, but, try as hard as he might, he could not understand it all. Margaret filled his mind, and around her he saw floating a nimbus of blood. His uncle's death and her horrible falsity were hopelessly commingled in his mind. The earth was turned to blackness by these maddening events. The universe had stopped—the world would revolve no longer. Harry could have sworn that he had been physically bruised. From head to foot his flesh was sore to the touch. Each sound that reached his ears caused an acute pain. Had any one suggested that his suffering was purely mental he would have laughed at them and held out his aching arms to show them the bruises which he felt, but did not take the trouble to look for. Indignation toward Margaret he did not feel, neither did anger form a part of his grief for his lost friend—his murdered companion whose kind old lips he had kissed every night of his life. His clearness of vision was departing and a murky cloud of horror hung over him, through which he could see nothing. And he forgot that the sky lay beyond that cloud. Night gave place to a gray morning and found him still pacing the floor. The gas was put out; the light streamed in coldly and searchingly. Harry looked at it with dull comprehension, and then threw himself on his cot and slept heavily.

The morning was half spent when he was aroused by a touch on the shoulder. He looked up and saw one of the guards standing over him. "What is it?" asked Harry sullenly; "why could you not let me sleep?"

"A young lady has called, sir. You can see her if you like."

"I want to see no one," said Harry angrily. "Who is it?"

"I'll find out, sir," said the man. He was back again in a moment.

"Miss Barthwait is her name. I forgot to mention that, of course, I must be present when you see her."

"I will be excused to the lady," Harry returned more gently, suddenly remembering that he was speaking to a man who might talk and anxious to protect Margaret from him. "You will please say to her that I will be excused, and that I think it best that she should not call again." The man was gone a long time with this message, and then returned with a heated countenance.

"The young lady won't believe you sent the message. She says she will not go away without seeing you, or at least without having a line from you, and she sent in this for you to write on. Don't you think you had better see her? Woman folks takes things hard, and she seems a——"

"Give me the tablet," interrupted Harry sternly. Margaret had sent him a little ivory tablet with a bit of gold attached that served for a pencil. Harry opened it and looked through the leaves. There was a shopping memoranda on it, and a fantastic line from Aldrich, and a proverb from the Koran. He read them with an unsmiling face and wrote on the first page:

"I beg that you will go away and return no more. Your presence here adds to my misery. Believe me there are other companions that you will find more interesting than concerning yourself with my melancholy fortune. You may as well save yourself the mortification of calling at this shameful place, for I shall never see you if I can help myself."

As might be expected, the guard read this on his way out.

"Well," he soliloquized, "I did think there was a mistake somewhere and that we had got the wrong man shut up here, but I guess he's a pretty tough nut after all." He handed the tablet to Margaret with an apologetic look.

"He is cranky, miss. He ain't used to this kind of thing. I wouldn't mind what a man said under—"

"Thank you," said Margaret, reading the message with an immovable face. "I dare say you are right. Thank you for your trouble, sir. Good morning."

"Good morning, ma'am. He must be a chump," he added to himself, "to send a girl like that away. It don't do no man no hurt to have a good woman a-fighting for him."

Margaret got back into the carriage and read the note over and over. Then she carefully erased it and put the tablet back in her pocket.

"I can find no excuse for this," she said aloud. "His desire is not to protect me. The mood in which he wrote that was an angry one. I can tell the mood in which a note was written—I always could. I must tread a hard path, it seems. I must work alone, and for a man who does not want me to, and who may only reward me with his dislike after I have succeeded—if I do." After the habit of the young she sank to the bottom of her sea of misery immediately. There is always something a little theatric about the young. They do not like judicious mediums. They must have extremes. Margaret went to work immediately to conceal her visit to the jail. No one should ever know how Harry had disdained her assistance. Had he asked for help she would have aided him openly in spite of her father's anger. But now, for every reason she was anxious to hide the fact that she had visited the jail. She ordered the man to drive to State street. She stopped there for an hour, buying she knew not what and bowing to a dozen friends. When she went out she stopped for a moment as the man opened the door for her.

"Robert," she said, with her foot on the step, "it will be best if we do not mention that we went to the jail this morning. I will be very grateful to you if you will not speak of it. We have always been good friends, and I am sure you will oblige me. Let me send this little present to your mother, Robert—just as a reminder of my gratitude, you know, for the secret you are going to keep for me."

She blushed as she dropped a coin in his hand, and then drew back in the carriage and drawing the curtains, was hidden to view. Robert dropped the heavy coin in his pocket.

HON. A. M. ROSS TO RETIRE.

The Treasurer Announces His Intention to His Constituents.

GODERICH, April 22.—Hon. A. M. Ross arrived in town Saturday evening by the 7 o'clock train and at once communicated the fact to his friends that he would not be a candidate at the forthcoming elections.

A Reform convention has been called for May 5 to nominate his successor in the representation of the riding.

The names of J. T. Farrow, D. McGillicuddy of Goderich, M. G. Cameron of Toronto, A. H. Wanning and A. McMurchy of Clinton, are freely used.

GLENGARRY REFORMERS.

A Well-Attended Convention at Alexandria—Mr. Rayside Their Choice.

ALEXANDRIA, April 22.—The Reform convention of Glengarry met at Alexandria today. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity. Mr. James Rayside, M.L.A., was chosen as the party's standard-bearer in the coming provincial elections and the nomination was accepted. Speeches were made by Messrs. Rayside, McDougald, McPherson and others.

Halton Conservatives.

MILTON, Ont., April 22.—At the convention of the Halton Liberal-Conservative Association held here to-day for the purpose of nominating a candidate to the Ontario Assembly Col. Kerns was for the third time the unanimous choice of the Conservatives of Halton.

The Ottawa City Campaign.

OTTAWA, April 22.—An enthusiastic meeting of Equal Righters was held in the Grand Opera House to-night. The house was well filled. The speakers were Alderman Henderson (chairman), Maclean, P. D. Ross, Taylor McVeity, Candidate George Hay and D'Alton McCarthy.

THE FRENCH REPULSED.

Driven Back by the Dahomians With a Loss of 50 Men.

PARIS, April 22.—A French force of 350 men made a reconnaissance of the position held by the Dahomians, seven kilometres from Porto Novo, and subsequently attacked the stronghold. The French were compelled to retreat to Porto Novo after 30 French soldiers and 20 of their native allies were killed or wounded. The loss of the Dahomians was heavy.

The Queen Leaves Aix-les-Bains.

Bismarck Talks Freely.

BERLIN, April 22.—The Freisinnige Zeitung publishes an account of alleged remarks made by Prince Bismarck to a deputation from the Manufacturers' Association on April 1. Bismarck, it is said, declared he would gladly have remained in office if the Emperor had so desired. He attributed his removal to the intrigues of opponents, especially of the minister who owed his position to him. He admitted he differed with the Emperor on the labor question. The Government's present policy, he said, must entail harsh dealings with the Socialists.

Count Herbert Bismarck said he was glad to leave the treadmill of office, but he was sorry for his father, who wanted to remain. The paper says Prince Bismarck said he had searched out a Cabinet order which placed the intercourse of ministers with the crown under control of the president of the council, the object being to frustrate intrigues. He believed Windthorst's begging an interview at which he made impossible demands was also a trap for him. The journal asserts that Prince Bismarck had eaten and drunk heavily previous to his speech.

In Honor of Stanley.

BRUSSELS, April 22.—The Society of Engineers made a grand fete on the bourse today in honor of Mr. Stanley. The latter and King Leopold made speeches. The King said the founding of the Congo State had been a benefit to Belgium.

Halifax Civic Nominations.

HALIFAX, April 22.—Civic nominations were made to-day. Mayor McPherson is re-elected by acclamation and George R. Beak, W. F. Pickering and William McFatridge are elected aldermen without opposition.

Scratched 28 Years

Cured by Cuticura.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man but feel rich to be relieved of what some doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took....and ...Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors, and no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them were three boxes of CUTICURA and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and two cakes CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of psoriasis (picture number two "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

WOMEN AND MICE.

The reason why a woman is afraid of a mouse is a profound mystery—indeed, it has never been very clearly proven that she is. But some women are constantly in such a nervous, irritable condition that the slightest thing annoys and startles them. The cause of this unfortunate state of affairs is usually some functional derangement; some distressing or painful irregularity, some derangement or peculiar weakness incident to her sex; or, it may be due to inflammation, ulceration or displacement, of some of the pelvic viscera, or to other organic lesions peculiar to her sex. From whichever cause it may arise, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive remedy, so certain in its curative results that its manufacturers sell it, through druggists, under a guarantee of its giving satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded. As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

Ormond & Walsh

FIELD, GARDEN & FLOWER SEEDS.

Purchasers of seeds must now be convinced of the disappointment experienced in buying seeds from boxes or packages already put up and placed in stores on commission and in many instances transferred from place to place for many years before being sold, the disappointment experienced not only from their non-vegetative powers but from the small quantity contained in each paper. To prevent these disappointments Messrs. Ormond & Walsh sell the whole of their seeds by weight at a fair and moderate price with a guarantee of their

Freshness and Vegetative Power. 12d91 6w16

TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming. They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

CULLOM'S COMPLAINT.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Senator Cullom has concluded his report upon the investigation made by the committee on Inter-State Commerce into the relations of the railroads of the United States and Canada and the alleged discrimination in tolls against American vessels passing through the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals. The report is now under consideration by the committee. The report says:

"The Interstate Commerce Act, which has accomplished much good, is to some extent nullified by the fact that many of the chief lines of transportation in the United States meet the competition of Canadian lines which are not so regulated. In competing with American railways not only does the Canadian Pacific Railway enjoy the advantages of enormous governmental subventions, franchises and privileges, and the advantages derived from heavily subsidized steamer lines, but it is aided by express Canadian statute from the principle enunciated in that part of the Interstate Commerce Act known as the long and short haul clause.

The report shows that Canada owns a system of canals that cost $54,000,000, and the Intercolonial Railway, which cost $47,000,000, Canada has given to the Canadian Pacific $215,000,000, while its total cost was only $167,000,000.

The Canadian people, the report says, have not disguised their purpose to secure a railroad across the continent able to dominate the trans-continental commerce of the United State and to deflect from American vessels, seaports and railways a large share of our own commerce with Asia, Australia and New Zealand. This has to a considerable extent been done already.

The report asserts that unjust discrimination is made by Canada against American vessels on the lakes in the matter of entrance and clearance fees. Vessels passing through the Welland Canal bound to Montreal have a rebate made of a portion of the tolls paid for canal passage, but if bound to any American port on the St. Lawrence River no rebate is made. This the report states is in violation of the Treaty of Washington.

The Behring Sea Question.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretaries Blaine and Windom have had several consultations on the subject of the protection of American interests in Behring Sea, but so far as known have not yet decided upon any definite plan of action. There are at present no indications that the policy of this administration as regards the seal fisheries will differ materially from that of its predecessors. The revenue steamers Bear and Rush are fitting out at San Francisco for their annual cruise in Alaskan waters. It is expected there will be three war vessels in Alaskan waters during the coming season to assist in the enforcement of the law governing the seal and salmon fishing.

The U.S. Diplomatic Corps.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has decided to urge upon Congress the advisability of placing our ministers to the great powers of Europe on an equal footing in respect of rank with representatives of other nations. Senator Sherman to-day reported from the committee an amendment to the diplomatic appropriation bill giving the title of ambassador to Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia, the salary to be as now, $17,500 per annum. Other amendments proprosed by the committee to the bill provide that the salary of the Minister to Turkey shall be $10,000, an increase of $2500; to Denmark $7500, an increase of $2500, and to Greece, Roumania and Servia $7500, an increase of $1000.

The Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Republicans of the House and Senate have agreed upon the basis for the preparation of a silver bill.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

THE BANKING BILL MONOPOLISES ATTENTION.

Mr. Foster Announces a Few Changes—Criticism from Both Sides of the House—The Measure Passes its Second Reading.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The motion for the second reading of the Banking Bill monopolised the attention of the House to-day. Mr. Foster announced the changes made since the bill was introduced. In case of the impairment or even the exhaustion of the circulation guarantee fund the banks will not be called upon to make up the amount immediately but will only be called upon for an annual payment of one per cent. of their average circulation until the fund is restored. The proposed audit had been dropped. Objection has been made to the provision that balances unclaimed for eight years should be paid over to the Government to be by them paid to the proper owner if subsequently claimed, but this clause he would insist on as a vital part of the bill.

Sir Richard Cartwright, while reserving his criticism until the bill came to be discussed in committee, pointed out that no adequate precaution had been taken against what might occur if two or three worthless scoundrels secured possession of a bank and contrived to issue its notes to an extent far beyond what it was authorised to issue.

Mr. Blake hoped that something would be done to guard against the danger suggested. He thought the proposed enactment that unclaimed balance should be paid to the Government was not only unfair and arbitrary but beyond the power of the Dominion Parliament, being a matter for the Provincial Legislatures.

Mr. White of Cardwell urged the adoption of a system which would further secure the note circulation, and that if the clause providing for a 5 per cent. guarantee fund were to be passed exemption should be given to such banks as secured their note circulation by deposit of Dominion securities. By means of borrowing abroad on the part of the Government and of great corporations a fund for the payment of our foreign indebtedness has been secured, but when these borrowings ceased the result will be a most serious commercial and financial crisis. We had to send abroad $25,000,000 annually to meet our liabilities there.

Such a crisis as he referred to had occurred in 1875, when in February and March the banks could not meet the demands made upon them for foreign exchange. Whereas in 1868 the banks held 35 per cent. of their liabilities in coin, legal tender and Government securities, this had been steadily reduced until to-day they had all told only 19 per cent.

He thought it regrettable that the Government did not at least insist upon adequate reserves. Under this new bill the banks could go on emitting notes which would rest upon the security of every solvent bank in the country and the position of affairs would be aggravated if anything.

Sir John Thompson announced that the Government had considered the probability of an issue in excess of the amount authorised and that a clause was to be inserted making such action a highly penal offence. He did not agree with Mr. Blake that to assume control of the unclaimed balances was beyond the power of this Parliament, because he held that the Dominion had control over civil rights with respect to matters over which this Parliament has jurisdiction.

Sir Donald Smith did not see what satisfaction it would be to those who lost the money through the guarantee of notes issued by any bank in excess of the amount authorised to know that those responsible for such issue had committed a highly penal offence. He protested against the unclaimed balance clause.

After recess the discussion was continued. Amongst those participating were Mr. Cockburn, who voiced the sentiments of the bankers in objecting to yielding up the unclaimed balances to the Government.

Mr. Denison, on the other hand, held that the whole people as represented by the Government were better entitled to the unclaimed money than were the few people represented by the banks.

The bill being read a second time was considered in committee of the whole, where considerable progress was made, including the adoption of one additional clause requiring a majority of the directorate to be Canadians by birth or naturalization.

The committee rose and reported progress and the House went into committee of supply, taking up the main estimates, all the remaining items in which having been passed the House adjourned at 12½.

The Investigating Committees.

OTTAWA, April 23.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections met again to-day to continue the Rykert investigation. Mr. Rykert made a further statement and a considerable amount of evidence relating to details was given, after which, on motion of Sir John Thompson, the committee adjourned until to-morrow, when they will meet to prepare their report.

The special committee appointed to investigate the charges made concerning the furs taken from Charles Bremner, the Battleford half-breed, presented its report this afternoon. The report recites the facts of the case as admitted by General Middleton himself, but finds that the furs packed for the General were not received by him. The confiscation is declared unwarrantable and illegal. Even if the confiscation were legal the property should have vested in the crown. The committee consider that while the General acted under a misconception the appropriation of furs for his own purposes was highly improper. The report concludes with the statement that Bremner is willing to accept $4500 as compensation and that this is a fair recompense.

A Warning to Sneeres.

CRANSTON, R.I., April 23.—In the old women's ward at the state institution here last night Catherine Hanley beat Mary McCarthy so severely that the latter soon died. The women slept side by side in separate cots and the Hanley woman's rest was broken by the nightmare ravings of the McCarthy woman.

Losses Caused by Flames.

JACKSON, Miss., April 23.—Fire destroyed the entire business portion of Greenwood, Miss., last night. The fire was caused by a negro cook throwing ashes into a pile of straw. Thirty-three houses were destroyed and two lives lost. The victims were John Dorch and an unknown man.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., April 23.—The shoe manufactory of Weaver, Thomas & Kirk was burned this morning. Loss $6000. Loss on building, owned by John G. Wagner, $65,000. The fire extended to the chair factory of Langdon, Fowler & Co. and burned it, entailing a loss of $10,000. The new Osborne House was also damaged to the extent of $2000.

THE MISSISSIPPI FLOODS.

Seven Hundred Square Miles of Louisiana Under Water.

BAYOU SARA, La., April 23.—Another break occurred last night in Pointe Coupee levee and the indications are that the entire Pointe Coupee front will be submerged. The water now pouring through the crevasses at Morganza and in the vicinity will overflow the greater portion of the country between the Atchafalaya and Mississippi rivers and extending from the old river above to Bayou la Fourche below, embracing 700 square miles of territory. No news has yet been received from the interior of Pointe Coupee parish but relief boats are taking care of all those who have reached the levees. As the critical condition of the levees has been known for some weeks the hope is entertained that all have in a measure prepared for the worst and that no loss of life will result.

Eleven Breaks Along Shell Beach.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—Superintendent Spellman of the Shell Beach Railway says there are eleven breaks from 15 to 150 feet wide and from 4 to 8 feet deep along that beach and all can be closed by prompt action. The northwest wind which blew very strong last night drove in the gulf water and again overflowed the Louisville and Nashville road, this time near Michoud Station, 14 miles from the city, and all trains have been abandoned. The wind last night again caused the lake water to encroach upon the rear of the city north of Claiborne-street and some trouble is experienced by water from the canal flowing over the banks of the old basin on both sides between Johnson and Galvez-streets, but not sufficient to do any great damage. The rear of the Seventh ward up to Roman-street, from Elysian fields to St. Bernard-street and the entire rear of the Eighth Ward are flooded and the water is rapidly rising. The Texas & Pacific Railway officers here received a despatch to-day reporting a break in the levee on the right bank of the Mississippi, twelve miles above Port Allen. This will stop traffic to the Bayou Grosse Tete settlement and flood the country between Melville and West Baton Rouge in 48 hours. Texas Pacific through trains will go over the Southern Pacific to Cheneyville.

A Dangerous Crevasse.

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 23.—The Armandie levee just below Vidalia broke last night. The water is flowing over the bank for such a distance that it is impossible to tell the extent of the crevasse. It will prove quite destructive to property and especially to the New Orleans & Northwestern road whose depot is near the break. The water is rapidly submerging the low lands all around Armandie and is backing up towards Vidalia.

The Rain Continues.

BAYOU SARA, April 23.—Seven crevasses are reported to-day between this town and Waterloo. This makes nine on the Pointe Coupee front. The devastation in the and southwestern parishes will be terrible The rain continues. Two breaks are reported on the old river, one of which is on Coyle's place.

DIXEY'S GAMBLING DEBT.

A Respite Granted in Actor Harrison's Suit Against Adonis.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Judge Jameson came to Actor Dixey's rescue to-day and granted an injunction restraining the sheriff from proceeding toward the collection of the judgment for $9236 entered in favor of Actor Duncan B. Harrison. Dixey says that he played "hearts" with Harrison in St. Louis in 1888 and lost $1966, giving a verbal promise to pay, but accepting no note, as is claimed. Dixey pleads guilty to having commenced the fascinating game for a stake of five cents per "heart," which was afterward increased to $10, and this is how he happened to lose so much.

In February, 1889, while Dixey was in Chicago, the sheriff attached his wardrobe upon a writ sworn out by Harrison. Dixey gave a bond, and when the attachment suit came up he failed to receive proper notification, and judgment was given against him by default.

Harrison has assigned his judgment to his attorney, James Parnell, who is now made a party defendant to a bill praying for the setting aside of the judgment upon the ground that the debt was a gambling one.

KANSAS WOLVES.

Some Have but Two Legs and Are Elected to Office.

ULYSSES, Kan., April 23.—Investigation into the official acts of the commissioners of this county has led to the arrest of County Clerk Earp, County Commissioners Sullivan, Green, Lenhardt, Harbor, Robinson and Dougherty. The clerk and commissioners are charged with the illegal issue of county scrip given as bounty to the last four persons named. The bounty was on the scalps of wolves and the alleged illegal issue of scrip amounted to $16,000. It is alleged that one of the conspirators would present a sack of scalps to the county commissioners, who would authorize the issuance of scrip in payment of bounty. The sack would be placed where another member of the party could conveniently steal it and present it again to the commissioners. In this way the sack was presented over and over again until bounty had been paid to the amount of $16,000 on 250,000 scalps.

Suing for Separation.

MONTREAL, April 23.—Madame Joseph Masson is suing her husband for separation and has filed a lengthy declaration, in which she alleges that while on their Parisian tour last year he met a woman, who is known in Paris as "La Comptesse De Lorne," and lived in open adultery with her, abandoning his wife and finally returning with the Comptesse to Montreal and staying at a well-known hotel, where he introduced her as Madame Masson, and that they have since lived in Paris as man and wife. The plaintiff asks that she be allowed an annual alimentary subsidy of $2500 out of his annual income of $28,000.

Lynched.

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 23.—Yesterday a negro who had outraged a respectable white lady near Cameron Station was arrested and fully identified. Soon after dark a party of men overpowered the guard and shot the negro dead.

The Dead.

Handel Cossham, Liberal M.P. for East Bristol, is dead at London of heart disease.

J. Hamilton Racey, formerly of Hamilton, who contested that city as a Labor candidate for the Ontario Assembly, is dead at Los Angeles, Cal.

Samuel E. Pierson, president of the Pennsylvania, Lehigh & Easton Railway and late commissioner for the trunk lines at New York, who has been seriously ill for several weeks past, is dead at New York.

Wholesale Election Frauds.

JERSEY CITY, April 23.—Judge Lippincott to-day issued warrants for the arrest of 16 election officers suspected of committing frauds at the election here in November last.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

ARRIVAL OF QUEEN VICTORIA AT DARMSTADT.

President Carnot's Tour—The Skuptschina's Military Grab—Bank Thieves Sentenced—The French Loss in Dahomey—Honors to Stanley at Brussels.

BERLIN, April 23.—Queen Victoria arrived at Darmstadt to-day. She was received at the railway station by the municipal authorities and other prominent officials. A guard of honor was also present and saluted Her Majesty.

Carnot's Tour.

PARIS, April 23.—The train on which President Carnot was travelling from Ajaccio, Corsica, was prevented from reaching Bastia on time by the derailment of the train preceding it. At Corte, 31 miles southwest of Bastia, M. Carnot received the municipal authorities. He made an address, in which he congratulated them that the dissensions in Corsica had ended and that only a French party united by patriotism remained. The track was finally cleared, and when the President reached Bastia he was welcomed by an immense crowd. An [illegible] squadron lying in the harbor fired a salute in honor of the president.

BELGRADE, April 23.—The Skuptschina has passed a bill introduced by the Government retaining for military purposes one-twentieth of all the moneys received by direct taxation until $800,000 has been accumulated. It has also voted $100,000 for establishing a new powder factory.

Bank Sneakthieves Punished.

LONDON, April 23.—Three Americans, giving their names as Frank Lochrose, William Smith and Charles Robinson, were to-day convicted of attempting to rob Bank Clerk Stone of a bag containing £2000 worth of checks, notes and gold, and sentenced to 17 months' imprisonment.

The French Reverse in Dahomey.

PARIS, April 23.—Official despatches confirm the report of a French reverse in Dahomey. One white man was killed and 20 native allies were wounded.

The Antipodean Floods.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 23.—The flood caused by the overflow of the Darling River is subsiding. A fund has been opened for the benefit of the sufferers by the flood.

The Miners' Demands.

PARIS, April 23.—The St. Etienne Miners' Congress has resolved to demand a working day of eight hours and uniform wages in all collieries and if these demands were not complied with to strike on May Day.

The Irish Porters' Strike.

CORK, April 23.—The railway porters' strike is spreading to other towns. The situation is serious.

King Leopold's Purpose.

BRUSSELS, April 23.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Bernaert, President of the Ministerial Council, referring to King Leopold's speech at the fete given by the Society of Engineers yesterday, declared that the King clearly alluded to his plan of endowing Belgium with the Congo Free State. Mr. Bernaert stated that the principal act of his career would be in assisting the King in that purpose. His remarks were greeted with applause by the Right, but the Left were silent.

Cable Flashes.

Prince Henry, Emperor William's brother, has been appointed a rear-admiral.

The Anti-Slavery Society gave a luncheon at Brussels Wednesday in honor of Henry M. Stanley.

Mr. Terrel, the United States Minister to Belgium, gave a banquet in honor of Henry M. Stanley.

The King and Queen of the Belgians and Mr. Stanley attended a ball in aid of the African Red Cross Society.

The Pope is incensed at the Archbishop of Naples and the latter will be suspended by the present nuncio at Munich.

Documents embodying plans for the mobilization of Russian troops on the German and Austrian frontiers in the event of war have been stolen from the War Office at St. Petersburg.

A St. Petersburg despatch denies that Grand Duke Constantine has been arrested. The report was the Grand Duke's arrest had followed the discovery that he was plotting against the Czar.

A military council was held at Vienna to decide upon measures for the suppression of a public outbreak during the labor demonstration on May-day. Emperor Francis Joseph presided.

The French newspaper at Stamboul has been suppressed by the Turkish Government for publishing the report of the arrest of Grand Duke Constantine of Russia, cousin of the Czar, for taking part in a revolutionary plot.

The Hamburger Nachrichten says that in a recent conversation Prince Bismarck spoke with high respect of Chancellor von Caprivi, whose friendship he was desirous of retaining. He also expressed sympathy with the new chancellor in his difficult position.

Whipped by Whitecaps.

ST. LOUIS, April 23.—Advices from the Chickasaw Nation say a large band of Whitecaps raided a wide section of the southern part of the reservation last night, whipped a number of men and gave them notice to quit the Nation in five days. A number of other persons who were not whipped were notified to leave in ten days.

Never Too Late to Wed.

MAY'S LANDING, April 23.—Robert Barnes, aged 78 years, was married to-day to Mrs. Sallie Smith, aged 59 years, of Atlantic City. Many relatives and friends were present and the happy couple tripped the light fantastic to old-time music.

Killed by a Train.

PICKERING, April 23.—Mrs. John Ludgate, a woman about 60 years old, was killed instantly by a Grand Trunk train this afternoon while walking on the track just east of the station. She leaves a husband and two daughters.

A Texas Cyclone.

AUSTIN, Tex., April 23.—The little town of Kyle, 20 miles south of here, was visited by a cyclone last night and many houses were overturned and several swept away. Several persons were injured but none killed.

Another C.P.R. Survey.

WINDSOR, April 23.—Another Canadian Pacific Railroad surveying staff is in town. It is reported that they will survey a road to Amherstburg from a point on the Canadian Pacific Railway close to Windsor.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 23.—Yesterday the forces under General Hernandez attacked the Yoqui Indians at Los Cancones de Jabalbampo and La Conia, and after several hours of fighting routed the Indians. The troops lost one officer and two soldiers killed and five soldiers wounded. The Indian loss is heavy.

APSLEY AFFAIRS.

Men Going to the Drives—Fined for Killing Deer out of Season.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE DRIVE.—On Wednesday, the 16th, Messrs. Geo. Long, with 18 men left for the Scott's lumber drive, and Morris Dineen, with 25 men for the Lakefield Lumber Manufacturing Co's. drive on Eels creek, passed through town en route to their camps. These were the most orderly and best behaved gangs that have visited our village in a long time.

DEFRIES VS. BULLIED.—Suit was brought by Wm Defries against Thos. Bullied, sr., for killing his dog and cruelty in doing so. The case was adjourned to allow Defries to obtain further witnesses. During the adjournment the case was settled by agreement, Bullied paying $7.00 and $6 00 costs and giving up the pelt. Dogs do not bring quite so large a figure as a rule in this burg.

FINED.—Jno. L. Winters pleaded guilty to a charge of killing deer out of season and was fined $10

HUMANE SOCIETY.—A team belonging to Jas. Scott, councillor for Chandos, was allowed by him to stand through the afternoon and evening till at least 8.30 p. m., in front of the hotel here, unprotected from the cold wind and unfed. The same team had undergone a nearly similar experience the day before. I might say here that there are some other matters quite as offensive to the public as cruelty to animals that will find due report if much longer persisted in.—I refer to swearing and obscene language on the public roads and in public places.

FAT CATTLE.—Mr. P. Mahoney passed through here on Monday, the 21st, with six fine beef cattle en route to Peterborough market.

KEENE CHRONICLES.

Death of Willie Harrison—Other Items from our Correspondent.

Correspondence of the Review.

DEATH.—Dr. Harrison's youngest child, a bright little boy, Willie, aged 2½ years, died on Thursday of last week and was buried on Friday in the Pine Grove Cemetery. The public school children turned out and marched two deep ahead of the hearse each with a bouquet of flowers which they deposited on the grave. Dr. Harrison and family have the deep sympathy of all in their trouble.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Our council has decided to improve Keene by giving us much needed sidewalks.

FALL WHEAT.—The fall wheat is looking much better than it did some time ago. Clover is injured very much. Spring work is going on very rapidly.

VETERINARY.—Our Veterinary Surgeon is doing very good so far. The Millbrook Reporter gives a glowing account of his practice while with Dr. Fisher, of Bailieboro. The doctor's office and residence are in the house lately occupied by Dr. Moffat, opposite town hall.

HOTELS.—We are only to have the two hotels here as formerly, Mrs. McLaughlin having been refused a license.

For Delicate, Sickly Children.

Scott's Emulsion is unequalled. See what Dr C. A. Black, of Amherst, N.J., says: "I have been acquainted with Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, for years, and consider it one of the finest preparations now before the public. Its pleasant flavor makes it the great favorite for children, and I do highly recommend it for all wasting diseases of children and adults. Sold by Druggists, 50c. and $1.00

TORONTO TOPICS.

Fatal Accident at a Fire—No Verdict Yet in the St. George Case.

TORONTO, April 24.—Fireman Thomas Everest fell through an open hatchway while groping his way through the smoke at a $1000 fire at the corner of Yonge and Maitland-streets at 1 o'clock this morning. He died soon after being picked up. Everest leaves a wife and five young children.

The jury in the St. George case allowed St. George's Day to pass over without rendering their verdict and were last night locked up until this morning, when they will be discharged whether they will agree upon a verdict or not.

Mrs. Marianne B. Dobbin, wife of Rev. Mr. Dobbin, has taken action against Alexander Cranston of Albion, Peel County, from whom she claims $5000 for slander. She alleges that Cranston circulated untrue stories about her character.

Charles Flood, Paisley, Ont., was brought to the city last night by Government Detective Rogers and confined in St. Alban's Ward station on a charge of fraud dating two years back.

An Oakville Man Drowned.

HAMILTON, April 23.—William Smith, an Oakville man, lost his life by drowning yesterday. About 1 o'clock in the afternoon he was in a wood near the village. There is quite a heavy growth of trees on the edge of a steep bank, at the bottom of which runs a creek. It was at this point that Smith was walking, when by some means he lost his balance and went over the bank into the water. Two small boys, R. Street and C. McDonald, saw him fall and ran for help. They notified a couple of men, who got a boat and succeeded in getting the body out of the water in about 15 minutes from the time of the accident, but life was extinct. Smith was 35 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

NOTES FOR WOMEN.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO THE FAIR SEX.

To Get A Beautiful Skin.

The plainest features become pretty when clothed with a fresh velvety skin. It is in the power of every woman to have a soft, fine skin, thus adding much to her charms, if she will devote a little time and care to her toilet. It should be a duty as well as a pleasure to every woman to enhance the powers of attractiveness. First of all, one must keep the face free from those unsightly black heads or grubs. Bathe the face in hot water; rub on a little oil and then take an old-fashioned watch key and pry out all the large ones. Afterward rub on cream or any soothing ointment. In the morning there will be no trace of the redness.

To have a clear skin it is essential to keep the digestive organs in good order and sleep as much as possible. Sleep will do more to preserve the freshness of youth than any other one thing. At night wash the face in warm water—never use hot—using soap freely to remove the dust of the day. Then take a pint of cold water, to which a tablespoonful of bay rum has been added, and bathe the face for five minutes. Dry the face on a coarse towel, rubbing gently to get up a pleasant friction. Lastly spread a little cream lightly on the face and neck. Use only the finest cream, and purest soap in the market.

In the morning remove the grease with plenty of warm water and soap—followed by a cold bath as at night. Then apply a little powder with a soft linen rag to remove the shine. Powder is an essential adjunct to a lady's toilet—let men say what they will to the contrary—but never use a cheap powder. The best will be found harmless. Avoid all face lotions, as their use is sure to ruin the skin. By following the above directions you will find in a short time that those horrid little specks that give the skin such a coarse look will disappear and the skin become as soft as a rose petal.—Ex.

Petticoats are Barbarous.

"Another point I make is the absurdity of dressing yourselves up in petticoats, which I call relics of barbarism. I haven't a petticoat in the world, but I remember the days of my bondage, when, like you, I tripped over my dress going up stairs, and only got that out of the way to fall over my petticoat beneath it; when, like you, I have stood on a corner on windy days, and had my petticoat wind round and round my legs until I couldn't stir; when, like you, on rainy days, I have gathered up my dress behind, only to have that petticoat hang out behind in the mud and rain. When my divided skirt winds, it winds only around one leg at a time, and thus leaves me one leg always free to depend upon. It can't trip me going up stairs or convert itself into a broom to sweep up all the refuse going down stairs. Make your dresses by all means in the prevailing fashion of the day, but adapt that fashion and drape it on a gown form that neither exerts undue pressure at any point or makes its weight felt in one place more than another. Let the weight be evenly distributed and plenty of room at the waist line.—Mrs. Jenness Miller.

Courting in Africa.

Mr. Stevens was entertained at dinner by the Savage Club, London, a few evenings since and related that marrying among the Wa-Taita, as with most African tribes, is simply a question of purchasing the bride from her parents. The price of one of those oleaginous and bead be-jeweled damsels (presumably beads and all) is three to four cows.

The coy damsel, in accordance with an ancient custom of the tribe, affecting to flee from the consummation of her own happiness, runs away and hides in the hut of some relative. Collecting his friends, and armed with the search warrant of time-honored custom, the groom then enters and searches house after house where he fancies his bride may be concealed.

At length the shrinking maiden is discovered, amid much merriment, and is drawn triumphantly from her hiding place. Four of the groom's assistants, seizing each an arm or leg, then carry her off to her new home.

A Successful Woman Journalist.

One of the most interesting personalities in the field of European journalism is Mrs. Crawford, who is a brilliant example of her favorite theory, that there is nothing that a man can do that a woman cannot do, and there are some things that would be more difficult for a man to do than it would be for a woman. While still in her teens some private letters of hers fell into the hands of a London editor, who was so struck with their vivacity of style and originality of sentiment that he engaged her as a contributor to his paper. Promptly she set herself to work to master the science of politics, which topic is usually avoided by journalistic women as both complicated and uncongenial. A single instance of her power of endurance, memory and determination indicates the manner of woman she is and the spirit with which she faces her duty. On the occasion of the historic debate of May 26 at Versailles she sat in her place in the loge grillee, which Mr. Thiers' friendship had procured for her, from early morning until midnight without taking a single note, and carried away all the important points of that extraordinary sitting. Then she returned to Paris and sat up until 8 o'clock the next morning to complete her description of the scene and abstract of the speeches. On the 23d of March, 1871, she made her way alone into the barricaded city of Paris and interviewed the communist leaders as they sat in council. No harm or insult was offered to the plucky little woman whose ready wit, natural intrepidity and sympathy with the people were her only weapons. She has walked the wards of the cholera hospitals amid the dead, and dying, and, prompted by the same journalistic instinct, has rushed at midnight through a thunderstorm in satin slippers and a ball dress to the nearest telegraph station to send a description of the dreams.

Her social life is not less brilliant than her professional career. She was the intimate friend of Gambetta, the companion of Thiers and Louis Blanc, the friend of Barthelemy de St. Hilaire, and, besides all the rest, she has been a happy wife and brought up four children, whose promise of success is most apparent. And she was only a woman, a weaker vessel, a descendant of Eve.

A Young Lady Personates Influenza.

At the last fancy dress ball attended by the nobility of St. Petersburg, the palm was awarded to a young lady attired to represent the influenza. She was dressed in Oriental fashion, and wore on her head a tall cap inscribed with the names of the principal doctors who have studied the disease. The map of Europe was depicted on her skirts, and a gigantic spider occupied a prominent portion on the shores of the Baltic. The lady's fan was covered with the names of those chemists who welcomed the arrival of the fatal scourge. During the evening she distributed leaflets with poems extolling its virtues; fever, pains in the head, aching of the bones, etc.—Il Caffaro.

Boots of Human Skin.

In 1876 the firm of Hahrenholtz Bros., boot and shoe makers of New York city, made a pair of boots from human skin which they sent to the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. If we remember rightly, they were never put on exhibition, which goes to show that there was some humanity in the Centennial officials if not in the makers of the ghastly foot-gear. Afterwards they were sent to Professor S. V. Baird of the Smithsonian Institute, who would not allow them shelf room. The skin from which the boots were made was taken from the breast, stomach and back of a man who had died suddenly and been taken to a medical college. In general looks the boots were of a light brown color and somewhat heavier than if made from calf skin. The dark color was caused by the tanning process. The leather was much more porous than either calf or cow skin.—St. Louis Republic.

Getting Well Since His Grave Was Dug.

A friendless man in a small town in Maine, after suffering many years with a cancer and using all his hard-earned money, mortgaged his small farm last fall for a sum sufficient to get him into the Maine General Hospital, and went there to die, but has lingered through the Winter suffering acutely. A week or more ago word was sent to the town authorities from the hospital to make arrangements at once for his burial, as he could not possibly live but a few hours, and his body would need immediate attention. So in the lonely village churchyard was dug his grave, which still awaits its occupant. Strange to relate, the condition of the sick man has since changed for the better, and there is a possibility that he will recover sufficiently to return to find no house and no welcome save the open grave on the bleak hillside.—Boston Record.

A Burnt Cork Episode.

Twenty years ago the negro minstrel entertainment was a satisfactory sort of performance. Good singing, good instrumentation and jovial and funny comicalities made up an acceptable programme. Then the variety business took its place and the old idea was put aside. Now for a revival of the true minstrel entertainment, which will be given in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, May 6, by the Olympic Club Amateur Christy Company. The company has been in practice for some time and have prepared a capital programme. Admission 25c, reserved seats 50c. Plan of the house at Greatrix's drug store. 1d96

Drain, Chas. McDonald and O. A. Brennan, Norwood. The applications of Mrs. Chamberlain, Fauchers's Point; Geo. Lipsett, Wm. Milne and Mrs. Swanson, Ashburnham, were laid over. The application of Mrs. John McLaughlin, Keene, was dismissed. The Commissioners meet again next Saturday to deal with the four cases deferred.

TAX REFORM MOVEMENT.

The Single Tax Association of Peterborough Take the Initiative.

The executive committee pro tem of the Peterborough Single Tax Association, met last evening for the purpose of taking the proper steps to form a local Single Tax Association. Amongst those present were Messrs. George Rose, J. Hampden Burnham, Joseph Lundy, William James, William Montgomery, George Ball, R. McGregor, Andrew Douglas, Wm. Cumming and Wm. M. Green.

Mr. Burnham was, on motion, requested to take the chair.

The first question discussed was the establishment of a branch in this town of the General Association.

Mr. Lundy read a long list of the names of prominent citizens who had expressed themselves in favor of the movement, among them being Messrs. James L. Hughes, T. Evans Bradburn, Wm. Aldridge, John Douglas, John Cameron, Chas. Cameron, Barton Earle and Walter Paterson. So strong a hold have the principles advocated by Henry George taken upon the community, it was deemed advisable to proceed with the organization of a local Association. For this purpose a public meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, the 29th inst., at 8 o'clock, in the Labor Hall, over China Hall. All those who have or have not considered the question are invited to be present. There will be an open discussion of the question at issue. A general expression of opinion is particularly sought for. Short addresses will be given and questions answered.

The Death Rate for March.

The Canadian mortuary statistics for the month of March are to hand, and according to these Peterborough's death rate for last month was rather higher than usual. The ratio of mortality per thousand of population in the different cities and towns for the month was as follows:—Peterborough 1.89, Toronto 1.47, Ottawa 1.40, Kingston 1.91, Belleville 1.30, Brantford 1.12, Woodstock .56, Chatham 1.88, Winnipeg 1.36, Victoria, B. C., 1.62, London .97, Quebec 2.19, Montreal 2.09.

To Lay a Corner Stone.

A deputation from the Oddfellows Lodge at Norwood waited upon Dr. Bell, Grand Master of the Order in Ontario, at his residence last night, and presented a request that he, as head of Ontario Oddfellows, would lay the foundation stone of a new Methodist church which is being erected in Norwood. The congregation of church have requested the Norwood Lodge of Oddfellows to take the ceremony in charge, and the Grand Master signified his willingness to comply with the request and officiate on the occasion if possible. The stone will be laid on Monday, the 26th of May and the ceremony will be marked by quite a stir in the village. The two local lodges of Oddfellows together with the Canton will receive invitations to be present and participate in the ceremony, and if possible a special train may be run down from here.

The Lacrosse Men Organized.

A meeting was held at the Phelan House last night for the purpose of organizing the lacrosse club for the coming season. There was a good attendance of enthusiastics of Canada's national game, among them being some of the old reliable players. The prospects with which the club looks forward to the season which is now at hand are exceedingly good. A strong team can be put in the field and a lively active interest pervades the players, and citizens will probably see some good games here this summer. Matters of interest to the club were discussed at considerable length. It is not at all probable that the club will enter the C L A. this year as the towns in this district are not organizing their clubs. However, games will be put on here with different clubs. The officers elected were as follows:—

Hon. President.—H. LeBrun.
President.—W. A. Sanderson.
First Vice-President.—W. Lech.
Second Vice-President.—Dr. Yelland.
Secretary-Treasurer.—Chas. Brennan.
Captain.—F. Packenham.
Committee.—T. Meagher, J. McCabe and J. Daly.

The Visit of the Queen's Own a Certainty.

It was announced in the Review last evening that the visit of the Queen's Own Rifles of Toronto, was an almost assured certainty, and the announcement has been verified. The officers of the regiment held a meeting last evening and a telegram received here to-day states that Col. Hamilton, the officers and men voted unanimously to accept the Peterborough invitation. In regard to the visit the Mail has the following in its report of last evening's parade of the regiment:—"The regiment will go to Peterborough for the 24th of May. Lieut-Col. Hamilton, in an address to the men, requested them to be punctual at all the parades, as he wishes to take with him on the Queen's birthday one of the best regiments that ever left the city. At Peterborough they would be met by the 57th battalion and Lieut-Col. Rogers' cavalry. The regiment will parade at the drill shed on Friday evening, 23rd May, and march up Young-st. to North Toronto, where a Canadian Pacific railway train will be in waiting." The arrangements for the reception and entertainment of Toronto men while they are here will be complete and a lively time may be expected.

IN COURT AT LINDSAY.

SEED WHEAT LANDON UNDER ARREST FOR FRAUD.

The Case of Postmaster and Farmer J. C. Leary, of King's Wharf, Emily—Evidence Taken at the Police Magistrate's Court.

On or about the 14th inst., Geo. A. Landon was arrested at Belleville on a warrant issued from the office of the County Police Magistrate of the County of Victoria. Landon was arrested on a charge of having fraudulently obtained by false pretences a promissory note from J. C. Leary, Postmaster, of King's Wharf P. O., Emily. Landon was brought to Lindsay by Constable Wilson and remanded to gaol until the 19th, when he appeared before County Magistrate Col. James Deacon. Evidence was taken and the case adjourned until Wednesday, the 23rd, to hear other witnesses.

The note, it appears, was one of a number of notes given by farmers of the county and made payable to J. K. Foss, who, it appears, is the agent for the Dominion Grain and Seed Company, registered at Peterborough.

There was a large volume of evidence given bearing on the case which elicited the facts, including the statements made by the prosecutor, Leary, that on 31st January last Geo. A. Landon introduced himself to Leary at King's Wharf as the representative of the Dominion Seed and Grain Company, and that he (Leary) had been spoken of by Chas. Butler as one likely to invest in the seed wheat, to which Leary replied that he had met Butler at Bobcaygeon. Leary told Landon that if there was no fraud in it he would take the wheat. On the assurance of no fraud, Leary enquired as to who J. O. Foss was and got the reply that he was one of the wealthiest farmers in Bruce County, and worth $40,000, and that he (Landon) was worth $10,000 at Belleville. Leary enquired if others were going in and Landon said that Mr. Chas. Fairbairn was going in for $300, and produced a note bearing Mr. Fairbairn's signature. Landon said that a Mr. Quigly and others had bought wheat. Leary said that if he invested in the idea that it would be on a conditional note which was agreed to. The conditions put wanted by Leary were; "This note was given for the purchase of seed grain from the Dominion Seed and Grain Company, under bond, which note is to be returned back to me in part payment for grain delivered by me next fall to the Seed Company."

Landon told witnesses that he had no power to make the note that way, but if Leary would give him a straight note he (Landon) would take the conditions to Butler, and if not granted would return the note. He referred to Fairbairn's note as a sufficient reason why Leary should not hesitate. "If I take the note," said Landon, "and agree to do it, and do it not, you can have me arrested." On which assurance Leary gave the note. The note was to be returned if Butler did not agree to Leary's stipulation. The note was in payment for 15 bushels of Colorado wheat at $15 per bushel.

Copy:— Due———D———
Peterborough, Jan. 31st, 1889.
$15.00.

Eleven months after date I promise to pay to Mr. J. K. Foss, or to bearer, the sum of seventy-five dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of seven per cent per annum.

Witness——— ———James C. Leary.

Landon read to Leary the bond and Leary looked over a portion of it. The contract was that the Company was to purchase from him 10 bushels of the wheat at $15.00 per bushel, less $4.00 per bushel for the 10 bushels, leaving him a profit of $11.00 per bushel. If the contract represented anything else he did not so understand it. Landon also assured him that with such soil as he had on his farm he could grow 40 or 50 bushels to the acre. Leary said his average was 15 bushels. Landon assured him of getting 20 or 25. Landon and his book-keeper, Sidney Smith, came to Leary's place about two weeks after the note was given and told Leary that the note was not to be given back, that Butler, in the absence of Foss, would not put anything on the note. Smith assured Leary that the note would be made all right. Leary has not since seen the note.

On cross-examination by Mr. Hopkins, Leary said he grew alarmed on hearing by letter from Butler that Landon had been kicked out of the employment of the Company. He had several letters from the Company. First learned of the operations of the Company from Butler, whom he met at Bobcaygeon last fall, where he told Butler that he thought the business was a fraud. Heard of some cases at Bobcaygeon and was told by Butler that the notes given had been returned. Had made no further enquiry before he signed the note. Heard of a Mr. H——of Hastings, and wrote him and learned that the Company had dealt squarely with him. This was before the note was signed. Thought the company was honest after Landon left him with the note. Mr. Fairbairn's note gave him confidence and the note was signed on condition that the conditions named by Leary would be carried out. Couldn't say whether Landon told him the transaction was a speculative one, but witness knew that no grain was worth $15 00 per bushel. Did not consider at the time anything about the transaction. Expected to get his own note back again in payment for grain which he was to deliver next fall. Did not consider that the note would be transferred and collected when due. Didn't know what object there was in getting his note and didn't enquire where the grain was to come from at the time. Butler asked him to act as the agent for the company but witness said he declined. In conversation with a man Hamilton on the subject witness had said that the only way in which any one would be safe would be for a person worth nothing to purchase from them. Swore he never sent a letter to the company omitting to sign his name. Did not say to Landon that he had three or four farmers to buy from the company if they put the conditions he wanted on the note. When he saw Butler at Peterborough it was at Cavanagh's hotel and Smith was present. Witness denied that at that meeting he had sworn "By Jesus Christ, I have a regard for my church, but I do not care how many farmers were swindled so long as I made money." Did not tell Cavanagh that he (Leary) was satisfied with the bargain but was afraid that the Dominion Government would pass an act putting a stop to such transactions. Witness said that he told Morgan Johns that a man came to him at the Daly house and said "All you want is your note back," and that he referred the man to his attorney. Witness would not have settled the matter if he had got his note back.

W. A. Stratton, sworn said:—I am a barrister practising at Peterborough. I don't think I ever had a note signed by Leary the complainant in this case. I searched for the note referred to but couldn't find any such note referred to signed by Leary. I don't think I ever saw Leary's note. Don't know Mr. Foss and can't say I ever saw him. Understand the company is registered at Peterborough and I know nothing about its management or business except such knowledge as I gained professionally. The office is on Simcoe-st., Peterborough. The company, if I remember aright, is registered under the name of J K. Foss.

Chas. Butler was sworn and gave evidence.—I at present reside at Peterborough and have been there off and on since last fall. Lived in Toronto previous to that for 4 or 5 years. Know of the Dominion Seed and Grain Company and was manager of the company for Mr. Foss from Oct., 1889, to the beginning of April, 1890. J. K. Foss is the company. Know the defendant, Landon, and have known him many years. Decline to answer how long I have been in the seed and grain business. The defendant was in the employ of the company from the time I assumed its management in in Oct., 1889, up to Feb. or March, 1890. I am not now in the employ of the company inasmuch as there is no sale for seed grain. Mr. Foss employed Landon. I discharged him from the employ of the Company. Decline to state the cause of Landon's dismissal. His dealings with Leary had nothing to do with his discharge. I have looked over a letter of March 6, 1890. I believe it to be in Landon's writing. I decline to state my duties in reference to the Dominion Seed and Grain Company. I never saw Leary's note. Mr. Foss is now in the U.S. Saw him last at Peterborough in November last, not since. Landon was employed in selling grain and took notes which were usually returned to me. All sales in Leary's vicinity should have been returned to me, provided I was willing to accept the security. Landon never presented Leary's note to me, although it was his duty to do so. Landon made sales in Leary's neighborhood to some irresponsible parties and on his telling me he had a transaction with Leary I told him Leary was a petty postmaster and not worth a dollar and that he should have no dealings with him. I took the bond, and on the next day, or shortly afterwards, I discharged Landon on the ground of making bad sales. We have no books on account of the sales nor of the notes, the bonds being the only memorandum we keep. Landon never offered me the note. I cared nothing about it, as I did not consider Leary responsible, and depended upon getting 2 bushels for 1 or 5 for 10 as detailed on the back of the bond. The reason I did not ask for the note was that I did not consider Leary to be good. I don't know where the note is now and it never was in my possession. If Landon had handed me the note I might have taken it. Saw Landon at Cavanagh's hotel, Peterborough, he spoke to me about a letter which he received and told me that he was to have a commission on sales of grain made by Landon in his vicinity. He said something to me about his note. I replied, "I know nothing about it as he was not a responsible man. He told me that he owned nothing but horses and that the deed of his farm was in his wife's name. Leary met me at Croft's Hotel, asked about his note and asked me to give it to him. I think I told him that the note was in the hands of Stratton & Hall. Did not show him any writing in reference to his note. This was late in February or early in March. Landon never told me what he did with the note. Smith was employed in my office at Peterborough. Smith went in office business to Bobcaygeon and Landon went with him, he was then in our employ and they went on the stage. Saw Landon since his discharge about three weeks ago at Peterborough. I saw Landon in jail at Lindsay but don't recollect speaking to him about Leary's note. Mr. Foss might have been in Peterborough since Oct. or Nov, last. I might have got Leary's note among a bundle of other notes without knowing it. When in my room at Peterborough Leary said "I have a great regard for my church, what I state is true, I don't care how many farmers are done up as long as I'm not done up myself."

This closed the evidence taken on Monday and the court adjourned, the prisoner being remanded to goal.

On reaching Lindsay with Landon Constable Wilson went to the local Police Magistrate and said that an attempt had been made at Peterborough to bribe him to let Landon go. He said that Butler came to him at Cavanagh's hotel, where they were taking breakfast, having came up on the Grand Junction from Belleville, and offered him (Wilson), $200 to let Landon go. Wilson was advised that the attempted bribing having taken place outside the county of Victoria that the jurisdiction lay at Peterborough, and the next day he went to Peterborough to lay information before the County Attorney against Butler.

Butler's version of the bribing incident was that he offered to go $500 security to the constable if he would let Landon go with him instead of in charge of the officer.

Wednesday's Proceedings.

Proceedings against Landon were resumed Wednesday morning in the Police Court Chamber before County Magistrate Deacon, the case opening at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Charles Fairbairn, Reeve of Verulam, whose professed note for $300 the seed grain men used as a letter to influence other farmers, was examined. He knew Landon; met him in Bobcaygeon last fall in company with a Mr. Foss; he had never given Landon or any agent or employee of the Dominion Seed Company a note for seed grain. When he met Landon and Foss in Bobcaygeon they told him they had been out to his house looking for him; he (Fairbairn) said it was a good thing for them he was not there, as he had a vicious bull dog he occasionally let loose on such fellows as they were. Conversation lasted but a few minutes; after Landon had introduced him to Foss he was in and out of the room several times. In explanation as to the note claimed to have been made by him payable to Foss, witness said that being to Peterborough one day expecting to receive money to discharge a liability he mentioned his disappointment to Mr. Cavanagh, who at once offered to procure the money for him. Butler was standing near and at once offered to give him the sum needed. He gave Butler a note for $180, and received $180 through Messrs. Stratton & Hall. He could not say that the note was on a printed form, or to whom it was made payable, as the stage was waiting and he was in a hurry. The note ran for one month without interest. When it came due he renewed it again. The note given had no reference to seed wheat. He did not give a note for $300 to either Foss, Butler or Landon. Each of them had talk over the question with him in Bobcaygeon. He (Fairbairn) had been spoken to by a man named J. C. Leary, who asked him if he had given his note to the seed company for $300, and he replied "No."

In cross-examination he stated that when Foss and Landon met him in Bobcaygeon after going out to his residence they told him they were anxious to get his name as he was a representative farmer.

The Court asked witness if Landon had said in the township of Emily that if he held Fairbairn's note for $300 for seed grain would be be telling the truth or otherwise?

Mr. Fairbairn—No, he would be telling a lie.

The court then adjourned till 2 p.m. to sum up and after the counsel had presented their respective views of the evidence given, Magistrate Deacon summed up in an address of about half an hour, finally committing the prisoner for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, fixing bail at personal recognizances of $200 and two other residents of Victoria County at $100 each.

CREMATED IN HER DWELLING.

An Old Woman Burned to Death at Belleville and her Husband Seriously Injured.

(Special to the Review.)

Belleville, April 24.—A fatal fire took place here last night by which Jane Arthurs, an old woman who was familiar as a char woman around the city, met a horrible death and Wm. Arthurs received injuries which may prove fatal. The pair, who were both addicted to drink, lived in a small house on Church-st. About 9.30 o'clock last night their dwelling was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was sounded and the firemen responded promptly, but the old house was captured by the flames before they arrived. When it became known that Arthurs and his wife were within the burning dwelling every effort was made to rescue them, and in the case of the man the firemen were successful, although he was sadly burned. The charred remains of the woman were pulled from the flames by one of the firemen with a pole hook, but life had long since fled. The sight was a sickening one when the unfortunate woman's body was dragged out on the street. Fireman John Weir was badly burned about the head and neck in his efforts to save the old man. The cause of the fire is not known. The loss by the dwelling, which was owned by Mrs. Rosie Thompson, was small.

A FATHER'S TERRIBLE DEED.

Drowns His Three Children and Attempts to Drown Himself.

By Telegraph to the Review.

Shelburne, Ont., April 24.—Word reached here this morning that well-to-do farmer named Morrison, living about two miles from here, after drowning three of his children in a barrel of rain water, attempted to drown himself in a creek. The neighbors found him lying beside the creek this morning in a precarious condition. There are no hopes of his recovery. No reason is known for the awful affair.

Personal.

Mrs. R. S. Davidson leaves this evening for Kingfisher, Oklahoma, to visit her mother, Mrs. Thomas Menzies, who is seriously ill.

Musical Service.

Next Sunday evening there will be a special musical service in the George-st. church. The programme will be published in Saturday's paper. Mr. Price, the organist, will terminate his engagement on the 4th prox.

Millers' Profits.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—A recent issue of a Lindsay paper contained the following in regard to millers' profits, which I find copied into another paper:—

"If a miller buys 12 bushels of wheat at 71c. per bushel, and after keeping 23 lbs. per bushel for pay and profit for grinding, sells 444 lbs. flour out of the 12 bushels, at $2.60 per cwt., that being the then price, how much would be the profit on the enormous quantity of flour annually consumed by Lindsay and Victoria county citizens?

"The whole 12 bushels cost the miller only $8.52. He keeps for pay for grinding, more than one-third of the whole, viz., he keeps 23 lbs. per bushel including all the bran and shorts. The 444 lbs. flour he sells at $2.60 per cwt., or for $11.54. Thus on a twelve bushel transaction the millers' profit is the difference between $11.54 and $8.52, viz., $3.02, and the 23 lbs. per bushel besides.

"Does the farmer receive fair or even honest treatment in such dealings? Does the townsman who buys flour or baker's bread receive honest treatment? Is the baker squarely used?

"Surely as a matter of honest dealing, the farmer should receive $11.54 for his twelve bushels, which would net him 96c. per bushel instead of 71c.; or else, the townsman should pay only the $8.52 for the flour, or $1 92 per cwt.; for if the miller has not sufficient profit in taking 23 lbs. out of every bushel, then what in the name of common sense is profit?"

Will someone capable of doing so give us some light on this matter?

Yours, etc.,
A Farmer.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

—OUR—
SPRING EXHIBIT!

Any one will recognise the benefit of dealing with a house that shows a Large Range of Goods as well as the Newest Colorings and Styles.

In this connection we would mention the fact that we have several hundred different Styles in our Tweed Department embracing many new and novel effects. Our selections have been made from the markets' choicest offerings.

We would state to those who contemplate ordering their Spring Suit that we have been favored with a very large trade and would esteem it a favor if buyers would order early.

Our facilities are now taxed to their full capacity and early orders will prevent delays.

Never since our existence have we been so overwhelmed with work. What is the cause? The answer is easy. Our Styles are right, our Goods are right and our prices are right.

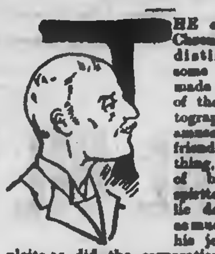
THE JUDGE!

"I ain't above takin' money," he reflected, "but I'll be hanged if I'd ha' told anyhow."

CHAPTER VIII.



THE editor of the Chronicle was a man distinguished by some traits that made him the butt of the jocular photographer and the amusement of his friends. For one thing, he was guilty of being public spirited. The public derived almost as much benefit from his journalistic exploits as did the corporation of which he was president, and for which he worked. He was never afraid, for instance, to take up a matter because it was unpopular, if by so doing he could aid a cause that seemed to him deserving of advocacy. He possessed a large ambition, but it was impersonal in its nature. He was pleased when he was concerned in matters of national importance, not only in a political, but in an educational and moral way as well. And his interest came, not from any individual advantage that he expected to derive, but from the pleasure that it gave him to deal with large matters and to work with men of distinction and brains. Consequently, as he was always hunting out the hidden ways of some oppressor, or tracking some notorious rascal to the ground, his office was filled from morning till night with detectives, bent upon various pursuits. He was a sallow, dyspeptic-looking man, with teeth that gleamed out of his worn face with a frightful brilliancy. Original, indefatigable, daring, curious, eccentric, he possessed the very qualities that go to make up the successful journalist, and though but a young man, he was already known as the most distinguished newspaper man in the west.

He and Henry Leiter had been warm friends. The man of business, keeping his eye upon the happenings of the whole world, managing a force that was scattered over the length and breadth of two continents, found the quiet elegance of the Leiter house a rest and solace. The bland old man, with his violins, his collection of famous bows, his penchant for rare woods, his soft enunciation and courtly manners, seemed like a quaint creation of another age after the hurry and fret, the disappointment and conflict of the day. When the terrible taking off of this dear friend became known to him he sent for his most accomplished man—one who combined the education of a detective with that of a reporter. The Chronicle made a point of employing such men, and its pages were noted for the cleverness with which they set before the public the true inwardness of many crimes and mysteries that the courts dealt with indifferently. From the first day Pond had reported to his superior every trifling incident, every impression that bore on the matter. He had dilated upon the personality of each person who played a part, however small, in this melancholy drama. And he had published no more than would satisfy the curiosity of the public.

The Chronicle knew that it could afford to wait. The other papers were sure to waste their powder in ineffectual firing. The Chronicle meant to wait until it could see the whites of its enemies' eyes. Thus it was that Pond was dismissed from all regular duties and added to the great army of detectives employed by that mighty journal. He was given an assignment, in short, to discover the murderer of Henry Leiter. When he had done so he was to report. Until then he was expected to think of and work at nothing else—whether it took him six days or as many years. And upon his success depended his reputation.

At the outset the labor had been to his liking. But then he had not known what was to befall him. No sooner had he met Margaret than his heart, his mind, his energy, were in danger of becoming enslaved. A depression such as he had never experienced in all his happy-go-lucky life weighed upon him. He was convinced that Margaret and Harry were betrothed, and he felt sure that Harry was innocent, but there was circumstantial evidence of his guilt that would convict him, unless he or some one else struck the scent of the guilty man. The fact that the clearing of Harry would lessen Pond's chances with Margaret did not, however, have the slightest effect on Pond's determination. Men are already well on the road to villainy when they can consider the details of personal treachery. Pond had too much self-respect to entertain for a moment an idea that he would have been ashamed to put into words. Besides, there was his ambition tugging the other way. If he discovered the murderer of Henry Leiter his fortune was made, for Melton R. Steele, of the Daily Chronicle, never forgot a piece of brilliant work or allowed it to go unrewarded.

Pond bravely essayed, therefore, to put Margaret out of his mind, both sleeping and waking, and, though he did not succeed in this, he managed at least to keep his ambition uppermost and his love well under, in spite of the torment at his heart, which seemed to be weighed down with something almost palpable—or at least, so he would have sworn if he permitted himself to talk about it or even to soliloquize, after the manner of heroes in plays.

One of the first things he did was to visit McCook. But though the attorney knew the value of being courteous to the people of the press, he would say nothing. Pond was quick to perceive a certain rancor in his manner of speaking about the murder, and he would not rest until he had found what prompted it. He was averse to dragging Miss Barthwait's name into the conversation, but the professional instinct was strong and everything else gave way before it.

"Young Mr. Leiter is an old friend of yours, I think, Mr. McCook?" he ventured. McCook rubbed his hands over his smooth fat chin and reflected. His eyes narrowed like a cat's in a bright room. All of a sudden Pond took an intense dislike to him.

"We have known each other since boyhood," he said at length.

"You consider the evidence strong against him?"

"I decline to say, sir. My professional duty will not permit me to pass any judgment upon the case of a man whom I shall in all probability have to try for the state."

"It is a very difficult position," went on Dennis, with an affectation of sympathy. "One would naturally shrink from [illegible] friend. Such a case is surely rare. Of course we have all read of stern fathers who have preserved the law at the price of their son's lives, and all that. But it is not very often that one good fellow has to turn his back on a friend and make a conscientious effort to send him to the penitentiary."

"A man in my position has no business with any friends."

"Do you mean to say that a man may well expect to turn to cynicism? Such cynicism goes a little too far, Mr. McCook. It shows you are an amateur at acting. I dare say you are also well acquainted with Miss Barthwait, that lovely girl I saw at the inquest?" Pond fired this question out carelessly. His heart beat so for a minute with dread at McCook's reply and disgust at his own impertinence, that he lit a cigar to hide his confusion.

"Certainly," said McCook severely, "and if there is any one thing that can add to the deep damnation of the old gentleman's taking off, it is the fact that Miss Barthwait should be associated with it in any way." There was a pallor about his mouth as he spoke, but his lips did not quiver, for he, too, lit a cigar. The weed is a great resource to men.

"I fancy," said Pond, in a tone of perfect indifference, "that she has a particular interest in young Mr. Leiter."

CENTRE BRUCE CONVENTIONS.

The Conservative Meeting Postponed—The Equal Righters' Choice.

WALKERTON, April 23.—The Conservative convention of Centre Bruce called to meet at Glammis to-day was adjourned for a week by President William Bradley of Greenock in order not to conflict with an Equal Rights convention which was called for the same place to-day.

There was a large turnout of Equal Righters at their convention, over 150 delegates from all over the riding being present. Several strong speeches on the school question were delivered. A committee of ten was appointed to select a candidate, and these after long deliberation finally decided on Mr. Alex. Shaw, Q.C., of Walkerton. Mr. Henry Brown of Eldersile and Mr. Duncan Fisher of Paisley were also nominated, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Shaw. The latter gentleman was not present and a delegation was appointed to tender him the nomination.

AS AN INDEPENDENT.

Sol. White Announces That He Will Contest North Essex.

WINDSOR, April 23.—In an interview today Mayor Sol. White said: "You may announce that, at the urgent solicitation of many of my friends of both parties and of independent electors as well, I am in the field as a candidate for the Provincial Legislature. I am an opponent of the present Government and I am not fully in accord with W. R. Meredith, leader of the Opposition, and I shall ask the suffrages of the people of North Essex as a politician entirely independent of both old parties and whose chief desire and aim is and will be to advance the interests of Essex."

CROMAR CAPTURED.

The New Brunswick Defaulter Run to Earth at Sand Beach, Mich.

HALIFAX, April 23.—On April 14 it was announced that J. McD. Cromar, agent of the People's Bank of Halifax at Edmundston, had skipped with funds estimated as high as $10,000. Detective Power left here a few days afterwards to capture Cromar and to-day the city marshal received a despatch from the detective dated Sand Beach, Mich.: "Cromar under arrest, he is going to return without fight." Power after going to Edmundston followed the trail to Boston, New York, Portland, Me., then to Detroit, thence back to Portland and then to Sand Beach, Mich. Cromar's defalcation is understood to be about $7000.

Burglary at Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, April 23.—On Tuesday evening the residence of L. Grant was entered through a window by burglars. They carried away two pairs of trousers, one belonging to Mr. Grant and one to Mr. Ross, containing considerable sums of money, that of the latter $100. They also took Mr. Grant's overcoat. No clue.

TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming. They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

PRIVATION AND PERIL.

Pitiable Condition of the Mississippi Flood Sufferers.

BAYOU SARA, La., April 24.—The relief steamer Dacotah reached the Bayou Sara landing last evening. She made a trip to Pointe Coupee and has come back to Bayou Sara. Her arrival was a God-send to the people, whose lives are in jeopardy, for she not only already saved a vast amount of property but also many lives. The real condition of things in the overflowed district is just coming to light. No pen can picture the devastation of the country or the desolation of the people. The entire front of Point Coupee is under water. Most of the levees are gone. The water back of the levees is so deep that hundreds of lives are in jeopardy. The small stretches of levee still standing are crowded with men, women and children side by side with horses, mules and cows.

In an old, unused ginhouse 500 negroes were found huddled together. The condition of the unfortunate blacks was pitiable. They were afraid of their lives and were piteously begging to be taken to some place of safety.

The crevasse at Allendale will overflow 20 of the finest plantations on the river. It will reach the Teche country several days in advance of the Morganza water, and Col. Rivers says when this water joins with the Morganza it will flood the entire Atchafalaya, La Fourche and Teche countries. The damage is incalculable.

Rain and desolation meet the eye on every side. In Point Coupee parish the destruction is complete. Not a plantation is left above water, not a levee unbroken, while hundreds of families are homeless. Thousands of stock have been drowned and it is quite probable human life has been sacrificed.

Standing on the deck of the Dacotah as she passed within 50 yards of the flooded district last evening the full extent of the disaster could be seen. Grouping together on little knolls between broken levees through which the water rushed with ungovernable fury were scores of people, white and black, some with babies in arms while others had dogs secured by a cord. Many had nothing else in the world except the clothes they wore. Whenever the Dacotah discovered a scene like this the stage was swung and the stricken ones taken aboard. Equally as sad a scene was the gaunt cattle standing in the water actually starving.

A family named Lake who resided several mile above Bayou Sara were rescued this morning. There were fifteen people in the family. Monday morning they were prosperous, being the owners of a large plantation, a well-equipped store and over 100 head of stock. To-day nothing remains above water but the eaves of their residence. Coming down stock and people were picked up everywhere and when the Dacotah reached Bayou Sara she had 1000 cattle and nearly 500 people on board. They were landed and the boat left on a return trip. Thirteen parishes will be overflowed.

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—United States Engineer Douglass telegraphs that Point Pleasant levee, Tensas parish, gave way this morning. Point Pleasant is 26 miles below Vicksburg and the levee there is one of the most important on the Tensas front. The water will no doubt overflow the greater part of the Basin.

Supt. Grant of the Texas & Pacific Railway speaking of the Morganza crevasse says: This is one of the worst calamities that could have befallen the residents of this state and yet it could have been avoided if the people had only made an effort. They should have raised $500,000 to hold that levee, and it could have been done too, and been well invested, as there is $20,000,000 worth of property that will now be irretrievably damaged.

Under the Shadow of Fear.

MOSCOW, April 24.—Five sisters named Donsovieroff, the youngest 19 years old, committed suicide here to-day. Ashes found in their apartment showed that they had burned a number of papers before taking their lives. It is believed fear of arrest as Nihilists led to the deed.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

GLADSTONE RESUMES THE LAND PURCHASE DEBATE.

He Opposes the Balfour Bill in a Strong Speech—Constitutional Objections to the Measure—Another Cabinet Crisis Reported from Paris.

LONDON, April 24.—Mr. Gladstone resumed the debate on the Land Purchase Bill in the House of Commons this evening. He said he opposed the bill under an overwhelming conviction that it was complicated without undertaking to solve the difficulty. He was disappointed when Mr. Balfour stated the measure pledged the country to the extent of £33,000,000 without mentioning the possibility of further amounts being asked. Mr. Parnell's plan was new in principle. Its general purpose was clear, but he was not certain that he comprehended the details. [Conservative laughter.] It was honorable—even chivalrous—in Mr. Parnell, opposing the Government as he did, to propose an alternative. He strongly sympathised with one object of Mr. Parnell's plan whereby the landlords would not be expatriated, but would be retained. It would be a sorrowful conclusion of the life of the landlord class if when local government was established in Ireland they did not take part in adjusting affairs.

Mr. Balfour's bill presented a number of dubious points. Some of the proposals were so obviously objectionable as to justify their rejection. A bill of this kind should not encourage landlords to become buyers of land in order to take advantage of the enormous bonus offered. [Hear, hear.] The provision respecting two years' arrears also required a justification which it would be difficult to find. [Cheers.] The method proposed for ascertaining the net rent of the land would enable the landlord to obtain compensation upon a large mass of income that he had never received. [Hear, hear.]

He also took the strongest objection to placing an embargo upon the local funds of counties. [Hear, Hear.] That proposal violated a principle which the House ought to hold sacred. The only really available and valuable guarantees provided in the measure were grants from the Imperial exchequer on account of probate duties and other public charges. The Government had already given England and Scotland similar grants, placing them wholly at the disposal of the local authorities. Was it possible the Government would tell the counties of Ireland that the grant to that country must be used for the benefit of persons contracting under the bill? [Cheers.] It was a violation of equality in governing the three kingdoms, than which he never knew a more glaring instance. [Cheers.]

Coming to the "constitutional" objections, any one of which he asserted formed an absolute reason against the second reading of the bill, Mr. Gladstone urged it was obvious Ireland opposed the measure, as five-sixths of the Irish members deliberately and determinedly opposed it. [Cheers.] As the Government was going to make Ireland its debtor it was important to consider the attitude of the persons about to be subjected to debt. Was it possible to imagine the Government imposing a similar measure upon Scotland in defiance of the protest of 60 out of the 70 Scotch members? [Cheers.]

He objected also to the use of English credit. In the last general election both the Conservatives and the Opposition were pledged against the use of the public credit. This Parliament would act in conformity with its honorable obligations pass a bill instituting a loan fund having an interminable operation. [Cheers.] Besides the large pecuniary risk the bill involved evils tenfold greater, threatening to produce conditions which would shock humanity, imperil order and make worse the relations between the two countries. State landlordism implied the use of soldiers against the tenant; the use of every weapon of the state to enforce an unpopular law. It was a sad disappointment to find under the name of a voluntary arrangement between landlord and tenant a device for bringing an irresistible pressure upon the tenant with a view to extorting for the landlords' benefit nearly the whole of the immense boon that Parliament might confer.

Mr. Gladstone said these objections covered only a part of this measure, which was probably the most complicated one he had ever seen. In conclusion he said: "I feel it to be my duty, absolute duty, to protest against principles of so flagrant a character and so tending to embark the country in immense pecuniary risks while making land purchase not an aim in the settlement of the general Irish problem, but a means to further plunge us into the deepest political embarrassments." [Cheers.]

Messrs. Goschen and Russell defended and Mr. Dillon opposed the bill. Mr. Dillon said he did not in all respects approve Mr. Parnell's alternative, but it was the scheme of the only man possessing power to settle the question.

Sir Charles Russell, in a speech at Bradford, said the keynote of all future reform was the adoption of the "one man, one vote" principle.

The Anti-Semitic Riot.

VIENNA, April 24.—Later reports from Biala show that the first statement regarding the number of persons killed was exaggerated. It has now been learned that only three anti-Semitic rioters were killed and 12 wounded. The troops at first used blank cartridge in firing upon the mob, but as this did not result in dispersing them ball cartridge was used. Ten leaders of the rioters were arrested and will be tried.

Three Generations at Darmstadt.

BERLIN, April 24.—Empress Frederick and her daughters arrived at Darmstadt to-day. They were met at the railway station by the Grand Duke of Hesse and driven to the ducal palace, where they met Queen Victoria.

Reinforcements for Paris.

PARIS, April 24.—The Paris garrison will be reinforced by eight cavalry regiments on May 1.

Another Cabinet Crisis.

PARIS, April 24.—It is rumored there are serious dissensions in the French ministry and an early collapse of the Cabinet is feared.

CHICAGO, April 24.—For months the country has been flooded with $10 silver certificates, said to have been issued by the Germania National Bank of New Orleans, but which were plainly bogus. "Shovers" of these bills have baffled the secret service men in every city. Two men going from saloon to saloon here to-day were arrested. Over $200 in the above counterfeit bills were found on them and they were identified by a number of saloon-keepers as having passed others. A third man who carried a satchel supposed to contain a large amount of the counterfeit money escaped.

MORRISON'S MADNESS.

A Farmer Near Shelburne Kills His Own Child.

SHELBURNE, April 24.—A terrible tragedy occurred this morning about 1½ miles north of here, at the residence of Thomas Morrison, a well-to-do and highly respected farmer. Mrs. Morrison was away from home for a couple of days visiting a sick sister. She left her husband with five children, the eldest a girl of 13 years, the others ranging in age down to a bright little lad of a couple of summers.

The youngest slept with his elder sister. When she awoke this morning she was surprised to find the little fellow was not by her side. She went in search of him, and found him stiff in death, laid out upon a quilt on the back kitchen floor. On one side lay his sister, aged 5, and on the other side his brother, aged 7, all dead. A barrel half full of water stood in one corner of the room. By the drip of the water on the floor the tale was told of their death by drowning.

Morrison could not be found. On a table in the dining-room was a cup smelling strongly of carbolic acid, near by an ounce bottle of the drug two-thirds full. Diligent search was instituted and the murderer was found writhing in agony on the banks of a creek a quarter of a mile from his home. There was evidence of a terrible struggle. The man had thrown himself into the water, rolling to and fro from bank to bank. The muddy soil was worked smooth and bore the deep imprints of his body. Morrison was speechless. Dr. Norton, the coroner, was sent for. He used the stomach pump, administered antidotes and the patient has rallied somewhat, but is still only partly conscious. His recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. Morrison, broken-hearted, has returned to her desolate home.

Temporary insanity seems to be the only explanation of Morrison's deed, for he has always been a kind and indulgent husband and father.

It was a piteous spectacle that brought tears to strong men's eyes as they saw the three little ones lying side by side. Great care had been taken in the arrangement of their little bed newly made upon the floor, the coverlid being thrown over them without a wrinkle and doubled back from their chins.

IN DANGER OF THE AXE.

Hamilton License Commissioners Said to Contemplate Some Cut-Offs.

HAMILTON, April 24.—It is reported that the license commissioners intend to cut off a number of houses and that the axe will fall in rather startling places, including two well-known up-town resorts and a number of smaller taverns.

A building and loan society with a capital of $5,000,000 is projected here.

Mysterious Death Near London.

LONDON, Ont., April 24.—A West Nissouri farmer, while driving into the city yesterday forenoon, overtook a man to whom he gave a lift, but when a short distance this side of Dreaney's Corners the stranger alighted from the vehicle and said he would try and walk the rest of the way. In the afternoon the farmer, on his homeward journey, while nearing the asylum gate, noticed quite a crowd of people gathered there, and on learning the cause of excitement viewed the body, and had no difficulty in identifying it as that of the man who had ridden with him in the morning. It seems that the unfortunate man had been loitering about Pottersburg and that vicinity for several hours during the afternoon and was found lying across the sidewalk east of the asylum gate and appeared to be very sick and motioned for something to drink. This was about 5½ o'clock, and a cup of tea was tendered him, but before he had swallowed it all death relieved him of further suffering. He was apparently about 45 years of age, medium height, sandy mustache and whiskers, and looked like a laboring man. In his pocket was found a bottle of medicine with the name "E. Haloran."

Racing at Sandown Park.

LONDON, April 24.—This was the opening day of the Sandown Park spring meeting, the event being the Princess of Wales Handicap of £925 at five furlongs. It was won by Lord Randolph Churchill's bl. m. L'Abbesse de Jouarre, 4, by Trappist-Festive; Mr. Mosenthall's b. or br. h. Admiral Benbow, 5, by Victor II.-Sultana, second, and Mr. Hammond's b. h. St. Symphoren, 5, by Muncaster-Ste. Editha, third. The race was won last year by Mr. Craven's Porloch.

On Erin's Turf.

DUBLIN, April 24.—At the races of the Kildare and National Hunt at Punchestown yesterday the race for the Conyngham cup was won by Comeaway, Finnetta Cool 2, Ulysses 3.

Nova Scotia's New Judge.

HALIFAX, April 24.—News was received here to-night of the appointment of N. H. Meagher, Q.C., to the vacancy in the Supreme Court bench of Nova Scotia. Mr. Meagher is a prominent Irish Catholic lawyer, a native of Inverness County and head of the law firm of Meagher, Drysdale, Newcombe & McInnes.

Dalhousie College Convocation.

HALIFAX, April 24.—The convocation of Dalhousie College took place to-day. The Governor-General's gold medal was won by F. J. McLeod. The graduating class numbered 36, the largest in the history of any maritime college.

THE ORANGE BILL IS LAW

MEASURES WHICH RECEIVED THE ROYAL ASSENT.

The Government Takes Mondays—Saturday Sittings to be Held After This Week—Mr. Chapleau's Bill to Amend the Franchise Act.

OTTAWA, April 24.—No sooner had the Speaker taken the chair in the Commons this afternoon than a message from the Senate summoned the House to that Chamber, where these bills were assented to:

To authorize the Toronto Savings Bank Charitable Trust to invest certain funds.

Respecting the Board of Trade of the city of Toronto.

Respecting the Erie & Huron Railway Company.

To amend the Patent Act.

To amend the Copyright Act.

To amend the act incorporating the Manitoba & Southeastern Railway Company.

To incorporate the Rainy River Boom Company.

Respecting the Brantford, Waterloo & Lake Erie Railway Company.

To incorporate the Owen Sound & Lake Huron Railway Company.

To amend the act to incorporate the Victoria & Sault Ste. Marie Junction Railway Company.

To confirm an agreement between the Montreal & Western Railway Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

Respecting the Confederation Life Association.

Respecting the Summerside Bank.

Respecting the St. Catharines & Niagara Central Railway Company.

To incorporate the Interprovincial Bridge Company.

Respecting the Central Ontario Railway.

To confer on the Commissioner of Patents certain powers for the relief of Samuel May.

To amend the act to incorporate the Saskatchewan Railway & Mining Company.

To prevent the disclosure of official documents and information.

Upon reassembling Sir John Macdonald announced in answer to questions that the House would be asked to sit on Saturdays after this week and that Mondays would be taken for Government business. The railway resolutions would be submitted early next week. The fishing license, or Modus Vivendi Bill, was read a third time and passed.

The House spent the remainder of the afternoon in committee on the Banking Bill, adopting down to the 51st clause with a few verbal changes. The amount of reserve which must be held before a bank may pay a dividend exceeding 8 per cent. was increased from 10 to 20 per cent.

After recess the House went into committee on a bill of Mr. Chapleau's further amending the Franchise Act. Mr. Chapleau explained that its intent was to simplify the working of the act and to reduce the expense of its operation. He announced that there would be no expense this year and that the next general elections might be expected to be held on the lists revised between June 30 and Dec. 31, 1891. These would be ready in ample time, as this House did not expire until March 31, 1892.

In order to save time and trouble the supplementary lists containing the changes made by the revising officers would be printed for the future at the local printing offices in place of at the Government bureau. The lists would no longer be posted in three places in each electoral district but would be otherwise made readily accessible to all desiring to see them. The work having become less onerous as the act became better known, the remuneration of the revising officers will be diminished or else their number will be reduced and an endeavor will be made to have a greater number of judges act as revising officers.

The bill was adopted in committee and the House adjourned at 1.35 a.m.

North Perth Liberals.

MILVERTON, April 24.—The Liberals of North Perth met in convention to-day at Milverton for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Local Legislature in the coming contest. There was a large gathering of delegates from all parts of the riding. J. H. Schmidt of Stratford received the unanimous nomination of the convention, but he declined to accept it. Several other gentlemen present were nominated but finally all withdrew with the exception of Mr. Robert Clelland, reeve of Elma; Dr. Ahrens of Stratford and T. R. Hay of Listowel. These candidates were balloted for, resulting in the choice of Mr. Clelland.

South Leeds Conservatives.

DELTA, Ont., April 24.—The Conservative convention of South Leeds was held here to-day. Nearly 800 delegates were present. Dr. R. H. Preston, Walter Beatty, J. R. Dargavel, James Berney and J. Redmond were proposed as candidates for the Ontario Assembly in the coming provincial elections. Dr. Preston, the sitting member, was chosen on the first ballot by 21 majority.

The Flour Output.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 24.—The Northwestern Miller says: The flour output last week was 131,170 barrels. The flour market is strong but sales are restricted to comparatively small limits and do not equal the manufacture. The spring wheat crop has gone into the ground under the most promising conditions.

Montreal's New Sheriff.

MONTREAL, April 24.—It is announced definitely to-night that Mr. L. O. David has been offered and has accepted the position of sheriff of Montreal.

The Daily Review.

FRIDAY APRIL 25, 1890.

AN ABSURD POSITION.

It is remarked by a Liberal paper that it does not make much difference what a man ever believed or advocated, as the important question is what he believes and advocates at the present time. There is considerable sense in that, but it is not necessary to refer to the past speeches of the Liberal leaders in Dominion politics to show how absurdly inconsistent they are. There was a time not so long ago, before Mr. Wiman became a factor in Canadian politics, when the Liberals advocated a tariff for revenue only without reference to the protective needs of the manufacturing or other industries of the country. They then opposed protection. Whether that was a wise policy or not, it was at least a consistent position to take. But can even that be said of them now? In the deepest bass the Liberal speakers paint the "iniquities" of protection and of "high tariffs." They argue that protective duties are detrimental to important particular interests and the country as a whole—and they advocate a policy that would lead to still higher duties! They denounce protection, and long for a commercial alliance with the United States that would bring increased protection and the war tariff of that country! Unrestricted reciprocity would mean free trade with the United States, but a much higher scale of duties on everything brought from every other country. The present policy of the Liberal party is not only unwise; it is, in addition, absurdly inconsistent.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

One of the most important departments in the Dominion Government is that which has charge of the post offices, for the mail service reaches over the whole Dominion and is used by all the people. It is one in which good executive ability and great carefulness are required, and the satisfactory position of the mail service reflects credit on the Hon. Mr. Haggart and his predecessors and upon the Government. Even the bitter opponents of the Government, who do not hesitate to attack the Government without cause, are forced to admit the satisfactory way in which this department is administered because the fact is so generally recognised and appreciated by the people. For instance the Toronto Globe says:—

"A correspondent writes to ask why the Globe does not advocate the increase of mail accommodation through the Province. He states that in the district where he lives there is only a semi-weekly mail, although a post office has been established for twenty-five or thirty years. Doubtless there are other well-settled districts where a similar state of things exists, and where a daily mail should be provided for. Perhaps in such cases a petition to the Postmaster-General would have the desired effect. But, on the whole, considering our great extent of territory and the heavy expense of the Department, our postoffice service must be regarded as fairly satisfactory."

The Globe and other Liberal papers would have the people believe that the members of the Dominion Cabinet from Ontario are not men of ability, but when judged by their work even the Globe is forced to admit that it is satisfactory and that is what the people require. The public service is in capable and careful hands in the Dominion and that fact is appreciated by the people who are so well served.

The blue-ruin screamers of the Reform party tell us that Canada is going to the dogs and her people are getting poor. The Belleville Intelligencer points out that in 1878-9 the deposits in government savings banks, post office savings banks, loan companies' savings banks and others aggregated $24,000,264,737.47; at the end of the fiscal year 1888-9 they aggregated $71,574,034.84. Here was an increase of deposits in savings banks of more than $47,000,000, or nearly 200 per cent in ten years. And yet the prophets of evil tell us that the people have been growing poor all this while.

The Globe prints a number of figures regarding the cost of the new Legislative buildings. If the Globe knows what those buildings will cost it should tell Mr. Mowat. He admitted that he did not know.

The Number Will Grow.

The rule all over in regard to dogs in a town or village is "no tags no dogs." Hastings has never had its dogs tagged but the council has at last taken steps and the Star says:—"The council have decided to adopt the tag system for dogs, and all tagless animals will hereinafter run the gauntlet of the constable's revolver. At present there are only some 27 acknowledged owners of dogs while at any hour of the day three times that number might be counted on the streets."

Work at the Park.

On Thursday Mr. Frank Mason, who will have the care of and beautifying the Court House park this season, began operations. Several of the trees were moved, they happening to stand in the way of some new flower beds which Mr. Mason purposes to lay out and plant. He was rather surprised to find that the by-law against animals running at large had been fractured, for during the night previous somebody's valuable horse had taken the liberty of leaving the print of his gentle footsteps in the soft turf. Mr. Mason also became aware of the fact that some of the school boys are in the habit of shying stones from the road into the grounds and he wants that bad habit stopped. The boys will get into trouble if Mr. Mason finds any more stones pitched into the grounds.

"Standing Room Only."

The Brockville Times of April 23, says:—"The production of 'Kit, the Arkansas Traveller,' by the Chanfrau Company at the Opera House last night drew a crowded house. In the leading role of 'Kit,' Mr. Chanfrau proved himself a worthy successor to his father in the difficult part he had to take. The support all through was excellent. But a special word of praise must be given to those who took the parts of the 'Judge' and 'Major.' Their humor was irresistible, and on their every appearance the large audience laughed till they were tired. Take it all in all it was a production such as has not been placed on the boards here for some time, and if ever the company should again visit Brockville they may depend upon a notice being posted at the door before the show begins 'Standing room only.'" The company appear at the Opera House, Peterborough, to-night for one night only. 1d97

THREE AND FOUR WARDS.

The Assessors in These Wards Complete Their Work—Some of the Interesting Figures From the Rolls.

Messrs. A. McNeil and T. McKee, the assessors for No. Three and Four Wards, have completed their rounds and the rolls are now ready to be returned. Messrs. Aldridge and Williams, assessing One and Two Wards, have not quite completed their labors, but their rolls will be ready by Saturday.

From the rolls of the two Wards which have been completed some totals were gathered which will be of interest to citizens generally. Of course whenever the rolls are all completed the returns of the whole town will be published. From the figures given below one piece of desired information can be obtained by the members of the Board of Education, and that is in reference to the school children residing in Three and Four Wards respectively. This information was wanted for the purpose of fixing the school limit for the new North Ward school.

NO. THREE WARD.

The following are some of the totals from the returns in No. Three Ward:—

Value of resident lands	$858,475
" " non-resident lands	1,500
Total value of lands	864,975
Personal property	21,300
Taxable income	27,400
Total value of real, personal and taxable income	$912,175
Population	2,761
Ratepayers	768
Non-residents	17
Children from 5 to 16	579
" " 7 " 13	366
" " 16 " 21	197
Dogs	132
Bitches	14
Cows	34
Horses	89
Deaths	11
Births	46

NO. FOUR WARD.

Value of resident lands	$504,215
" " non-resident lands	1,600
Total value of lands	505,815
Value of personal property	8,700
" " taxable income	9,800
Total value of real, personal and taxable income	$522,315
Population	1,744
Ratepayers	434
Non-residents	11
Children from 5 to 16	447
" " 7 " 13	271
" " 16 " 21	151
Dogs	78
Bitches	5
Cows	59
Horses	60
Deaths	7

In comparison with last year's figures an increase is shown in the real and personal property, and the population has increased by about one hundred souls. There is what many will call a fortunate decrease in the number of canines.

How was it Done?

The Hastings Star says:—"An interesting railway tangle happened at the railway station last Friday morning. Five trains were in, two bound west and three east, any two of the trains being longer than the only available siding, and the problem was, how to extricate them so as to pass. After some expert chess manœuvering on the part of agent Paton, the conductors went on their way rejoicing."

Opera House All Next Week.

Josie Mill's Dramatic Company in the greatest of all society plays, "Woman against Woman." Read what the Daily Brockville Record says:—"An audience which left very few vacant seats in the Opera House, witnessed the initial performance of the Josie Mill's Co. engagement last night, when the standard drama "Woman against Woman" was presented. The doors were opened at 7.30 sharp, and for about half an hour thereafter it required the united efforts of two policemen stationed at the western door, to lessen the strain on the box office, the crowd being admitted in sections of a dozen or two at a time. Many of our regular theatre goers were present and general satisfaction is expressed regarding the nature of the performance. Miss Josie Mills as "Florence Grantley," took a very difficult part in a very creditable way, creating a decidedly favorable impression on this, her first appearance before a Brockville audience. Miss Mills possesses histrionic ability in a marked degree and this added to a pleasing stage presence and rich costumes, enables her to present a careful conception of the part entrusted to her care. Miss Dot Putman as "Sallie Waddles," by her clever dancing and fresh humor, also came in for many words of commendation, while Mr. McCready, in his laughable creation of "Muggs" excited the risibilities of the audience to the highest pitch. The rest of the support was good." This is a first class Company and should receive a bumper house each night of their stay with us. They open in Peterborough for one week commencing Monday night. 1d97

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

THE FIRST TO ENTER.

A Fine Consignment of Nursery Stock Arrives from the Rochester Star Nursery.

The first consignment of spring nursery stock has arrived at the local offices of the Rochester Star Nursery and comprises a full line of nursery stock including fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs, etc., which are all of the finest quality. Their growing, packing and shipping was personally superintended by Mr. Bowman at the nursery in Rochester, and, as Mr. Bowman is a gentleman with an experience of thirty years as a practical nurseryman, his superintendence and careful attention should vouchsafe for the quality of the stock. Mr. C. L. Trotter, the courteous and active local agent for Mr. Bowman, has rented Mr. Stevenson's old office, corner of Simcoe and Water-sts., where the trees are now on exhibition prior to being distributed. As stated before, they are of the finest varieties and an invitation is extended to all interested in nursery stock to call and inspect this consignment for themselves. The fact that the business of the nursery in Canada has doubled in the past year, is unmistakeable evidence that Mr. Bowman distributes nothing but satisfactory stock. It is expected that the business will still further increase this year, as the strict care and attention to quality which has been the rule in the past will be continued in the future. The Canadian deliveries this year include orders from Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba as far west as Regina. With commendable energy Mr. Bowan had the honor of being the first American nurseryman to enter goods in Canada.

Any persons who wish nursery stock will consult their own interests by calling upon Mr. Trotter at the local office, 348 Water-st., or by waiting until one of the agents call upon them. If they do this there will be no danger of being imposed upon by bogus agents who go through the country and solicit orders at a high rate and then buy up the culls from the nurseries to fill their orders. The residents of this district have an advantage in the branch office of the Star Nursery located here, as they can make their sales personally and inspect the stock before they buy. Mr. Trotter is confident that all who buy will, as has been the experience of others in the past, be highly satisfied with the stock which will be found true to name and of superior quality.

A few more good salesmen are wanted and applications should be sent to the local office.

Masonic Notice.

The brethren of the local lodges are requested to meet at the Masonic Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

The Wheelmen Run.

The wheelmen had their first club run of the season last night. The riders of the treacherous steeds turned out twelve strong and a very pleasant run was enjoyed. The club promises to be strong numerically this year and an active season is anticipated.

Put up or Shut Up.

The challenge of the Moulders baseball nine of the Peterborough Hamilton foundry which was published last evening is not to be allowed to go by without notice, as the following will show:—

PETERBOROUGH, April 25th.

In answer to the challenge of the Peter Hamilton moulders, we are willing to meet them for the sum of $0.00 or $0,000 any day in the week. Now, put up or shut up.

C. GRANT,
Captain and Manager of the Lock Works Baseball Club.

Went up for Ten Days.

Enos Dunford is again in the toils and the cause of his troubles is the same old thing—his weakness for strong drink. He was locked up last night for drunkenness and at the Police Court this morning his wife charged him with being drunk and disorderly. The Magistrate fined him five dollars or ten days in gaol and as he had no money and the Magistrate would give him no time in which to get it, he went up on the hill. He made promises of all descriptions that he would drink no more, but past experience had caused his word to be doubted and they availed him nothing.

Among the Red Coats.

No. 2 Company met last night for distribution of clothing. Drill will commence on Tuesday and Thursday nights at once

No. 3 Company drilled in the Old Music Hall last night.

The Companies should all fill up now rapidly and get down to drill, so that they will compare favorably with the crack corps of Ontario on the 24th.

Battalion drill will commence next week.

The new helmets are expected every day.

It is probable that the Queen's Own will attend devine worship at St. Paul's church on the 25th of May, the Sunday they will spend here.

The non-commissioned officer's examinations will be held on Tuesday night next.

A Fashionable Party.

The Ottawa Free Press of Thursday says:—"Miss Nagle, daughter of Mr. Richard Nagle gave a ball at her father's handsome new residence recently purchased on Metcalfe-st. last evening. A very large and fashionable assemblage were present including a number of guests from Peterborough and Kingston. A select programme of the latest dances were gone through with while Mr. James Barrett's orchestra rendered excellent music during the evening. A splendid dinner was served at midnight whilst refreshments were provided in the ante room during the entire evening. One of the most enjoyable balls of the season came to a close at an early hour." Miss Nagle is a sister of Mrs. H. Phelan, and Mr. and Mrs. Phelan were at the party.

The Queen's Birthday Celebration.

The joint committee, composed of the Sports Committee of the P.A.A.A. directors and a committee of the officers of the 57th Battalion, which has the arrangements for Queen's Birthday sports in charge, met last evening for the first time. Capt. Brennan, M.D., was chosen chairman of the joint committee. Matters in connection with the celebration were discussed at considerable length and preliminaries were arranged. It is the intention of the committee to make the programme of sports the best ever offered here and the prizes will be liberal. No efforts will be spared to make the day a grand success. Committees to look after the different arrangements were appointed as follows:—

PRINTING.—Capt. Dennistoun and W. D. Parker.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.—Capt. Hill, Lieut. Hayes and Lieut Schofield.

A committee was also appointed to consider the advisability of holding the games at the driving park, as it was feared that the P.A.A.A. grounds would be too small. If satisfactory arrangements can be made it is likely the sports will be held at the driving park.

We are often deceived in the age of people having beautiful and luxuriant hair, not knowing that they use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep gray hairs away.

THEIR PLATFORM.

The Single Tax Platform Put in a Condensed Form.

According to the announcement in last evening's REVIEW a public meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next in Labor Hall for the purpose of forming a Single Tax Association here. The aim and object of the Association will be discussed and in order to throw some light upon the organization, its platform, which was crowded out of yesterday's issue, is given in condensed form as follows:—

Taxes on the products of labor tend to restrict production. Therefore no taxes should be imposed on improvements or commodities.

A tax on land values does not restrict production or lessen the reward of the users of land, but by making it unprofitable to hold land out of use it opens natural opportunities for labor and stimulates production. Therefore all taxes should be levied on land values.

Every man is entitled to the full results of his own labor or enterprise in producing goods, erecting buildings, improving lands, or otherwise contributing to the satisfaction of the wants of himself or others, but that value which attaches to land by reason of the increased competition for its use and which is due to the growth of population and public improvements justly belongs to the whole community. Therefore, the public should take by taxation the full rental value of land.

Whenever ground rent is thus taken for the support of government, industry and enterprise will be relieved from taxation, and no inducement will remain for holding land without using it. Land speculation will cease and natural opportunities will be open to labor. Workmen who cannot make fair bargains with employers will then be able to employ themselves; not that everybody will take to farming, but that with agricultural, mining, and building lands accessible to those willing to put them to use, there would be no lack of employment, and wages in all industries would rise to their natural level—the full earnings of labor. The labor problem is, how shall all men willing to work always find opportunity to work and thus produce wealth? The single tax, by opening natural opportunities, and at the same time relieving industry from burdens, solves the labor problem!

The only practicable method of arriving at the single tax is through the successive removal of all other taxes, and necessarily includes the abolition of import duties. Therefore the single tax involves absolute free trade.

Two Invitations Accepted.

Canton Peterborough, I.O.O.F., has accepted an invitation to participate in the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the new Methodist church at Norwood, on May 20th, which was referred to in last evening's REVIEW. At the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge, I.O.G.T., last evening an invitation asking that lodge to participate was also accepted.

The St. Andrew's Piper Dead.

Mr. Donald McDonald, the St. Andrew's Society piper, died at his residence on Aylmer-st. last evening. Mr. McDonald was 78 years of age and had resided in Peterborough for a number of years. He was a native of Scotland and on coming to Canada resided for a time at Perrytown, afterwards coming to Peterborough. The body will be taken to Garden Hill at 9 o'clock to-morrow and will be interred at Perrytown on Sunday.

A Broken Limb.

A very painful and unfortunate accident occurred at the corner of George and Hunter-sts. this morning, by which Mr. David Knox, of the firm of Knox Bros., soda water manufacturers, had his leg broken. Mr. Knox was driving up George-st. on the delivery wagon, and when turning the corner at Hunter-st. the horse shied and the sudden jerk threw Mr. Knox from the high seat to the hard road. The fall was a severe one and the unfortunate man's leg was found to be broken.

Enlarging Their Grounds.

The directors of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society are considering the enlargement of their Exhibition grounds. At a recent meeting the proposition of Reeve Pearce to form a joint stock company was acted upon and $800 subscribed on the spot. If the necessary amount of stock is disposed of the company will purchase 6 acres additional, making about 11 acres in all, and the best show grounds in this section of the province. It is thought the balance of the stock necessary to be sold will be readily taken up.

A Night of Anxiety.

The young nephew of Miss Helen Kelly, of Reid-st., wandered away from home last evening and left his friends in a great state of anxiety all night. The neighbors turned out and searched for the lad, but could find no trace of him. This morning, however, his disappearance was explained and he was returned to his anxious friends. It seemed the lad wandered from his home and was found after dark by Mrs. Kerns, out near the Chamberlain residence. Mrs. Kerns knew the boy, and as it was late and she was tired she took him in and kept him all night.

The Good Templars Lodge.

A lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars was organized last night in the Royal Templars hall on Hunter-st. Mr. Wm. Gribble instituted the lodge and the new lodge came into existence under exceeding promising auspices. There were about sixteen charter members present last night and it is known that several of the former members of the old Good Templars lodge intend identifying themselves with the Order again. The lodge has taken the same name as the old one, and will be known as Caswell Lodge. The names of the officers will not be published until next week, as the list is still uncomplete.

The Young Men's "At Home."

One of the most pleasant evenings that has been passed by the young people of the George-st. Church in a long time was enjoyed last evening in the lecture room of the church. The occasion was an "At Home" given by the teachers and officers of the Sunday school to the young men of the congregation. The young men were present in large numbers and the spirit of social informality which pervaded the meeting made each and every one present enjoy herself and himself immensely. The programme was not a formal one, nor were the rules of the stereotype entertainment adhered to. Rev. M. L. Pearson occupied the chair, and in a happy manner performed the duties falling to that office. The young people conversed and promenaded, and the programme was dropped in between. During the evening refreshments were served, while music was almost constantly supplied. The following was the programme which was rendered during the evening:—Miss Houghton, of Bradford, who is the guest of Mrs. Bean, gave a very pleasing piano solo, Miss Sanders gave a recitation in her usual excellent style, Miss Bradburn rendered a well-executed instrumental solo, as also did Miss E. Howden. There was also a vocal duet by the Misses Sperry and a cornet solo by Mr. J. Miller, which was rapturously encored. An address by Mr R. J. Colville closed the meeting, which was universally considered by all present as one of the most enjoyable ever held.

LABOR ON TWO CONTINENTS.

There Will Be a Quarter of a Million Idle Workmen in Chicago Next Week

CHICAGO, April 24.—Joseph Gruenhut, a prominent Socialistic labor agitator and now tenement house inspector and statistician of the health department, estimates that the number of laboring people in the city who will either strike for eight hours on May 1 or be made idle by strikes in collateral industries reaches the aggregate of 250,000. This covers the city as it was previous to last year's annexation of the Town of Lake, Hyde Park, Lake View, Cicero and Jefferson. The Town of Lake alone contains 25,000 persons who will be directly affected by the strike contemplated.

Capitalists as well as labor leaders believe that May 1 will find Chicago in the midst of one of the greatest strikes ever experienced. The demand for eight hours will be almost universal, while the employers in the different trades are all seemingly determined not to grant the demand.

Strike Riots.

VIENNA, April 24.—There were strike riots at Schuttenhofen to-day. The rioting was suppressed by gendarmes. The strike movement has spread to Bielberg and Kreuth.

Pennsylvania Miners on Strike.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., April 24.—Eight hundred miners in the Smithton district struck to-day to secure the Columbus scale and nearly 1000 coke ovens have closed.

The May-Day Demonstration.

BERLIN, April 24.—It has finally been decided that the Government will remain neutral in regard to labor demonstrations May 1. The police, however, have been ordered to take strictest precautions to protect the men who work on that day from interference and to suppress all illegal demonstrations.

PARIS, April 24.—The manufacturers at Aix have warned their employes that if any of them remain from work on May 1 for any reason other than sickness or other disability they will be discharged.

DIED.

MCDONALD—At 63 Aylmer-st., Peterborough, on Thursday, April 24th, Mr. DONALD MCDONALD, aged 78 years.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

"Hackmetack," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. For sale by Geo A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

—OUR—
SPRING EXHIBIT!

Any one will recognize the benefit of dealing with a house that shows a Large Range of Goods as well as the Newest Colorings and Styles.

In this connection we would mention the fact that we have several hundred different Styles in our Tweed Department embracing many new and novel effects. Our selections have been made from the markets' choicest offerings.

We would state to those who contemplate ordering their Spring Suit that we have been favored with a very large trade and would esteem it a favor if buyers would order early.

Our facilities are now taxed to their full capacity and early orders will prevent delays.

Never since our existence have we been so overwhelmed with work. What is the cause? The answer is easy. Our Styles are right, our Goods are right and our prices are right.

THE JUDGE!

His cigar had gone out, and it apparently took all his attention to relight it.

McCook looked at him suspiciously, but could make nothing out of him. He concluded that the reporter was merely impertinent.

"If Miss Barthwait is so unfortunate as to have any connection with that gentleman, she doubtless will end it," he said, indiscreetly. Pond had got what he wanted. He learned that McCook disliked Leiter, and that he loved Margaret. The man's voice, his expression, told him all that his words did not convey.

"From all I have seen, Mr. McCook, I gather that you have suspected Leiter of the crime from the first."

"I have told you distinctly, sir, that I would say nothing on the subject."

"It isn't possible, is it," said the imperturbable Pond, "that you and Leiter are rivals."

"Mr. Pond," cried the attorney; "I desire to end this interview. You are asking questions that you have no right to ask, sir."

"See here, Mr. McCook, you will try this case before the court. I must try it by myself. Straws show which way the wind blows. I am looking for straws."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that you must feel as I do that it is not in the nature of things for young Leiter to have committed that murder. What I want to find out is why you insist on talking as if you believed he did."

"I have not insisted on talking so. On the contrary, I have refused to talk." Pond rose and buttoned his coat with smiling nonchalance.

"I am much obliged to you, Mr. McCook, for the aid you have given me."

"Well, I should be pleased to know what infernal nonsense you intend to dish up for the public. If you bring Miss Barthwait's name in this, it will be worse for you."

"My dear fellow," said Pond slowly and with an infantile smile, "I may look like a cad, but I am not one. Good afternoon."

He got a curt nod in reply. The next thing he did was to call on Harry Leiter. He had always liked Leiter. They knew each other, being as they were fellow bohemians. They were apt to meet at midnight in search of clams after a day's work. Harry did a deal of desultory work for the Chronicle also, being an especially happy paragrapher. Indeed, he was as full of quibs and gibes as a jester of the merry old courts. He was welcomed in the rollicking life of the bohemian hodge-podge with the same cordiality that he met in fashionable society, and was himself happy everywhere. It was even hinted that he knew much of a social strata that lay far below this smooth and verdant crust. And he himself owned that he liked humanity wherever he found it. His careless and gay stride made him a remarkable figure on the street, where he walked among careworn men with the glad heartiness of a triumphant Adonis, born to eternal youth. Pond could hardly believe that the figure with wild eyes and ghastly face that he saw behind the bars was his old friend. Harry looked up at him dully, but did not take the hand that Pond pushed through the bars.

"For God's sake, old man!" said Pond in a hurried whisper, "don't look so. It will all come out right. Your friends will stand by you."

Harry laughed a miserable, mocking laugh that had a sound of madness in it.

"I wish to heaven," Pond went on, "that you could give me a hint of what to do. My time is my own. I will devote myself to your service. Come, I am not a greenhorn, as you know. Give me a pointer and I swear the thing will be straightened out."

Harry left his cot and came to the bars.

"My boy," he said, "what I say now is to my friend and not to the professional man."

"Great God, Leiter, you don't think I would give you away, I hope!"

"Well, then, I don't want it straightened out. I had sooner die than not!"

Pond stared blankly at him a moment. Then he tried an experiment.

"You look horribly like a guilty man, Leither," he said distinctly and coldly. "Are you one? Did you butcher your uncle?"

The dejection and the fatal dullness vanished in a minute. Harry drew himself up with the old familiar hauteur. His eyes flashed, his hands involuntarily clinched.

"So you take me for a damnable villian, do you?" he began, but Pond cut him short.

"That is what every one will call you if you do not help me to prove your innocence. Now, what are you going to do about it? There is something more the matter with you than grief for your uncle. What is it? I swear if you tell me I will never betray your secret. Where were you that night, Leiter?"

"I cannot tell," cried Harry, stretching out his hands with a gesture of despair.

"Do you mean that you don't know? Were you drugged—or drunk?"

"There's a woman in the secret, of course," ventured Pond. A swift wave of color swept over Harry's face.

"Well, I must say, Leiter, I thought you kept free from affairs of that sort."

"It was no affair. The woman is not in the secret, if that is what you mean. I did not speak to a woman that night, nor was I near one. It's no use, Pond. I thank you, but the net is drawn too tight."

"Well, if you want to die without standing to your guns or making a decent defence it can't be helped. But you mustn't blame me or any of the rest of your friends for thinking such a course cowardly."

"It's anything but that," cried Harry, firing up again. "If I could clear myself, do you not suppose I would?"

"Then you are making a sacrifice of yourself for some one else. You are a darned fool. If I were you and had a magnificent girl like Miss Barthwait working for me, you had better believe I would not give up."

"It is nothing you can understand," said Harry, coldly, turning away to pace the cell. Pond noticed the altered demeanor in a moment, and determined to probe a little deeper.

"I have had a talk with Miss Barthwait," he said, "she is determined to work for you. I never saw such a plucky and enthusiastic woman. You are a lucky dog in some respects, L iter." But he received no answer. He peered through the bars to catch a glimpse of Harry's face. It had grown much paler, and every muscle stood as if he were placing a terrible restraint upon himself.

"He is suffering on her account," said Pond to himself. "It is evident that he loves her, and yet he does not care to live, or even to be cleared of the suspicion of this crime. Then his suit must be absolutely hopeless. I'll try another brutal experiment."

"I hear Miss Barthwait is engaged to be married to McCook," he said aloud with a questioning air.

"It's a lie!" cried Harry. Then he stopped suddenly. He dropped his head, and his face purpled with pain and mortification. "How should I know? I dare say she is, after all. What of it?"

"Nothing, of course. Here, I'll leave this case of cigars for you. Are they dark enough to suit you? She's a sweet girl, that's all. Good-bye, old man. If I can do anything for you, let me know." He went back to his room and spent the rest of the day jotting down every remark he had heard spoken that day.

"By the light of future events," he reflected, "The least of these chance speeches may give me the clue." For the life of him he could not eat, and he stayed in his room till 10 o'clock.

It was then too late to get anything at his boarding house, and as he was beginning to feel the pangs of hunger, he determined to go down town to a restaurant. He walked moodily down North Clark street. Great flakes of snow were falling and the atmosphere was heavy. The tinkle of the car bells hardly reached his ear, so muffled was the sound of the dull air. The voices of men as they passed him had a far-away sound that was almost grotesque, and their figures seemed to loom up to gigantic height in the uncanny grayness.

THE FINDINGS OF THE ST. GEORGE JURY.

Plaintiffs Jubilant—Jurymen Think the Accident Resulted from Negligence—The Speed was Too Great—Condition of the Bridge.

TORONTO, April 25.—The jury in the St. George case, after having been under the surveillance of the court since Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, brought in their findings yesterday morning at 10½. They did not find answers to all the questions submitted to them by Mr. Justice Rose, but the counsel for the plaintiffs entertain very sanguine views on the general result of the jury's deliberations. The questions and answers of the jury are as follows:

Q.—What was the primary cause of the accident? A.—The breaking of the tire.

Q.—Was the west switch in order at the time the train passed over? A.—To all appearance it was in order.

(Questions three and four not answered by reason of the answer to the second covering them.)

Q.—What was the space between the ends of the floating and stock rails? A.—About three-quarters of an inch.

Q.—Was the use of the stub switch west of the St. George station reasonable or unreasonable? A.—Cannot agree.

Q.—Was there a flaw in the tire? A.—Sufficient evidence has not been given on this point to arrive at a conclusion.

Q.—Should the breaking of the tire have reasonably been anticipated? A.—Yes.

Q.—If so, what reason was there as shown by the evidence for such anticipation? A.—Its being too thin for this service.

Q.—Was the use of a tire of the thickness of this tire reasonable or unreasonable? A.—Unreasonable.

Q.—In what condition was the engine at the time it entered upon the bridge? A.—In a broken-up condition.

Q.—State also its conditions at the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh span, or of any one of such spans? A.—We cannot give an intelligent answer to this question.

Q.—In what manner did the engine engage with the bridge? A.—The trailer off track, south one broken, parallel rod on north side being detached, it engaged with the bridge as an instrument of destruction, more or less.

Q.—At what point did the cars or any of them become derailed? A.—At or near the east switch.

Q.—What was the cause of their derailment? A.—The damage to the east switch and track.

Q.—In what manner did the derailed cars engage with the bridge? A.—The cars being off track would cause bunching.

Q.—What caused the coach to leave the bridge? A.—The bunching of the needle beams.

Q.—How was the bridge destroyed? A.—By the combined force of engine and cars.

Q.—Were any of the needle beams broken by the engine or cars? A.—Yes.

Q.—If so, by which? A.—Unable to say.

Q.—How broken? A.—Unable to say.

Q.—If broken, with what result? A.—Assisted in the destruction of the bridge.

Q.—Were any of the beams which were in bridge at the time of the accident so affected by decay as to materially weaken them? A.—The beams were strong enough to carry an ordinary train, but were materially weakened by decay.

Q.—If so, state what beams referred to in the evidence were so decayed and what became of them? A.—The timber taken from the west span of the bridge to Greenfield's field and produced in Court by plaintiffs, which shows diagonal saw marks and corresponds in measurement to whole needle beams acknowledged to have been in the bridge.

Q.—Having regard to the general practice and the increase of speed over this bridge, was it reasonable to leave this bridge in the condition in which it was built until the expiry of its life?—A.—Cannot agree.

Q.—Should the entering upon the bridge of the engine and cars in the condition similar to that in which they were have reasonably been anticipated? A.—No.

Q.—If so, what reason was there, as shown in the evidence, for such anticipation? (No answer.)

Q.—Were the brakes set before the train reached the bridge? A.—No.

Q.—Was Blackwell, under the circumstances guilty of negligence in omitting to put on the brake earlier than he did? A.—Cannot agree.

Q.—Having regard to the condition of the engine and train when entering upon the bridge, would the result have been avoided by the adoption of any means which the company ought to have adopted with reference to the bridge? A.—We do not think that the bridge had on it all the safety devices it should have had, but how far they would have prevented the accident we are unable to say.

Q.—Was the company guilty of negligence?—A.—Yes.

Q.—If guilty, state specifically the ground of negligence? A.—Speed too great, tire too thin, brakes not applied at proper time.

Q.—If you find any ground of negligence, was the result caused by such negligence? A.—Yes.

Q.—If so, how? A.—By not applying the brakes at the proper time.

Q.—Was it reasonable to anticipate an accident similar to the one in question happening to the tire in the running of a train as it was run on the day named? A.—Unable to say.

Q.—Was the speed of the train as she approached St. George station unreasonable and improper under the circumstances? A.—Yes.

Q.—At what rate of speed was the train going? A.—About 50 miles an hour.

Q.—What, under the circumstances, would have been a reasonable and proper rate of speed? A.—Thirty-five or 40 miles an hour.

On these findings, William Lount, Q.C., and D. B. Read, Q.C., moved for judgment for the plaintiffs.

A counter motion was made by B. B. Osler, Q.C., and Mr. Aylesworth that judgment be entered for the defendants.

Mr. Justice Rose stated that he would hear argument on finding of the jury on May 15.

The jury were then discharged, after having served in the case since Feb. 18. They heard the evidence of 123 witnesses and 137 experts.

WHICH WILL IT BE?

Which is the fairest, a rose or a lily?
Which is the sweetest, a peach or a pear?
Merry, coquettish, and charming is Milly;
Dora is gentle and fair.
Sweet as a flower was her face when I kissed her;
(Love is the romance and glory of life.)
Milly, my playmate, I love "like a sister,"
But Dora I choose for my wife.

That is right, young man, marry the girl you love, by all means, if she will have you. Should her health become delicate and her beauty fade after marriage, remember that this is usually due to functional disturbances, weaknesses, irregularities, or painful disorders peculiar to her sex, in the cure of which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded. DRY GOODS NEWS
—AT—
TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

PARNELL'S MOTION AND THE LAND PURCHASE BILL.

Sala Awarded £5 Damages in His Libel Suit—The Deficit in the Italian Budget—Royalties Gathering at Darmstadt—The Dahomians Advancing.

LONDON, April 25.—In the committee stage of the Land Purchase Bill the Government will submit two clauses embodying Mr. Parnell's motion. Mr. Parnell regards Mr. Goschen's offer to do this as a trap, as his scheme can only be effective when worked by itself.

George Augustus Sala was to-day awarded £5 damages in his suit for libel against Mr. Furniss, the caricaturist. Furniss, in an after-dinner speech, stated that Charles Dickens had refused sketches made by Sala and that the latter had sent to the Academy School a drawing containing a figure with six toes on one foot. Despite these facts Sala was now art critic on The Daily Telegraph. Furniss also stated that Sala had painted pictures on the walls of an eating saloon and this probably gave him the taste for cookery he had evinced ever since.

The crew of the British bark Osseo, from Savannah for Newcastle, before reported abandoned, were rescued by the British ship Highmoor. Some of the Osseo's men were placed on another vessel off Listien. Five of the Osseo's crew refused to proceed on the Highmoor and started in a boat for St. Vincent, 60 miles distant. They reached the island in a starving condition, but the Portuguese authorities would give them no succor and refused to allow them to land. The British consul gave the men a distress order addressed to the captain of the British steamer Buffon, directing him to carry them to England. Statements in regard to the matter have been received by the British Government.

The deficit in the Italian budget is estimated at 35,600,000 lire. The ministers have agreed upon a retrenchment of $20,000,000 lire in the expenditures for the army and navy.

Emperor William arrived at Darmstadt to-day. The Grand Duke of Hesse and the civil and military authorities received the Emperor at the railway station and the whole party drove to the new palace, where the Emperor was greeted by Queen Victoria and the princesses. Afterwards the Emperor proceeded to the ducal castle and later returned to the palace and dined with the Queen and the ducal family. Empress Augusta Victoria left Berlin to-day for Darmstadt.

The Hamburger Nachrichten says Prince Bismarck will not appear in the Upper House of the Diet until politics assume their normal condition.

The Bundesrath has sanctioned the abrogation of the law of 1874 by which priests who failed to comply with the May laws rendered themselves liable to imprisonment and banishment.

Despatches from Kotonau say the Dahomians have advanced and occupied a position only one kilometre from Port Novo. The warship Mesange landed fifty men to reinforce the French troops.

A Coptic clerk, who was an employe of Emin Pasha while Emin was at Wadelai, has made a sworn deposition before Mason Bey to the effect that the revolt of Emin's forces was solely due to the discovery of Emin's plans to surrender his province to the Mahdi. Emin, according to the clerk's statement, sent three messengers to the Mahdi offering to surrender, but they were seized and stopped by Emin's officers. The revolt followed this discovery. Mason Bey considers the statement credible.

Sir Francis de Winton will start for Mombasa in May to assume direction of the affairs of the British East Africa Company. He will be accompanied by several energetic officers. The company is determined to push an expedition into the interior of Africa without delay.

An attempt was made to-day to wreck an express train on the Vienna & Presburg Railway. Large blocks of stone were placed on the track and the train had a very narrow escape from destruction. Two persons have been arrested on suspicion.

BISMARCK ON LABOR.

THE OLD CHANCELLOR TALKS TO AN INTERVIEWER.

Antagonism Between Employer and Employed a Necessity for Human Progress—The Duty of the State—Socialism Likely to Cause Great Trouble.

LONDON, April 26.—The Herald to-day publishes an interesting account of an interview with Prince Bismarck. The Prince said that if in power he would not interfere with workmen on May-day. Neither would he display anxiety which would only increase the aggressiveness of the agitators. Antagonism between employers and employed was a natural law and a necessity of human progress. Progress would cease should men ever become satisfied. Content was only possible either with slavery, as in Africa, or where munificent nature does not ask man to work.

He dwelt upon the need of combatting socialism, the victory of which would mean government by the least intelligent. He predicted that socialism would give a deal of trouble yet. He said that a man who would yield to the present manifestation was a coward and that it was sometimes true benevolence to shed the blood of a riotous minority in defence of a law-abiding majority. He continued:

"The first requisite in a Government is energy—not to be a time-server nor sacrifice the future to a temporary or present convenience. The firmness, indeed the fierceness, of the ruling power is a guarantee of peace at home and abroad. A Government which is yielding to the majority and retaining its authority by concessions, thus paving the way for further concessions, is in a sore strait."

He declared that May Day was not a dangerous enemy. The naming of the day for [illegible] should be dreaded. It would be merely a sham fight like that of the Salvation Army.

THE MAY-DAY STRIKE.

It Is Expected that 100,000 Carpenters in the States Will Go Out.

CHICAGO, May 25.—President Rowland of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America estimates that unless their demand for eight hours is conceded at least 100,000 carpenters will be found on strike in this country on May 1. The chaotic condition of the eight-hour movement at present may lead to a resuscitation of the eight-hour association which controlled the similar agitation in 1886. A meeting will be held soon, at which an effort will be made to unite all trades in one central organization for the purpose of pushing on the eight-hour movement.

Thomas Gilmore, a non-union carpenter, was this morning fatally assaulted by half a dozen strikers.

DUBLIN, April 25.—The porters and guards on the Great Southern & Western Railway have struck for higher wages. Traffic on the line has been brought to a complete standstill.

BERLIN, April 25.—The police of Hamburg and Altona will prohibit open-air demonstrations by the workmen on May 1.

VIENNA, April 25.—Orders have been given for closing all schools on May Day. In the manufacturing districts many schools will be closed to the pupils for four days and in the meantime will be used as barracks. The Court in order to inspire confidence, will attend the usual races in the Prater. The workmen have decided to meet elsewhere. Prime Minister Van Taafe has drawn the attention of the Governors of the provinces to the statutory regulations for the proclaiming of martial law.

VIENNA, April 25.—Since April 1 fifty-five strikes have been broken in Austria.

THE CHINESE MUST GO.

Uncle Sam Sends 19 Celestials Back to the Flowery Kingdom.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Attorney-General Miller informed the Treasury Department under date of April 19 that there are 19 Chinamen now in custody of the United States Marshal of Washington, who were arrested and tried for coming into the United States in violation of the Chinese Exclusion Act. He recommended, in accordance with a suggestion from the Secretary of the State, that notwithstanding the presumption that these Chinamen entered the United States across the British border they be returned to China at Government expense, for the reason that the men could not be returned to the British territory without payment of a head tax of $50 each, and even then might probably again evade the vigilance of the United States officers and return to this country. Secretary Windom has adopted the recommendation and has instructed the collector of customs at Port Townsend to see that the men are returned to China in the most economical way by sailing or other vessel bound direct for that country without touching at any American port en route.

IN FLOODLAND.

A Cloudburst in Texas—Numerous Dwellings Swept Away.

GAINSVILLE, TEX., April 25.—It has been raining almost constantly since last Monday night and at 8 o'clock last night a cloudburst struck the city, lasting four hours, deluging the town and country to the depth of several feet. The water ran in great rivers through the streets, in many places three feet deep. A small creek left its banks and swept away numerous small dwellings. The fire alarm was sounded at 11 o'clock and the department and hundreds of people turned out and helped in rescuing families residing on the low lands along the creek. The loss to property will run up into the thousands. The whole country is deluged and crops are ruined. A Galveston and Kansas City Santa Fe train is water-bound six miles south of Gainesville and the passengers have to be rescued in boats.

VICKSBURG, Miss., April 25.—The river is now higher than at any time in the past 25 years.

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—The water from the lake which submerged a portion of the outskirts of the seventh and eighth wards here is rapidly disappearing.

LOSSES CAUSED BY FLAMES.

A $60,000 Blaze at Collins Bay—The Tug McArthur Burnt.

KINGSTON, April 25.—Early this morning fire broke out in the Capstan House, located on the wharf of the Collins Bay Rafting Company at Collins Bay. A brisk wind was blowing and the fire quickly spread. The tug McArthur lying at the dock caught fire and the crew barely escaped with their lives. The tug will prove a total loss. The loss will reach nearly $60,000, partly covered by insurance.

CATASAQUA, PA., April 25.—Fire broke out again in the Unicorn silk mill here this morning and the flames communicated to the vault, damaging silks stored therein to the extent of $60,000. The vault was blown open with dynamite before it could be flooded.

MORRISON INTERVIEWED.

The Shelburne Triple Murderer Has the Art of Forgetting.

SHELBURNE, April 25.—The inquest arising out of the triple murder here was held last night. Mrs. Morrison, mother of the murdered children, testified that she was away from home visiting her sick sister. She left her husband in good health. He occasionally complained of his head, but she never noticed him mentally wrong. He was the owner of a good hundred-acre farm which was unencumbered. She believed undoubtedly he was insane when he committed the deed, as he loved his children tenderly.

The next one to give testimony was Sarah Ellen Morrison, the eldest of the family. She said: "I shall be 13 years of age next October. Mother left for Laurel Wednesday evening to visit auntie. After she left pa attended to the chores around the barn. Mr. John Lindsay, our neighbor, dropped in about 8 o'clock and chatted with pa for perhaps an hour. They talked pleasantly and laughed together. When I went to bed down stairs I took little William Edgar with me. Pa was up when I retired, but Thomas James had gone to bed in the other bedroom down stairs. The others slept upstairs. I noticed nothing unusual with pa all last evening. Pa was to have slept with Thomas James. I heard no noise throughout the night. When I awoke I found that Edgar was not by my side.

"I looked for him, and upon going into the back kitchen, I saw him lying upon a quilt on the floor covered by another quilt. Arabella and Thomas James were by his side. Their faces were so white I was frightened and called aloud for pa, and upon not being able to find him I sent Alexander over to Mr. McLean's to tell Mrs. McLean the news and to come over. The barrel in the woodshed was used to keep swill in for the pigs. I do not know whether it was half full or not. As Tommy had a cold pa said he had better sleep with him. That was the only change in our usual sleeping arrangement. Pa went out to the stable shortly before I went to bed. I heard him come in again and that was the last I heard until morning when I awoke of my own accord."

Catharine Gossard, wife of William Gossard, near neighbor to the Morrisons, testified that she was acquainted with the family and always noticed Mr. Morrison as being extremely kind and affectionate.

An adjournment was then made to April 30.

This morning the coroner, accompanied by your correspondent, visited the scene of the tragedy. In one of the rooms were placed side by side the three little coffins containing the remains of the victims. In a room adjoining we found Morrison in bed, apparently dozing quietly with eyes half-closed.

He is a man strongly built, about 55 years of age, not by any means a vicious-looking person, but rather the very reverse. He is now quite rational, is gaining in strength all the time and is able to take nourishment. His medical attendants express hopes of his recovery.

The coroner tried to elicit a statement from him but with very little success. Morrison can remember occurrences of the day before he committed the crime, but cannot remember anything he did during the night or what occurred yesterday till toward evening, when he found himself in bed at his home. When informed by the coroner of the awful crime which he had committed he stared straight before him in a dazed manner, but made no remarks. When asked if he would like to see his little ones before being buried, he nodded assent. They were brought into his room, one after the other, each of whom he recognised and was deeply affected.

The three little victims were carried to their last resting place this afternoon, the funeral being attended by a large concourse.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

Mr. Chapleau's Franchise Amendment Act Read a Third Time.

OTTAWA, April 25.—In the House this afternoon, on motion of Sir John Macdonald, it was resolved that Government business should have precedence on Mondays for the remainder of the session. The Government already had all other days.

Mr. Chapleau moved the third reading of his bill amending the Franchise Act. Amendments by Mr. Brien reducing the income qualification from $300 to $250, and by Mr. Mills of Bothwell that an elector should vote only in the constituency where he resides, were lost after division and the bill was read a third time.

In committee on the banking bill a long discussion took place on the clause respecting over-issue of notes. It was contended that an informant should not be allowed to participate in fines imposed for this offence, and also that penalties should not be imposed in consequence of unintentional over-issue. The clause was, however, passed without alteration save the addition of a proviso that the fines imposed should not form a charge on the assets, in the event of failure, until all other claims were paid.

After recess Mr. Ellis moved to strike out the proviso that the Government should have first claim after payment of notes in case of insolvency. He thought the crown should have no priority. Sir John Thompson, Mr. Foster and Sir John Macdonald showed that the Government were compelled to have Government funds deposited so promiscuously, in banks large and small all over the country, that it was a necessity to have security such as that provided. The amendment was lost. The committee then rose, the bill to be taken up again on Monday evening.

Mr. Charlton drew attention to the provision of the McKinley bill that the United States import duty on lumber was reduced to $1.50 per thousand feet, with the promise that lumber from countries imposing export duty on logs should pay the old duty. He suggested therefore that the Dominion Government should make a proposal to the Government of the United States that our export duty on logs would be removed if the United States Government would reduce their import duty on lumber to $1.

Sir John Macdonald said there was no knowing what changes might be made in the McKinley bill before it passed the House of Representatives but Mr. Charlton's suggestions would receive consideration.

The monthly trade returns contained in The Canada Gazette to be published to-morrow show the imports entered for consumption in March to have been $8,786,219 and the duty collected $2,046,537. The exports for the same month were $2,309,181. For the nine months of the fiscal year the figures are, for this year and last:

Exports	[illegible]	$60,541,886
Imports	[illegible]	72,946,130
Duty collected	17,181,087	[illegible]

HALIFAX, April 26.—Jules Hamel, the largest retail merchant of St. Pierre-Miquelon, is in jail here on a capias issued at the instance of some of his Halifax creditors. Hamel's liabilities are said to be about $100,000. It was alleged that he was about to skip for the States.

POLLING ON JUNE 5.

ONTARIO'S SIXTH PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED.

Nominations May 29—Rev. Dr. Stone Found Guilty of Imprudent Conduct—Hamilton's Inducements to Manufacturers—Other News of the Dominion.

TORONTO, April 26.—The Globe this morning contains this long-looked-for announcement:

The Sixth Parliament of Ontario has been dissolved.

The official nominations for candidates for seats in the new House will be made on Thursday, May 29, and the polling throughout the Province will take place on Thursday, June 5.

If Mr. Balfour Retires.

ESSEX CENTRE, April 26.—At a meeting of the Liberals of the town of Essex Centre held here to-night it was unanimously decided that if W. D. Balfour retired from the field A. H. Clarke, barrister, would be supported as the nominee at the convention to be held in Kingsville.

Pacaud's Daily Reappears.

WINDSOR, April 26.—Gaspard Pacaud's daily, printed in the English language, has reappeared and will probably continue until the Ontario general elections have taken place. Last evening's issue contained a letter from Mons. Evanturel, M.L.A., advising Mr. Pacaud to come out again as a candidate for the Provincial Legislature, notwithstanding the adverse action of the recently held Reform convention in Windsor. Mr. Pacaud reiterates his declaration that he will positively be a candidate in the coming provincial elections.

North Renfrew Conservatives.

PEMBROKE, April 26.—At a gathering of the Liberal-Conservatives of North Renfrew held here yesterday afternoon, A. Dunlop was unanimously chosen as the party standard-bearer for the riding in the forthcoming provincial election.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Rev. Dr. Stone Was "Imprudent"—Death of Principal MacGregor.

TORONTO, April 26.—Socialist John Burns of London, will take part in the labor demonstration here on May 3. Fully 10,000 men will be in line.

These provincial appointments are gazetted: Malcolm S. Mercer, Toronto, notary public; Alfred Finlow, Grand Valley, bailiff fifth Division Court of Dufferin.

Revs. William Galbraith, Manley Benson, Dr. D. G. Sutherland, Dr. Briggs and Dr. Potts, the ecclesiastical court which examined the charges against Rev. Dr. Stone, brought in this verdict yesterday: "In the case of Rev. James Smith against Rev. Dr. Stone, charging him with 'imprudent conduct intending immorality,' the committee, after careful investigation of the case, find that the charge of conduct intending immorality, is not sustained. But in the judgment of this committee Dr. Stone's conduct in this matter was not characterised by the prudence and wisdom that should mark the deportment of a Christian minister." Dr. Stone himself admitted on examination that he had kissed Mrs. Jennings' hand. He meant nothing by it but in his free, open-hearted, sympathetic way was trying to smooth over the domestic broils between Mrs. Jennings and her husband. He felt deeply interested in both of them and wished to restore peace and harmony in the family. On the other hand, Mrs. Jennings in her testimony gave as her opinion that the doctor meant a good deal more in kissing her hand.

Rev. Principal McGregor of McMaster College died yesterday in St. Luke's Hospital New York city.

TEN YEARS' EXEMPTION.

Hamilton Holding Out Inducements to Manufacturers.

HAMILTON, April 25.—The City Council last night unanimously adopted this resolution: "That in view of negotiations being entered into with the Bowmanville Organ & Piano Company, the American Whip Company and other manufacturers to locate their works in this city, we offer them freedom from taxation for the term of ten years on all buildings they may erect, as well as personal property, machinery, plant, tools and capital which may be invested in the prosecution of their manufactures during the time their works are maintained in active operation."

George Robinson, aged 60, was killed on Thursday in George A. Chambers' apple orchard near Winona. He was employed by Mr. Chambers to prune the trees and while engaged in this work he lost his hold and fell to the ground. His neck was dislocated and he died a few minutes after the fall. Robinson formerly lived in Hamilton. He leaves a wife but no children.

The Holiness Convention closed to-day. These officers were elected: Rev. N. Burns, B.A., Toronto, president; Rev. R. W. Woodsworth, Niagara Falls, first vice-president; Rev. George A. Mitchell, B.A., Hamilton, second vice-president; Rev. Thomas Colling, B.A., Platteville, secretary; Isaac Anderson, Toronto, treasurer.

WHERE IS KIMBER?

The Mysterious Disappearance of a Young Englishman at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 25.—It will be remembered that a few days ago a young Englishman disappeared mysteriously from the Grand Central Hotel here. Further revelations only tend to deepen the mystery. Thus far this much is known; that Thomas Kimber, a young Englishman from Topsham, Devonshire, Eng., came to this city on Saturday, April 5, with two companions. They put up at the Grand Central House in St. James-street, at the corner of Cathedral-street. Kimber's companions left him on Sunday evening, stating that they were going to Vancouver, B.C., and that he would follow them in a few days. Kimber remained in the city, spreeing it very hard, till the following Friday, when he suddenly disappeared, and the only trace he left behind was a pool of blood on the carpet of his room, blood on the bed cover and the walls of the room, and a razor found in the corner of the room covered with blood and covered with a pile of handkerchiefs saturated with blood. The detectives have absolutely no trace of the man.

BRANTFORD BYLAWS.

The Ratepayers Vote $163,333 for Various Municipal Improvements.

BRANTFORD, April 25.—The bylaws to raise $163,333 for improvements were voted on to-day and all were carried as follows:

For construction of electric fire alarm system for Collegiate Institute purposes and for Police Court buildings, $13,333, 89 majority.

To raise $50,000 for construction of sewerage system and $50,000 for extension of waterworks, 6 majority.

To raise $40,000 for construction of new Central School building, [illegible] majority.

REASONS

Because no poisonous or deleterious ingredients enter into the composition of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains only the purest and most effective remedial properties.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prepared with extreme care, skill, and cleanliness.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prescribed by leading physicians.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is for sale everywhere, and recommended by all first-class druggists.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla never fails to effect a cure, when persistently used, according to directions.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract, and therefore the most economical Blood Medicine in the market.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla has had a successful career of nearly half a century, and was never so popular as at present.

—Thousands of testimonials are on file from those benefited by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

The Mowat Government has made up its mind to accept the inevitable and face the people. The date of the elections throughout the Province is June 5th, the nominations to take place on May 29th.

The record of the Mowat Government—its extravagance, its centralization, its suppression of the will of the people by gerrymanders and a vicious ballot system, its perversion of the liquor laws into a party machine for coercing voters, its double-dealing, and above all its violation of the principles of good government in its dealing with the school laws, have been such that it merits the condemnation of the people that it will undoubtedly receive on June 5th.

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

A New Citizen—Parting Tokens of Regret at Listowel.

Correspondence of the Review.

The departure from Listowel of Dr. Burgess, who comes to Lakefield to reside, was regretted by the citizens of that town. The Listowel paper says:—

The departure from town of a citizen who has been held in such general respect as Dr. Burgess has been, was, we are pleased to note, made the occasion for tendering to that gentleman some tokens of brotherly esteem and friendship by the local Loyal Orange lodge and by the citizens of the town. On Saturday evening the members of L.O.L. No. 578 met in their lodge room and presented Bro. J. A. Burgess, M.D., with a handsome family Bible, accompanied by an address. Bro. Chas. Anderson occupied the chair, and Bro. Thos. E. Hay made the presentation and read the address, of which the following is a copy:—

To Bro. J. B. Burgess, M.D., Past County Master of North Perth:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—We, the members of L.O.L. No. 578, learn with sincere regret of your intended removal from amongst us. Your removal will be a great loss to our Order, you having at all times taken an active interest in its prosperity and welfare. As County Master we had the advantage of your extensive experience and advice, which we will greatly miss. As a slight token of esteem and appreciation of your valuable services on behalf of our beloved Order, we beg to present you with this Bible, with the knowledge that the principles of our Association, which are based on that sacred Book, will always find in you a staunch supporter and earnest advocate. Realising that our loss will be a great gain to those amongst whom you are about to locate, and wishing you and your family every blessing and increased prosperity in your new home, on behalf of your many well-wishers and brethren, we remain, yours fraternally,

THOS. E. HAY,
JAMES EVANS,
WM. MCKEEVER,
WM. SPEARS, } Committee

Dr. Burgess in a few well chosen remarks thanked the brethren for their beautiful gift, which would always remind him of the pleasant and profitable meetings with the brethren in Listowel. Bros. McKeever, Evans, Torrance and others feeling expressed their regret at the Dr's. removal, wishing him God speed. On Monday Dr. Burgess was the recipient of further tokens of esteem from a considerable number of the leading citizens of the town, who presented him with a gold headed ebony cane and a handsomely plated carving set. On this occasion Mr. D. D. Campbell was the principal spokesman, and in a concise address paid a well deserved tribute to the many excellent qualities which have characterized the doctor during his residence here, and which have won for him the respect and esteem of all. In parting with him Listowel was losing one of its ablest citizens. The presentation was performed by Drs. Philip and Dingman, who spoke in warmest terms of praise of Dr. Burgess, both as a citizen and in respect to his professional attainments. Reeve Hay, Mr. B. Rothwell, J. Burton, A. Little, Wm. Bradley and a number of other gentlemen who were present also said a good word for the doctor, and expressed it in kindliest terms, all regretting his removal from town, and wishing him all the success that could be desired in his new home. Dr. Burgess and daughter left here on Tuesday morning for Lakefield, a thriving village near Peterborough, where he has purchased an old established drug and stationery business. By the change Listowel has lost and Lakefield gained an excellent citizen.

Sanitary Matters.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Allow me to give a few extracts from the Health By-law, relating to sanitary work necessary at this season of the year.

Sections 13 states that all wells shall be cleaned out before the first day of July in each year.

As to disposal of sewage and refuse, Rule 3 says that all reservoirs, cesspools or privy-vaults shall be cleaned out at least once a year, on or before the 15th May, and from the 15th May to 1st November, they shall be thoroughly disinfected by adding once a month not less than two pounds of sulphate of copper (bluestone) dissolved in two pailfuls of water, or other suitable disinfectant.

Rule 5.—All putrid and decaying animal or vegetable matter must be removed from all cellars, buildings and yards on or before 15th May in each year.

Rule 6.—All garbage shall be burned or placed in a proper covered receptacle for swill and house offal, the contents of which shall, between the 15th May and 1st Nov., be regularly removed as often as twice a week.

There probably has never been greater necessity for strict attention to sanitary work than at the present time. Open winters allow putrefaction and decay to go on unchecked and the result is seen in the spring. Besides the physical depression consequent upon the recent epidemic predisposes to disease. A person under its influence would have much less resisting power against fever or malaria or any other disease that might be ready to develop.

Yours, etc.,
J. CLARKE, M. D.

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Kemp's Victory over Matterson—Yesterday's Ball Games.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 26.—Peter Kemp and Neil Matterson rowed to-day for the aquatic championship of the world and £200 a side. The race was over the usual Paramatta course of 3 miles 330 yards. Kemp won and now claims the championship. The winner was immediately challenged by J. Stansbury, who has an engagement to row O'Connor June 28. As Beach has declined to enter into any contests the championship now lies among O'Connor, Stansbury and Kemp. Kemp held the championship in '88, defeating on Feb. 11 T. Clifford, May 5 E. Hanlan, and Hanlan again Sept. 28 of the same year.

The late H. E. Searle easily defeated Kemp Oct. 27, '88, over the Paramatta course. Kemp's last important race was when he defeated his opponent of to-day in Australia Oct. 29, '88.

The race was witnessed by thousands of people. The story is soon told. Kemp having won the toss chose the inside of the course. The start was by mutual consent and a splendid one was made. Both struck out at 40 per minute. Kemp at once placed his boat in front and before 1000 yards were traversed had a lead of two clear lengths and continued to gain throughout. Nearing the finish Matterson saw his chance was hopeless and quit rowing, Kemp coming in 40 lengths ahead. The winner kept up his rapid stroke throughout and made the distance in the fast time of 21 min. 13 sec. Beach made the distance in 24m. 20 sec.

A Fatal Prize Fight.

BOSTON, April 26.—Last Tuesday evening, among the set-tos at the Bay State Athletic Club's rooms was one of 10 rounds between James Fallon and John Murray, both of Roxbury. In the tenth round Murray gave Fallon, who seemed a sure winner, a terrific blow on the left side of the head just above the ear. Fallon fell like a log and has been unconscious ever since despite every effort to restore him. Fallon's doctor says a blood vessel in the left side of the brain has been ruptured, causing paralysis of the entire right side of the body, and that Fallon cannot survive many hours. Murray and William North of Rockingham-place were arrested to-day and will be held to await the result of Fallon's injuries.

A Big Bucket-Shop Failure.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The Doran-Wright Company, one of the largest bucket-shops in existence, with branches all over the country, suspended payment to-day. Neither of the partners is in the city. At the office of Doran & Wright later in the day the reports of suspension were denied and it was stated one of the firm was on his way to New York and would take charge of affairs to-morrow. On the street it was rumored the firm had been badly hurt in the recent advance in the stock market, but hoped to pull through. There were also rumors that the bucket-shop known as "The Big Four" was in trouble, but they were denied at the headquarters of the concern.

Stole Walton's Wad.

MONTREAL, April 25.—At Bonaventure Station at 9 o'clock this morning, Frank Brady, Aggie Ashton and Jack Laird were arrested. They had just returned from Hot Springs, Ark. The charge is that of stealing $6000, part of the $35,000 embezzled by Fred A. Walton at Dallas, Tex. The warrant commanded the arrest of Frank Brady, "an idler and disorderly person"; Aggie Ashton, "his mistress, a brothel house keeper"; Jack Laird, "a notorious gambler," and Nellie Leslie, "a woman of loose morals."

The Behring Sea Fisheries.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—One of the questions considered at to-day's cabinet meeting was the policy to be pursued by this administration for the protection of American interests in Behring Sea during the coming fishery season. The season for seal hunting opens about June 1, and the revenue fleet at San Francisco is now awaiting instructions prior to its departure for the north. It is expected the matter will be settled in a few days.

Gladly Answered.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—In answer to a direct question put to me through your columns on Wednesday. I beg to say that I regard the one visible Church of Christ on earth, as composed of all those who have been admitted into it by the one visible Ordinance ordained for this purpose by Christ Himself, viz., Baptism by water, in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. While gladly endeavouring to make this important point clear to all who may care to consider it, I must decline for the present to be drawn into the discussion of religious questions in the public press.

I am, yours, etc.,
J. C. DAVIDSON.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Oddfellow's Anniversary.

Visiting Oddfellows in town are cordially invited to meet their local brethren for church service to-morrow afternoon. The brethren will meet at Otonabee Lodge room at 2 o'clock and proceed thence in a body to the Charlotte-st. church, Rev. S. J. Shorey, pastor.

Editor—What price have you put on that poem?

Poet—A dollar and eighty cents a thousand feet; same as Gas Company charges. This is a higher rate than Hawley Bro's. teas at 50 cents per pound, but the public have got to get Hawley's teas and spring poetry. Hawley has the tea, the poetry can be supplied. dtf

Sale of Useful Articles.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's church intend holding their sale on Tuesday afternoon, April 29th, in the school room. A substantial tea will be served from 5 to 7.30 o'clock. Admission in the afternoon is free, 25 cts. for tea and the evening together, or 10 cents for the evening only. 3d97

At the Opera House.

There was not a large audience at the Opera House last night to witness the presentation of "Kit, the Arkansas Traveller" by Henry Chanfrau's Dramatic Company. In the title role Mr. Chanfrau proved himself an actor of ability and a worthy successor to his father. The support throughout was good, the "Judge" and "Major" being well-portrayed characters, provoking great amusement. The play is one perhaps not entirely to the liking of theatre-goers but as a picture from western life at the time of the story it was well placed on the boards.

A History of Orangeism.

The Orange Sentinel, of Toronto, is now publishing a most interesting and instructive history of Orangeism since the formation of the Society at the Battle of the Diamond, fought in the County of Armagh, Ireland, in the year 1795, up to the present time. The history, the publication of which was begun in the columns of the Sentinel on 16th April, appears in chapters, one each week, and its publication will occupy a period of upwards of two years. It is written by Richard Lilburn, Esq., Editor of the Belfast News Letter, who is acknowledged to be the best living authority upon the history of Orangeism. The Sentinel has purchased sole proprietory rights, and every one interested in the Orange Order and its history should subscribe at once. Back numbers can be obtained. The subscription rate is $1.00 per year.

A Nasal Injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

A Sweet Temptation.

Frank Legros was arrested by Constable McGinty last evening on a warrant charging him with stealing a quantity of maple sugar from Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Dummer. The alleged theft was committed three weeks ago. A son of Mr. Kidd's was on the market with a can of maple syrup, all of which he had not sold when he drove to the Temperance House, Hunter-st., for dinner. The democrat in which was the syrup can, stood in the hotel yard, and it seems that a man and a boy came over the back fence with a tin pail and stole a quantity of the sweet product of the maple from Mr. Kidd's can. Parties who saw the theft alleged it was Legros who committed the petty crime and he was arrested. At the Police Court this morning the young man pleaded not guilty and protested his innocence. The case was enlarged for one week, and the prisoner was allowed out on his own recognizance for $200.

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

Another Farmers Institute Picnic.

The Farmers' Institute picnic which was held at Jubilee Point in June last was such an unqualified success that it has been decided to hold another grand union Institute picnic this year. The gathering will be similar to that of last year and will be held at Jubilee Point. Messrs. Dawson Kennedy and Wm. Collins have been appointed to make arrangements for the event.

An Important Visit.

If you wish your sight carefully and correctly fitted with the best spectacles in the world, call at John McKee' drug store on Tuesday and Wednesday April 29th, 30th, when Mr. Laurance, the celebrated Oculist-Optician, will be there, and after an examination of the eyes fit you on scientific principles with the B. Laurance, Axis Cut Pebble and other spectacles. Ensuring to you the ability to use your eyes for the most minute employment with great ease and comfort and the certain preservation of your sight. d96-w17

Went Over the Embankment.

On Tuesday forenoon, says the Campbellford Herald, while the steam shovel was being moved down the grade on the railway track on the east side of the river, the wheels began to slide on the rails, and notwithstanding the efforts put forth by the workmen to check its movement, it went over the embankment falling a distance of about seven feet, and sank about three feet in the ground. The damage was at first thought to be serious, but on being dug out it was found that $25 00 would cover the cost of repairs, the only loss beyond that being the delay in the proceedings and the labor of the workmen. The steam shovel is a new one, valued at $9,000.

The St. Luke's Rectorship.

Rumors have been in circulation for some time past that the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw had withdrawn his resignation of this parish and intended to return, but upon enquiry we find that this is not the case. The report arose out of the fact that Mr. Bradshaw after sending his resignation, telegraphed to withhold action upon it till he wrote again. It appears that the vestry in considering his letter of resignation proposed to treat it as having immediate effect, while Mr. Bradshaw intended that his resignation should date from 1st of July next. His letter explains this, and we understand the matter is now arranged as he wishes it. Mr. Bradshaw returns about the end of June to wind up his affairs.

Service of Song.

The following is the programme for the service of song which which will be held at the George-st. Church on Sunday evening next, April 27th. Service will commence at the usual time, 7. p. m:—

13. Hymn 746—tune 291.

Benediction.

Is Your Eye Sight Defective?

A good deal of misapprehension exists as to the use of glasses as a help to defective vision. Many defer getting glasses, fearing that if once made use of they will be compelled to use them all the time. It is not a case of compulsion at all. The eye needs care and attention just as well as any other part of the body. If your eyes bother you, feel painful, your vision is not clear, make it a point to consult Dr. Jebb, the specialist, who can help you in the matter. Dr. Jebb has been in Peterborough for the last six weeks and has fitted glasses for a large number of customers and many who have been given up by prominent oculists. He is the only optician in Canada who grinds and makes the glass to fit the eye and is the inventor and sole manufacturer of the "Jebb Combination Lenses," and uses the new and only practical instruments ever introduced to the public for determining accurately every defection or disease o the eye. Remember he will be at W. A Sanderson's jewellery store till Saturday, 3rd of May, only. Don't fail to have your eyes examined, as he examines your eyes and tells you just exactly what your eyes need and require free of charge. The only one in Canada giving such an examination of the eyes free. 1d98

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

To Wor. Bro. Wm. Thompson on his Removing to Whitby.

An interesting event occurred at the Masonic hall on Friday evening, when the brethren of Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges, A. F. & A. M., met to say farewell to Wor. Bro. William Thompson, who, with his family, leaves for Whitby the beginning of next week. Rt. Wor. Bro. Shortly took the chair, having on his right the guest of the evening, Wor. Bro. W. Thompson, and Very Wor. Bro. Chas. Cameron and Wor. Bro. Spence on his left. Some light refreshments were partaken of, after which in a few well chosen words, the chairman referred to the occasion which called them together and to Wor. Bro. Thompson's Masonic career. He then called on Wor Bro. Spence to read the address as follows:—

DEAR SIR AND WOR. BRO.,—On the eve of your departure from Peterborough your Masonic Brethren desire to give expression to our warm personal respect for you, and at the same time to voice our regret at having to part with you after such pleasant intercourse.

Your career amongst us for the past eight years both as a brother Mason and a citizen has gained for you many warm friends who have had ample opportunity of attesting your excellent qualities of character.

We congratulate you upon your removal to a new field of more active work, where your duties will open the way to improving your position in life, and trust that happiness and success may ever attend you. Be pleased to convey to Mrs. Thompson our kindest regards coupled with our earnest prayer that the rays of heaven may ever shed their benign influence around you and your family.

As a souvenir from your Peterborough brethren and as a slight token of their personal regard for you we would ask you to accept this Past Master's apron trusting that you may long be spared to wear it. Signed on behalf of the lodge,

WM. HAMILTON, jr., Secretary.
W. J. MARTIN, W.M.

Peterborough, April 25th, 1890.

A Past Master's apron was then handed to Wor. Bro. Thompson which was indeed a handsome one, the jewels being of solid silver.

Wor. Bro. Thompson thanked the brethren for the flattering address and the handsome apron. Though moving to a distant town he hoped often to visit the Peterborough brethren. He was entirely taken by surprise, and hoped they would excuse him from making a speech.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Shortly proposed the toast, "The Queen and the Craft," which was drank in a right royal manner, followed by the company singing "God Save the Queen."

Wor. Bro. Adam Dawson then proposed "The Guest of the Evening," followed by singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Wor. Bro. Thompson thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which they had drank his health.

Rt. Wor. Bro. E. H. D. Hall made a few remarks eulogistic of Wor. Bro. Thompson's services to both Peterborough and Corinthian Lodges.

Wor. Bro. R. E. Wood proposed the toast, "Our Visiting Brethren," coupling with it the name of Bro. D. A. Morton, of Vancouver, B. C.

Bro. Morton made a suitable reply and thanked the brethren for the hearty manner in which he had been received.

Then followed other toasts, speeches and songs, and the pleasant evening was brought to a close by the Junior Warden's toast, "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Foreign Missions.

Sunday, May 4, will be Foreign Mission day at the Baptist church. The Rev. John McLaurin, late of Cocanada, India, will preach.

On the Journey Out.

Charles Attewell, the English professional, who coached the local club last year and who was sent an offer of re-engagement for this season, has sailed for this country according to a letter received from him. He left the Old Country on the 17th inst. on the Scandanivian and will therefore be here in a day or two.

The St. Paul's Young Men.

The first regular meeting of the Young Men's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church was held last evening and was well attended. Mr. T. A. Hay, President, was in the chair. After some general business had been disposed of, an interesting debate took place, the subject of the wordy war being "Resolved that Secret Societies are Desirable." Mr. W. H. Hill ably upheld the affirmative, while Mr. J. W. Bennet was the opponent of the secret organizations. The debate was warmly contested, several gentlemen participating. The chairman, who was the judge, gave his decision in favor of the negative. The Society will meet again on the last Friday of next month.

A Farewell Social.

On Tuesday evening the members of George-st. Methodist church choir met by invitation at the residence of Mr. H. S. Griffin, Park-st. to enjoy an evening together in a social way previous to the departure of Mr. C. E. B. Price, choir master and organist, who goes early in May to Montreal. Some time was spent in conversation and music after which refreshments were served. An opportunity was taken advantage of during the evening to present to Mr. Price the address following:—

To Mr. C. E. B. Price, A. C. O., Peterborough, Organist and Choir Master George-st. Church:

DEAR SIR,—Though only known to us for a few brief weeks, we have learned of your departure with regret. During the time you have so worthily filled the position of organist and choir master of George-st. Church we have admired the praiseworthy manner in which you have discharged the responsible and onerous duties appertaining to your position.

Your high ability, zeal and affibility have won the esteem and confidence of the choir and also of those brought into contact with you, and it is with reluctance that we part with so admirable a master, so good a teacher and so perfect a gentlemen.

Such commendation as the congregation has been pleased to make on the improvement in the music since during your incumbency, is, we know, to be attributed to your painstaking efforts in teaching and patient forbearance with our faults. The position of musical director is not invariably a happy one. Your brief mastership of the choir has proved most agreeable, and had you remained we are sure we should attain a higher degree of proficiency, etc.

We hope that your future life in Canada will be a pleasant and prosperous one, and that Mrs. Price may share to the fullest extent those blessings, and we trust that you may long continue in the profession which you so admirably adorn.

Signed, etc.,

RICH. CHOWEN,
J. MILLER,
F. H. DOBBIN.

Mr. Price briefly thanked the choir for the evidence of esteem and consideration which the address implied and hoped that under his successor the musical service of the church would be kept up to a high standard.

After an hour had been spent in a pleasant way the company dispersed.

We are often deceived in the age of people having beautiful and luxuriant hair, not knowing that they use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep gray hairs away.

THE TOWN'S ASSESSMENT.

The Assessors Return the Rolls—The Interesting Figures.

The assessors have completed their labors for this year and the rolls were returned to Town Clerk Macdonald this afternoon. The returns show that during the year past Peterborough has being moving onward. The total assessment this year is $[illegible],790 in advance of last year's and the population has also increased.

ONE AND TWO WARDS.

Messrs. Aldridge and Williams who were the assessors for Nos. One. and Two Wards finished their work this morning and as the figures for the other two wards were published last evening, the totals from the two southern wards are given as follows:—

Machinery for British Columbia.

Mr. D. A. Morton, of Vancouver, British Columbia, is in town on business connected with a contract placed with the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co., for a supply of saw mill machinery for Vancouver. The machinery will cost about $20,000. This is another evidence of the good work turned out by Peterborough manufactories.

A Good Deed Well Done.

The Lindsay Post says:—"The Peterborough curlers have forwarded the barrel of flour to the Home at Lindsay with the explanation that the delay was owing to a slight misunderstanding. All is contentment and happiness (in the Home) on the Scugog; and the Peter-burghers have the gratification resulting from a good deed well done. 'Nother match for the same next year?"

For Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

Personal.

Mr. J. Miller, of Toronto, is in town today.

Mr. S. Henthorne, formerly of Peterborough, and Mr. Bowie, proprietor of the Exchange hotel, Brantford, are in town today.

The Kingston Whig says that Rev. N. R. Willoughby, of Guelph, retires this year from the active ministry of the Methodist church.

Rev. Mr. Leitch has been assisting his brother, Rev. R. H. Leitch, of Hilton, in revival work during the past two weeks. One hundred and twenty-five professed a change of heart. Some thirty-five of these were heads of families. Old grey headed men who had long resisted the spirit's influence were brought into the fold.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

A Dress Suit Gathering

will be the Olympic Club Minstrel entertainment to be given on Tuesday evening, May 6th. Promises to be a jolly good show. And why not? It's not often you hear 20 of the best male voices in town rolling out the measures in harmony. The songs and ballads are all new and good. The songs, dances and specialties are attractive. Some of the best banjo playing ever done will be did. Besides, the stage setting will be a swell affair. Dress coats, white vests, boquets and wigs. Keep the date in mind. Tuesday, May 6. 1d98

A Quilt Social.

The "Quilt social" under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. which was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. Geo. Paton, 300 Reid-st., was a very pleasing event. There was a fair attendance and the seat of honor was occupied by Mr. J. C. Turnbull with becoming grace. A short programme was rendered, and during an intermission refeshments were served. Mr. O. C. Rowse gave an excellent recitation and Mrs. Paton read an interesting paper dealing with the W. C. T. U., its aims and working. Miss Lumsden also gave an interesting digest of the workings of the "Y." Miss Brundrette rendered a vocal solo and Miss Lumsden and Mrs. McGuire sang a duet. Mr. Snider presided at the organ. The "W.C.T. U." quilt was purchased by Mr. J. C. Turnbull.

—OUR—

SPRING EXHIBIT!

Any one will recognize the benefit of dealing with a house that shows a Large Range of Goods as well as the Newest Colorings and Styles.

In this connection we would mention the fact that we have several hundred different Styles in our Tweed Department embracing many new and novel effects. Our selections have been made from the markets' choicest offerings.

We would state to those who contemplate ordering their Spring Suit that we have been favored with a very large trade and would esteem it a favor if buyers would order early.

Our facilities are now taxed to their full capacity and early orders will prevent delays

Never since our existence have we been so overwhelmed with work. What is the cause? The answer is easy. Our Styles are right, our Goods are right and our prices are right.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, APRIL 26, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

Tennyson's hero in "The Princess" was subject to what the poet vaguely designated "weird seizures." Pond was the victim of a "weird seizure" this evening. Everything about him seemed as unsubstantial as the semblance of a dream. Those airy clouds of snow, the silent figures moving by him, the dull glow of the lights, all appeared unreal. He felt as if he were dreaming, or were under a spell. The sympathy that had tormented him all day for that imprisoned youth, his aching love for Margaret, vanished. A dull peacefulness took possession of him. Stupidly observant, he saw two figures turn down the stairs by the bridge that crosses the river. These stairs lead to the docks. At night the "wharf rats" take refuge in the doorways here and the quiet citizen is adverse to venturing near. There were few persons on the street, and so dense was the storm that a man could only be seen at the distance of a few feet. No one but Pond saw these figures disappear, therefore. It struck him as peculiar that two men should care to go down these steep and narrow stairs on such a night. There was apparently no connection between the two men—or at least if there was, it was one that the first man was not conscious of. He was a stooping, miserable creature, half clothed, and with the slouching walk of a professional tramp. The man who followed him, intentionally or otherwise, walked with a firm and dauntless air. Indeed, any one to see him, would have said that he was bent on an errand of pleasure. He was closely muffled against the storm, and as he walked along with his head up and his arms actively swinging, he seemed like one unconscious of it.

"Seems as if I knew him," thought Pond. "Wonder what he is going down into that hole for?"

He leaned on the bridge and looked at the expanse of whiteness on the river. A few lights gleamed here and there from the great warehouses and the ships on which some lake sailors were housed for the winter. Suddenly through the obscurity, Pond heard a muffled cry—or he thought he did. He listened for a repetition. In a minute it came, still fainter. It still seemed a part of the fantastic unreality of the night, and it seemed a part of it, too, when he found himself slipping and leaping down the treacherous stairs. Not a sound guided him, and he had traversed half the block before he stumbled over the prostrate figure that he had been almost sure he would find. The light from a window high above threw out a mellow glow here. Pond raised the man in his arms, and then he dropped him with a cry that rang through the dense atmosphere up to the street. The poor wretch's throat had been cut from ear to ear, and on his face were grotesque slashes made by a knife that painted his face with carmine like that of an Indian dressed for battle. These marks were the counterparts of the ones that had scarred the beautiful face of Henry Leiter.

"Great God!" cried Pond, "God Almighty! Now I shall find the murderer of Henry Leiter. I shall find out why that figure looked familiar. I shall do it!"

The dead body fell off the dock and rolled on the ice of the river. Pond raced along the dock in search of the other man. When the people who had heard Pond's cry reached the spot they found nothing but the dead man.

CHAPTER IX.

HERE are a few catastrophes so great that they can disturb the small things of life. A frightful storm may rage upon the ocean, and the little rills that trickle down from the uplands still sing and sparkle on their way, undisturbed. And the pleasant little duties of Margaret's life remained unaltered. She arranged the flowers each morning for the breakfast table, she brought in and warmed her father's paper, she saw to the weekly mending and continued to embroider the Irish linen bed shams in impossible shamrocks. Not a word did she hear from Harry. His conduct was a mystery she could not fathom.

"It is strange," she often remarked to herself, "that I sleep and quietly think, and still enjoy beautiful days and that I can awake in the morning without pain. I must be a hopelessly healthy person. I hope I am not cold blooded."

The truth about her was that her mind was entirely without morbidity. She had never been given to the fine mental hysterics that afflict the age. She had not been in the habit of attending emotional dramas of the doubtful school, nor did she read the novels of Balzac or Zola, nor the weak imitations of them by Saltus. Margaret was not a very well educated young woman. She knew, to tell the truth, far more about text books than about literature. Her thought and feelings were therefore her own and not those of some conscience-stricken maid of another race and condition of morality. She was not fond of soliloquizing and as she had a growing desire to have some one near her that she could talk to, she begged her father one morning to get her a maid or a companion.

"I want a sort of paid friend, you see, papa. Some one that I can talk to whether I bore her or not. I do not care to go out as I used and the house seems terribly large to me. Let me have a little maid."

"You know nothing about maids, Margaret," said the judge, who was immediately opposed to the idea. "They are all tattlers. Your affairs will be known all over the city."

"I shall make a cautious selection, if you will only give your consent," pleaded the girl. "I think you can hardly imagine how dull it is here all day. There is not very much to look forward to. Life seems very uninteresting to me at present." She could not resist the temptation now and then to let him know that she was suffering. She felt that he had no sympathy with her and she could not quite forgive him for it.

"I do not like another stranger in the house," he said coldly. Margaret sprang up from the table in a little passion.

"Can you not let me have some compensation for all I am suffering?" she cried. "I get no help from those I have a right to expect it from. Can you wonder that I want to see if money cannot supply what—" she stopped suddenly and threw her arms around the judge's neck.

"I do love him, papa, and there is no one to help me or even say a word all day."

The judge rubbed one long hand over her sunny hair. It felt deliciously warm and womanly.

"I should think that you would wish to keep your thoughts to yourself at such a time," he said kindly, "and not take a stranger into your confidence."

"What do you suppose I am going to do?" said she impatiently. "I merely want some one to help me pass the days. I am not going to get a common servant. I want some one who may come to be fond of me. I am sure we need not be so afraid of being spied on. We do nothing that we are afraid of having found out, I hope."

"Afraid of having found out!" cried the judge angrily. "I wish you would get over the habit of talking at random, Margaret. So many women say everything they think, no matter how preposterous the thought. For heaven's sake get the girl, whoever she is."

"I beg your pardon, papa," said Margaret, in a hurt tone, "I am sure I did not mean to bother. I will not get any one if you do not like the idea. I meant no harm. I know I am impertinent sometimes. Forgive me." She kissed him and went out of the room. The day seemed an unusually long one to her. The heavy curtains at her window shut out the dull winter light, and she bent low over her work as she sat in her low chair plodding over her embroidery. She worked at it with as much persistency as if she were earning her daily bread by it, and as she worked she thought. She had visited every place where it seemed at all likely that Harry would go, and without finding any trace of that night visit. In spite of his coldness she had tried to communicate with him by letter, but her letters had been returned unopened. If she went out for a walk she was sure to find herself near the gloomy place where he was kept, till she had grown to have a horror of solitary walks. Her fashionable friends treated her in a manner that was calculated to be the most seemly for the trying circumstances, but their studied efforts to be kind hurt the poor girl more than their neglect would have done.

Scratched 28 Years

Cured by Cuticura.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man but feel rich to be relieved of what some doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took.... and ....Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors, and no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them were three boxes of CUTICURA and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and two cakes CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of psoriasis (picture number two "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

JENKS' DREAM.

Jenks had a queer dream the other night. He thought he saw a prize-fighters' ring, and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, drastic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. One a Dose.

SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are gently laxative, or strongly cathartic, according to size of dose. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

I CURE FITS! THOUSANDS OF BOTTLES GIVEN AWAY YEARLY.

When I say Cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time, and then have them return again. I MEAN A RADICAL CURE. I have made the disease of Fits, Epilepsy or Falling Sickness a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to Cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a Free Bottle of my Infallible Remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and it will cure you. Address:—H. G. ROOT, M.C., Branch Office, 186 WEST ADELAIDE STREET, TORONTO.

Coughs, Colds, Croup.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

DRY GOODS NEWS
—AT—
TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

FLOODS IN TEXAS.

The Northern and Western Sections of the State Under Water.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—Additional advices from Texas show that the great rain storm which has prevailed there during all this week has covered nearly all the Northern and Western sections of the State, reaching out as far as Big Springs on the Texas & Pacific railroad and almost into the Panhandle in the Northwest. Nearly a foot of water has fallen since last Monday: all the rivers and smaller streams are at flood height, and the country is practically inundated. Five freight and one passenger trains are laid up at Colorado on the Texas & Pacific on account of washouts, the bridge across Morgan Creek is impassable, and the track in Loton Valley is three feet under water. A part of Abilene is flooded, the creeks running through the town having risen over 20 feet, and people living in the low bottoms were rescued with difficulty. Trinity River rose 27 feet and is flooding large sections along its banks. The Brazos River is also overflowed and doing great damage.

The Peas River bridge, near Vernon, on the Fort Worth & Denver road is wrecked and 500 feet of its iron spans and 12 bents of its trestle work approaches have been swept down. At Overbrook on the Topeka & Santa Fe, in the Indian Territory, a large bridge was washed away, and another at Marietta on the same road has been carried down. Several hundred feet of the approach to the Santa Fe bridge across Red River has been washed out and other damage has been done to the road both north and south of Red River. A half-mile washout occurred on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas at Lindsey station, and a 90-foot bridge over Montague Creek was swept away.

In fact all the roads in the northern and western parts of the state have suffered from the washing out of track, culverts, bridges, embankments, etc., and it will take several days to repair damages. The Red River, which is receiving the largest part of the water that has fallen, is becoming high, but so far there are no reports of serious damage by the overflow of that stream. The rain has been the heaviest ever known in Northern and Western Texas.

A Gloomy Outlook.

WEST MELVILLE, La., April 27.—Everything looks gloomy here. There is now one to six feet of water in the town limits and not a sign of land anywhere except a small strip of levee on the front. The water is now within two inches of the top of the levee and no more material is obtainable, the earth hereabouts being covered with water. It rained torrents all day yesterday. Both the river and the back water are rising.

An Indiana Cloud-burst.

LOUISVILLE, April 27.—A cloud-burst struck English, Indiana, yesterday morning. The water rose rapidly and flooded the streets and many houses to a depth of four feet. Within fifteen minutes the water began to recede. Much damage was done.

A Family Wiped Out.

BATON ROUGE, April 27.—J. H. Ferguson arrived here last night from the rear of Pointe Coupee parish in a skiff. He states that at a point between Morganza and Labelle about nine miles inland a family of five negroes named Watson were swept out of existence. On his way he ran across the drowned body of a negro man floating in the swamp. Hundreds of drowned stock was passed, and Mr. Ferguson said the suffering is terrible in the extreme. Baton Rouge is full of refugees.

Escaped the Flames to Die in the Flood.

VICKSBURG, April 27.—The saw mill and gin houses of Charles Lawrence, situated 3½ miles from Rolling Fork, Sharkey County, were burned Friday night. Fifty or more negroes had taken refuge in the buildings from the floods and seven were drowned in attempting to escape from the burning building.

KINGSTON, April 27.—The Montreal Transportation Company's new vessel the Minnedosa was launched here yesterday in the presence of 5000 spectators. She is 250 feet over all, 38 feet beam, draws 16 feet, will class A1 for 10 years, will carry 90,000 bushels of wheat and cost $[illegible]. Captain Geoghegan will be in command.

AMONG THE POLITICIANS.

THE VOTE IN THE OTTAWA CITY DOMINION ELECTION.

Mr. Mackintosh Returned by 366 Plurality Over Mr. Hay—Saturday's Conventions to Select Candidates for the Ontario Assembly.

OTTAWA, April 27.—The election yesterday to fill the seat for Ottawa City in the House of Commons made vacant by the death of the late William Goodhue Perley (Con.) resulted in the return of Charles Herbert Mackintosh (Con.) by this vote:

Mackintosh (Con.)....2633
Hay (Equal Rights)....2267
Chrysler (Lib.)....1321

Plurality for Mackintosh over Hay....366
" " " " Chrysler....1312
Majority against Mackintosh....955

The Liberal candidate came within four votes of losing his deposit. In the Protestant and English sections of the city the Equal Rights vote was very large and Hay secured a majority. His total vote was made up of Equal Righters, discontented Conservatives and Liberals. The French vote remained practically unchanged, but 500 votes less than last election were polled in Lower Town—the French section.

The successful candidate was born at London, Ont., in 1847. He was elected mayor of Ottawa in 1879, 1880 and 1881, and in the general elections of 1882 was chosen as one of the parliamentary representatives for the City of Ottawa. Mr. Mackintosh has at various times been connected with The London Free Press, Hamilton Times, Strathroy Despatch, Chicago Journal of Commerce, Parkhill Gazette and Ottawa Citizen.

The Quebec Campaign.

MONTREAL, April 27.—The organization for the ministerial party in the district of Montreal during the coming elections is to be confided to a special committee, of which Mayor Grenier is honorary president and Louis Mollier of St. Johns vice-president. It is composed of about 60 gentlemen, representing the different constituencies of the district. P. M. Sauvalle of L'Electeur is to act as general secretary. The headquarters of the party during the campaign will be at L'Electeur office. Speechmaking will not be commenced before the first week in May. The Premier and his friends are confident of success, but the Conservatives state that they are going to wage the most aggressive campaign which has ever been seen in this province.

South Wellington Conservatives.

GUELPH, April 27.—At a convention of the Conservatives of South Wellington held here yesterday Lieut.-Col. A. H. Macdonald was unanimously chosen to oppose Donald Guthrie, M.L.A., in the coming provincial elections. Col. Macdonald asked until next Wednesday to decide as to his acceptance.

West Victoria Reformers.

LINDSAY, April 26.—At the Reform convention held here to-day to select a candidate for the west riding of Victoria in the coming provincial elections, Dr. McKay of Woodville was unanimously chosen to be the candidate.

West Northumberland Conservatives.

COBOURG, April 26.—The Liberal Conservative Convention of West Northumberland met here in Victoria Hall to-day to select a candidate to represent the riding in the local Assembly. Every sub-division in the riding was fully represented. These candidates were brought forward:

Samuel Purser, reeve of the township of Hamilton.

D. Creighton, managing director of The Empire, Toronto.

After the ballot was taken it was found that Samuel Purser was the unanimous choice of the convention. Speeches were made by Messrs. D. Creighton, M.L.A., Dr. Willoughby, M.L.A., Alexander Eagleson, William Beatty, R. R. Pringle, J. Gillard and David Ewing.

Haldimand Reformers.

CAYUGA, April 26.—A large and representative meeting of Reformers was held in the Court House to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the riding of Haldimand at the approaching provincial election. Dr. Harrison, president of the Reform Association, was in the chair. After an address by Dr. Baxter, late M.P. for the county, nominations were called for. Dr. Baxter's was the only name presented and he was chosen unanimously by a standing vote. After addresses by Dr. Baxter, C. W. Colter, A. A. Davis, Dr. Thompson, Charles Walker and J. W. Holmes the meeting adjourned with cheers for Oliver Mowat, Dr. Baxter and the Queen.

South Brant Conservatives.

BRANTFORD, April 26.—The annual meeting of the South Brant Conservative Association was held here this afternoon. There was a fair attendance. These officers were elected:

President—Capt. P. H. Cox,
Vice-President—George W. Elliott.
Treasurer—H. McK. Wilson.
Secretary—W. S. Brewster.

North Waterloo Conservatives.

BERLIN, April 26.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of North Waterloo Liberal-Conservatives was held in Daily News Hall to-day. These officers were elected:

President—John Fennell.
Vice-President—J. M. Scully.
Secretary—Robert Reed.
Treasurer—William Ross.
Outside Vice-Presidents—J. E. Seagram, Waterloo; C. G. Gardiner, Berlin; J. Dunker, V. Otterburn, Wellesley; L. Taylor, E. Salter, Waterloo township; J. L. Brohman, Woolwich.

Addresses were made by Robert Birmingham of Toronto, T. Cowan of Galt, P. E. W. Moyer, H. Kranz of Berlin and others, who urged strongly the necessity of hard work to ensure victory at the forthcoming election. A large committee was appointed to select a candidate.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

The Meeting at Darmstadt Treated as a Political Event.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Tribune's London special says: The meeting between the Queen of England and the German Emperor at Darmstadt must be treated, it seems, as a political event. An English journal which has, or once had, exceptional sources of knowledge in such matters says:

"When the German Emperor travels to Darmstadt to see the Queen of England it is idle to suppose that we are witnessing nothing more than a display of the affection of a dutiful grandson."

And then follows the amazing remark that the importance of this interview must be measured by the importance which the Emperor himself attaches to it. Well, the Queen is a personage not without influence, but it is difficult to believe that she intends now for the first time during her reign to attempt to assert her personal authority, or to commit this country to entangling alliances abroad. When Continental sovereigns meet for business their ministers are with them; but Lord Salisbury is not in attendance on the Queen, nor is General von Caprivi on the spot to take orders from the Emperor. Much is made of the fact, if it be a fact, that the British squadron will co-operate in the German naval manœuvres. That, says the same journal, "will serve as a formal announcement to the world at large of an understanding between Germany and England closer and more cordial than has existed at some recent period."

If you look in English ministerial organs for confirmation of these startling views, you will find none, beyond some rather strong eulogy on the German Emperor. Lord Salisbury, however, has long been supposed desirous, and rightly desirous, to lend the moral support of England to that league of peace which Prince Bismarck founded and maintained. The Radicals in the House of Commons accused him of having promised to send an English fleet to protect Italy in case of war between Italy and France. It is certain that there was no promise, and could be none, but those rumors will now revive and questions may be put in the House about the Queen. Ministers will not answer them, but neither will they deny that, with or without the Queen's help, some effort is making to draw the two countries closer.

THE CAUSE OF LABOR.

CHICAGO, April 26.—In spite of the numerous conferences held to-day there is but little prospect that the carpenters' strike will be settled. The Carpenters' and Builders' Association refuses to recognize the union in any way and the strikers insist they will agree to no terms until this is done. It is now stated that there will be no strike of the packing house employes at the stock yard, as was feared—a strike which would involve 15,000 men. There was a strong sentiment in favor of it, but the older and cooler heads who had passed through the disastrous strike of 1886 counseled against it as hopeless, and their counsel prevailed. The gas fitters here struck to-day. The prospect is not flattering for the strikers and considerable dissatisfaction is already being felt among them.

The harness makers have won their strike for 15 per cent. advance in wages in all the shops but two in the city. The two employed 61 of the 250 men who struck.

HAVERHILL, Mass., April 26.—Fifty cutters, members of the K. of L., struck this morning at Chick Bros.' shoe factory because International Union cutters are hired by the factories for $1 less per week than is paid to K. of L. men.

SYRACUSE, April 26.—A meeting of the General Executive Board of the American Federation of Labor will be held at the office, No. 21 Clinton-place, New York city, on Monday afternoon to consider the 8-hour movement and its progress.

VIENNA, April 27.—The Austrian strikers are demanding an advance of from 50 to 100 per cent in wages. The gas men have withdrawn their demand for a 50 per cent. advance in wages and intend to present revised and more reasonable demands a fortnight hence. The bakers have abandoned their intention to advance the price of bread. The committees of the various trades earnestly appeal to the men to preserve order on Mayday. The workmen in Buda-Pesth will carry white flags in their parade. The insurance companies decline to be responsible for losses that may be incurred through rioting. All the shops here, therefore, will be closed May 1 and some barricated.

The Irish Strikes.

LONDON, April 27.—The Irish strikes have completely paralysed traffic in some towns, and there is much consequent distress. Many villages are entirely isolated, and not only the inhabitants but the shops are running short of provisions. The Umbria will wait at Queenstown for the Liverpool mails and a force of volunteers is in readiness to handle them. Mr. Davitt's efforts have failed to remove the deadlock between the railroad men and their employers. The freight traffic has been stopped and the passenger and mail trains are giving an erratic service. The company is offering good wages to outsiders. The signal men who have struck will be prosecuted for endangering the public safety. The people are irritated by the loss of trade and the diversion of the American mails to Southampton, and no sympathy is felt for the strikers.

Mr. Davitt, addressing the railway strikers at Phœnix Park to-day, favored submitting the questions at issue to arbitration. He condemned the signalmen for not giving notice of their intention to strike.

The Agitation in Germany.

BERLIN, April 26.—The Emperor has telegraphed instructions to Chancellor Von Caprivi regarding the attitude of the authorities throughout the country towards the May Day celebrations. In his dispatch His Majesty says the attitude of the authorities should be concerted and consistent. The labor agitation, apart from May Day, becomes more and more threatening. Strikes in eight trades have occurred here this week and strikes in several other trades are being prepared for. Reports from Frankfort, Breslau, Elberfeld and Hamburg show the strike mania is universal. The Government of Saxe-Weimar has been obliged to suspend building operations owing to a strike of the building trades in the duchy.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Supplementary Estimates—Bank Dividends and Meetings.

OTTAWA, April 27.—The additional supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30 next have been brought down. They total up $67,678. The largest sum is $51,500 to purchase and supply seed grain to Northwest settlers, which is to be paid back in time; $1650 is provided for the salary of the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, and $14,648 to pay expenses incurred between April 1, 1886, and May 3, 1889, in the survey of the St. Lawrence, being one-half of the amount expended by the Imperial Government on the work.

A number of half-yearly dividends and annual meetings of banks are announced in The Canada Gazette. They are: Bank of Montreal, 5 per cent., annual meeting June 2; Merchants' Bank of Canada, 3½ per cent., June 18; Traders' Bank of Canada, 3 per cent., June 17; Ontario Bank, 3½ per cent., June 17; Canadian Bank of Commerce, 3½ per cent., June 17; Bank of Hamilton, 4 per cent., June 17; Jacques Cartier Bank, 3½ per cent., June 18; Bank of Ottawa, 4 per cent.; Bank of Toronto, 5 per cent., June 18; Imperial Bank of Canada, 4 per cent., June 18.

A Tenement House Blaze.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Fire occurred in a double tenement house at No. 2058 and 2060 Eighth-avenue early this morning, arousing twelve families from their beds and sending them hurriedly to the stairway. These were filled with smoke and in their haste the frightened people blocked the fire escapes. Daniel Rossier, an elevated road conductor, lowered women and children down with a rope and at last went down himself. The rope broke and he fell but was not seriously hurt. The building was owned by the New York Building and Improvement Company. Loss $20,000.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

THE RUSSIAN WAR PARTY SPOILING FOR A FIGHT.

Uneasiness in European Diplomatic Circles—Increasing Military Preparations on Every Hand—Stanley's Enthusiastic Welcome in London.

LONDON, April 26.—Notwithstanding the calm appearance of the surface of European affairs, a strong pessimistic feeling prevails in diplomatic circles. The recent agitation of the university students in Russia and the present activity of the Nihilists are undoubtedly one source of danger, as it is feared that the Czar, in order to divert the attention of the Russian people from the internal condition of the Empire, may resort to increased activity in the Balkan Peninsula, such efforts having heretofore stopped these spasmodic outbreaks of the revolutionary party. One St. Petersburg correspondent intimated in a despatch this afternoon that the present scare from which Russian society is suffering is caused, not by the revolutionary party, but by the war party, who are using every means in their power to goad the Czar into immediate action as regards the Balkan States. The Russian military party believe that had it not been for the personal interference of the Czar Servia would have declared war against Bulgaria for the recent action of the Bulgarian Minister at Belgrade in sending home to Sofia a number of young Bulgarians, who, he alleged, had been decoyed to the Servian department for the purpose of being educated into a hearty hatred of the present Bulgarian Government.

There is no doubt that the Panslavists have been working effectively among the rank and file of the Bulgarian army, as it is admitted at Sofia that in spite of the fact that every prominent Bulgarian officer who fought under Prince Alexander in the late war with Servia has been arrested, placed on the retired list, or has resigned because of his pro-Russian feeling, a dangerously large proportion of the Bulgarian army, especially the officers, is still subject to Russian influence.

The Czar's latest appointments cause uneasiness both at Berlin and London, especially those in the diplomatic corps—Prince Lobanoff from the embassy at Vienna to that in Berlin, M. Nelidoff to Vienna, M. Shouvieff to Constantinople and M. Jouin succeeding the latter in the Asiatic department. These gentlemen are noted Panslavists. They hold to the doctrine that the hegemony of all the Slav races rightly belongs to Russia. Serfs, Bulgarians and Roumanians, whether these latter are, strictly speaking, Slavs or not, must look to Moscow as their natural center. M. Jouin was a leading member of the Russian ring which some time ago was concerned in a financial conspiracy for the exploitation of Bulgaria. M. Jouin, at the head of the Asiatic Department, is to manage the relations of Russia with all the centers of disturbance around her southern frontiers, with the Balkans, with Persia, with Armenia and with Afghanistan. The appointment of a commanding general in the transcaspian region to control diplomatic relations with Persia and Afghanistan is not less significant than the promotion of M. Jouin. The "forward" school of Russians is coming to the front.

In view of these changes, Viscount Cross, Secretary of State for India, has ordered the immediate completion of the works in the Khojak tunnel. With a through line of railway from Kurrachee to a point within a few days march of the Helmund, the northwest frontier of India becomes very strong and the main additional guarantee required is the certainty of a rapid mobilization of the forces destined for its defense. The Russian party is not, however, merely occupied with diplomacy. The Russian army receives its share of attention. Like other continental armies it is always being "reorganized," which in plain English means increased. Just now it is the artillery which is in process of multiplication. The Russians have 466 field batteries, which are to be increased to 550. The French have 480 batteries. Between the two the Germans, with only 364, are restless, and a project is already on foot to organize 60 new batteries.

A ROYAL WELCOME.

Explorer Stanley Enthusiastically Received in London.

LONDON, April 26.—The hour of Mr. Stanley's arrival at Dover was 2.25 o'clock. Disgraceful confusion prevailed on the pier where he landed owing to mismanagement by the local authorities. Fifty reporters were present and they came near having a conflict with the police owing to their defiance of certain orders which the reporters regarded as unwarranted. A number of Stanley's friends, among them being Mr. New, the United States Consul-General, Gen. Sir Garnet Wolseley, Rustem Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador, and others of prominence, were unable to get aboard the steamer which brought Mr. Stanley. The authorities of Dover presented an address to Mr. Stanley. He replied with a few words of thanks. He then started for London. When he arrived at the Victoria station here there was an immense concourse of people inside and outside the station and he was given a most enthusiastic greeting. The Duke of Abercorn, Baroness Burdett-Coutts, Baron de Worms and a large number of other friends of the explorer were waiting to welcome him. The Baroness presented Mr. Stanley with a bouquet. He silently bowed his thanks and then entered the carriage of the Baroness and drove off with her.

The explorer looks thin, though his health is excellent. His most striking feature is his hair, which is white and bushy and has the appearance of a wig. The newspapers all print leaders lauding his exploits and services and extending to him the welcome of the nation.

Mr. Stanley proceeded to his residence at Kensington. Crowds had gathered along the route and the explorer met with a very enthusiastic reception. At the command of the Prince of Wales Mr. Stanley, Dr. Parke, Sir William Mackinnon and Sir Francis de Winton have gone to Sandringham where they will remain until Friday.

No More Sunday Canaling.

PORT COLBORNE, April 27.—The Welland Canal has been ordered to be closed from Saturday midnight until Sunday midnight. Last season to enable vessels to get out on the lakes it was kept open until 6 a.m. Sundays and then closed until 9 p.m.

They Are Recovering.

TOTTENVILLE, S.I., April 27.—During the past week persons in eight or ten families here were made seriously ill by eating canned corned-beef which the canners had spoiled in a copper kettle. The sick people are recovering.

Two Babies Murdered.

NEW YORK, April 27.—Harold Scott, aged 3 months, and Harry Marshall, aged 7 weeks, were found smothered under the pillows at Mrs. Josephine de Bueler's baby farming place in Seventh-avenue this morning. How it occurred is a mystery.

REASONS

Why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is preferable to any other for the cure of Blood Diseases.

Because no poisonous or deleterious ingredients enter into the composition of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains only the purest and most effective remedial properties.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prepared with extreme care, skill, and cleanliness.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prescribed by leading physicians.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is for sale everywhere, and recommended by all first-class druggists.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a medicine, and not a beverage in disguise.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla never fails to effect a cure, when persistently used, according to directions.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract, and therefore the most economical Blood Medicine in the market.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla has had a successful career of nearly half a century, and was never so popular as at present.

MONDAY APRIL 28, 1890.

A CALL TO CONSERVATIVES.

A CONVENTION of the Liberal-Conservatives of the West Riding of Peterborough will be held in the Old Music Hall, Peterborough, on Saturday, May 10th.

The Mowat Government has dissolved the Legislature and the people are called upon to consider the questions at issue and to render their verdict. The time given for discussion is not long, and in view of that, and of the momentous issues involved, there should be a large attendance at the convention to nominate a candidate, in order that the action taken may be in accordance with the general desire of the Conservatives of the riding.

THAT ARMY OF PLACEMEN.

They are Blackmailed to Form Mowat's Campaign Fund.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Empire makes the following startling exposure of the Mowat Government's scheme for purchasing support in the coming elections:—

It was known two years ago that the general elections for Ontario would be on in 1890. The party organizers were summoned together in Toronto and ways and means discussed with the energy of despair. It was admitted that the popularity of the little Premier was waning alarmingly, and it became a serious question how the approaching campaign was to be carried on, the great need of the hour was money—to buy and bribe voters with. A big fund would be necessary over and above all that the Government could contribute from a variety of sources. It was found that a large sum would be required. No ordinary fund would be sufficient to meet the exigencies of the campaign. It must be a fund sufficiently large to buy up all the weak constituencies and make Mr. Mowat solid. This is a very serious charge to make, but the Empire has all the evidence necessary to back up the statements made.

Taking a leaf from the scandalous history of American campaigning, it was resolved to institute a gigantic system of blackmail on the servants of the Government. This work was entrusted to Mr. W. T. R. Preston, the chief organizer of the Liberal party in Ontario, and a man eminently capable of doing a job of this kind. The servants of the Government were waited upon, and in a suggestive way the alternative was presented to them of subscribing to an election fund or of taking the consequences. A distinct assessment of $100 each was made on certain classes of officers, more on some others and less on those receiving smaller emoluments. This was in 1888 and 1889. The plan was well calculated. The payments and machinery was put in operation for the collection of the money. At the present time a vast sum is in the hands of Mr. Preston.

OFFICE OF W. T. R. PRESTON,
SECRETARY PROVINCIAL LIBERAL ASSOCIATION,
66 Wellington-st., Toronto, Ont.
[Confidential.]
TORONTO, April 17.

Owing to the expenses incurred in connection with the pending provincial election campaign, I take the liberty of requesting you to remit, either to the treasurer, Mr. G. M. Rose, Toronto, or myself, $66, that being the balance of the amount unpaid, inclusive of 1889, which you were kind enough to subscribe in 1888 towards the funds of the Provincial Reform Association. We are now on the eve of the election, and that is my excuse for writing you on the subject.

Yours very truly,
W. T. R. PRESTON.

The circular was received by a gentleman in the employ of the Ontario Government whose conscience rebelled against this iniquitous system of blackmail. He says that the expression, "kind enough to subscribe," is false. He had no intention of contributing to their colossal election fund, but he was forced to do so. He had paid one-third of his assessment as the circular implies and the remaining due represented the balance of the $100. His name cannot, of course, be given, but the statements here made are absolutely and unequivocally true. He has probably paid the $66 with reluctance rather than be cast out of office. He has confided this circular, however, to the Empire and that without the remotest possibility of compensation or reward.

REVIEWS.

THE METHODIST MAGAZINE—(Toronto: William Briggs).—The "Canadian Tourists'" notes in the May number of this Magazine describe with numerous fine engravings the ride over the St. Gotthard Pass and the delightful sails through Lakes Lugano and Como. Lady Brassey's Last Voyage, recounts her strange adventures in Burmah and Borneo, with exquisite engravings. The Rev. Geo. J. Bond describes and illustrates a Sunday at Nazareth and other incidents of life in Palestine. A thoughtful paper on Christ's Treatment of Honest Doubt, by the Rev. John Bond, will be read with interest. The Rev. James Allen, M.A., in a strong paper, makes the best possible argument against University Federation—a view strenuously combatted by the Editor. Mrs. Barr's Story of Yorkshire Methodism grows in power, and a touching tale of East End life in London is given, also a sketch of adventure by Robert Louis Stevenson. The Editor reviews fully Dilke's Greater Britain, quoting the author's favorable estimate of Methodism in Canada and elsewhere. W. H. C. Kerr, M.A., has a scholarly rendering of Dr. Watt's cradle Hymn into classical Greek.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE JUDGMENT SEAT.

KEMMLER SINGS IN THE FACE OF APPROACHING DEATH.

Preparations Completed for the First Electrical Execution—The Death Chamber at Auburn—The Murderer Anxious for the End.

AUBURN, N.Y., April 27.—The hour for expiating the brutal murder of Tillie Ziegler is fast approaching. William Kemmler has but a few hours to live before his life will be given up to demonstrate to cold-hearted science that death by electricity is painless, and to satisfy the ends of justice. Kemmler shows no sign of weakening, but longs for the hour of death to come. Instead of passing his idle moments in brooding over his crime, he declares that the Lord has fully forgiven him. So he whistles and sings throughout the day.

Your correspondent was conducted this afternoon by Warden Durston to the room where the execution is to be held. The room is situated in the basement of the prison near the front of the main entrance and is about 18x20 feet. It is bare of furniture, except a small sink and bath-tub. The floor is rough and the ceiling low, while two small heavily-barred windows admit a feeble light. The walls and ceiling have been recently painted a dull white. The electrical apparatus is placed on the west side of the room between the two windows. A Cardew's volt meter occupies a central position. By the turning of a small key the current will be passed through the meter and measured in volts. By the side of this meter is a perpendicular box containing 24 incandescent lamps. To the right of the box is a lever eighteen inches in length that when closed will light the incandescent lamps and complete the circuit in the execution room. A second lever similar to the first and just at the right is the one which when closed will break the first current, complete a new circuit, including the execution chair, and send the current through Kemmler's body.

The chair was designed by Warden Durston. In appearance it is something like an ordinary barber's chair, with a straight back and a low foot-rest. The condemned man's legs, arms and body will be fastened to it by leather straps. By this means the body can be held so securely that the only motion will be probably indicated by a slight nod of the prisoner's head. While Warden Durston was explaining the working of the apparatus the steady tramp of a man's feet came from an adjoining room.

"That is Kemmler marching up and down in the corridor in front of his cell," said the warden. "The law will not allow anyone but his guards and spiritual advisers to see him, but I know of no law to prevent your listening to his footsteps."

Soon the footsteps quickened and a low voice began a humming "Call Me Back Again." Time after time was the air sung by the marching man, and finally, when apparently tired of singing, he began whistling with renewed energy. As the visitor was leaving the room Kemmler's voice again broke out in rather harsh tones:

"You said good-by, the parting words were spoken.
I leave you now, perhaps 'twere better so."

From Kemmler's cell to where the chair will be placed is less than fifteen feet. There will be no long march to the scaffold. It will be a step from a cell to a chair: from life to eternity.

Dr. McNaughton, Kemmler's spiritual adviser, generally begins by reading a short Bible lesson and following it with a brief discussion. After the lesson was over a general conversation usually followed, in which Kemmler spoke of his forgiven sins. "I now see the enormity of my crime," said he, "and it is perfectly right that I should be executed for it. I am ready to die."

After the general conversation Kemmler brings forward an old rug and places it by the minister's chair. Then they all kneel, while the minister and Keeper McNaughton offer prayers for the condemned man. During the remainder of the day Kemmler chats with his keeper or with Mrs. Durston, who is a frequent visitor at his cell. The exact time of the execution is as yet not definitely known, but it will probably occur some time Tuesday morning. Twenty-seven persons will be present, twenty-one of whom will be invited by Warden Durston. Nineteen of them will be doctors and medical experts. The other two will be representatives of the Associated and United Press.

An Expensive Son-in-Law.

A cable letter to the New York Sun gives some interesting details with regard to the price paid by Mr. C. P. Huntington in order to secure a prince for a son-in-law. It states that he deposited with Prince Hatzfeldt's trustees $1,750,000 in United States bonds, the income from which is, according to agreement, to be divided between the prince and his wife, each to receive his or her share independently of the other, and the income is to be paid to each just the same in case of divorce or separation. Mr. Huntington also agreed to pay at the London & Westminster Bank on the day before the wedding £20,000 to persons designated by the prince, and $80,000 more within six weeks, also to persons designated by the prince, who are, of course, his creditors. Princes come high, but the American heiresses, it seems, must have them.

THE MARMORA MURDER.

A Strange Story by a Neighbor, by Way of Cobourg.

The following, which is published in the Cobourg World, as the statement of Daniel Reid, a neighbor of the Emorys, is given for what it is worth:—

It seems that a few days before the murder, Davis found Emory in the marsh, and was going to kill him, but the poor man begged for his life, and promised to go away and let Davis have his wife. On this condition Davis allowed Emory to live, but the unfortunate man afterwards determined to stand his ground, and on the day before the fatal 19th, he made a statement to Daniel Reid. Not having been made in the presence of either of the prisoners, it was not admissible as evidence at the trial. Daniel Reid says:—"Wm. Emory started to go away from my place on Wednesday, Sept. 18th, and I asked him what his hurry was. He said that he had to go away; that Davis had told him (Emory) that he would give him until about the middle of October to leave the place; if not he would shoot him. Emory said that he saw Davis in the marsh the day before his (Reid's) "bee," and that Davis was going to shoot him, but he begged for his life of Davis. Davis then told him that if he ever caught him in the marsh again he would shoot him. Emory told me that if anything happened to him to let it be known. Emory said that his wife told him that if he did not get away she would have Davis kill him. Emory cried and shook hands with me and said:—"If anything happens let what I have told you be known, and if there does nothing happen to me keep it to yourself." It is supposed that on the morning of September 19th Emory carried his rifle to the beaver meadow with the determination that he would defend himself to the bitter end in case his avowed enemy should attack him. Davis probably surprised Emory while the later was engaged in mowing grass, and shot him with his (Emory's) own rifle.

Will Face Two Charges.

Harry Brault, known as Harry Freeman, is a prisoner in the police cells this afternoon where he was locked up on two charges. It is alleged that he has been selling liquor at his house, corner of Louisa and King-sts., without a license, and it is also charged that he has stolen twenty dollars in hard cash from a Frenchman by the name of Julius Lambert. Lambert says he went to Brault's house and had something to drink. After drinking he went asleep and when he awoke he was in the Montreal House, which is kept by Harry Brault's father. His twenty dollars which he says he had in his pocket was gone, but whither he knew not. He suspected that he had been rifled while asleep and sought the police and laid an information against Harry Brault.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Albert Hamilton gave an earnest address at the young men's meetings Saturday evening. It was much enjoyed. Our orchestra was out in full force and did good service in leading the singing, there was a good attendance.

Lord's Day morning Mr. Wm. Freeborn led the "Consecration meeting" it was good to be there.

Mr. Wm. Wallbrook gave an impressive address at the "Personal Purity meeting" yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Sutherland addressed the Gospel and Song Service last evening. It was a powerful practical talk and bore fruit. The attendance was good.

On Saturday we received 18 volumes for our library from Mr. H. Grundy, and Salisbury Bro's. have donated Angus, "Hand Book of the Bible" and World's Almanac and Bureaus of Information. For these practical gifts we return our sincere thanks.

We hope to have our book case this week when we shall be pleased to receive many more such gifts.

Among the Churches.

The anniversary services at St. Paul's church will be held a week from next Sunday and will be conducted by Rev. Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston.

The Sunday school anniversary services of the Charlotte-st. church will be held a week from Sunday.

The annual sale of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's church will be held to-morrow afternoon and evening.

Mr. John Burnham, Q. C., read the services at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, yesterday in the absence of Rev. Mr. McCleary through illness.

Rev. M. L. Pearson occupied the pulpit at the Charlotte-st. church yesterday morning, owing to the severe cold from which Rev. Mr. Shorey was suffering. Mr. R. J. Colville preached in the George-st. church for Rev. Mr. Pearson.

Rev. Father Nairn, of Bay City, Mich., who has relatives living in town, celebrated mass at the 10.30 service at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday. The rev. gentleman will make a visit of a couple of weeks in Peterborough.

The song service at George-st. church Sunday evening was a pleasing innovation and the large congregation enjoyed the spirited manner in which the anthems and selections were rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. Price. It is understood that a similar service will be held Sunday evening next.

Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croups Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

BROTHERHOOD OF MAN.

THE STRONG SHOULD BEAR THE BURDENS OF THE WEAK.

An Able and Appropriate Sermon Delivered by the Rev. S. J. Shorey to the Oddfellows—A Large Turn Out—A Crowded Church—Speeches at the Lodge Room—The Sermon Enjoyed by the Brethren.

It was seventy-one years ago Saturday since the first lodge of Oddfellows was instituted in America. During these three score years and ten the Order has made giant strides and to-day can count its brothers by the tens of thousands. Yesterday thousands of the brethren in hundreds of different towns and cities throughout Canada and the United States, listened to anniversary sermons. In Peterborough the anniversary sermon was preached in the Charlotte-st. church by the Rev. S. J. Shorey. A little before three o'clock in the afternoon the brethren of both the local lodges, with quite a number of visiting brothers, headed by Canton Peterborough in their handsome uniform and under command of Capt. Moore, left Otonabee Lodge room and marched to the pleasant sacred edifice on Charlotte-st. The dark clouds which hung overhead made the weather threatening, but the brethren to nearly the number of two hundred turned out on the anniversary occasion. It was one of the largest and most respectable turn outs of Oddfellows or, in fact, of any secret society that has been seen here.

At the church the centre pews had been reserved for the members of the Order who more than filled them. Rev. Mr. Shorey, unfortunately, was suffering from a very severe cold and it was with difficulty that he spoke. But, notwithstanding the disadvantages, he delivered a discourse which was most appropriate in thought and couched in language which not only lent beauty to the truths uttered but rivetted the attention of the audience which filled the church upon his every word. It was an able sermon and the brethren, as was remarked by the speakers on return to the lodge room, were not only delighted, but were furnished with much food for thought. Rev. M. L. Pearson assisted in the opening and closing exercises, owing to Rev. Mr. Shorey's illness. The choir of the church rendered some excellent music and Miss Fawcett sang a very pleasing solo after the sermon in exceedingly good voice.

BEAR THE BURDENS OF THE WEAK.

The rev. gentleman chose for the basis of the discourse the words:—

"We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak."—Romans vx., 1.

The rev. gentleman said such was the moral constitution of men and such was the organization of society that supreme selfishness in a man was a sin against his God and his fellows. God had made man of one flesh and one blood and just as they realized their reciprocal relations and put them into practice would they approach the Divine plan. The truth, the brotherhood of man, taught in the text, that the strong should bear the infirmities of the weak, had not always been known and certainly had not always been recognized. There had been races who did not believe that the strong should bear the burdens of the weak and who regarded the old and infirm as burdens to the family, society and State, burdens to which they had sought to be relieved of and in many instances in ways most cruel. They did not realize what this meant. The young would live in a constant fear of becoming old, the well of becoming infirm, and the strong of becoming weak, and in this way paralize the greatest capabilities of man. Under such a state of things how could a man give himself to a train of thought, his mind to invention or science, to the study of art or any industrial pursuit in which a peaceful mind was essential.

MEN'S HIGHEST AMBITIONS

and noblest aims were strangled and life was shorn of its attractiveness. He referred to the relation of the Scriptures to progress of civilization, and said that such societies as that before him always took some text of Scripture as its authority. The society before him presented an embodiment of the teaching of the text that the strong should bear the infirmities of the weak, yet he did not suppose that it ever had its conscious origin out of obedience to the teaching of the Word of God, but in some pressing and obvious need of man, and it had been found by and bye that it had the Word of God for its warrant and authority. Every society that had indicated by its works its right to live could bring some text of Scripture for its authority. These societies came pointing on the one hand to the well being of their fellows, and on the other to the authority of the Word of God. The rev. gentleman then spoke of the reasons why the strong should bear the burdens of the weak. Some would say because the well being of society demanded it and the Word of God required it. The preacher said the Word of God required it because the welfare of Society demanded it. The first reason, he said, was because the strong were once the weak themselves, and when weak were cared for by those who were at that time strong. Every life was a weak life once and would be a weak life again. Not only for this reason of humanity should the strong bear the burdens of the weak, but because in some of the requirements of civilization. There was not a man who was strong in all the requirements. If, he said, one man who is strong in one requirement and some in another, put their strength together, then would they have strength in their weakness and have a society which in its organization is stronger than could be had in any other way. Suppose a man said he was strong enough to live without the aid of other men and became his own tailor, his own barber, his own shoemaker and his own preacher. But now one man gave himself to one pursuit and another to another as a result of this great principle by which men put their strength side by side and had a stage of civilization that would be otherwise impossible. It became necessary sometimes, the preacher said, to appeal to authority as well as reason and he went on to point out that experience and history on the one hand and the Gospel on the other declared that for the favor of God and the good of men the strong should bear the infirmities of the weak. He then proceeded to point out how this should be done. Those who were strong in body and health should bear the burdens of the weak. Who could say they had a guarantee of health or wealth, but men joined hands with men and said to their fellows in time of adversity and infirmity we shall bear your burdens. That society before him had done this to the extent of two millions and a half of dollars. He was not one to say that they could purchase Divine favor or an entrance into heaven, but the definition of pure religion was "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world." He referred to the manner in which a man was assisted by a society. Often in charity while a man was helped in the body he was crushed in the spirit, but in an organization they were entitled to relief which strengthened the body but brought no pain to a high and sensitive spirit. The strong could bear burdens of the weak intellectually and educationally. Their organization had other objects in view besides benevolence and they sought to enlarge and bring out of human life and, if one was stronger intellectually or educationally than the others, they ought to move among them, not with scorn, but in a way to draw out into active exercise and make the most of what God had given them. Then he pointed out that those strong morally should bear the burdens of the weak. Society had never learned how to rescue and reform. The moment a man fell that moment society shut its doors to him. If a man was burdened with the infirmity of dishonesty they should strengthen him by making it harder for him to be dishonest and an easier thing for him to be honest. If a man was untruthful they should strengthen him by making it harder for him to be untruthful and easier to be truthful. If he was unrighteous they should strengthen him by making it harder for him to be unrighteous and easier to be upright. In conclusion he said he would be recreant to his position if he forbore to remind them that there would come a time when the vows and covenant of their society would hardly be sufficient to sustain them. There was only one motive sufficient to sustain them, and that was the love of God in their hearts. While they numbered one million throughout the world and seventeen thousand in this Province, yet he could not fail to remind them that outside of the brotherhood there were millions who, though they had not been brought within the brotherhood by initiation, yet were their brothers. He used an appropriate illustration in impressing this thought upon his audience, and closed by congratulating the Order upon its growth and success in the past and hoped that the future would see a continuance of this success.

A collection was taken up in aid of the Y.M.C.A.

AT THE LODGE ROOM.

At the close of the service the procession re-formed and returned to the Otonabee Lodge room, where the brethren went into open lodge, Bro. Nugent, N. G., of Otonabee Lodge, presiding.

Short speeches were made by the chairman, Bro. Dr. Bell, Grand Master of the Order, Bro. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., Bro. Osborne, of Penetanguishine, Bro. Mitchell, lately of Chicago, Bro. Cameron, of Port Elgin, Bros. McNeil, Workman and Moore, of the Patriarchs Militant. These speakers each spoke in eulogistic terms of the sermon they had listened to and referred to the Order, its teachings and progress.

A vote of thanks was moved by Grand Master Bell, seconded by Bro. J. R. Stratton, P. G., to the Rev. Mr. Shorey for his eloquent, appropriate and highly instructive discourse, and also to the choir and office bearers of the church for their kindness in connection with the service.

Millers Profits.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I should like to make the acquaintance, as the Scotchman says, of this clever prodigy who in his fertile brain evolved this wonderful "Millers Profits." Why, sir, with such a prospectus showing profits such as he does, with the ability to carry some in actual results in milling, he would soon in wealth be a veritable rival of Vanderbilt himself. How is it that our sharp, shrewd moneyed men in town have not invested in this wonderfully profitable money making business? Why, sir, because they look to results before investing ten or fifteen thousand dollars in a mill full of machinery that is continually needing repairs and renewals, and counting up the cost they prefer to take a mortgage on "Farmer's" farm at 6 per cent. and think it the better investment. Why, sir, if there was anything approaching truth in "Farmer's" statement there would be no necessity for legislators at Ottawa spending weeks over a Banking Act, because all the bankers would go into this money making milling business. Some of our banks, unfortunately for themselves, do get into this milling business. Let "Farmer" enquire of them how they come out of their investment. He may find some flour dust in their pockets, but none in their eyes, the disease "Farmer" apparently is troubled with. "Farmer" asks enlightment on this bugbear of his imagination, millers profits. If he will sell his farm and invest the proceeds in this lucrative business he will get light both in his head and pocket, and will be saved the necessity of enquiring through the columns of the press. If "Farmer" has a grievance against the millers, let him state facts and I have no doubt the millers will discuss the same with all fairness and honesty. Till then I am,

Yours truly,
A MILLER.

MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"Society is never more disagreeable," she said to herself, "than when it undertakes to be magnanimous." She had not been long out of school and it so chanced that she had no intimate friend excepting the two unfortunate men who bore the name of Letter. Mrs. McCook had not been near the house since the tragedy and Margaret had instinctively kept away from her since that scene with her son. It was not strange, therefore, that the girl was lonely. This day she felt deeply aggrieved. She thought that fate was treading her with particular animosity, and as she brought up all her troubles before her mind's eye she fell into a passion of self pity. In the midst of this, and while the tears were falling down on the linen she still held, the solemn housekeeper made her appearance. She had recently taken to wearing a band of crape around her head. Not that she had lost any friend that Margaret could learn of, but that she thought it gave her a sort a melancholy dignity.

"There's a young woman comin' behind me, miss," she said, almost with tears one would have thought who was not acquainted with her peculiarities, "who says the judge sent her up to see about getting a place as maid."

"Send her right in," cried Margaret cordially, smiling to think how soon her father had repented. She was secretly a little proud of having him in training. Lydia, the mournful, left for the kitchen and a little maid entered. As she lifted the curtain and came in the room, Margaret could have laughed aloud at the irresistible figure she made. She was short and plump. A cloak of dark blue covered her from head to foot, and on a head of fiery red curls sat a cap of muskrat fur. Freckles, large and red, spotted her flushed and delicate skin, and a pair of humorous eyes shone out upon the young lady in azure honesty.

"Come in," said Margaret. "I am Miss Barthwait. Did my father ask you to see me?"

"Yes," said the young woman in a ringing voice and breaking into a smile that revealed a set of beautiful teeth, "I was on the street car talking with a friend and saying that I would like very much to live with some young lady in the city, and your father heard me and asked me up to his office. When I had told him all about myself he sent me up."

"Perhaps you might tell me over again. What sort of a place did you want? Why do you leave home? I am sure you have never been away before."

"Could you tell that, really? Papa is a farmer out here near Lawndale. There are other girls at home and there is no need of me. I thought I would like to take care of myself—but not exactly as a servant, Miss Barthwait." Margaret made a deprecatory gesture.

"Oh, of course," she murmured.

"I've been through common school," went on the little damsel in a voice very much too loud for the necessities of the occasion. "And I can read well, and sing a little and sew. I know how to take care of sick people, and I would be very glad to do any work about the room——" But she got no farther. She had unfastened her cloak and let it fall back from her shoulders. As she did so a velvet ribbon made its appearance around her neck, and on this was an ornament that fixed Margaret's attention. It was an intaglio of strange execution, such a toy as a connoisseur in gems would affect, and certainly the last thing that one would expect to see in the possession of a little farmer girl.

"Tell me," said Margaret excitedly, "where you got that beautiful intaglio you wear on your neck." She tried in vain to speak with indifference. She felt the blood rush into her cheeks and knew that the her breath was making a noise as it came hotly between her quivering lips. The little maid turned scarlet also.

"I have only had it a little while," she said; "father was going to town one morning when he found a young gentleman lying on the snow. Father thought he was frozen at first. He picked him up and put him in the waggon and drove him into town. Before he had reached the city the young man had come to himself, and when he left he gave father this off his silk watch ribbon. Father didn't think much of it; but I thought it beautiful, and so he gave it to me."

"Allow me," gasped Margaret, fingering it tremblingly. "Could you tell me the date, my dear, when this was found. I mean when the young man was found?"

"Why, the truth is, Miss Barthwait, I am not very good at remembering dates and one day is so much like another on the farm that commonly we know very little about them. And yet I think I could remember this after all, for father was making an effort to get to town to buy a dress for me. It was ma's birthday and that was on the 15th of January—or at least——"

"Try to think, my dear," whispered Margaret, seizing the cold, plump hands in hers and looking straight in the pretty blue eyes. "Try to be sure."

"Yes, I am quite sure, Miss Barthwait. It was the 15th. Ma's birthday comes on the 16th and this was the day before."

"Take off your coat," said Margaret, taking it off for her as she spoke. "I am sure you are going to stay with me. I am a very lonely girl and I need a friend. Take off your cap. We shall have some tea. Kindly push that bell behind you. Now sit down and tell me something more about the young man. Did your father think he had—had been drinking?"

"No, no, he did not think that. He thought he seemed sick or confused. He did'nt seem quite in his right mind."

"Perhaps he had been drugged or hit on the head."

"Perhaps. I did not see him, of course. Father thought him a very handsome young man, and he said he could see he was a gentleman with elegant manners, just from the way he parted from him. I always felt interested in him."

"Of course," said Margaret, clasping her hands, "naturally."

"When he left," went on the little damsel, stretching out her feet to the fire, "he gave pa this. Pa didn't want it, you know. Pa doesn't care for fancy things, so he gave it to me."

"Where did the strange young man go when he left your father?" inquired the listener, growing too absorbed to care what her visitor might think of her unaccountable curiosity.

"Pa said he saw him go into a Turkish bath house."

"Where—where?" gasped Margaret. The blue eyes of her small guest were beginning to open very wide, and her cheeks to flush a deeper crimson.

"It was on Monroe, near State, I think I heard pa mention it. You see we have so few things to talk about that we are apt to make much of little. It's strange that it should interest you so much, Miss Bar——"

"My dear," sobbed Margaret, finding that her composure must go, and instinctively deciding to let it go dramatically, "it is not at all strange, for that young man is my own dear Harry, and he is being tried for a murder that was committed that night. You see, if I could prove where he was, I might save him from all suspicion."

The little stranger fell to trembling with earnestness and sympathy. She patted Margaret's shoulder with her plump palm and cooed like a sun-bathed dove.

"I shall just stay on and help you, poor, dear child. I beg your pardon, Miss Barthwait, but you won't mind, will you? Don't you cry now, don't you do it. Maybe we will be able to prove exactly what you want. It almost seems as if I had been guided here. Don't you think that people are sometimes guided? Think if I had not worn that charm!"

"Think, think!" sobbed Margaret. "Kiss me, my dear. I am so thankful I have found a friend. I have been terribly lonesome. I've tried to be brave, but I'm only a girl, and girls need friends." Then the two sat down and cried together. That riveted their friendship.

Later in the day they were both embroidering remarkable shamrocks on those shams, and the little damsel had sent home for her trunk. That evening—or rather in the early dusk that preceded evening—the two made their way to the bath house, where it was supposed that Harry had gone on that fateful night. To be sure, they were met at the door by a gesticulative Frenchman, who shrieked, with a wild flinging about of his arms, that they were on the wrong side, and that to reach the ladies' bath they must go through the hair store—the latter word not translated But Margaret calmly persisted, and they were finally admitted to the luxurious ante-room. Even here, the warm moisture from the hot room floated out to them laden with a strange perfume, languorous and oriental. The little damsel stared around with wide eyes, but Margaret kept her lids over hers, lest the fever in them should attract attention. It took a good deal of persuasion on her part to induce the man to examine his books for her, and she had to tell him finally that a dear friend of hers had disappeared. She said she had heard of his being at the bath-rooms on the 15th of January. She wished to make sure.

We are often deceived in the age of people having beautiful and luxuriant hair, not knowing that they use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep gray hairs away.

THE WHIPPING POST.

There Will Be a Large Influx from Chicago, St. Louis and Indianapolis.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Aldermen Dodds and Booth of Toronto have been hustling here and at other western points during the week fighting for a special rate to the Toronto Carnival. They succeeded yesterday afternoon in securing what they wanted, and special excursion tickets will be issued from Chicago, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati and other western cities. Messrs. Dodds and Booth are now stirring up the Canadian element in Chicago, which is a strong one, and from present prospects there will be a great excursion to the Queen City from all over the western portions of the United States. Catchy advertisements about the Carnival are being liberally distributed.

He Put a Nickel in the Slot.

FORT WAYNE, April 27.—C. W. Cook, a hotel-keeper of New Haven, was yesterday fined $1 and costs, amounting to $50, for Sabbath desecration. His offence consisted in keeping a cigar case which permits a person depositing a nickel in it to remove a cigar. Last Sunday a person unknown to Cook deposited his nickel and obtained and smoked a cigar. The jury trying the case was out sixteen hours before reaching a verdict.

Benwell's Body to Be Re-Interred.

WOODSTOCK, April 27.—Col. Benwell, father of the victim of the Blenheim swamp tragedy, has written to Undertaker Swartz, Princeton, authorising him to remove the body of his unfortunate son from Pottersfield to a plot in the Church of England Cemetery.

Paid $75,000 to Settle.

TORONTO, April 26.—The famous suit of the Federal Bank against S. Nordheimer, its president, has been settled out of court, the defendant paying $75,000 in cash.

Lord Wolseley in a speech at the Civil Service banquet ridiculed as a complete humbug the idea that a famine would be the result of a defeat of the British navy. He said the supply of provisions in England was always sufficient for several months, and furthermore that it was impossible for an enemy to blockade all the English ports at the same time.

A Village Blown Away.

COTTON PLANT, Ark., April 26.—There was a destructive wind and rain storm in Woodruff County early this morning. The village of Yorkville was almost entirely blown away, and the disaster is very great. Houses, barns, fences and structures of all kinds were taken up by the wind and carried some distance, Hundreds of cattle and stock were killed, but no loss of life is reported.

A HORSE WHO CAN TALK!

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh," but who has ever seen an equine gifted with the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle; but so would the telegraph and the telephone a hundred years ago. Why, even very recently a cure for consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be scrofula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser and nutritive, or flesh-builder, known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh in the Head, and all Lingering Coughs, it is an unequaled remedy. In derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels, as Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Chronic Diarrhea, and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.

GUARANTEED. "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a printed guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will benefit or cure in every case of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

Purchasers of seeds must now be convinced of the disappointment experienced in buying seeds from boxes or packages already put up and placed in stores on commission and in many instances transferred from place to place for many years before being sold, the disappointment experienced not only from their non-vegetative powers but from the small quantity contained in each paper. To prevent these disappointments Messrs. Ormond & Walsh sell the whole of their seeds by weight at a fair and moderate price with a guarantee of their

—AT—

TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

Th latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

HIS BRAIN WAS DISEASED.

DISCLOSURES AT THE MORRISON POST MORTEM.

An Unhealthy Organ Laid Bare by the Scalpel—What the Doctors Testified at the Inquest—The Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

SHELBURNE, April 28.—Thomas Morrison, who drowned three of his children last Wednesday night, died at 7¼ this morning. He made no confession and had not spoken since 10 o'clock last night. He died without a struggle.

A post mortem examination was held this afternoon by Drs. Rolstin and Barr and an inquest held in the Town Hall to-night.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner Norton, County Crown Attorney J. P. MacMillan of Orangeville appearing for the crown. Mrs. Morrison, the wife of deceased, related that Morrison fell from a buggy last December and cut his forehead, but apparently soon recovered from the effects of the accident, though recently he had complained frequently of his head paining him.

Sarah and Alexander, the surviving children, again recounted the details of the tragedy already published and Robert McLean, the neighbor who was called in by the boy when the murder was discovered, repeated his account of what he saw in the house and the discovery of Morrison writhing in agony near the creek.

John Lindsay, who talked with Morrison for an hour the evening before the murder, testified that deceased then complained of poor health and said he was afraid he would not be able to put in the spring crop. Morrison appeared sound mentally at that time and witness had never observed in him any weakness of intellect.

Dr. Rolstin read this report of the post mortem examination: We found the body as a whole in an anæmic and generally emaciated condition. An examination of the brain revealed a congested and abnormally thickened and unduly adherent state of the membranes in both hemispheres. The brain substance itself presented an unhealthy appearance and the pons varoli was evidently in a state of incipient softening. On examination of the thoracic viscera we found the various organs in a moderately sound condition, and the same may be said to apply to the organs of the abdominal cavities.

Dr. John Barr corroborated the evidence of Dr. Rolstin and added: "I had treated deceased for some two or three weeks before his death. He was very melancholy. His debility might have been largely due to the state of his brain."

The jury, after deliberating a few minutes, brought in this verdict: "Death occurred or was occasioned from an abnormal condition of the brain, together with a general debilitated state of the system, also accelerated by exposure, shock and possibly by attempts on his own life while labosing under a fit of temporary insanity."

The inquest on the children will be resumed Tuesday evening. The funeral of Morrison will take place to-morrow to Shelburne Cemetery.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, April 28.—At the Police Court this morning Herman McAllister was fined $10 for having a hole in the wall between his liquor shop and his grocery store.

R. H. C. Parkin has written a letter to Mayor McLellan complaining of the noise made by the Salvationists on the Gore on Sunday evenings. There is a religious service in the hall at 11½ King-street east, and he says the audience cannot hear the speaker for the continual din outside.

Their War Drums Throb No Longer.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Representatives of ten of the seventeen nations participating in the International American Conference today signed the agreement drawn up by the conference for the settlement by arbitration of differences and disputes between them.

Henry G. Prowse's Remains Recovered.

BEAUMARIS, April 27.—The body of Herbert G. Prowse, who was drowned in Muskoka Lake when crossing the ice on Dec. 27 last, has been recovered and interred at Point Kaye Church. He was 34 years of age.

LABOR'S GREAT BATTLE.

MAY-DAY WILL SEE A WORLD-WIDE CONFLICT BEGUN.

Hamilton Weavers on Strike—St. John (N.B.) Foundries Closed—The Situation in Chicago Extremely Serious—Troubles Beyond Seas.

HAMILTON, April 28.—About 120 weavers employed in the Ontario cotton mills struck this morning because of a reduction which was made in their wages. On Saturday the weavers who work by the piece were notified that cuts would be made on certain lines. They figured that the reduction was equivalent to about 25 per cent. and they determined to go on strike if it was put in force. About half of the weavers are women. They make from $1 to $1.25 a day.

There is also trouble among the weavers in the Hamilton cotton mill in Mary-street. The manager, Mr. J. M. Young, was very reticent about the matter, but admitted that the weavers were on strike. He stated that the majority of cotton manufacturers found business bad, and did not think they would lose much by shutting down for a while.

Two Strikes at St. John, N.B.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 28.—The labor strikes here are assuming a grave aspect. This morning the employes of McAvity & Sons, brass founders, went out on the 9-hour question. The employers offered a half-holiday Saturday instead, which was refused. The firm telegraphed to Montreal for brass workers and the employes have sent advertisements to the papers at that place calling upon the men not to accept. Should Montreal men come here they will meet with harsh treatment, judging from threats now being used. The men of Fleming's locomotive works also went out on strike this morning. They were allowed the 9-hour system but refused to accept it because two of the employes who refused to sign a document continued to work. As a consequence both these foundries are shut down.

Business Unfavorably Affected.

CHICAGO, April 28.—The prospects of a general strike here on May 1 is having an unfavorable influence upon business. It is causing a restricted demand for local securities on the Chicago Stock Exchange and the fear of a stock yard strike has put a blight on the provision trade, making every trader anxious to even up and get out. This tends to weaken prices.

Following is a list of the trades who have up to date declared for an 8-hour day and will stop work May 1 or after if their demands are refused:

Packing-house employes at the Union Stock Yards 15,000, strength of organisations 10,000.

Waiters and bartenders 2600, organised 1600.

Co-operatives (three branches), 900; strength of Union, 720.

Cornice-makers, 700; ¼ organised.

Lathers, 800 at work; organisation, 600.

Box Makers and Sawyers, 600; more than 400 organised.

Machinists, 1600 employes; 800 organized.

Custom Tailors, 2000 workers; in the Union, 1500.

Shoemakers, 2000 (exclusive of custom shoemakers); 1500 in the Union.

Here is a total of 27,700 workingmen who will march out May 1 and after to the tune of the 8-hour cry, 18,700 of whom up to date are members of their respective organisations. To this list must be added the 7000 carpenters, 400 gas-fitters, 500 paper-hangers and 300 harness-makers who have already struck for shorter hours and higher wages.

The Galician Riots.

VIENNA, April 28.—The peasants and laborers at Kolomea, in Galicia, where anti-Jewish rioting was reported last night, are making threats against the lives of the landlords. Several rioters have been arrested. Further trouble is feared. The military have been called upon to quell the rioting and troops are being hurried to the town.

They Counselled Violence.

PARIS, April 28.—A meeting of anarchists was held at Lyons yesterday at which speeches were made favoring violence by the workingmen on the occasion of the labor demonstration on May 1. Eleven of the participants in the meeting who were the most active in favoring incendiary action were arrested.

The Irish Railway Strike.

DUBLIN, April 28.—The trains between Dublin and Cork are being worked by clerks from the railway offices and by men secured from various sections of the country. With the help given by these men the company is enabled to maintain service between the two cities.

Labor Laconisms

The program of the labor demonstration on May Day has been placarded throughout Paris. Many placards have been effaced by the police because they did not bear an official stamp.

It is estimated 200,000 persons, principally miners, will take part in organised demonstrations on May Day at Brussels, Mons, Liege and Charleroi.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railway Company has granted the demands of its employes for an advance, giving the day conductors $2.75 and night conductors $2.90. The day brakemen will be paid $2.50 and the night men $2.70, 10 hours to constitute a day's work. This is the first break in the railroad lines.

The Socialists at Lille, Department du Nord, and at all the laboring centres in the department, especially at Roubaix and Armentierres, are inciting the workmen to acts of violence on May 1.

Two Italians have been arrested at Versailles for circulating hand bills inciting the soldiers to shoot their officers if they are ordered to charge on the workmen on May Day.

Nine groups of anarchists are making arrangements for a demonstration in Rome on May Day. Both the police and the garrison have been reinforced.

The Burgomaster of Liege has decreed that no procession or public meeting will be permitted after 6 p.m. May Day.

The Lower House of the Landtag will not sit May Day. Many deputies are magistrates and their presence at home is required on that day.

The Jesuits v. The Mail.

MONTREAL, April 28.—Mr. Justice Mathieu this afternoon rendered judgment in the $50,000 Jesuits-Mail libel suit, quashing the exception to the form by which The Mail claimed that the Society of Jesus had no power to sue. In effect this is a decision upholding the act incorporating the Jesuits.

A York State Quake.

TROY, N.Y., April 28.—About 10½ o'clock last night three slight earthquake tremors were felt at Saratoga.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Martha McLean Tries to Kill Her Recreant Lover and then Herself.

TORONTO, April 28.—Fifteen months ago Martha McLean, a good-looking girl of 23, left her rural home at Lefroy, up in the county of Simcoe, and came to Toronto. Her connections in her Simcoe home were all said to be highly respectable. She has been employed as a domestic in various families since she came to town, at one time with the family of Rolly Moffatt and latterly with Mrs. Caswell, at 92 Gerrard-street east. Her lover was Nathaniel J. Hutchinson, a young machinist, who with his brother William, ran a small shop in rear of 87 Richmond-street west.

According to the girl's own story she first met Hutchinson at the roller rink in Shaw-street. After their meeting her career was much the same as many another girl in a big city. Hutchinson succeeded under a promise of marriage in ruining the girl and then he persistently refused to make his promise good, although he was appealed to on many an occasion by the betrayed girl, so yesterday at noon she made up her mind to kill her recreant lover and then herself. She did not succeed in either, but it was not her fault. Hutchinson was to die by a bullet and the girl herself by poison.

Armed with an ounce of laudanum and a cheap pistol she went to Hutchinson's shop at noon yesterday and made a final appeal for justice. The young man said he would have nothing further to do with her, and said so in an emphatic manner. Their conversation was very excited, and the girl dexterously drew a pistol from her dress pocket and fired with deadly aim at Hutchinson's head, while his brother William, who was in the shop, as dexterously got out of the way. The bullet struck the lover near the left ear. She then rapidly poured the ounce of laudanum down her throat. There was great excitement around the place for a few minutes. Hutchinson had fallen to the floor, but he was not dead; neither was the girl, although she cried out "We will die together!"

Policeman Young was sent for and he took the girl to headquarters, while Hutchinson was put into the ambulance and removed to 204 George-street, where he resides. An emetic was administered to the girl and then she was bundled off to the hospital, and while on the way thither the emetic did its work and her life was probably saved.

While going from the machine shop to headquarters Martha told Officer Young about her meeting Hutchinson at the rink, of his ruin of her under the marriage promise and of his subsequent desertion. She seemed to be greatly pleased that she had not killed either herself or her lover. The revolver was of 32-calibre of an old pattern, which she purchased in a Queen-street junk shop. The poison she obtained from a Yonge-street druggist under the usual rules. The bullet was easily extracted from Hutchinson's head, as it had flattened out against the skull after making quite a circuit.

When Dr. Powell was seen last night at Hutchinson's residence in George-street he said that for the next ten days there would be some fear of inflammation of the brain setting in. In the meantime he must be left undisturbed.

A reporter had a short interview with the girl at the Hospital last night. She seemed at times about to break forth into the wildest delirium as she lay moaning on the bed.

"I never meant to hurt poor John," she cried. "Oh! I shall go crazy; I shall die on the gallows. My brother was here to-day. If I had taken his advice I would have parted with him long ago."

"Had you associated with him long?" asked the reporter.

"A year and three months," moaned the girl. "Oh, will he get better?" she asked in agonized tones.

The Hutchinson Brothers are well known machinists. The police say that it was them who made the "sticks" that the bank sneaks used so successfully in this city a few years ago.

"Large killed. Tell friends." This brief cablegram from Tokio, Japan, yesterday brought the news of the death of Rev. J. A. Large, a Methodist missionary. Mr. Large was about 30 years of age. He was a graduate of Victoria University, and from his boyhood has been connected with the Methodist Church. Further particulars of his death will be anxiously awaited.

The police estimates for the current year total $222,920. The city's total expenditure for all purposes last year was $3,660,750.28

Another Bucket Shop Collapse.

PITTSBURG, April 28.—Another bucket shop failure was reported to-day. J. R. Johnston & Co., doing business in the Petroleum Exchange building, suspended; liabilities unknown. The steady advance in stocks caused the collapse.

A Narrow Escape.

MONTREAL, April 28.—Le Monde publishes a story to the effect that during Gabrielle Bompard's stay here with Eyraud she captured M. Lavalle, a wealthy Montreal merchant and a widower.

Gabrielle obtained $700 from him and was to have married him at St. Constant, a quiet village near here. Luckily the old man backed out when he found she had her French lover with her.

KEMMLER'S LAST MONDAY.

AND POSSIBLY HIS LAST DAY IN PRISON.

Only Warden Durston Knows When the Electric Current Will Flash Through the Murderer's Body—To Meet His Doom with Uncovered Face.

AUBURN, April 28.—Warden Durston has not yet decided exactly the day or hour for the execution of Kemmler but said this afternoon nothing would be done for the next 24 hours. It had been supposed it would occur Tuesday morning but the apparatus is yet to be arranged in some details and then tested. This will probably result in the selection of Wednesday as the earliest possible day.

Kemmler conversed but little with his death-watch this morning. He was busy writing his name and address upon some plain white cards. "I want to write fifty this morning," said he to Guard Wemple. At 11 o'clock the cards were all written and Kemmler looked relieved. During the past two weeks he has written nearly 1000 of these cards, on which, in strikingly neat characters, with a few ornamental flourishes, is "William Kemmler, Auburn, N.Y., April, 1890." Kemmler seems well aware of the interest his case is exciting and wishes the cards he has written to be given to all who want them. So strong is the autograph fever upon him that he will undoubtedly write cards up to the hour he leaves his cell to walk to the death chair.

Could he live until May 6 he would be 31 years of age. The execution will probably take place between 3 and 7 in the morning. Kemmler's spiritual adviser, Dr. Houghton, visited him to-day and conducted the usual services. Kemmler was very attentive. He brought his rug and knelt at the chaplain's side. Kemmler's dinner, on a large platter, was brought in by a convict. There was a large tin dish filled with mashed potatoes, a fair-sized piece of roast beef, some peas, corn, beets and coffee. A little later Mrs. Durston sent down the ice cream and cucumbers she had promised him.

Kemmler gets only ordinary fare. There are no flowers to adorn his room, no delicacies from outside sentimentalists. In fact, he is treated as a prisoner who, outside of his keepers and the warden's family, has not a friend in the world. No sympathetic letters are sent from Philadelphia, where he betrayed the wife of his best friend; no anxious enquiries come from Buffalo, where he brutally hacked her to pieces.

Extensive preparations are being made for the transmission of the details of the execution by the telegraph companies. The Western Union will send fourteen special operators here to-morrow afternoon, who, with the regular force, will be able to send out 100,000 words in four hours' time. Many scientific experts will arrive on the early train to-morrow morning. The prison gates will be closely guarded until after the execution. Only authorised persons will be allowed to enter, and even then they will be closely watched. Warden Durston has issued tickets to those to be admitted and the utmost caution will be used to prevent outsiders from getting in.

At the execution no cap will be placed over the condemned man's face, and every contraction of the muscles will be plainly seen by the jury. The physicians will hold a post mortem over the body, and any marks caused by the electricity will be carefully noted. After examination the body will be deposited in a rough box partially filled with quicklime and buried within the prison walls. Were it buried outside it is almost certain the body would be stolen by medical students or curiosity seekers. The death warrant is all prepared and nothing but the warden's command stands between William Kemmler and instant death. He will probably be informed to-morrow by the Warden of the exact hour of the execution.

It May Be To-day.

AUBURN, April 29.—The latest news about Murderer Kemmler is that he is still alive and no one knows definitely at what hour or on what day he will be executed. The machinery of the death room had not been put in final order when working hours were over last evening, and it is believed now the arrangements will not be complete until late to-day. The question of who will act as executioner is puzzling all enquirers. District Attorney Quimby, Dr. C. M. Daniels and Dr. A. P. Southwick, all of Buffalo where the murder of Mrs. Tillie Seigler, Kemmler's mistress was committed, arrived here yesterday afternoon. Dr. Southwick first gave strong impetus to the movement to substitute electricity for the rope. Mr. Quimby prosecuted the case against Kemmler for the state. Dr. Daniels will assist at the autopsy.

The death room adjoins Kemmler's corridor. It looks out on the front yard of the prison and has nothing in it now except the switch boards and wires and galvanometers. The dynamo is on the other side of the prison rectangle in the iron hollow-ware shop nearly 1000 feet away. The names of the 27 men who will be present at the killing have not all been announced. Elbridge T. Gerry of New York and Matthew Hale of Albany, who with Dr. Southwick formed the commission that recommended the electrical method, are expected to-day. Drs. Spitzka and Flint of New York, who are to assist in the autopsy, will probably come at the same time.

Kemmler passed Monday in about the same way that he has the last week. He has read his Bible as well as he could and listened to religious instruction. There are a score or more of newspaper representatives of the two press associations to witness the execution. It is given out that all communication with the prison will be suspended to-day and all telephone and telegraph wires cut out. This probably means that the officials will be too busy preparing for the event to attend to business, but it may mean that the execution is to take place to-day. The Western Union Telegraph Company has established a branch office across the way from the prison.

HE ROBBED THE MAILS.

A Buffalo Postoffice Official Arrested for Stealing Money Letters.

BUFFALO, April 28.—William W. Allen, superintendent of the despatch division of the Buffalo postoffice, was arrested this afternoon for robbing the mails. Eighteen letters were found in his inside vest pocket, seven containing money and addressed to Mr. A. Dauphin, who is reputed to run a lottery somewhere in Louisiana, four others containing money and three decoys. Allen is 54 years old, has been 24 years in the railway mail service and 8 years in the Buffalo office. He has a fine family and lives on a fashionable avenue.

The Island Delegates at Halifax.

HALIFAX, April 28.—Sir James S. Winter, Q.C., P. J. Scott, Q.C., A. B. Morine, M.L.A., the Newfoundland delegates to Great Britain; D. J. Greene, Q.C., Sir Bowers and Donald Morrison, M.L.A., the delegates to Canada, arrived this morning by the Caspian. They say their mission embraces the whole question of French treaty rights on the island coast and the constitutional right of the colony to modify or alter its territorial or maritime rights.

BRAMPTON, April 28.—Only 18 votes were cast to-day against the bylaw to grant a bonus of $14,000 to R. W. Young & Co. of Hamilton for the purpose of purchasing a site for their proposed factory.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY APRIL 29, 1890.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

The chief organ of the Liberal party in Toronto has this to say in reference to the contest in the East Riding:—

"In East Peterborough one Kidd was nominated as an Equal Rights candidate to oppose Mr. Blezard, Reformer. The report of the proceedings said that Mr. Kidd was willing to retire if a Conservative were nominated."

The Review published a report of the proceedings, which does not bear out what the Globe states, but in the interest simply of truth a fuller statement may be made. In accepting the nomination Mr. Kidd said that he had been called a "renegade Grit," and further that a Liberal had told him that as soon as he was in the field a Conservative would be brought out so as to run in between him and Mr. Blezard. Mr. Kidd said that what the Conservatives as a body would do would transpire, and if they should try to do this he would retire. He further said that the principles he professed he wished to see triumph, and for that reason he was willing to support a candidate who advocated those principles. By torturing what Mr. Kidd did say an effort is made to give a false impression.

Notice the sneer at Mr. Kidd in the paragraph quoted. It shows how little attention should be paid to the utterance of the Liberal organs. Mr. Kidd is now "one Kidd," though the Liberals thought him worthy of being President of their Association for twelve years, and at their last meeting, in his absence, elected him First Vice-President of their Association. He has also been Reeve of one of the important townships of the county for twelve years and has occupied the Warden's chair, besides being Chairman of the important Finance Committee for eight years and holding that position now. This shows how the Liberal organs will attempt to belittle men—and this instance is a glaring one in view of the position Mr. Kidd so long held in the party—and shows that their estimates of men whose action they do not like are utterly unreliable.

The local Liberal organ was not so bold in its sneers, though its patronizing tone was unnecessarily offensive, but it would have been just as creditable if the local Liberals had spoken out themselves instead of making use of the Globe to do what they were afraid to do.

It is a little remarkable that, while the Globe attacks Equal Rights candidates in some constituencies, it does not do so in all. That Association has nominated a candidate in East Durham, but the Globe has no sneers for him while the Port Hope Guide gives him encouragement. The reason is that in that constituency the Equal Rights candidate is opposing the Conservative nominee, and when that is the case it makes a great difference to the Globe. It does not mention his name in the article in which it attacks other candidates of that Association, because if it had done so it would have shown that its pretence that the Association was working in the interests of the Conservatives was not true.

MR. MOWAT is not at all a stingy man. During the session just closed he, unsolicited, raised the pay of jurors from $1.50 to $2.00 a day.—Port Hope Guide.

It is in this manner that Mr. Mowat's reputation is bolstered up. The bill making this change was introduced by Mr. Meredith.

KEENE CHRONICLES.

Correspondence of the Review.

COUNCIL MEETING.—Otonabee Council met at Keene on April 21st. All the members were present. The west half of lot 22, in 7th concession, was replaced to road division No. 25, and lot 27 in 11th concession, and east half 27th concession 12 were put in road division No. 41. A new road division was formed comprising the lots belonging to the following persons:—Joseph Ball, John Heap, Henry Butcher, Ben R. Matthews, Mrs. Mills, David McMahon and W. Warwick. $1,250.00 was voted for expenditure on roads. Messrs. Stewart, Nelson and Johnston were appointed a committee to examine the road over Taylor's Hill to consider the advisability of making the road on the original allowance. It was decided to hold a Court of Revision on the 26th of May. John Earl and Mrs. Fox were each granted [illegible] for relief. Messrs. Francis Birdsall and James Rennie were allowed to commute their statute labor for two years. A petition for sidewalks from the inhabitants of Keene was referred to the Committee on Sidewalks. The clerk was instructed to notify Gavan Shearer, sr., to remove his fence off road allowance opposite lot 22, concession 2. The Council adjourned to 26th may.

TELLTALE BLOOD STAINS.

The Mystery of Kimber's Disappearance from a Montreal Hotel Deepening Daily

MONTREAL, April 28.—As facts accumulate in the disappearance of Thomas Kimber, the handsome, gentlemanly young Englishman, from the Grand Central Hotel on April 11, they tend to the suspicions that Kimber, like poor Benwell, has been foully dealt with.

So far the only detective work which has resulted in anything has been accomplished by a newspaper man, who has forced the authorities to follow up his clews. It was a reporter who unearthed the fact that Kimber's room was spattered with blood.

Detectives searched the hotel premises from cellar to garret to-day, but not a trace of the missing man was found.

The theory of the detectives is that Kimber either attempted suicide in his bedroom and failing to accomplish his end rushed madly down to the canal and ended his life there, or that he has been the victim of some scoundrel of the Burchell stamp who, knowing he was daily expecting a remittance from England, so soon as he received it they murdered him and secured his booty. So far there are many suspicious circumstances, but unfortunately no direct proof.

Kimber drank heavily on shipboard and spent the proceeds of a £25 check, which he had cashed, since his arrival in Canada. For a few days before his disappearance he was very hard up and pawned his gold hunting case watch and a fashionable overcoat, but on Thursday he apparently had received money from some quarter.

TO GO FOR THE GOPHER.

The Government Will Ask an Appropriation to Purchase Traps.

OTTAWA, April 28.—Four private bills were passed in the House this afternoon: Respecting the purchase by the Pontiac Pacific Railway of the Aylmer branch of the C.P.R.; respecting the Ontario Pacific Railway; the Hugh Forbes Keefer and Christiana Tilman Glover divorce bills.

Sir Adolphe Caron in answer to Mr. Denison said it had not been thought necessary since 1881 to have the Board of Visitors inspect the Royal Military College, all business being transacted through the head of the board who is also the adjutant-general and general officer commanding, visiting the college every year.

In answer to Mr. McNeill, Mr. Colby said that owing to the absence of the Minister of Marine no action had yet been taken on the report of Commander Gordon, R.N., recommending the suspension of Captain Robertson's certificate for one year in consequence of the Baltic outrage.

The Government bills respecting the department of the geological survey, the Indian Advancement Act, grants of public lands and the Marriage with a Deceased Wife's Sister Act was read a third time and passed.

The House then went into Committee of Supply, considering the supplementary estimates for 1889-90 up to recess and continuing in supply upon reassembling at 8 o'clock.

In the committee Sir John Macdonald said no hope could be held out of a reduction in the strength of the Northwest Mounted Police, but rather it might be expected to be strengthened if the large mining population expected came into the country.

Mr. Dewdney announced that an arrangement was now almost completed by which the Canadian Pacific Railway Company would shortly select all the lands to which they were entitled in the Northwest. The Government did not expect to obtain much of such lands in the railway belt proper.

Mr. Dewdney announced also that the Government intended to ask an appropriation for the purchase of traps to catch the gophers infesting the Northwest and for the extermination of which many devices have been tried. Owing to the dry seasons they have increased very rapidly during the past few years and have lived largely on the unoccupied Government lands. The traps will be be placed on such lands.

At 11.10 the committee rose and the House then went again into committee on the Banking Bill. Mr. Foster announced it was the intention to introduce a clause forbidding assignment, hypothecating or pledging of its notes by a bank. He also moved the addition of provisions giving the Government power to rank upon the assets of an insolvent bank for notes redeemed out of the redemption fund, also that the Government should not be held liable for redemption of notes to any amount greater than the amount then contained in the fund.

The committee rose and reported progress and the House adjourned at 12.40.

A Successful Woman Journalist.

One of the most interesting personalities in the field of European journalism is Mrs. Crawford, who is a brilliant example of her favorite theory, that there is nothing that a man can do that a woman cannot do, and there are some things that would be more difficult for a man to do than it would be for a woman. While still in her teens some private letters of hers fell into the hands of a London editor, who was so struck with their vivacity of style and originality of sentiment that he engaged her as a contributor to his paper. Promptly she set herself to work to master the science of politics, which topic is usually avoided by journalistic women as both complicated and uncongenial. A single instance of her power of endurance, memory and determination indicates the manner of woman she is and the spirit with which she faces her duty. On the occasion of the historic debate of May 25 at Versailles she sat in her place in the loge grillee, which Mr. Thiers' friendship had procured for her, from early morning until midnight without taking a single note, and carried away all the important points of that extraordinary sitting. Then she returned to Paris and sat up until 8 o'clock the next morning to complete her description of the scene and abstract of the speeches. On the 18d of March, 1871, she made her way alone into the barricaded city of Paris and interviewed the communist leaders as they sat in council. No harm or insult was offered to the plucky little woman whose ready wit, natural intrepidity and sympathy with the people were her only weapons. She has walked the wards of the cholera hospitals amid the dead, and dying, and, prompted by the same journalistic instinct, has rushed at midnight through a thunderstorm in satin slippers and a ball dress to the nearest telegraph station to send a description of the dresses.

Her social life is not less brilliant than her professional career. She was the intimate friend of Gambetta, the companion of Thiers and Louis Blanc, the friend of Barthelemy de St. Hilaire, and, besides all the rest, she has been a happy wife and brought up four children, whose promise of success is most apparent. And she was only a woman, a weaker vessel, a descendant of Eve.

A Young Lady Personates Influenza.

At the last fancy dress ball attended by the nobility of St. Petersburg, the palm was awarded to a young lady attired to represent the influenza. She was dressed in Oriental fashion, and wore on her head a tall cap inscribed with the names of the principal doctors who have studied the disease. The map of Europe was depicted on her skirts, and a gigantic spider occupied a prominent portion on the shores of the Baltic. The lady's fan was covered with the names of those chemists who welcomed the arrival of the fatal scourge. During the evening she distributed leaflets with poems extolling its virtues; fever, pains in the head, aching of the bones. etc.—Il Caffaro.

A Warning to Others.

A young man who should have been above such an act, was charged at the Police Court this morning with committing a nuisance on the market square. He pleaded guilty. The Magistrate spoke very strongly in regard to the offence and fined the young man five dollars or ten days in gaol. He fine was paid.

The Queen's Birthday.

The question now is will the Queen's Birthday be observed here as a public holiday on Saturday or on Monday. A petition is in circulation to-day among the business men asking the Council to declare Monday a public holiday. If this should be complied with Peterborough will practically have two holidays, as Saturday will be a gala day here whether proclaimed a public holiday or not.

Layman's Evangelical Association.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Laymen's Evangelical Association took place last night, the President in the chair. After the devotional exercises and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. R. Holland, the reports of the several meetings in connection with the Association were given. The reports were of a very encouraging nature. The Association has now four weekly appointments. There was a strong feeling manifested on the part of the members to visit, as far as possible, the attendants of the several appointments that the Association has charge of. After spending a very pleasant and profitable evening the meeting closed with the doxology and benediction.

The Lacrosse Men.

At a meeting of the directors of the P. A. A. A. held yesterday afternoon in the Olympic club rooms, President R. B. Rogers presided, and the application of the lacrosse men for admission to the Association was considered. Messrs. W. A. Sanderson and W. Lech were present as representatives of the lacrosse men. The matter was discussed and favorably looked upon by all present, and a notice of motion was given that at the next meeting a resolution will be moved to admit lacrosse into the Association. This will strengthen the Association and combine within its interest all the chief sports that are popular to-day. The lacrosse club will play a match here on the 24th of May with the Capitals, of Toronto, a crack lacrosse team which is coming down with the Queen's Own. The baseball club will also have a game on here on the 24th.

ON TWO CHARGES.

Harry Brault Fined for Selling Liquor Without a License—The Charge of Stealing Dismissed.

Harry Brault, who spent last night in the police cells with two rather serious charges hanging over his head, was brought before the Magistrate this morning and given his trial. One charge arose out of the other. Jules Lambert, a Frenchman, had twenty dollars taken from his pocket, and as he had been in Brault's house drinking he suspected Brault of having purloined the pocket book. He therefore informed the police of the alleged theft and the circumstances and laid an information against Brault for stealing, while the Chief laid another against the young Frenchman for selling liquor without a license. The man Lambert is a stranger here, says he came from Madoc, and is of rather a hard countenance.

THE LIQUOR CASE.

The first charge taken up was that of selling liquor without a license. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. G. M. Roger defended the prisoner. The witnesses were all Frenchmen and required an interpreter.

Jules Lambert, the Frenchman who alleges he was relieved of his pocket book, was the first witness called. He said on Wednesday last he was at Harry Brault's house, corner of Louis and King-sts. He went there in company with two companions, George Richards and Napoleon Simon. When they went in the lady of the house gave them each a drink of beer as a gift and afterwards he had called for and paid for three more glasses of the same beverage. He could not recollect whether any more was drank or not as he remembered nothing more. He had had a glass of beer at the Queen's before he went to Brault's. Richards had drank with him at the Queen's and said that he had no money, but if Lambert would go with him he would get a drink. They then went to Harry Brault's. It was between seven and eight o'clock in the evening when they went to the house.

George Richards and Napoleon Simon, the two companions who were with Lambert and who board at Harry Brault's, gave their evidence. They acknowledged having the beer, but said nothing was paid for it. Mrs. Brault, they said, was in the habit of giving them a drink when they wanted it without any money.

The Magistrate after considering the evidence found the prisoner guilty and fined him fifty dollars and costs or three months in gaol.

THE CHARGE OF STEALING.

The second charge, that of stealing twenty dollars from the man Lambert, was then proceeded with. Lambeth was the first witness. He remembered being at Brault's house on Wednesday night but did not remember leaving there. He woke up the next morning in his own bed in the Montreal house and his pocket book and money was gone. He had last seen the money in his pocket book in Harry Brault's house when he went to pay for the beer he had there. On Friday night a man by the name of Blais had come to him and offered him ten dollars if he would not proceed against Brault.

Blais was the next witness. He said Harry Brault had sent him to Lambert to offer him ten dollars to drop the charge of selling the liquor, but the stolen money was not spoken of.

The charge was dismissed by the Magistrate as there was no evidence to lead to a conviction.

Brault's fine of fifty dollars was paid.

The Queen's Birthday.

At a meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade last night a resolution was adopted recommending the Town Council to place $500 at the disposal of the committee to entertain the Queen's Own regiment from Toronto on May 24th. The 24th will be a regal gala day in Peterborough.

A Meeting for all Churches.

A meeting in the interests of the Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society will be held to-morrow evening in St. Andrew's Church. This Society has carried on its work for fifty-six years and belongs to all Christian churches, and the work is carried on by earnest colporteurs who carry the Gospel to the masses outside the churches. The meeting to-morrow night will be addressed by Rev. Dr. Moffat, of Toronto, the subject being "How to Reach the Masses and the Jesuits."

Among the Attractions

at the Olympic Club Amateur Minstrels will be banjo duets and solos by Dr. Jebb and Mr. F. J. Daly. Dr. Jebb's playing was the big attraction at the Grenadier's concert last week at Toronto. There will be some splendid clog and jig dances by Simons and Tierney and other good features. The overture will show a group of twenty gentlemen of color, dressed in evening costume—claw hammer coats, white vests, etc. Thirty wigs have been ordered for the occasion as it is against the rules for any performer to wear his own hair on top. Ladies who desire to obtain locks of the end men's curls can do so after the show, on applying at the stage door. 10 cts. per lock. No keys are furnished with these locks. Get your seats marked at Greatrix's. 1d100

A Lost Child.

A little three year old daughter of Mr. O'Donnell, who lives on Concession-st., Ashburnham, wandered away from home yesterday morning at nine o'clock. It crossed the bridge into town and at twelve o'clock had made its way north to Antrim-st. Here its bewildered condition was noticed, but the poor child could not tell where it lived. Mr. Edgcumbe, who keeps the grocery at the corner of George and Aylmer-sts., took the little wanderer in and cared for it. At about three o'clock the grief-stricken mother, who after a weary search had at last got trace of her child, learned of the little one being at Mr. Edgcumbe's and hurried there to see if it was her lost one. Her anxiety was relieved when she found the child playing quite happily there, and the little wanderer was taken home.

A MATRIMONIAL EVENT.

At the residence of the bride's mother, 256 George-st., this afternoon a happy matrimonial event was solemnized, quietly and unostentatiously, when Miss Maggie Moffat, one of Peterborough's best known and most popular young ladies, was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. Alex. Gibson, of the firm of Clarke & Gibson, jewelers. As remarked the wedding was a quiet one, being witnessed only by a few of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Rev. E. F. Torrance cemented the matrimonial union with due ceremony, while the usual conventionalities of bridesmaid and groomsman were dispensed with. The ceremony performed the happy couple with their congratulating friends sat down to an elaborate wedding supper.

The bride and groom are two of Peterborough's best known young people, and their friends evidenced their kind wishes and friendship by a handsome and varied array of wedding gifts. The bride, who by her affability and courtesy in her position in the Savings Bank department of the post office had won the respect and esteem of all who met her there in business, was the recepient of a very handsome embodiment of this respect and esteem in the shape of a very elegant complete and costly cabinet of cutlery which was procured at China Hall and was the gift of the business and professional men of the town. As a valued member of St. Paul's choir she will also receive the well wishes of her fellow singers and the congregation. Mr. Gibson is an enterprising young business man with a host of friends and the active and leading interest he has always taken in the Bicycle Club has won for him the indebtedness of all the wheelmen in Peterborough. The Bicycle club therefore took advantage of the happy occasion and presented him with an elegant hall rack, of antique oak and beautiful design, with a suitable inscription inscribed thereon. Among the vast collection of wedding gifts were also an elegant silver tea service from Mr. and Mrs. Haggart, of Winnipeg, a beautiful china tea set from Col. and Mrs. Rogers, a complete dinner set from Mr. J. Moffat, of Kincardine, an elegant secretaire from Mr. Clarke, the groom's partner. The bride also received a cheque for one hundred dollars from the cousin of the groom, Mr. Wm. Gibson, of Beamsville.

The happy couple leave on the 5.15 train this evening for a trip westward and will visit New York and other American cities before their return. They will carry with them the wishes of an unusually large circle of friends for a bon voyage, not only while on their honeymoon but in their journey together through life. The REVIEW will add its congratulations and wishes for a happy future to those of the multitude of friends.

The Peterborough Boating Club.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held at the office of Messrs. Hatton & Wood on Friday evening, May 2, at 8 p. m. Members are urged to attend.

Oddfellows in Lodge.

At the regular meeting of Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F. last evening, an informal programme was rendered under the order of "good and welfare." Bro. Nugent, N.G., gave a recitation and a reading, Bros. Hendry and Kincaid sang, Bro. Hooper recited, and a number of visiting brothers present made short appropriate speeches.

Editor—What price have you put on that poem?

Poet—A dollar and eighty cents a thousand feet; same as Gas Company charges. This is a higher rate than Hawley Bro's. teas at 30 cents per pound, but the public have got to get Hawley's teas and spring poetry. Hawley has the tea, the poetry can be supplied. dtf

At the Opera House.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company opened a season of one week at the Opera House last night, but the audience was not as large as the talent of the company merited. The pleasing drama, "Woman against Woman," was well put on, Miss Mills, as usual, winning the favor of her audience, while the company as a whole is strong. To-night the drama, "Hearts of Oak," will be put on the boards.

Personal.

Messrs. John Bell and C. H. Daley, of Peterborough, have successfully passed the examinations at Queen's University, Kingston, for the degree of B.A.

Mr. Mordes Kincaid arrived in town last evening on a short visit to renew his many acquantances. "Mord" is now living at Hornersville, N. Y. State, and likes his new home splendidly.

You can have your eyes examined and the B. Laurance, Pebble Spectacles and Eye-Glass scientifically adjusted to your sight. Mr. Laurance, the eminent Oculist-Optican, will be at John McKee's drug store all this day and to-morrow (Wednesday). There is no extra charge for examination or consultation. 2d99

To Get A Beautiful Skin.

The plainest features become pretty when clothed with a fresh velvety skin. It is in the power of every woman to have a soft, fine skin, thus adding much to her charms, if she will devote a little time and care to her toilet. It should be a duty as well as a pleasure to every woman to enhance the powers of attractiveness. First of all, one must keep the face free from those unsightly black heads or grubs. Bathe the face in hot water; rub on a little oil and then take an old-fashioned watch key and pry out all the large ones. Afterward rub on cream or any soothing ointment. In the morning there will be no trace of the redness.

To have a clear skin it is essential to keep the digestive organs in good order and sleep as much as possible. Sleep will do more to preserve the freshness of youth than any other one thing. At night wash the face in warm water—never use hot—using soap freely to remove the dust of the day. Then take a pint of cold water, to which a tablespoonful of bay rum has been added, and bathe the face for five minutes. Dry the face on a coarse towel, rubbing gently to get up a pleasant friction. Lastly spread a little cream lightly on the face and neck. Use only the finest cream and purest soap in the market.

In the morning remove the grease with plenty of warm water and soap—followed by a cold bath as at night. Then apply a little powder with a soft linen rag to remove the shine. Powder is an essential adjunct to a lady's toilet—let men say what they will to the contrary—but never use a cheap powder. The best will be found harmless. Avoid all face lotions, as their use is sure to ruin the skin. By following the above directions you will find in a short time that those horrid little specks that give the skin such a coarse look will disappear and the skin become as soft as a rose petal.—Ex.

AN IMPENDING STRUGGLE.

An Appeal for Aid and to Bring Improvement and Victory to the Toilers.

The movement for short hours of labor among the wage earners is a live subject in almost every city and town on this continent. The eight hour system is now under agitation, and it will be remembered that a large and representative meeting was held here a few weeks ago to listen to an address on this question. In connection with this eight hour movement the REVIEW has received the following appeal from Mr. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor:—

NEW YORK, April 22nd, 1890.

To the Wage Workers and Sympathizers with Progress in America:—

GREETING: As you are well aware, in accordance with the resolution of the Boston Convention of the American Federation of Labor to select a trade to make the demand for the enforcement of the eight hour workday, May 1st, the Executive Council have decided that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America shall make the demand.

We had reason to hope from the calm, deliberate and educational manner with which the agitation for the movement has been conducted, from the timely notice which we gave of our intended movement, so that contracts and arrangements could be made in accordance with the shorter hours' work; and, further, from the decision of the St. Paul convention of the employing builders, that the reduction of the hours of labor to eight per day would have been gracefully conceded without cessation of work or dispute.

We are confronted, however, with an evident determination on the part of the employing builders to antagonize by every means in their power the introduction of this most absolutely necessary reduction of the hours of labor. We call upon you to witness the hostile attitude of the boss builders of Chicago and Indianapolis as evidence of what opposition and treatment we may expect when the general demand is made May 1st.

No quarter is to be given to labor. We will have to conquer by force of numbers, organization, determination and discipline, what is not only our just and reasonable right, but even the slightest concession to ameliorate the condition of the toiling masses.

It appears that the wealth, power and influence of the employing and corporate classes of the country are to be concentrated to defeat the movement, which seeks not only to improve the condition of the employed, but which will find employment, and, consequently, save from poverty, degradation and despair the hundreds of thousands of our idle fellow men and women.

In view of this situation, it will be necessary for the wage workers and their friends of America to rally with a greater unanimity of purpose than ever before; to concentrate all their efforts to counteract and overcome the action of our enemies.

Those of our fellow toilers who contemplate taking action to secure concessions in their several trades and callings, we ask to defer action until this first great struggle has been won. If we are successful in this contest—which we shall be with your aid and co-operation—concessions will be easier obtained by all. Should you, on the other hand, diffuse your efforts upon various movements, it will but mean defeat for all; even though an advantage be gained by you, it will be but temporary. It will surely be taken from you, and leave the wage workers of the whole country in a demoralized and hopeless condition for quite a time.

To meet the combined opposition of the enemies of labor, its friends must rally and stand united. They must voluntarily contribute their mites to place at the disposal of the American Federation of Labor a sum of money sufficient to meet all contingencies. Remember, that though the funds of the Federation and its affiliated unions are large, they may be strained to the uttermost; and though your contributions may be small, when all do the best they can a vast amount will be the result.

We desire to be prepared for every emergency which may arise in this movement, and assure you that, should the fund raised not be required to assure victory in the eight hour movement of the carpenters and joiners, to devote it to securing the same beneficent results to the trades and calling selected in their turn to make the demand.

There is a very large number of sympathizers with the labor movement who are not wage workers, and who would gladly financially aid the impending struggle, and an opportunity is here afforded them so to do.

In the name of our noble and progressive cause, we appeal to all to aid to the extent of your ability, and bring improvement and victory to the toilers, honor and advancement to the entire people of our country and the whole civilized world.

Send all contributions to Secretary Chris. Evans, No. 21 Clinton Place, N. Y.

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL J. GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

Petticoats are Barbarous.

"Another point I make is the absurdity of dressing yourselves up in petticoats, which I call relics of barbarism. I haven't a petticoat in the world, but I remember the days of my bondage, when, like you, I tripped over my dress going up stairs, and only got that out of the way to fall over my petticoat beneath it; when, like you, I have stood on a corner on windy days, and had my petticoat wind round and round my legs until I couldn't stir; when, like you, on rainy days, I have gathered up my dress behind, only to have that petticoat hang out behind in the mud and rain. When my divided skirt winds, it winds only around one leg at a time, and thus leaves me one leg always free to depend upon. It can't trip me going up stairs or convert itself into a broom to sweep up all the refuse going down stairs. Make your dresses by all means in the prevailing fashion of the day, but adapt that fashion and drape it on a gown form that neither exerts undue pressure at any point or makes its weight felt in one place more than another. Let the weight be evenly distributed and plenty of room at the waist line.—Mrs. Jenness Miller.

Courting in Africa.

Mr. Stevens was entertained at dinner by the Savage Club, London, a few evenings since and related that marrying among the Wa-Taita, as with most African tribes, is simply a question of purchasing the bride from her parents. The price of one of those oleaginous and bead be-jeweled damsels (presumably beads and all) is three to four cows.

The coy damsel, in accordance with an ancient custom of the tribe, affecting to flee from the consummation of her own happiness, runs away and hides in the hut of some relative. Collecting his friends, and armed with the search warrant of time-honored custom, the groom then enters and searches house after house where he fancies his bride may be concealed.

At length the shrinking maiden is discovered, amid much merriment, and is drawn triumphantly from her hiding place. Four of the groom's assistants, seizing each an arm or leg, then carry her off to her new home.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

Home Seekers & Investors Look at This.

I have bought more property than I can afford to carry and consequently must sell even at a loss. I am not alone. Several others have done likewise, and have also resolved to follow my example by unloading regardless of cost. Our loss will be the buyer's gain, and sharp men having money to invest never had such a chance to secure homes and profitable investments, choice properties of all kinds, central and suburban. Delay means loss. Full particulars at the office, 357 George st.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

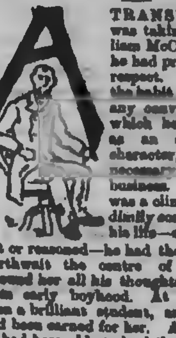
The man smelled a romance, and being a Frenchman, that conquered him. He refused in two languages—and then yielded. Sure enough the gentleman had been there. No, he remembered nothing about him. He had evidently come early in the morning, for his name was the first on that day's list. Could he escort the lady to her carriage? No? He saluted her then, and was delighted to have been of service. And so he bowed the young woman out, and dreamt of Margaret's face for fifteen minutes—which was a long time for a man like him. There was no denying that Margaret was very comely. The little damsel, whose name, by the way, was Jeanne Whitfield, thought so too. That evening as Margaret sat playing one of those ever sweet things of Chopin's that women love, as they do all confections, the little damsel sitting beside her could hardly conceal her enthusiasm. For one thing, there were Margaret's hands, which, thought the damsel to herself, would have made her famous if she had been one of those great ladies that Louise Muhlbach writes about. The most brilliant action on the piano could not make them muscular. They were wonderfully fair, but not a dead white. They glowed warmly, and even the nails had a delicate flush like tinted porcelain. Margaret's face was interesting because of its expression, but her hands were beautiful with the beauty of perfect molding and color.

What the little damsel was thinking, some one else was also thinking in another part of the city. Let the lights be ever so low, or his eyes be ever so dim, still Harry Leiter saw those beautiful hands and heard mysterious melodies that they played—heard them day and night. They played pure melodies, and in vain did his tired brain try to force them to jangle ribald ballads and coarse snatches. Always there came back to his shrinking, yet fascinated ears, the same lovely strains. Now it was Schubert's serenade, dying in melancholy tenderness; again, it was "The Wanderer," full of divine despair; sometimes it was a resistant chorus from the great master whom Margaret loved above all others. And she could be false and yet play these true things—these creatures that embody the best that God has given to man, and that in their perfection rival the creatures of the great magician! But she was incapable of feeling, and could not know that she was committing sacrilege. If she had accepted his devotion poured so passionately at her feet, and known all the time that she was lying and laughing, she, of course, could play a hymn to Truth with her degraded hands and see no inconsistency and suffer no remorse. A coarser man than Harry would have raged at the falsity of his mistress, but he could hardly have suffered as Harry did. All his life he had been given to dreams. The chastening influence of his uncle had been around him since infancy. A poem had been his pastime, the possession of a new song or a fair picture his greatest reward. It was a strange atmosphere in which to raise a lad in the nineteenth century, and in a commercial city like Chicago, and it might have made a mental weakling out of a different sort of a man. But physically, Harry was the embodiment of strength, and he was protected by a spontaneous sense of humor which never deserted him, and which kept him at all times from being ridiculous. It made him love life, and all sorts of life.

He could drink cheap wine in the fantastic little Italian restaurant with the dusky musicians from the west side theatres with the same grace and enjoyment that he quaffed an after-dinner glass and told his most delicious stories at the most fashionable residence on Dearborn avenue. But now no merry spirit of mirth lightened his misery. The accent of the attendant, at which he had smiled for a day or two, had become familiar. He heard nothing but Margaret's melodies swelling louder and louder. So it made no impression on him at all when a note from a friend conveyed the simple intelligence that he would call on him the next day and see about securing defence. The grand jury had held him to the Criminal Court.

He really felt little interest in the matter. But as he lay down he saw in his dozing a man climbing, with fatal familiarity, the lattice to Margaret's window. He saw the light flare up in that room and burn brightly for a time. Then it went out. There was nothing but the night and its silence. And so he dropped to sleep with her music ringing in his ears.

CHAPTER X.



A TRANSFORMATION was taking place in William McCook. Until now he had preserved his self-respect. He had been in the habit of setting down any convert meanness in which he might indulge, as an eccentricity of character, or as one of the necessary incidents of business. But his life was a climax, and he was dimly conscious of it. All his life—ever since he had felt or reasoned—he had thought Margaret Barthwait the centre of the universe. Around her all his thoughts had clustered from early boyhood. At college he had been a brilliant student, and every honor had been earned for her. At the same time he had been able to lead the life of almost reckless pleasure, which he kept diligently from her ears. Selfish, vain, aggressive, he had been far from popular. And to this, he was indifferent. He was in the favor of the professors, and when he left school and entered business he still had the faculty for winning the favor of those in power. Perhaps one reason for this was the ability he showed as an organizer. Scheming men recognized in him a powerful ally. He was just the man to give valuable aid to a political machine if once his own interests were involved. His worst qualities had, therefore, proved his best friends. As his success increased, his arrogance grew, till at last it became so great that he thought he had only to desire anything to get it. Margaret's rejection of him, and for a man whom he despised as effeminate and insignificant, instead of humiliating him filled him with bitterness. He was determined to be revenged. And on the day that he openly admitted to himself that he would be avenged by fair means or foul, he lost his self-respect. From that moment he became a very dangerous man. From that moment he knew, and his weeping guardian angel knew, that he would stop at nothing. From that moment he was given up to greed of place and triumph and money. Such were not worth much to him without Margaret, and his first step was, therefore to secure her.

As soon as it was declared that Harry was to be tried for the murder of his uncle, and fixed that McCook was to represent the State in the case, he set every energy to the campaign in hand. He was a coarse man, and like all coarse men, had a sort of clouded intelligence, or he would have recognized the fact that hurting Harry's chances could not help his own, nor could he realize that a woman of Margaret's character would infinitely prefer a [illegible] man to one who could work against a friend. But McCook believed that Margaret would think him the victim of his position, as, indeed, he was, to an extent. He did not give her credit for the shrewdness to discover the scheme of his work. He had never had very much respect for her intellect, nor for the intellect of any woman. Men of his stamp are not apt to have. It was from no feeling of mental affinity that he loved her. The love of such men is a peculiar thing. It may be taken as a sort of abstract passion, existing in them from their birth just as much as their muscular strength. Chance directs the course of it. And when once it is fixed it becomes a sort of insanity.

He sat in his office late one afternoon, when Dennis Pond entered. Pond lifted his hat with the most elaborate courtesy, which put McCook on his guard immediately. He thought he was mocking, and it may have been possible. The young newspaper man had been known to do worse things.

"I am perfectly aware that you are not dying to see me," said Pond with a well-developed smile, "but the truth is, Mr. McCook, I couldn't stay away any longer." McCook with difficulty refrained from throwing him out of the office. There was something about the fellow's good-natured insolence that infuriated him. He nodded in an icy manner that may be said to belong peculiarly to Chicago. In no other city of the world are business and professional men so puffed up with pride, or possessed with so little courtesy. Having thus made an effort to transfix Pond with the Chicago stare, he awaited his further remarks in an attitude that said: "My disagreeable and unwelcome friend, I have something less than two minutes to devote to your service." This look caused Pond to leisurely unbutton his overcoat, take it off, hang it on a hook, and sit down. Next he took off his overshoes. Then he passed his cigar case to McCook. The attorney refused with a shake of the head. Pond drew forth a cigar, lit it, puffed at it slowly and said:—

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

TORONTO, April 29.—The grain markets are strong and the situation favorable for holders. Beerbohm's report of English markets is the most cheering for a year. Locally prices are very stiff. On call one car of straight roller flour offered at $4.30. Toronto tariff freights, with $4.60 bid here, and $4.75 bid for it delivered in Montreal. Wheat is very strong. A car of spring wheat sold on the Northern at 97c delivered at a mill on the line. Seven cars of No. 1 spring sold at $1 here, with that figure offered for more and refused. Holders of white wheat are virtually out of the market. Oats are firm, with sales on track at 37c. Peas steady, with quotations of 57c on the Midland and 56c on the Northern. Barley is not offering at all freely. There are buyers at 48c and 42c for No. 3 extra. Bran is firmer, with buyers at $12.50 and $13 on track.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS.

Dressed meats are scarce and firm. Beef, 7c to 8½c; lamb, 12½c; new lambs, $5 to $6; veal, 6c to 9c. Eggs unchanged at 10c. Good roll butter is plentiful at 14c to 16c. Potatoes, steady at 55c for cars and 65c for small lots. Baled hay is firm. No. 1 is held at equal to $11 on track with buyers at $10.50. For No. 2 $8 was bid, but sellers would not accept it. Mixed offers at $6.50 with little demand.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat, strong; corn, firm and continental demand continues. Cargoes on passage—Wheat, very strong at extreme prices; corn, steadily held. "If a woman is pretty,
To me 'tis no matter,
Be she blonde or brunette,
So she lets me look at her."

An unhealthy woman is rarely, if even beautiful. The peculiar diseases to which so many of the sex are subject, are prolific causes of pale sallow faces, blotched with unsightly pimples, dull, lustreless eyes and emaciated forms. Women so afflicted, can be permanently cured by using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; and with the restoration of health comes that beauty which, combined with good qualities of head and heart, makes women angels of loveliness.

WARRANTED. "Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. It is a positive specific for all those painful disorders, irregularities and weaknesses with which so many women are afflicted.

FIELD, GARDEN & FLOWER SEEDS.

Purchasers of seeds must now be convinced of the disappointment experienced in buying seeds from boxes or packages already put up and placed in stores on commission and in many instances transferred from place to place for many years before being sold, the disappointment experienced not only from their non-vegetative powers but from the small quantity contained in each paper. To prevent these disappointments Messrs. Ormond & Walsh sell the whole of their seeds by weight at a fair and moderate price with a guarantee of their

—AT—
TURNBULL'S

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming. They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

GERMANS MARCHING IN FORCE TO ATTACK ILWA.

Whydah Shelled by a French Cruiser—Prince Bismarck to Appear in Parliament—The State of Siege in Crete Raised—Dahomian Depredations.

LONDON, April 29.—A large German force under Major Wissmann has left Bagamayo to attack Ilwa. The British corvette Turquoise with the British Vice-consul on board has sailed for Kilwa to protect British interests there.

The Dahomians are felling the palm trees around Porto Novo, thus destroying the crop for several years. The French cruiser Sane has shelled part of Whydah.

The railway from Delagoa Bay to the frontier of the Transvaal has been completed and opened to traffic.

The Shah of Persia has cancelled the concession obtained by a Russian company for the construction of a railway from Resht to Enzellee, the seaport of the former place.

The Hamburger Nachrichten asserts that Prince Bismarck will appear in Parliament, but with the sole object of lending his voice to the Council of State.

General Lehndorff, an aide-de-camp to the Emperor, and Herr Stumm, German Minister to Spain, will visit Prince Bismarck at Friedrichsruhe and spend several days there.

The state of siege in Crete has been raised and martial law has been abolished. The Christians are jubilant.

YATES' GOSSIP.

A Munchausen Story from Berlin—All About Edmund's Royal Friends.

LONDON, April 29.—There is a story going about Berlin which reminds one of the Archbishop of Granada and Gil Blas. Emperor William some weeks ago sent in an anonymous essay to the annual competition of the general staff, which Count Waldersee not only criticised but ridiculed. The Emperor, who was present, became so excited that Gen. von Caprivi, who was listening, began to suspect that His Majesty must be the author, and he at once proceeded to support the ideas of the writer, which he eulogised, describing the essay as in every way admirable. The Emperor then disclosed the secret and begged Count Waldersee to tell him candidly whether Gen. von Caprivi had convinced him that His Majesty's views were correct, the result being that the Count repeated his former observations but in milder terms and then the Emperor could not conceal his anger, the result being that the Count went to Italy for a holiday. Probably it was General von Caprivi's intelligent appreciation of His Majesty's essay which first recommended him for the post of Chancellor. The authors of the best three essays in this competition made their names known after the award had been given and the Emperor would have been delighted, and with reason, if he had won a prize anonymously; so that he was much irritated and mortified to find his paper put aside with scorn and derision.

The Queen paid several visits to the grand ducal mausoleum on Rosenhohe during her stay at Darmstadt. She was accompanied on one occasion by Empress Frederick. Both of them placed large wreaths on the tomb of Princess Annice.

The Prince of Wales will go to Hamburg, as usual, about the middle of August, unless, indeed, he should decide to try Kissingen, where the Duke of Edinburgh is to be.

It is exceedingly probable that the Princess of Wales will pay another visit to the baths of Schwalbach about the middle of August.

Princess Christian is looking remarkably well and is in very good spirits. She and her daughters attended the bazar at Windsor last week, at which she evidently did a thriving trade. There is very little evidence of the weakness of the princess' sight, except that she had grown thinner.

By the Rat Poison Route.

UTICA, N.Y., April 29.—Yesterday afternoon a girl named Rhetta Bailey of Herkimer took a teaspoonful of rat poison. The physician who was summoned was unable to save her and she died this morning. She was 18 years of age and no reason is known why she should take her life.

HE FEELS MUCH EASIER.

KEMMLER LEARNS OF HIS RESPITE FROM DEATH.

Why Judge Wallace Granted the Writ of Habeas Corpus—Long Litigation Likely to Prolong the Murderer's Life for Years.

AUBURN, April 29.—The constitution of the United States guarantees that cruel and unusual punishments for crime shall not be inflicted, and upon the contention that the act of the New York Legislature providing for the infliction of the death penalty by electricity was in contravention of this provision, Attorney Roger M. Sherman of New York was to-day granted by Judge Wallace a writ of habeas corpus, returnable June 17, in the case of William Kemmler. The writ is as follows:

THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

To Charles F. Durston, Warden and Agent of Auburn Prison.

GREETING:

The people of the United States, whom God defend, do command you that have the body of William Kemmler, by you imprisoned and detained as it is said, together with the time and cause of such imprisonment and detention, by whatsoever name the said William Kemmler is called or charged, before the Circuit Court of the United States for the northern district of New York, to be held at Canandaigua on the third Tuesday of June, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

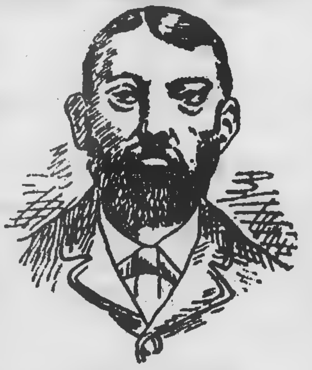
Witness the Honorable
[L.S.] MELVILLE W. FULLER,
Chief Justice of the United States.

Fail not at your peril, and have you then and there this writ.

On the back of the writ is this endorsement:

The within writ is granted this 29th day of April, 1890.
WILLIAM J. WALLACE,
Judge U.S. Circuit Court.

Judge Wallace is one of the nine circuit judges of the United State Courts, his circuit



WILLIAM KEMMLER.

The writ of habeas corpus must be granted, as of right, by any of the justices of the higher courts upon application made in due form under oath stating that any person is unlawfully held in custody. It must be granted at any time when it is prayed for whether the court is sitting or not. Either the party himself restrained of his liberty may apply for it or any other person may make the application.

The Court of Appeals, which is the court of last resort in the State of New York, decided in Kemmler's case that the punishment prescribed was not "cruel and unusual" within the meaning of the constitution, but a like provision occurring in the federal as well as the state constitution, the Federal Courts—always jealous of their jurisdiction—are especially the forum in which to try this question insofar as it relates to the federal constitution. The case involving the alleged invalidity under the federal constitution of an act of a State legislature, an appeal will lie from the decision of Judge Wallace to the Supreme Court of the United States, which is now plodding along at least two years in arrears with its docket, so that Kemmler's chances for a long respite from the death-dealing spark just now look exceedingly good.

Kemmler has no money, no friends. This latest effort to save his worthless life is due to the desperate war between the rival electric companies. Harold P. Brown, the expert who was to have charge of the apparatus of death, had a contract with the state which expired May 1. As everyone knows the fatal current was to be supplied by a Westinghouse dynamo. So the friends of that system aver that Brown, who has no love for it, intended to try and send such a current over the wires that the condemned man would be burned, scorched and made an object most horrible. Sixteen hundred volts means death, but they say they feared that 2500 would be turned in on the victim. This would dry up in an instant all the water in the sponges on his head and at his back and show him dead, indeed, but sizzling and burning, as poor Feeks was that day when thousands stood in Centre-street and saw the blue flames jet from his body, high up in the air.

"Think of the effect of such a scene as that on the commercial property of the Westinghouse system," say these people. "It is a plot to drive their machines out of the market."

Should the decision of Judge Wallace be against the constitutionality of the law another most interesting question would arise. In general when a person is released on a writ of habeas corpus he cannot be again restrained of his liberty for the same cause. Would a decision in his favor free Kemmler from all danger of punishment for the murder of Tillie Ziegler? Probably not, as the question of invalidity relates merely to the penalty and if Kemmler escape the electric current it will only be in the end, perhaps several years later, to die by the rope.

The warden for some reason kept putting off announcing to Kemmler the change in his fortunes. A company of newspaper men told him it was cruel and unusual to delay telling a doomed man of his reprieve. Finally the warden smiled and said he would see Kemmler. It was a little before 4 o'clock when the warden went to tell the murderer of the meaning of the paper he had signed and of the writ of habeas corpus. Durston went into the cell at once and found Kemmler writing his autograph on cards, his chief delight. Kemmler raised his head when the warden entered. The warden stayed at the door and beckoned to the prisoner. Kemmler came up and Durston laying his hand on Kemmler's shoulder explained what the papers meant. The prisoner evidently did not fully understand the warden's language. Then Durston said:

"It means that your execution is not coming off now and that you will have two months more and perhaps longer to live."

"Oh," said Kemmler, as if the real facts were beginning to dawn upon him, "that makes me feel much easier."

The warden stood there a moment. Kemmler walked to his chair and sat down. His face was expressionless and he said nothing to indicate astonishment or delight. Durston then came away.

The future of the case will be one of long protracted litigation.

A BATCH OF CONVENTIONS.

Both Parties in Kingston Select Their Candidates.

KINGSTON, April 29.—Both Conservatives and Reformers mustered in strong numbers to-night to select their respective candidates to contest the city in the approaching provincial election. J. H. Metcalfe was chosen by the Conservatives and J. D. Thompson by the Reformers.

To Contest North Norfolk.

DELHI, April 29.—At the Conservative convention held here to-day for the north riding of Norfolk it was decided to contest the riding for the Legislature. The meeting was adjourned subject to a call from the president, when a candidate will be chosen.

Mr. Waters Again Their Choice.

AILSA CRAIG, April 29.—A convention of the North Middlesex Reform Association was held here to-day. Mr. John Waters received the unanimous vote of the convention as a candidate for the Assembly.

North Renfrew Reformers.

PEMBROKE, April 29.—At a convention of the Reformers of North Renfrew, held here to-day, Mr. Thomas Murray was again chosen as the party standard-bearer in the approaching provincial contest.

South Norfolk Reformers.

PORT ROWAN, April 29.—The annual meeting of the Reformers of South Norfolk was held here to-day. The old officers were re-elected. It was decided to call township meetings for the election of township officers on May 3, and also to elect three delegates from each polling division to meet at Vittoria on May 6 at 2 o'clock for the purpose of bringing out a candidate to oppose Mr. Morgan's re-election.

Mr. Ferguson Will Run Again.

THAMESVILLE, April 29.—The Reform convention this afternoon held in Ferguson's Opera House to choose a candidate for East Kent in the coming provincial elections was well attended. Mr. Robert Ferguson, the former member, was the unanimously chosen nominee.

They Stick to Mr. O'Connor.

WALKERTON, April 29.—The Reform convention held here to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent the party in the south riding of Bruce at the approaching provincial general election was largely attended. Mr. H. P. O'Connor of Walkerton, the late member, was the unanimous choice of the convention.

Mr. Meredith Re-Nominated.

LONDON, April 29.—At a meeting of the Conservatives here to-night, Mr. W. R. Meredith was re-nominated for the Assembly.

QUEBEC'S DANGEROUS CLIFF.

Joseph Corbin's Fatal Fall—A Large Influx of Immigrants.

QUEBEC, April 29.—A portion of rock weighing about 100 tons fell from the top of the cliff near Sillery Church yesterday. It crashed through the back of a small wooden house occupied by Mrs. Labor and her family. No one was injured.

This afternoon while a joiner named Joseph Corbin was working on a scaffold in Lachevrotiere-street the scaffold gave way, bringing him to the ground, a distance of over 60 feet, breaking his neck.

Nearly 2000 immigrants arrived by the three steamships to-day. They went west with few exceptions.

Dr. Stanley at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 29.—The Governor-General and staff arrived in the city this afternoon by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Ottawa. During his stay His Excellency will be the guest of Sir Donald and Lady Smith. To-night Sir Donald and Lady Smith gave a dinner party in his honor, Her Ladyship subsequently holding a reception. His Excellency will to-morrow attend the convocation of McGill University in Windsor Hall, and will be the recipient of the D.C.L. degree.

Three Men Drowned.

NEWPORT, Vt., April 29.—A boat containing four men were capsized on the lake last night and Ed. Foss, clerk at the Memphremagog House, Ned Green, an employe of the house, and Joe Robitaille were drowned. Arthur Moore, the fourth occupant, succeeded in swimming ashore. The bodies have not been recovered. The boat was capsized in the attempt of two of the men to change positions.

Hamilton Hotel-Keepers Happy.

HAMILTON, April 29.—The Hamilton Board of License Commissioners held their final meeting yesterday. No change has been made from last year. The number of tavern and saloon licenses issued is 91; beer and wine license 1, at Dundurn Park; shop licenses 28. A few of the licensed tavern-keepers have been put on probation for three months.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

JUDGMENTS ON DISPUTED JURISDICTION.

Mr. Blake's Motion Passed Without Dissent—The Intercolonial Railway Discussed at Length—Minority Report in the Rykert Case.

OTTAWA, April 29.—On motion that the House go into Committee of Supply Mr Blake in amendment moved this resolution of which he had given notice:

"That it is expedient to provide means whereby, on solemn occasions touching the exercise of the power of disallowance or of the appellate power as to educational legislation, important questions of law or fact, may be referred by the executive to a high judicial tribunal for hearing and consideration in such mode that the authorities and parties interested may be represented and that a reasoned opinion may be obtained for the information of the executive."

In support and explanation Mr. Blake said recent events had shown the necessity for such a reference as he here provided for. The administration were now forced to come to judicial determinations on such subjects, but it could not be prevented that in times of race and religious strife whatever decision they came to should be suspected to have been arrived at to allay popular feeling rather than be accepted as an impartial decision. He did not bring this forward in any spirit of hostility to the Government, for it would be in the interest of the Government that such a course as he outlined should be adopted.

Sir John Macdonald complimented Mr. Blake upon the careful consideration of the matter manifested in the motion and in his speech in support, and announced that the resolution met with his entire approval. The decisions called for would not necessarily be binding, but rather for the information of the Government, and thus there was implied no interference with the principle of responsible government.

The amendment was then adopted unanimously.

Mr. Eisenhauer brought up the question of the deposit of sawdust in navigable streams and this was discussed until 6 o'clock.

After recess the House went into Committee of Supply. On a railway appropriation in the supplementary estimates, Mr. Weldon (Alb.) brought up the subject of railway communication in the Maritime Provinces and strongly urged that the Government should purchase the Intercolonial branch roads at their commercial value and making them part of the Intercolonial system give the Maritime Provinces a service such as the great railway corporations gave to the other parts of Canada. He thought that if the Government did not desire to do this they should dispose of the Intercolonial to private persons who would.

Sir John Macdonald said the proposition was one worthy of serious consideration, but it must be remembered that the Intercolonial was not a paying concern and they could not go wholesale into its extension. If it should be the wish of the Legislatures of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick that the Dominion Government should part with the Intercolonial he did not doubt but that the Parliament would be found ready to assent to the proposition.

Mr. Mitchell having protested that to part with the Intercolonial would be to break the Confederation agreement, Mr. Chapleau denied that the Dominion was under any obligation to maintain the Intercolonial Railway forever. The Dominion had simply agreed to build the road and put it in operation and this had been done. There was then no other railway communication between Old Canada and the maritime provinces. Now the conditions were quite different.

The House adjourned at 1.10 a.m.

THE RYKERT INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Blake Presents a Minority Report to the Committee.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections met again to-day to consider the Rykert case.

It is understood that a minority report of upwards of 70 pages was presented by Mr. Blake. It is stated to be in effect a finding that there is a discrepancy of $18,000 in the account given of the moneys received and disbursed in connection with the purchase and sale of the Cypress Hill limit, the inference being that some person or persons not mentioned in the evidence must have received the $18,000. This minority report taken with the strong statements in the House implicating ministers and positively charging a corrupt use of money is resisted by the majority as not justified by the evidence. The committee, it is further stated, discussed at some length the accounts printed in the newspapers of the majority report understood to have been submitted to a previous meeting. The fact that the outline of the report was permitted to receive publicity was commented on with some indignation.

Sir John Macdonald gives notice to-night of a resolution giving a subsidy of $80,000 per annum for 20 years to enable the Calgary & Edmonton Railway Company to construct a railway from Calgary to some point near Edmonton, such subsidy to pay for the transport of men, supplies, material and mails.

The Last Act in the Morrison Tragedy.

SHELBURNE, April 29.—The inquest on the three Morrison children was concluded to-night. The jury's verdict was that the children were drowned by their father Thomas Morrison, now deceased, while he was temporarily insane.

The Island Delegates at Halifax.

HALIFAX, April 29.—The Newfoundland delegates presented their grievances at a special meeting of the Board of Trade to-day. The board left to the executive the duty of framing resolutions of sympathy and support.

QUEBEC, April 29.—A man named Antoine Berube of [illegible], [illegible], aged about 56 years, fell in an epileptic fit last night into a little stream and was drowned in eight inches of water. His wife discovered him about 30 minutes after he had the fit, but life was then extinct.

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming. They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

Th latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

Whydah Shelled by a French Cruiser—Prince Bismarck to Appear in Parliament—The State of Siege in Crete Raised—Dahomian Depredations.

LONDON, April 29.—A large German force under Major Wissmann has left Bagamayo to attack Ilwa. The British corvette Turquoise with the British Vice-consul on board has sailed for Kilwa to protect British interests there.

The Dahomians are felling the palm trees around Porto Novo, thus destroying the crop for several years. The French cruiser Sane has shelled part of Whydah.

YATES' GOSSIP.

A Munchausen Story from Berlin—All About Edmund's Royal Friends.

LONDON, April 29.—There is a story going about Berlin which reminds one of the Archbishop of Granada and Gil Blas. Emperor William some weeks ago sent in an anonymous essay to the annual competition of the general staff, which Count Waldersee not only criticised but ridiculed. The Emperor, who was present, became so excited that Gen. von Caprivi, who was listening, began to suspect that His Majesty must be the author, and he at once proceeded to support the ideas of the writer, which he eulogised, describing the essay as in every way admirable. The Emperor then disclosed the secret and begged Count Waldersee to tell him candidly whether Gen. von Caprivi had convinced him that His Majesty's views were correct, the result being that the Count repeated his former observations but in milder terms and then the Emperor could not conceal his anger, the result being that the Count went to Italy for a holiday. Probably it was General von Caprivi's intelligent appreciation of His Majesty's essay which first recommended him for the post of Chancellor. The authors of the best three essays in this competition made their names known after the award had been given and the Emperor would have been delighted, and with reason, if he had won a prize anonymously; so that he was much irritated and mortified to find his paper put aside with scorn and derision.

The Queen paid several visits to the grand ducal mausoleum on Rosenhohe during her stay at Darmstadt. She was accompanied on one occasion by Empress Frederick. Both of them placed large wreaths on the tomb of Princess Annice.

The Prince of Wales will go to Homburg, as usual, about the middle of August, unless, indeed, he should decide to try Kissingen, where the Duke of Edinburgh is to be.

It is exceedingly probable that the Princess of Wales will pay another visit to the baths of Schwalbach about the middle of August.

Princess Christian is looking remarkably well and is in very good spirits. She and her daughters attended the bazar at Windsor last week, at which she evidently did a thriving trade. There is very little evidence of the weakness of the princess' sight, except that she had grown thinner.

Why Judge Wallace Granted the Writ of Habeas Corpus—Long Litigation Likely to Prolong the Murderer's Life for Years.

AUBURN, April 29.—The constitution of the United States guarantees that cruel and unusual punishments for crime shall not be inflicted, and upon the contention that the act of the New York Legislature providing for the infliction of the death penalty by electricity was in contravention of this provision, Attorney Roger M. Sherman of New York was to-day granted by Judge Wallace a writ of habeas corpus, returnable June 17, in the case of William Kemmler. The writ is as follows:

To Charles F. Durston, Warden and Agent of Auburn Prison.

GREETING:

The people of the United States, whom God defend, do command you that have the body of William Kemmler, by you imprisoned and detained as it is said, together with the time and cause of such imprisonment and detention, by whatsoever name the said William Kemmler is called or charged, before the Circuit Court of the United States for the northern district of New York, to be held at Canandaigua on the third Tuesday of June, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

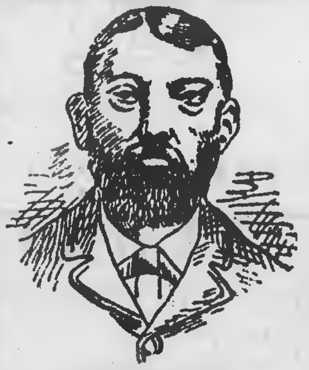
[L.S.] MELVILLE W. FULLER,
Chief Justice of the United States.

Fail not at your peril, and have you then and there this writ.

On the back of the writ is this endorsement:

The within writ is granted this 29th day of April, 1890.
WILLIAM J. WALLACE,
Judge U.S. Circuit Court.

Judge Wallace is one of the nine circuit judges of the United State Courts, his circuit—the second—consisting of the States of Connecticut, New York and Vermont.

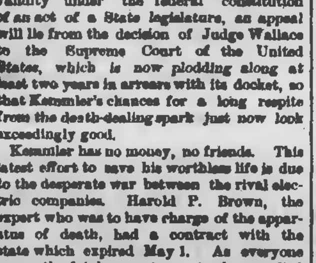


WILLIAM KEMMLER.

The writ of habeas corpus must be granted, as of right, by any of the justices of the higher courts upon application made in due form under oath stating that any person is unlawfully held in custody. It must be granted at any time when it is prayed for whether the court is sitting or not. Either the party himself restrained of his liberty may apply for it or any other person may make the application.

The Court of Appeals, which is the court of last resort in the State of New York, decided in Kemmler's case that the punishment prescribed was not "cruel and unusual" within the meaning of the constitution, but a like provision occurring in the federal as well as the state constitution, the Federal Courts—always jealous of their jurisdiction—are especially the forum in which to try this question insofar as it relates to the federal constitution. The case involving the alleged invalidity under the federal constitution of an act of a State legislature, an appeal will lie from the decision of Judge Wallace to the Supreme Court of the United States, which is now plodding along at least two years in arrears with its docket, so that Kemmler's chances for a long respite from the death-dealing spark just now look exceedingly good.

Kemmler has no money, no friends. This latest effort to save his worthless life is due to the desperate war between the rival electric companies. Harold P. Brown, the expert who was to have charge of the apparatus of death, had a contract with the state which expired May 1. As everyone knows the fatal current was to be supplied by a Westinghouse dynamo. So the friends of that system aver that Brown, who has no love for it, intended to try and send such a current over the wires that the condemned man would be burned, scorched and made an object most horrible. Sixteen hundred volts means death, but they say they feared that 2500 would be turned in on the victim. This would dry up in an instant all the water in the sponges on his head and at his back, and show him dead, indeed, but sizzling and burning, as poor Feeks was that day when thousands stood in Centre-street and saw the blue flames jet from his body, high up in the air.



The Prisoner in His Cell.

"Think of the effect of such a scene as that on the commercial property of the Westinghouse system," say these people. "It is a plot to drive their machines out of the market."

Should the decision of Judge Wallace be against the constitutionality of the law another most interesting question would arise. In general when a person is released on a writ of habeas corpus he cannot be again restrained of his liberty for the same cause. Would a decision in his favor free Kemmler from all danger of punishment for the murder of Tillie Ziegler? Probably not, as the question of invalidity relates merely to the penalty and if Kemmler escape the electric current it will only be in the end, perhaps several years later, to die by the rope.

The warden for some reason kept putting off announcing to Kemmler the change in his fortunes. A company of newspaper men told him it was cruel and unusual to delay telling a doomed man of his reprieve. Finally the warden smiled and said he would see Kemmler. It was a little before 6 o'clock when the warden went to tell the murderer of the meaning of the paper he had signed and of the writ of habeas corpus. Durston went into the cell at once and found Kemmler writing his autograph on cards, his chief delight. Kemmler raised his head when the warden entered. The warden stayed at the door and beckoned to the prisoner. Kemmler came up and Durston laying his hand on Kemmler's shoulder explained what the papers meant. The prisoner evidently did not fully understand the warden's language. Then Durston said:

"It means that your execution is not coming off now and that you will have two months more and perhaps longer to live."

"Oh," said Kemmler, as if the real facts were beginning to dawn upon him, "that makes me feel much easier."

The warden stood there a moment. Kemmler walked to his chair and sat down. His face was expressionless and he said nothing to indicate astonishment or delight. Durston then came away.

The future of the case will be one of long protracted litigation.

A BATCH OF CONVENTIONS.

Both Parties in Kingston Select Their Candidates.

KINGSTON, April 29.—Both Conservatives and Reformers mustered in strong numbers to-night to select their respective candidates to contest the city in the approaching provincial election. J. H. Metcalfe was chosen by the Conservatives and J. D. Thompson by the Reformers.

To Contest North Norfolk.

DELHI, April 29.—At the Conservative convention held here to-day for the north riding of Norfolk it was decided to contest the riding for the Legislature. The meeting was adjourned subject to a call from the president, when a candidate will be chosen.

Mr. Waters Again Their Choice.

AILSA CRAIG, April 29.—A convention of the North Middlesex Reform Association was held here to-day. Mr. John Waters received the unanimous vote of the convention as a candidate for the Assembly.

North Renfrew Reformers.

PEMBROKE, April 29.—At a convention of the Reformers of North Renfrew, held here to-day, Mr. Thomas Murray was again chosen as the party standard-bearer in the approaching provincial contest.

South Norfolk Reformers.

PORT ROWAN, April 29.—The annual meeting of the Reformers of South Norfolk was held here to-day. The old officers were re-elected. It was decided to call township meetings for the election of township officers on May 3, and also to elect three delegates from each polling division to meet at Vittoria on May 6 at 2 o'clock for the purpose of bringing out a candidate to oppose Mr. Morgan's re-election.

Mr. Ferguson Will Run Again.

THAMESVILLE, April 29.—The Reform convention this afternoon held in Ferguson's Opera House to choose a candidate for East Kent in the coming provincial elections was well attended. Mr. Robert Ferguson, the former member, was the unanimously chosen nominee.

They Stick to Mr. O'Connor.

WALKERTON, April 29.—The Reform convention held here to-day for the purpose of selecting a candidate to represent the party in the south riding of Bruce at the approaching provincial general election was largely attended. Mr. H. P. O'Connor of Walkerton, the late member, was the unanimous choice of the convention.

Mr. Meredith Re-Nominated.

LONDON, April 29.—At a meeting of the Conservatives here to-night, Mr. W. R. Meredith was re-nominated for the Assembly.

QUEBEC'S DANGEROUS CLIFF.

QUEBEC, April 29.—A portion of rock weighing about 100 tons fell from the top of the cliff near Sillery Church yesterday. It crashed through the back of a small wooden house occupied by Mrs. Labor and her family. No one was injured.

This afternoon while a joiner named Joseph Corbin was working on a scaffold in Lachevotiere-street the scaffold gave way, bringing him to the ground, a distance of over 60 feet, breaking his neck.

Nearly 2000 immigrants arrived by the three steamships to-day. They went west with few exceptions.

Dr. Stanley at Montreal.

MONTREAL, April 29.—The Governor-General and staff arrived in the city this afternoon by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Ottawa. During his stay His Excellency will be the guest of Sir Donald and Lady Smith. To-night Sir Donald and Lady Smith gave a dinner party in his honor, Her Ladyship subsequently holding a reception. His Excellency will to-morrow attend the convocation of McGill University in Windsor Hall, and will be the recipient of the D.C.L. degree.

Three Men Drowned.

NEWPORT, Vt., April 29.—A boat containing four men were capsized on the lake last night and Ed. Foss, clerk at the Memphremagog House, Ned Green, an employe of the house, and Joe Robitaille were drowned. Arthur Moore, the fourth occupant, succeeded in swimming ashore. The bodies have not been recovered. The boat was capsized in the attempt of two of the men to change positions.

Hamilton Hotel-Keepers Happy.

HAMILTON, April 29.—The Hamilton Board of License Commissioners held their final meeting yesterday. No change has been made from last year. The number of tavern and saloon licenses issued is 91; beer and wine license 1, at Dundurn Park; shop licenses 36. A few of the licensed tavern-keepers have been put on probation for three months.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

JUDGMENTS ON DISPUTED JURISDICTION.

Mr. Blake's Motion Passed Without Dissent—The Intercolonial Railway Discussed at Length—Minority Report in the Rykert Case.

OTTAWA, April 29.—On motion that the House go into Committee of Supply Mr Blake in amendment moved this resolution of which he had given notice:

"That it is expedient to provide means whereby, on solemn occasions touching the exercise of the power of disallowance or of the appellate power as to educational legislation, important questions of law or fact, may be referred by the executive to a high judicial tribunal for hearing and consideration in such mode that the authorities and parties interested may be represented and that a reasoned opinion may be obtained for the information of the executive."

In support and explanation Mr. Blake said recent events had shown the necessity for such a reference as he here provided for. The administration were now forced to come to judicial determinations on such subjects, but it could not be prevented that in times of race and religious strife whatever decision they came to should be suspected to have been arrived at to allay popular feeling rather than be accepted as an impartial decision. He did not bring this forward in any spirit of hostility to the Government, for it would be in the interest of the Government that such a course as he outlined should be adopted.

Sir John Macdonald complimented Mr. Blake upon the careful consideration of the matter manifested in the motion and in his speech in support, and announced that the resolution met with his entire approval. The decisions called for would not necessarily be binding, but rather for the information of the Government, and thus there was implied no interference with the principle of responsible government.

The amendment was then adopted unanimously.

Mr. Eisenhauer brought up the question of the deposit of sawdust in navigable streams and this was discussed until 6 o'clock.

After recess the House went into Committee of Supply. On a railway appropriation in the supplementary estimates, Mr. Weldon (Alb.) brought up the subject of railway communication in the Maritime Provinces and strongly urged that the Government should purchase the Intercolonial branch roads at their commercial value and making them part of the Intercolonial system give the Maritime Provinces a service such as the great railway corporations gave to the other parts of Canada. He thought that if the Government did not desire to do this they should dispose of the Intercolonial to private persons who would.

Sir John Macdonald said the proposition was one worthy of serious consideration, but it must be remembered that the Intercolonial was not a paying concern and they could not go wholesale into its extension. If it should be the wish of the Legislatures of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick that the Dominion Government should part with the Intercolonial he did not doubt but that the Parliament would be found ready to assent to the proposition.

Mr. Mitchell having protested that to part with the Intercolonial would be to break the Confederation agreement, Mr. Chapleau denied that the Dominion was under any obligation to maintain the Intercolonial Railway forever. The Dominion had simply agreed to build the road and put it in operation and this had been done. There was then no other railway communication between Old Canada and the maritime provinces. Now the conditions were quite different.

The House adjourned at 1.10 a.m.

THE RYKERT INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Blake Presents a Minority Report to the Committee.

OTTAWA, April 29.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections met again to-day to consider the Rykert case.

It is understood that a minority report of upwards of 70 pages was presented by Mr. Blake. It is stated to be in effect a finding that there is a discrepancy of $18,000 in the account given of the moneys received and disbursed in connection with the purchase and sale of the Cypress Hill limit, the inference being that some person or persons not mentioned in the evidence must have received the $18,000. This minority report taken with the strong statements in the House implicating ministers and positively charging a corrupt use of money is resisted by the majority as not justified by the evidence. The committee, it is further stated, discussed at some length the accounts printed in the newspapers of the majority report understood to have been submitted to a previous meeting. The fact that the outline of the report was permitted to receive publicity was commented on with some indignation.

Sir John Macdonald gives notice to-night of a resolution giving a subsidy of $80,000 per annum for 20 years to enable the Calgary & Edmonton Railway Company to construct a railway from Calgary to some point near Edmonton, such subsidy to pay for the transport of men, supplies, material and mails.

SENT BACK TO CANADA.

Enforcing the Contract Labor Law at Port Huron—A Tug Seized.

PORT HURON, April 29.—The tug Hand of the Lynn line was seized to-day by the Customs authorities for violating the International laws. She was fined $1500.

A special agent of the Treasury Department, located here, has taken a large number of Canadian sailors from American vessels and sent them back to Canada. It is claimed they were violating the Contract Labor Law. Other classes of Canadian laborers working on this side have been returned to Canada.

Wright Was Wrong.

WINDSOR, April 29.—In the case of the County of Essex v. County Treasurer Wright for an alleged shortage judgment was rendered to-day by Mr. Justice Street against the defendant for an amount to be ascertained by a referee.

The Last Act in the Morrison Tragedy.

SHELBURNE, April 29.—The inquest on the three Morrison children was concluded tonight. The jury's verdict was that the children were drowned by their father Thomas Morrison, now deceased, while he was temporarily insane.

The Island Delegates at Halifax.

HALIFAX, April 29.—The Newfoundland delegates presented their grievances at a special meeting of the Board of Trade to-day. The board left to the executive the duty of framing resolutions of sympathy and support.

QUEBEC, April 29.—A man named Antoine Berube of Strumald, Etchemin, aged about 58 years, fell in an epileptic fit last night into a little stream and was drowned in eight inches of water. His wife discovered him about 30 minutes after he had the fit, but life was then extinct.

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY APRIL 30, 1890.

ONE OF MANY.

THE Toronto Empire thus comments on the Globe's sneer at Mr. A. R. Kidd:—"The old organ of the Mowat Administration informs its readers that 'in East 'Peterborough one Kidd was nominated 'as an Equal Rights candidate to oppose 'Mr. Blezard, Reformer.' The 'one Kidd' so cavalierly mentioned was not long ago a presiding officer of the Reform Association of his constituency. Still feeling himself to be a true Reformer, he is opposing Mr. Mowat and Mr. Mowat's standard-bearer because he has become convinced by the stern logic of facts that Mr. Mowat is not a Reformer, but a pretender. He is one, and one only, among many of those 'disgusted Reformers' over whose loss of faith in their discredited leader the Globe has wailed so plaintively. Mr. Mowat and his organ will find that they have not to reckon with only 'one Kidd,' but with many Kidds and others who like Mr. Kidd believe that the duty of honest Reformers, of true Liberals, is to oppose Mr. Mowat, who has shown himself to be neither, but a mere hunter of votes by the sacrifice of his professed principles. The fact that an old Reformer holding high office in the local Reform Association is in the field to oppose Mr. Mowat's candidate is but one indication out of many of the present current of public opinion. The movement cannot be checked by silly attempts to belittle it or by paltry insults to those who prefer their principles to old party ties, which have really been severed not by them but by their unworthy leaders."

INTERPRETED BY A FRIEND.

A FRIEND of the Mowat Government, and of Archbishop Cleary of Kingston, is the journal L'Interprete. It is edited by Mr. Evanturel, M.P.P., who is a supporter of the Government in the Legislature. Commenting on the circular issued by the Archbishop this paper says:—

"Archbishop Cleary has addressed a private circular to the clergy of his diocese, in which he energetically condemns the abolition of separate schools, which Meredith and his associates are working so tenaciously by making it the principal plank of their platform for the coming elections. That is to say, that this circular is the sanction of the truly liberal and generous policy of Hon. Messrs. Mowat and Ross. It declares, it seems, that absolution and Christian burial will be refused to all Catholics who will not pay their tax to the separate schools."

So that, interpreted by a friend, the Archbishop's circular is a sanction of the policy of Messrs. Mowat and Ross, and the "truly liberal and generous policy" of the Government is that every Roman Catholic must support the Separate schools or hazard his soul.

Such "liberality" on the part of this so-called Liberal Government may have been sanctioned in the circular, but we have too much faith in the honesty of public opinion in Ontario to fear that it will receive the sanction of the people on June 5th.

MR. ROSS' RETIREMENT.

HON. A. M. Ross was not a brilliant Treasurer and his blunders have been many and great. But he is shrewd enough to withdraw from the Government before it falls and from the Legislature before he is forced to do so. With a good office in view and defeat plainly visible, he announced that political life had no further charms for him and that he would retire without facing the electors. The adage that "rats desert the sinking ship" may not be an elegant one, but it is expressive, and others who have since been held in the hold were ready to crawl out if they had got an opportunity. With a disorganized Ministry, and immediately after a session in which supporters voted against it, and with former supporters all through the country and in large numbers opposing its candidates, the Government is in a position to realize that it has lost its hold on the people. This, however, will be plainer to it after the people have spoken by their votes.

ON A NEW TACK.

THE Examiner is getting excited. It has dinned into the ears of its readers that Mr. Carnegie, although the candidate of the Equal Rights Association, was a Conservative—a Tory in disguise, but last night it turns around and says it is an "absurdity" for Mr. Carnegie to expect support "from the members of a party he has done his level best to smash." Next!

A SOLEMN promise was made to the people by the Mowat Government that the Parliament buildings would not cost more than $750,000. That promise was broken and the buildings will cost many thousands more. How can promises made now for the Government be believed.

PREMIER FIELDING of Nova Scotia raised the repeal cry and got a majority. He has dropped the cry now because, he says, "there is not a chance in the world of ever getting repeal." Of course not. He knew that and deceived the people. If Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright could dupe the people with their unrestricted reciprocity cry they would drop it with the same excuse.

LABOR TROUBLES.

The Hamilton Strike—Hundreds Thrown Out of Work.

HAMILTON, April 29.—The strike of the weavers assumed a serious form to-day, when, on account of the trouble, between 420 and 440 men, women and children were thrown out of employment. When the check weavers went out at the Ontario cotton mills on Monday morning the duck weavers had some material on their looms and they did not want to stop work until they had finished it. The strikers met yesterday afternoon and one result of the meeting was that the duck weavers went out this morning. There are fifteen or twenty of the latter, and it is understood that no reduction was made in their wages. With all the weavers out there was no work for the carders, spinners and dyers, so at noon to-day the remaining employes were notified that the mill would close down. This will throw a great many people out of employment and some of them are not prepared for a long holiday. It is not known how long the mill will be shut down. The strikers are determined that they won't give in until the old rates are restored, and as the company has a large stock on hand it is doubtful if any change will be made.

There are about 140 weavers out at the Ontario cotton mills. A committee has been appointed to deal with the company in the event of any negotiations being entered into for a settlement.

Many Anarchists Arrested in France.

PARIS, April 29.—Twelve anarchists were arrested here yesterday. Among them were the Marquis de Mores, his secretary, M. Mondacq, and M. Provost, secretary of the Hairdressers' Union. Forty more anarchists, among them being an Italian who gave his name as Capriani, were arrested here to-day for attempting to create disorders by workingmen. The Anarchist Committee has resolved that the orders of the police for the regulation of the demonstration Thursday will be obeyed by the anarchists. A number of additional arrests have been made at various places throughout France of persons who are charged with inciting the workingmen to riot and pillage on May 1. Further arrests have been made at Lyons of anarchists who were endeavoring to incite workingmen to violence. The police visited a number of houses of suspects and seized explosives and a number of letters from conspirators in other cities.

Lumber Interests Suffer.

CHICAGO, April 29.—The carpenters' strike has seriously affected the lumber interests here. Lumber vessels have been lying at the lumber market for three to five days, there being no sale at any price, the buyers taking advantage of the strike to hammer the market down. At present there are some 10,000,000 feet of lumber on the market. The stocks on hand in the yards show an increase of 12,000,000 feet of hardwood lumber over that of last year at this time and a decrease of 20,000,000 pine. The shippers and buyers had laid out for a year of unusual activity. Freights are fair and it is expected several large demurrage bills will have to be paid.

Labor Laconisms.

The agitation among the working men of Hungary is assuming colossal proportions.

It is reported from Paris that Naquet, DeRoulede and Laguerre, the noted Boulangists, are now at the Island of Jersey making arrangements for Boulanger to return to France May 1 and take part in the labor demonstration.

The Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners at Boston have decided to co-operate with the Brotherhood of Carpenters. This brings every labor organization in Boston in line for the 8-hour movement May 1.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Two Hotels Cut off—An Alleged Murderer Applies for Bail.

TORONTO, April 30.—The license commissioners posted their lists last evening. The Brunswick in Adelaide-street and the Clifton House in Colborne-street were cut off and two new licenses were granted in St. Alban's Ward (Parkdale).

John Byron, who is alleged to be the slayer of Wade in the Mimico stabbing tragedy, is now bearing his confinement in the jail with more fortitude than he exhibited at the inquest. His trial will be held at the June Assizes and this morning his lawyer, Mr. James A. Macdonald, will make application before Judge Galt for bail.

At the Police Court yesterday Mr. St. John appeared on behalf of Martha McLean, the girl who shot Nathaniel Hutchinson and then attempted suicide. Dr. Powell sent a certificate to the court that the wounded man would not be able to attend court for a couple of weeks. The case was adjourned for a week, also the charge against the girl of attempting to commit suicide.

Arthurs' Burns Prove Fatal.

BELLEVILLE, April 29.—William Arthurs, who was terribly burned in the fire in which his wife lost her life on Wednesday night last, died in the hospital yesterday afternoon.

Masculine Riding Suits.

The lively discussion concerning the attire of lady riders seems, says a London letter, to have borne fruit, for a few days ago Bournemouth was scandalised by the appearance of a lady, riding on a cross-saddle, in trousers. She certainly was a brave woman, for the staring and laughter of the populace seemed to have no effect upon her. Habit-makers, however, deny that ladies intend to adopt the manly saddle, and they ought to know. One tailor has devised a novelty, which is a kind of adaptation of the divided skirt for riding purposes. The habit skirt is divided at the back, and the loose material forms wide leggets. The great advantage of this skirt is that, should the rider have a fall, there is nothing that could catch on to the saddle, and I should not be surprised if it was adopted by many enthusiastic followers of the hounds.

I believe there is one saddler in London who confesses to making cross-saddles for ladies; but he admits that the sale for them is extremely small. Some women there are to whom riding is the be-all and end-all of existence, and these occasionally ride out on cross-saddles. But this is only in the privacy of their own grounds. Perhaps now, with the example of the Bournemouth lady before them, they may grow more bold, but, though I rejoice in the freedom of women, it is a change that I should be very sorry to see. The manly costume is never becoming to the form of lovely women, and I hope that, for the sake, perhaps, of a little extra comfort, they will not adopt masculine habiliments.

At the Opera House.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company presented "Hearts of Oak" to a fair house last night, but as on Monday night the presentation merited larger patronage than it received. The company is a strong one and Miss Mills, who is always a favorite, is delighting her audience every night and is receiving good support from the company. To-night the military play "A Great Wrong," will be presented and there should be a good house.

An Aged Couple's Conflict.

There was trouble at the residence of Samuel Detcher on Wescott-st. last night, which fortunately did not result in a tragedy. The aged Samuel and his wife are probably as well known as any residents of Peterborough and in his palmy days Sam was a man of some importance in town and was counted upon as having some of this world's goods. The scene has, alas, changed and time has worked vast changes. The aged couple are now dependent a good deal, on charity for their daily food, but still their mutual poverty does not cause them at all times to live in harmony. Last night word was sent to the police station that Sam was murdering his aged partner and Constable Stewart left for the scene. He found that the rumor had some grounds, for Mrs. Detcher was out in the garden as much dead as alive, with her face covered with blood from a cut on her forehead and her clothes, hair and face matted with mud. Her lord and master was within his castle armed with a big stick and he was loud in his declarations of his intention to rule his own home. Both the old people had evidently been drinking and a domestic broil was the result. These quarrels have occurred before, it is said, and the unfortunate woman bears many marks as a consequence. Constable Stewart in a measure quieted Sam and got Mrs. Detcher into the house. She was up street this morning, however, with her face badly scared.

THE SINGLE TAX SYSTEM.

A LOCAL ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED AND OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Single Tax Concisely Stated by Mr. J. H. Burnham—Other Speeches—A Small Meeting and who Were There—The Publication of the Assessment Rolls Wanted.

The public meeting which was held in Labor Hall last evening for the purpose of discussing the single tax theory resulted in the forming of a local Association. The meeting did not attract a large audience, there being about some thirty ratepayers present. Among these were Messrs. J. H. Burnham, Robt. Fair, Walter Paterson, Joseph Lundy, George Ball, Robt. McGregor, Geo. Rose, Wm. Cummings, tax collector, Jas. Bogue, George O'Brien, C. E. Roach, Wm. Montgomery and others. This single tax movement, which has already brought Associations into existence in many cities and towns, is to be agitated in Peterborough, and it is probable that a speaker of note will be brought here in the near future.

THE SINGLE TAX.

Mr. J. H. BURNHAM was chosen to preside when the meeting was called to order. Mr. Burnham, in opening the meeting, spoke of the object of the meeting and proceeded to set forth the principle of taxation. He referred to the fact that there were tremendous trade convulsions for which there seemed to be no remedy. There was a general upheaval which had alarmed even the German Emperor. There was no remedy, he said, in anarchy, in communism, or those other socialistic byplays. He was confident that the remedy lay in the proper carrying out of the old theories of John Stuart Mill, Ricardo and others. The legitimate development of these systems was the single tax. There was nothing in this theory that was catching to the eye of the superficial reader. He said he did not speak for the strong men who had good wages and good hours, but for the weary women and children impaled upon the needle's point. The evidence before the Government Commission now sitting was a disgrace to heathendom, let alone a Christian land. The Henry George theory did not ask for the creation or the abolition of taxation, but for the placing of the tax burden upon the property which should bear it. Did land which has had made for it all its value by the community entitle its owner to require the community to pay part of the general taxation on their productions? This was allowing the landlord to go free and requiring all that portion of the community that was composed of tenants to pay all the taxes. It only needed to be mentioned to reveal the fallacy of the taxation of labor and labor's production, but it needed more than human acuteness to upset this principle which said that what had not entailed labor upon the landlord shall go untaxed. After an analysis of the laws of distribution, citing the divisions of rent, the reward of land, interest in the reward of capital and wages the reward of labor, he made numerous quotations to show that wages and interest continually tended to a minimum, notwithstanding increased production, whilst rent always tended to a maximum. In this way he went on to show that the facts followed the lines of the George theory. In response to a question Mr. Burnham said there was no fear that the taxes under the new system would be added to the rents now asked, because rents always stood at that point beyond which the tenant could not pay. Therefore the taxes must be deducted from the rent, which would make, even in a partial carrying out of the principle, land more open to the efforts of the producer. The whole theory, he said, was based on the assumption that there was no such right as individual ownership of land. In answer to other questions Mr. Burnham said that the land values would be fixed by the population and there would be no tax on improvements. The railways under the Henry George system would be as our common roadways, the property of the people.

Mr. JOS. LUNDY then read the platform of the single tax association and also a short paper dealing with the question, pointing and dwelling upon the poverty and ceaseless toil which was the result of the present system and the opposite state of things which would be enjoyed if the land was taxed on its value, and not on labor production or improvements. The introduction of this system would cause wages to rise.

PUBLISH THE ROLLS.

Mr. GEORGE BALL also spoke on the subject. It was in the large cities where they saw the tax system in its worst evils. In Peterborough they were told they had equal taxation, but he claimed that such was not the case. The poor man's lot was assessed in all cases as a building lot and never as paddocks, park lots or lawns. Mr. Ball said there must be something strange about it when under the present system they were afraid to publish the assessment rolls. He believed it had come up in the Council, but had been killed in committee.

A VOICE—Its the expense they are afraid of.

Mr. BALL—It's not the expense we would look at. He then went on to speak of the object of the meeting and the injustice of taxing a man for the improvements he had made upon his property. As regarded the indemnity railways should receive, he pointed to the Grand Junction line. This had been built by a few schemers in Belleville who had been given bonuses and built the road without expending a cent of their own money, and afterwards sold it to the Grand Trunk and the schemers showed fifty thousand dollars in their pockets. He asked who owned that road if the municipalities did not?

Mr. R. MCGREGOR read a short extract setting forth the evils of the present tax system and spoke briefly in favor of the single tax, which, he said, would do away with protection.

Mr. BURNHAM emphasized the fact that they asked nothing from the capitalist or the landlord, but simply desired that the taxes should be placed in the right place.

THE ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED.

Mr. GEO. BALL then moved that it was desirable that a Single Tax Association be formed in Peterborough. This carried and with Mr. Burnham in the chair the meeting proceeded to elect officers with the following result:—

PRESIDENT—J. H. Burnham.
VICE-PRESIDENT—And. Douglas.
COR. SECRETARY.—Jos. Lundy.
RECORDING SECRETARY—Robert McGregor.
TREASURER—Wm. Montgomery.

Mr. WALTER PATERSON being nominated as a member of the Executive Committee refused to act until he became clear upon the question. Some of the arguments met his views, but he did not wish to commit himself until he had given the question better consideration. He questioned the benefit which would be reaped by the poor man from the system as he would be crowded off his property by the higher taxation which would be placed upon it if rich men built palaces, so to speak, on adjoining lots. This gave rise to a general informal discussion, after which the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

The Peterborough Boating Club.

The West Riding License Commissioners met here this afternoon and wound up the business for the year. A number of accounts were passed and the usual closing business transacted.

The Favorites at Port Hope.

Miss McCabe's concert at Port Hope on Monday evening was a great success, being largely attended and the programme being excellently rendered. Mrs. J.E. McIntyre, Miss A. Dunn and Messrs. T. Dunn and M. Tierney contributed solos, duets and trios and the Port Hope papers speak in most eulogistic and flattering terms of their efforts and reception.

Editor—What price have you put on that poem?

Swept the Field.

It is pleasant to see political differences at times laid aside and a union formed on a good basis. Such a case has occurred here. Conservatives, Liberals and Equal Righters unite in polling an unanimous vote that for strength, flavor and cheapness hawley bros.' teas are unparalleled. You will consult your own interests by purchasing at the great tea house.

Confirmation at St. Luke's.

The Rev. J. W. McCleary has been delivering lectures for several weeks past on Thursday evenings to a large class of candidates for confirmation. The Bishop of Toronto has arranged to have the confirmation on Friday evening at 7.30. The last of the lectures will be held this evening instead of to-morrow as to-morrow evening will be monopolized by the tea and sale of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Changes in Police Quarters.

Mr. Thos. Irwin, contractor, had men begin this morning to make the improvements in the police quarters which were referred to the committee at the last meeting of the Council. The door of the police station is to be transformed into a window and a door will be cut through where the window has been. Then inside a hand rail will separate the visitor from the officer in charge of station, thus giving the police an office of more privacy than the old one. In the Police Court room a dock is to be built for the prisoners and another for the witnesses.

The Canton Officers Entertain.

A delightful time was spent in the handsome rooms of Otonabee Lodge last evening by the chevaliers of Canton Peterborough and their lady friends who were entertained at an "at home" by the officers of the Canton. The entertainment was not of the sterotype character, but was conducted in an informal social manner, which caused everyone present to enjoy himself and herself immensely. Games of all kinds were supplied, an informal programme of music was rendered and those who so desired indulged in the graceful mazes of the dance. Refreshments were served and taken altogether the affair was a decided success, all expressing themselves as having enjoyed a delightful evening. The officers of the Canton can feel elated at their success.

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which, if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

There was a fair attendance at the Bible training class last evening.

The monthly meeting of the Devotional Committee was held at the close of the Bible class. Rev. Dr. Moffat, of the Toronto society, and Mr. Armstrong, of the Bible Society, were present, and briefly stated the good work that was done by these important societies. Mr. Isaac Richardson, chairman of committee, presided. After devotional exercises the General Secretary gave a short report of meetings during the past month. It was very encouraging to see how the Lord is using the Association in reaching and leading young men to Christ. We praise Him for these tokens. After a full discussion and several important recommendations to be made to the Board of Directors for the more efficient carrying on of our work, the meeting closed with prayer for consecrated service.

Mr. Herbert Green has presented the Association with a large reference Bible. We thank him sincerely.

Success Attends the Ladies.

The efforts of the ladies of St. Paul's church in any undertaking are seldom unsuccessful and the annual sale and tea of the Ladies Aid Society of that church which was held yesterday was an exception to this rule. The industry and labor of love of the ladies of the society was displayed for the inspection and purchase of the visitors in as attractive a manner as possible. The commodious Sunday school room presented an attractive and interesting scene to the lady visitor. Articles of all descriptions, useful and ornamental, were gathered in great profusion and displayed to the best public advantage. The class rooms had been transformed into stalls, where flowers, refreshments, fancy and useful articles were offered to the purchaser. The ladies whose handiwork was there offered were busy all afternoon attending to the buyers and their energetic efforts were not fruitless as a handsome sum will be realized. But the sale was only one feature of the event. A table tastefully arranged and bountifully supplied with tempting edibles stretched across the school room and here from five o'clock until half past seven the lady waiters were busy attending to hundreds who partook of their evening meal at the church. During the evening the sale was continued and an informal programme of music was rendered.

The commodious school room was crowded all evening and presented an animated scene, the visiting ladies inspecting the beautiful articles displayed, the sale ladies pointing out the excellencies and a pleasant social spirit prevailed.

Taken from every standpoint the sale and tea was a success and the ladies of the church are to be congratulated.

Bad Roads.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—On attempting to drive out of town yesterday I was surprised to find that I could not do so on the gravel road without going up Gilmour-st. and across the church lots. On making inquiries I found that the gravel road has been impassable since the frost broke up. This is not the only road out of town in a dangerous condition. Is it too much to ask that the same be put into repairs as once before some accident occurs?

I remain, Sir,
Yours, faithfully,
VIATOR.

The American Eagle must be a gay old bird—he is bald. If you don't want to be bald, use Hall's Hair Renewer, and you won't be. Try it.

Once More and Finally.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—In last Saturday's issue of your paper Rev. Mr. Davidson answers my question and defines the one visible church as "composed of all those who have been admitted into it by the one visible ordinance ordained for this purpose by Christ Himself, viz., baptism by water in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost." It is not my purpose to consider whether this definition is coherent and scriptural or not. The point to be settled is this, does it include those "other religious bodies" Mr. Davidson talks about?

It appears to me it does. I know no church of this community in which the sacrament of baptism is not regarded as one of the conditions of membership.

Of course, it is not my business to harmonize this definition with the platform laid down by Mr. Davidson at the commencement of the recent Lenten services, and with his frequent utterances to the same purport during their progress. That is Mr. Davidson's work and not mine.

Anyway, it is far more important that a man be right than even that he be consistent, and Mr. Davidson will not suffer in public estimation when it is seen that he has discarded the all-too-narrow robe of a somewhat damaged consistency for the ampler and far more serviceable one of a greater liberality.

I shall not do Mr. Davidson the injustice of supposing there is anything between the lines in the definition he has given us of the one visible church; that it has any occult meaning. I assume it means—that he intended it to mean—just what it says nothing less, nothing more; that he does regard the other churches of this community just as certainly churches as is his own, and that henceforth they shall be so treated and designated by him.

Now, Mr. Editor, if this is the correct interpretation of Mr. Davidson's definition of the one visible church; the interpretation he intended it to bear, then I am free to say that in my first letter I did misunderstand and consequently misrepresented him and in so far as that misunderstanding was my fault and not his, I now offer for it my sincere and humble apology.

I am no more anxious to discuss religious questions in the public press than is Mr. Davidson. He may teach anything he likes from his own pulpit, and to his own people without criticism from me.

But when he chose the public press of the town for the purpose of promulgating views which in effect, if not in terms unchurch all the "other religious bodies," then he pays a very doubtful compliment to the intelligence of the community if he expects such views to pass unchallenged.

This is the only feature of the recent Lenten services in which the "other religious bodies" were interested, and it was to this alone I called attention.

In conclusion I may say for the information of Mr. Babb and all whom it may concern, I am a dissenter.

And I will say this much more while I am about it, that it has happened in the history of the church in the past, and if one tendency of our times continues to develope it may possibly happen once again, that a man has been obliged to be a dissenter in order to be a Beauty of the Matron.

The notion still held by certain shallow women that maturity is ugliness is one of the most incomprehensible pieces of nonsense of the time. Here is a fair muddler in one of our contemporaries complimenting Mme. Albani on having overcome her matronliness and on the renewed girlishness of her appearance. From this I should judge that women who live on public exhibition fear nothing so much as development. If they can only stay all their lives in a lisping and glutinous sweetness and not grow, they are satisfied. To get on in appearance, or in character, or in strength is a calamity. In this extraordinary view of things a green coddling is better than a ripe pippin. Women who exhibit themselves have only one standard of merit—and that is youth. Poor creatures, they do not know that the pretty girl ought to become the handsome woman and never reaches her full splendor until she is a matron. They cannot comprehend the fact that fixed beauty has no existence except in death, and even then only when the embalmer has put in his work. The law of beauty in life is the law of development and attainment, and the beauty of a miss differ from each other as one star differs from another in glory—and, curiously enough, the older the star the more beautiful it becomes.

Women who think of nothing but how they shall stay young are women of characterless minds. All things considered, the greatest woman is she who can grow old gloriously and defy time with something better than enamel. But your woman who is professionally on exhibition has got to bring to the market what the public most desires. And it is a patent fact that the mob would rather look at the pastryness of youth than at the perfection of personality. It is this popular instinct that makes exhibiting women starve themselves, enamel themselves, prison themselves, restrict their functions, suppress their minds and crucify their bodies.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Shiloh's Cure will immediately relieve Croupe Whooping Cough and Bronchitis. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

Now if you want it, our definition of a crank is a man who tries to do the world a good turn and gets the razzle-dazzle. But we haven't become melancholy over it. It merely grieves us to think what a set of chumps some men are. It makes us ninety-nine parts compassion with faint traces of—

Well never mind, we can't think of it now. By the way we haven't told you that our crankism is PANTS, just plain pants, no trowsers or pantaloons, but just plain pants as we said before, and about them we will say this, that if you want to spend one bright half hour call in and see our range of Pantings. You shall not be bored but immensely pleased. If you want long or short; wide or tight; spring-bottom or peg-top, we can suit you no matter what style you affect. Home Seekers & Investors Look at This.

I have bought more property than I can afford to carry and consequently must sell even at a loss. I am not alone. Several others have done likewise, and have also resolved to follow my example by unloading regardless of cost. Our loss will be the buyer's gain, and sharp men having money to invest never had such a chance to secure homes and profitable investments, choice properties of all kinds, central and suburban. Delay means loss. Full particulars at the office, 267 George-st.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"Thank goodness I've got nothing to do but talk to you all the afternoon!"

This was more than the attorney could stand.

"Then, sir," he retorted, angrily, "I am a very unfortunate man, for I have not the time to listen."

"Dear, dear," ejaculated Pond, in a pained tone, "and the matter was so interesting, too."

McCook, hardly able to contain his temper, had taken up his pen and begun writing again.

"You see," Pond went on, nibbling at the end of his cigar, "I think I have stumbled upon the man who killed poor old Leiter."

He would not have been the man he was, had he not caught the look that darted into the attorney's eyes at these words. They had been angry before, and they were angry still, yet they underwent a change and a terrible one. A fop may wear an expression of rage when he meets a foe, and prepares to fight him. But it is as nothing to the rage he feels when his prey is torn from him. McCook did not trust himself to say much. He only guided his voice into an interrogatory tone and murmured:

"Well?"

"That is why," Pond went on, picking up a paper and stopping to read a paragraph and laugh over it, "that I am so sorry you have no time to listen. Of course I thought that you, as a conscientious man, would be glad to hear that you might not suffer the painful duty of prosecuting your friend."

"Certainly," said McCook, off his guard, and forgetting what he had said to Pond on that very subject the last time he had seen him. "I will make time to listen to anything that concerns business, of course."

Pond digressed, and trifled and yawned through the story of the murder on the wharf. He told how the marks on the face had resembled those that disfigured countenance of the old collector. He all but proved that the two crimes must have been committed by the same man.

"And the strangest thing of all," he continued, looking at McCook with a sudden sharpness, "is that the figure of the man who did the killing was certainly familiar. Mr. McCook, have you any idea, could you make any wild guess as to whom that person could be?"

"How should I?" asked McCook, impatiently. "What means could I have for knowing?"

"Well, you are a shrewd man," said Pond, in the first sincere accents he had used, "and I thought you might have suspected some one of leading a strange, half-insane life. I don't know how to express myself. But I cannot understand why that figure looked so familiar. You know what a faithful mechanical machine the mind is! When I saw that figure, I remembered afterward, that I thought of you. Now, do not misunderstand me. It did not bear the faintest resemblance to you. But I thought of you. There must have been some undiscovered association of ideas in that. This happened, mind you, before I had any reason to suspect him of anything. I simply watched him as I might any other man. My idea is that it was some one that I had some time seen with you. Try to help me out. Try to think of any half mad friend, or any one likely to have complex associations."

"I confess your clues are too slight for me. And I do not at all agree with you in thinking that the man who murdered Mr. Leiter was the one who killed this beggar. The fact that both victims were killed in the same way argues nothing. No one has a better opportunity than yourself for knowing that crimes are frequently epidemic. As long as the papers make a practice of publishing all the details of murders and suicides and other crimes, so long will those crimes become epidemic. Not long ago a love-sick girl in this city killed herself by taking rat poison. Within three months six girls had followed her example in this city, and people fell to taking rat poison all over the United States. I can remember when a melancholy and philosophy-mad German threw himself from the waterworks tower and dashed his brains out on the pavement. In a short time three of his countrymen followed his example, and it became necessary to put a railing around the tower. The railing is there still, a monument to the mimetic insanity of the unbalanced."

"You cannot possibly remember the circumstances any better than I do," said Pond, with a boyish grin. "For in the heat of the excitement I had occasion to superintend a suicide there myself."

"I went up there with three jolly fellows. We were all High School lads, and bent on a little relaxation after examination. Each of us carried up with us a harmless looking bundle. When we reached the top of the tower we began to quarrel with each other frightfully. People who were passing stopped and looked up with apprehension. Finally one of us fired a pistol shot. A man was seen to fall over and over, limply to the ground. The people ran to pick him up. One thoughtful citizen barricaded the door so that we could not get out, and signaled for the police. It is hardly necessary to say that the figure on the pavement was a man of straw. When the trick was discovered there was as much anger expressed at us as if he had been of flesh and blood. You might forgive a man for having killed another, but it is impossible to forgive one for having made you ridiculous. We were arrested, and slept in the police station. It was my only experience. I didn't mind it much, but my father refused to shake hands with me for a month." Pond blushed a little at the remembrance of that part of the story. McCook looked at him with ill-concealed contempt while he put on his overshoes and coat.

"Well, I'm much obliged to you for your suggestions, Mr. Pond," he said at length, "but I can not take any stock in your discovery."

"If I were in your place, Mr. McCook," said Pond, still with perfect good nature, "I would look into the matter before I pronounced on it in that way, if I had an old friend whose life was at stake."

"I know my duty, sir," the attorney returned, rising and putting his hands behind him.

"Now don't be melo-dramatic," said Pond with a yawn. "Of course if you want to see your friend hung it's none of my affair."

"In my profession I have no friends," McCook said in a stately way.

"I guess that's so," replied Pond with a peculiar intonation.

"What do you mean, sir?" gasped McCook, white and trembling.

"I mean," said Pond with a fine sparkle in his eye and smiling with unusual sweetness, "that I have given you one last chance to prove yourself a good fellow. You haven't done it. I think—and you can take it as an insult or not, as you please—that you want to see that poor lad hung. You know the reason better than I do. Good day, sir."

He got no answer. After he left, McCook held a consultation with himself. He wondered what Pond was going to do. And in conclusion he made up his mind that come what would, this investigation should receive no aid from him.

"It belongs to the defence to look it up, anyway," he said, but it was not to quiet his conscience, for that needed no more quieting. Leiter was dead as a door nail, and its murderer was still rejoicing over his freedom from its hated surveillance.

CHAPTER XI.

It was possible from Margaret's window to view Lake Michigan, which even in winter wears a wild beauty. She and the little damsel was exceedingly fond of sitting where they could see it. A grey mist with shimmerings of blue lay about the horizon, and the chopped ice ground cruelly against the mighty piers and breakwater. The thunder came through the thick walls of the judge's substantial mansion and played its dread accompaniment to Margaret's thoughts. A hundred times a day she had cause to be thankful for the presence of the little damsel. Hardly out of childhood yet, Jeanne was full of the mystic passion that belongs to that period. There was nothing artificial about her, and she was as free from self-consciousness as a humming-bird. Her queer little mind was stored with fairy lore, and she knew Hans Anderson as the judge knew his Shakespeare. These beautiful stories she repeated with additions of her own, and in return Margaret spun tales from the folk lore of Germany, and sang songs of gnome and brownie. It seemed to Margaret as if a sort of fantastic childhood was returning to her. Half-dazed, incapable of clear thought as her tired mind was, the innocent prattle of the farmer girl was as grateful as dew to a thirsty bower. The life she had known seemed the unreal part of her existence, and this twilight life the actual one.

Scratched 28 Years

Cured by Cuticura.

If I had known of the CUTICURA REMEDIES twenty-eight years ago it would have saved me $200.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endless and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man but feel rich to be relieved of what some doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis, etc. I took ...and ...Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors, and no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. They have made my skin clear and free from scales as a baby's. All I used of them were three boxes of CUTICURA and three bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT and two cakes CUTICURA SOAP. If you had been here and said you would have cured me for $200.00, you would have had the money. I looked like the picture in your book of psoriasis (picture number two "How to Cure Skin Diseases"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of habit I rub my hands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, but to no purpose. I am all well. I scratched twenty-eight years, and it got to be a kind of second nature to me. I thank you a thousand times.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had pillowed his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. You are, if you are neglecting the hacking cough, the hectic flush, the loss of appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously crept upon you. Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Consumption, which thus insidiously fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach, must be taken in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

Our Figured Wool Delaines have been slow in coming They were delayed in Liverpool by the strike which had affected the shipping department but they are here now in plenty of time. We need not say that Delaines are fashionable. We have imported lightly. Those who call early will get the first choice, as we cannot repeat any of the patterns this season.

We are showing Figured Lustres in new colorings. They are being greatly admired. We also show Black Lustre Brocades in a range of prices.

This week's express has brought three of the latest shades in Colored Henriettas, 43 in. wide at 50c. a yard. The colors are Violet, Salmon, Rose, Coachman's Drab.

The latest novelties in Neckwear are Lace Collars in entirely new designs. We will not attempt to describe them. We have just imported them from our American cousins, who are generally a season ahead of Canadian houses in getting up fancy styles.

This week has brought us a job line of small checks, Oxford Shirtings suitable for dresses, shirts or aprons, warranted to wash. Sale price 10c. a yard.

Hosiery—We have secured an immense line of Hosiery at job prices. We believe they are the cheapest line in Canada to-day, taking quality into consideration. All sizes from infants to ladies at 10c. a pair. Take your choice.

Our boys Clothing is now very complete. All the sizes in the new spring shades in stock. We are never beaten in price but believe we take the lead.

NEWS OF THE DOMINION.

WHAT LOOKS LIKE A MURDER AT TORONTO.

Mrs. Oakman Taken from a Bagnio to Die in the Hospital—A Doctor's Fatal Blunder. [illegible]

TORONTO, May 1.—At the hospital lies the body of a woman bruised and worn by disease, which will form the subject of an inquest to-day. The circumstances surrounding her death point strongly to murder.

Night before last a drunken brawl was in progress as 34 Osgoode-street. All night long the carousal lasted and the inmates scuffled and fought continually. The row became so bad that the police entered the place, but as things quieted down no arrests were made. Little was it thought that a woman had been battered and beaten almost to death in the drunken orgies and those in the neighborhood were not at all alarmed until yesterday when Dr. Doble of McCaul-street was called to the scene of the row to attend a Mrs. Oakman. He found her a mass of bruises and suffering from acute pneumonia, the latter being at its worst stage. Her condition was so serious that he at once ordered her removal to the hospital.

When she was brought into the hospital on the ambulance stretcher she appeared to be dying and she at once received the utmost care. In a semi-conscious state she lingered on until 11¼ o'clock last night, when she died.

Two arrests have been made in connection with the case. At 1 o'clock this morning Richard Oakman, the woman's husband, was brought to the Agnes-street station by Policeman Myles, but the only charge that could then be slated against him by Sergeant Gregory was a trivial one—that of keeping a disorderly house. The other prisoner was Nellie Weir, a debauched woman for some time an inmate of Oakman's house and well-known to the police of No. 2 division. She lived for a long time with the Oakmans. The ostensible charge is that of drunkenness, but both prisoners are being held until the circumstances of the case have been sifted at a coroner's inquest.

HE GOT THE WRONG KIDNEY.

A Terrible Blunder at the Hamilton Hospital Results Fatally.

HAMILTON, April 30.—The story of a fatal piece of carelessness, says The Spectator tonight, has just leaked out. Last autumn a man was brought to the city hospital who was suffering from an aggravated form of kidney disease. The diagnosis of his case revealed the fact that one of his kidneys was badly diseased and that the other was comparatively healthy. A consultation was held by the physicians of the medical staff who were then in attendance and it was decided to perform the delicate operation of removing the diseased kidney. The doctor who was chosen to perform the operation did the preliminary work of cutting open his patient with neatness and despatch. The diseased organ was laid open to view. One of the kidneys was abnormally large. This the doctor immediately pounced upon as the diseased one and he promptly cut it out. After this was done one of the staff, who was standing by, mildly suggested that perhaps the kidney which had been removed was not the diseased kidney at all. An investigation proved that this was actually the case. The kidney which had been cut away was the healthy one; its abnormal size was the result of the double work it had had to do, the other kidney being so diseased that it could not perform its proper functions at all, and it had shrunken up to half its natural size. But it was too late to remedy the blunder. There was nothing left to do but to sew the poor fellow up again after having deprived him of his healthy kidney, and left him with his useless diseased one.

Of course the poor patient died a little while after, and the affair was hushed up.

DETERMINED TO DIE.

A Nova Scotia Farmer Hammers, Cuts and Hangs Himself.

HALIFAX, April 30.—Farmer Philip Jones of Doherty Creek went to his barn at 5 o'clock this morning, struck himself with a hatchet on the head several times and then cut his throat with a pen knife slashing his body with the same instrument. Finding that life was not leaving him he threw a rope over the beam in the barn and hanged himself. He was found quite dead about half an hour afterwards. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

MURDERERS MADE GLAD.

ALL ELECTROCUTIONS INDEFINITELY POSTPONED.

If Judge Wallace Had Been Strict Kemmler Would Now Be Dead—Attorney Sherman Declines to Tell Who Pays Him—What He Says About the Law.

AUBURN, April 30.—Judge Wallace, who granted the writ of habeas corpus and thereby disappointed the scientists and delayed Kemmler's doom, explains his action as follows:

"Yesterday a reputable lawyer came before me and said that he was acting for Kemmler's Buffalo counsel in appearing for a writ of habeas corpus for William Kemmler, condemned to suffer the extreme penalty of the law by electricity, in violation of the clause in the constitution prohibiting any punishment of a cruel and inhuman nature. The application was made to a United States court, as bearing upon a United States constitutional provision.

"The petition was incomplete in one of its details," continued Judge Wallace: "it did not bear Kemmler's signature. However, here was a man condemned to die—perhaps already the sentence of the lower court had been executed. It seemed peculiar to me also that such application had not been made earlier. The parties could have done so two months ago instead of waiting till the last moment—perhaps even until a time when a writ of habeas corpus would be of no benefit to the party in whose interest application was made.

"I could grant a writ of two natures, one returnable to me immediately outside of the court, and another returnable at the next term of the Circuit Court to be held in June at Canandaigua. I resolved, despite the irregular nature of the petition, to grant the writ returnable at the regular term of the court, and signed the same, but did not affix the judicial seal.

"This writ, in its incomplete form, I sent to the Clerk of the United States Circuit Court of the Northern District of New York at Utica, with a letter of instruction to him to proceed to Auburn and satisfy himself that the petition for the application of the writ was regular and made in due form, and if so, to secure Kemmler's signature to the petition and to attach the judicial seal to the writ, making the instrument operative.

"This, I presume, has been done, but I am not personally aware of the fact and I desire that nothing be said of this matter until positive information has been received that all instructions have been complied with."

Judge Wallace did not give the name of the lawyer who has been instrumental in securing the respite for Kemmler, but he spoke slowly and impressively as a man who is saying all he feels can be said.

The petition for the writ of habeas corpus, made under sections 751 to 766 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, is as follows:

To the Judges of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of New York

The petition of William Kemmler respectfully shows:

First—That he is a citizen of the United States and is deprived of his liberty by Charles F. Durston, agent and warden of Auburn Prison at Auburn, in the said northern district of New York, who threatens and is about to put him, said Kemmler, to death by causing to pass through the body of him, the said Kemmler, a current of electricity of sufficient intensity in the opinion of said Durston to cause death, and that he, the said Kemmler, is thus held in custody and deprived of his liberty against his will and in direct violation of the constitution of the United States.

Second—The facts concerning the detention of him, said Kemmler, and the claim or authority by virtue of which he is so detained are as follows: He was convicted in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the county of Erie in the State of New York, of the crime of murder in the first degree, committed March 29, 1888; and a warrant has been issued upon the judgment of said conviction to said Durston, appointing the week within which sentence must be executed, commanding said Durston to do execution upon some day within the said week by causing to pass through the body of him, the said William Kemmler, a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause death and that the application of such current of electricity be continued until he, the said William Kemmler, be dead. Said week expires on the 3rd day of May, 1890.

Third—The only authority of law for said sentence upon said conviction is a statute of the State of New York, chapter 489, of the laws of 1888, entitled, "An Act to amend sections 491, 492, 503, 504, 505, 506, 507, 508, 509 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in relation to the infliction of the death penalty and to provide means for the infliction of such penalty."

Fourth—Said statute is in conflict with the constitution of the United States, in that the punishment imposed thereby is cruel and unusual, and in that thereby the said state abridges the privileges and immunities of him, the said Kemmler, to be exempt from cruel and unusual punishment for crime.

Fifth—Said statute, moreover, is in conflict with the constitution of the United States in that the punishment imposed thereby deprives him, the said Kemmler, of his life without due process of law, not only in this, that the said method of putting him to death is unlawful, but also in this, that the judicial function of fixing the time of his death is thereby taken from the court and delegated to an executive officer or some uncertain substitute upon some undefined and unaccountable cause.

Your petitioner therefore alleges that the committal aforesaid and his detention under the warrant aforesaid are now void and of no force or validity and prays that this honorable court do forthwith issue the writ of habeas corpus to the said Charles F. Durston, agent and warden as aforesaid, requiring him to produce the body of him, said William Kemmler, before this court at some time to be designated in said writ, there to abide what shall be awarded by said court in the premises.

And at the same time he prays Your Honors to issue out of said court the writ of certiorari to the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the county of Erie, and the clerk thereof, commanding it or him forwith to certify to said Circuit Court of the United States true copies of the indictment, record, orders and commitment in said court remaining under or by virtue of which said William Kemmler is now deprived of his liberty by order of said court. And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

COUNTY OF CAYUGA, ss.—William Kemmler, being duly sworn, says: I am the petitioner named in the foregoing petition; I have read the same and know its contents; and the same is true to the best of my knowledge, information and belief.

WILLIAM KEMMLER.

Sworn to before me this 28th day of April, 1890. D. B. McNEIL, notary public, Cayuga county.

I interviewed Attorney Roger M. Sherman who, as the whole world knows in spite of Judge Wallace's reticence as to the name of the lawyer securing the respite, is nominally acting for Kemmler but is paid by some unknown client.

"Who is your client in this case, Mr. Sherman?" I asked.

"Kemmler," he replied.

"But who has employed you?"

"That I am not at liberty to state. It was not the Westinghouse Company: they had nothing to do with the case at all."

"Are you doing it for glory?"

"No, I am not. You must remember that there are several prisoners in Sing Sing and Clinton awaiting sentence for murder and if I can get Kemmler free—and a favorable decision would do this—they would go free under the same ruling."

"The writ was granted on the question of the constitutionality of the law. At first blush it looks as if the question raised was the same as the Court of Appeals had already passed upon, but there is a natural difference. The Court of Appeals says in its decision that the only question it decides is the constitutionality of the law of 1888 providing for electrical execution under the State law. The court held that the question whether the law imposed a cruel and unusual punishment is a legislative and not a judicial question of facts on the evidence taken to a voluminous extent on that subject. The writ of habeas corpus is not intended to waive the question under the State constitution. The federal courts have no jurisdiction over that question. Its object is to determine whether the law violates the eighth and fourteenth amendments to the federal constitution. The eighth amendment contains the same provisions forbidding cruel and inhuman punishment for crime as that contained in the state constitution.

"The fourteenth amendment provides that no state shall pass or enforce any law abridging the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, and it also provides: 'Nor shall any person be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of the law.' These provisions of the federal constitution, and the acts of Congress passed to enforce them, empower the Circuit Court of the United States to inquire whether a state law is a violation of these provisions, as an independent and original question."

Mr. Sherman further said: "Notwithstanding that the Court of Appeals has declined to pass judicially upon the question whether the evidence taken proves that this punishment is cruel the federal courts are bound to determine the question. It has not yet been judicially decided that electrocution is or is not in fact cruel It is my expectation that the federal courts will consider such evidence as may be adduced on that point, and if they differ from the Legislature and determine that it is a cruel as well as unusual punishment they will declare the law unconstitutional and discharge him under the writ."

"What will be the result if the law is pronounced unconstitutional?"

"Kemmler will go free. Precisely that same question has been decided by the Court of Appeals. If the electrical execution law is not sustained Kemmler can walk forth from Auburn prison and no one say him nay."

If the writ had not been issued yesterday Kemmler would have been beyond the reach of legal process. Warden Durston had decided to have the killing occur between 9½ p.m. Tuesday and 6½ a.m. Wednesday. The final test of the apparatus had been made. The warden took a sprightly calf of about 500 pounds to the death chamber, and without the preliminaries of putting on the face covering gave him a shock from the dynamo. The animal went over as if he was a log. Not a sound, not a tremor. He was like one frozen. Even the eyes gave no signs of pain, but simply stood still.

The general consensus of opinion among the lawyers here is that Kemmler stands very little show of getting free. His stay at the best is simply a temporary suspension of sentence and in the end the highest court of the land will decide in favor of electricity.

Kemmler did not know that an attempt to appeal his case was to be made. The petition to that effect was taken to him by Warden Durston, who simply told him to sign his name to it.

SHOT IN A POLICE COURT.

A Memphis Woman Kills Her Husband as He Stands in the Dock.

MEMPHIS, April 30.—Jake Ackerman, a notorious thief, highwayman and train robber, was arrested Monday night charged with wife beating. This morning when the case was called in police court the prisoner and his wife were standing side by side. Ackerman spoke to her and handed her a written request for clean clothes. The woman bent her head for an instant to hear what he had to say and then without warning drew a revolver from beneath her cloak and presenting it within a few inches of Ackerman's abdomen, pulled the trigger. Before anyone could interfere she fired two more shots at Ackerman who had fallen to the floor and was writhing in agony. An hour later he was dead. Ackerman had served in penitentiaries in four states. His crimes were very numerous. He was wanted at Omaha for the robbery of Morgan's silk store. Mrs. Ackerman comes from a respectable family of Camden, Mo. She has been for years an inmate of various bagnios throughout the country but always a staunch friend of her husband, notwithstanding his cruel treatment. She killed him, she says, because she feared he would murder her if he got out.

Billy Myers Knocks Out Hopper.

ALEXANDER, Va., April 30.—It took Billy Myers, the Illinois Cyclone, 25 minutes to knock out Jack Hopper. The knock-out blow came suddenly and surprised the local sports. Hopper had the longer reach and seemed much the better parrier, though his blows lacked punishing power. There were several hundred persons present. The fight was for 10 rounds, Queensbury rules, the winner to take 75 and the loser 25 per cent. of the net receipts. When time was called for the sixth round Myers' body showed many red marks. He set a good stiff pace from the opening and began to rush his man hard. He banged away at Hopper and suddenly shot his right out hard, landing square on the point of Hopper's chin, and the New Yorker went down.

MR. CHARLTON'S JESUITS' ESTATES MOTION.

Sir John Thompson, Hon. Messrs. Laurier, Blake and Others Speak Against the Motion—It Is Lost on Division by a Vote of 32 to 120.

OTTAWA, April 30.—In the Commons today Mr. Charlton, in amendment to motion for Committee of Supply, moved his resolution respecting the Jesuits' estates legislation. The motion had been considerably modified since notice was given last week and now read as follows:

"That regard being had to the fact that the competency of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec to pass the act 51-52, Victoria, chap. 13, entituled An Act Respecting the Settlement of the Jesuits Estates, was called in question and that belief in the non-constitutionality of the said act was entertained in many sections, and in view of the feeling of dissatisfaction excited thereby and generally the disturbed state of the public mind on the subject thereof;

"And further, having regard to the fact that His Excellency obtained the opinion of the law officers of the Crown in England as to the course which His Excellency should pursue regarding the said act;

"This House is of the opinion that the question of the constitutionality of the said act should have been submitted to the Supreme Court of Canada, in pursuance of the powers conferred by the Supreme and Exchequer Courts' Act, when the question could have been definitely determined by such court."

In support of his resolution Mr. Charlton made a long speech, in which he indulged in a general attack upon the constitutionality of the Jesuits estates legislation and upon the practices and precepts of the Jesuit Order and the Catholic Church. He characterized the opinion of the law officers of the Crown as of little or no value, because arrived at on an ex-parte statement by the defendants' attorney.

Sir John Thompson declined to enter into a controversy respecting the general character of the Jesuits or the Roman Catholic Church. As he supposed Mr. Charlton intended to circulate his speech in pamphlet form he reminded him of that eminent authority, Sir Fitz James Stephens, remarks concerning the publication of fanatical pamphlets. He declared that he or the Government had no communication with the Governor-General with respect to the reply which His Excellency gave to the delegates who met him at Quebec. He defended the reference to the law officers as the practice prevailing in England for two or three centuries.

Continuing after recess he pointed out that Her Majesty's Government never sought refuge behind judicial decisions on questions of disallowance. In conclusion he stated that those not satisfied with the decision of the law officers of the Crown were persons who were unwilling to be satisfied and that if the decision had been on their side there would not have been a word about the impropriety of the reference.

Mr. Blake thought it a pity that Mr. Charlton had brought this matter up again, as no good result could ensue. His own opinion was that an attempt should have been made to have a reference to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Mr. Weldon (Alb.) did not see that the Government were called upon to make any such reference. As to disallowance generally, so many and so difficult were the questions from the provinces knocking at the doors of this Parliament that many—he would not say he was one—were disposed to think that it would have been almost better for the peace of Canada had the right of disallowance been left with the Imperial Government.

Mr. Laurier thought no good could come of this fresh discussion. He thought such a reference as asked for would have inflamed public opinion in some parts quite as much as it would have allayed it in others. He would vote against Mr. Charlton's motion.

Messrs. Davin, Mills, White (Renf.) and Weldon (St. J.) made speeches against the amendment, and Casey, Fisher and Mulock in support. The motion was lost on division, 32 to 120. These were the members voting for the motion:

MR. LARGE'S MURDER.

A Methodist Missionary to Japan Gives Some Interesting Facts.

BRANTFORD, April 30.—Mr. John Dunlop, a Methodist missionary to Japan, is in Canada on five months' leave of absence. His home is Kingston, and he and his mother are at present guests of Mrs. Workman in this city. Mr. Dunlop was seen this afternoon in reference to the recent murder of Rev. Thomas A. Large, at Tokio.

"I knew Mr. Large exceedingly well," he said, "and I had supper with him on the evening before I sailed for home. He was formerly principal of the girls' mission school, but Mrs. Large was placed at the head of that institution some time since, and he was made principal of the boys' school. He married, as perhaps you know, Miss Spencer, formerly of Paris. Her school is the largest girls' school in Japan. When the news first reached me through the papers that Mr. Large had been killed I could not understand by what means. But when the word came that he had been stabbed I can readily form a conclusion. The Japanese are all expert swordsmen with long or short swords, and upon the slightest provocation will slash away at each other. It was the custom prior to 1868 for the people, millions of whom were retainers of the feudal lords, to carry two swords, a short one and a long one, and they are naturally very ready with this weapon."

"Is there much burglary in Japan?"

"Yes, a good deal. Japanese houses are very easily broken into. Mr. Large, however, lived in a large house built upon the European plan, but that would not deter a Japanese burglar, who will as unhesitatingly murder as rob."

"Did Mr. Large reside in the better protected part of Tokio?"

"No. He lived fully two miles from the centre of the city in the Azabu ward. You will remember that Tokio is a city of 1,100,000 inhabitants and covers perhaps 40 or 50 square miles of territory. The police system of Japan is a splendid system, the men belonging to the very respectable classes and ranking above the military. Japanese policemen carry swords instead of batons and revolvers. Mr. Large's loss," musingly added Mr. Dunlop, "will be a serious one to Canadian missions in Japan, and his murder will occasion uneasiness and alarm among the European population in Tokio. He was a bright man and one of the most successful young missionaries there. In all likelihood the murder was committed for the purpose of obtaining the funds of the girls' mission school, which are in Mr. Large's possession.

McGill's Convocation.

MONTREAL, April 30.—Two thousand persons filled Windsor Hall this afternoon at the convocation of McGill University, the faculties of law, science and art uniting for the first time in the history of the institution. Lord Stanley received the degree of D.C.L.

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

THURSDAY MAY 1, 1890.

A GROSS INSULT TO SMITH ELECTORS.

The Bobcaygeon Independent just doles on Mr. Mowat and never loses an opportunity to metaphorically hug Mr. Stratton to its enlightened bosom. Mr. Mowat does not object and, as he uses public offices in that way, he appointed the editor of the Independent to an office to increase his fondness for Liberal rule in Ontario, while Mr. Stratton shows his appreciation of the Independent's taffy by parading it in the columns of the Examiner. So long as the gushing Independent kept within bounds in its adulation of Messrs. Mowat and Stratton, the little comedy was only amusing, but when it goes so far as to offer a gross insult to the honest yeomen of the township of Smith it is time it should receive some attention. The Government and its candidate were not as popular with the electors of that township at the last election as they had formerly been, and the ill-feeling harbored against them breaks out in the Independent. In its last issue that staunch supporter of Messrs. Mowat and Stratton says:—

"In the election contest of four years ago, one of the strongest obstacles Mr. Stratton had to contend with, was the imbecile objection that he was 'a young man.' In fact had it not been for Mr. Stratton's energetic canvass, and bringing out of an unusual vote in other parts of his constituency, the township of Smith, which is looked upon as the banner township of the Liberals, would have defeated him, by refraining from voting, being largely influenced in this course by the cry that he was 'a young man.' After carrying the election without them, after his services to his constituency, and the convention of last week, these antideluvian fossils will perhaps conclude that, after all, brains, muscle, vigor and pluck, have some advantages over the conceited crankism, obstinacy, and decrepitude of old age. It is years they want, they love years, a fellow feeling makes them dote on years, they are all ears and nothing but ears, and as Mr. Stratton has now four years more to his score, they may possibly be induced to vote for him."

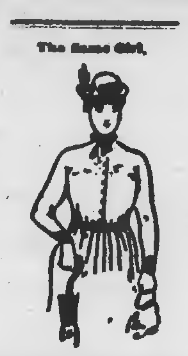
We feel that an apology is due to the electors of Smith for reproducing the insults even to condemn them, for a more gratuitous insult was never offered to any body of people. And is the slanderer rebuked by the man on whose behalf they are uttered? Not a bit of it. The flattery in the article, even from such a source and in such a connection, is pleasing to Mr. Stratton, and instead of administering a rebuke the Examiner copies almost the entire article, and adds in an editorial note that "the reference to Smith in the above article is timely!" The stalwart Reformers of other days are told in one breath that they can be done without now, because of the "unusual vote in other parts of his constituency," while in another the inducement held out to them to support the Government candidate is to be told that they are "antideluvian fossils" that they are old and "dote on years," and that they "are all ears, and nothing but ears," in other words that they are fossils and jackasses. The men of Smith are not men to be whipped into any line by insults, even though administered by a placeman of Mr. Mowat like the editor of the Independent and though they pass unrebuked or even endorsed by so great a man as the Government candidate in this riding.

Misrepresentation is combined with insult in the article quoted, for the decrease in the Reform vote in Smith was not owing to a cry that the candidate was "a young man," but to more substantial reasons that have not lost their weight but have increased in importance. Why, in his canvass Mr. Stratton freely made use of the fact of his "youth" to win sympathy. And to insult, without excuse and in such a wanton manner, the men of Smith because they will not yield their opinions and their consciences into the keeping of the Government or its candidates or placemen is an outrage of a gross character. There is nowhere in Canada, or elsewhere, a community that has a better reputation for good sense and integrity than the township of Smith, and this was recognised by those who regretted the political action of the electors of that township in former days, and that such a body of men should be subjected to abuse and insults such as we have quoted shows the frantic state to which the dread of the loss of power has reduced Government supporters. Such an article timely, forsooth! Such insults merit the unsparing condemnation, not only of the men and the community at which they are hurled, but of all men whose love of fairness and decency is not warped by violent partisanship, ambition and fear of defeat.

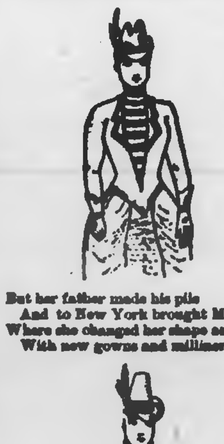
From the Toronto Globe Mr. W. R. Meredith gets this certificate of character:—"Mr. Meredith has had a long parliamentary experience. For many years he has been the responsible leader of the Opposition in the legislature. For many years he has been the responsible head of the Conservative party in provincial politics. He has a fair grasp of the details of legislation. He has many of the qualities which commend to the affection of associates and which do not excite the harsher and bitter hostilities of opponents. He is a good comrade, companionable with his fellows, blameless in the private relations of life, and of excellent professional standing." He will make a good Premier of Ontario.

Mr. A. M. Ross has retired from the Ontario Government, Mr. Mowat was told on Tuesday at a meeting he held in his riding that he should look for another constituency, Mr. Drury is facing almost certain defeat in East Simcoe, and it is said that Mr. Fraser will retire after the elections. Verily, the combination has trouble.

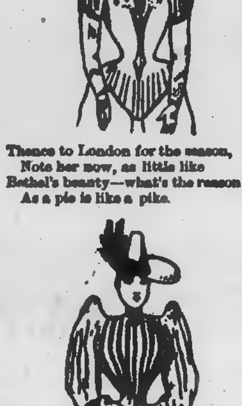
The Same Girl.



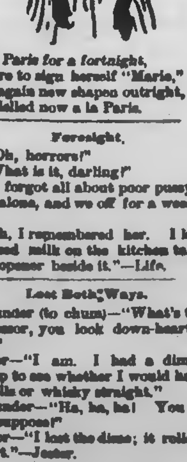
Here's a view of Mollie Crane—
As last summer's tintypes show,
Then in rustic Bethel, Maine,
She'd have led a beauty show.



But her father made his pile
And to New York brought Miss Mame
Where she changed her shape and style
With new gowns and millinery.



Thence to London for the season,
Note her now, as little like
Bethel's beauty—what's the reason!—
As a pie is like a pike.



Off to Paris for a fortnight,
There to sign herself "Marie,"
She's again new shapen outright,
Modelled now a la Paris.

Foresight.

She—"Oh, horrors!"

He—"What is it, darling?"

She—"I forgot all about poor pussy, left in the house alone, and we off for a week. She'll starve."

He—"Oh, I remembered her. I left a can of condensed milk on the kitchen table with a sardine opener beside it."—Life.

Lost Both Ways.

Old Rounder (to chum)—"What's the matter, Professor, you look down-hearted this morning?"

Professor—"I am. I had a dime, and I tossed it up to see whether I would have coffee and rolls or whisky straight."

Old Rounder—"Ha, ha, ha! You lost the whisky I suppose?"

Professor—"I lost the dime; it rolled down the culvert."—Jester.

Women Always Return Umbrellas.

"Did you ever know a woman to fail to return a borrowed umbrella?" asked a dealer in these articles, addressing a reporter.

"I can't say I ever did."

"Nobody else ever did," said the dealer, emphatically, "I have been a long time in the business of selling them, and I have made a special study of women in connection with the borrowed umbrella phase of social ethics, and I have yet to learn of a case in which she has abused the confidence reposed in her when she was lent an umbrella to protect herself in a sudden shower. She either returns it in person or sends it with verbal or a pretty note of thanks at the first opportunity. When a man comes in here to buy an umbrella and I get chatting with him, I ask the question.

"Did you ever lend a woman an umbrella?"

"Yes."

"Did she ever return it?"

"Yes."

"Then I go to a book I keep for this purpose and I make an entry in this form: 'Interrogated another to-day (entering the date). Answer: Lent and returned promptly. Here is the book."

And the dealer showed to the reporter a book with many pages of entries in the form given, covering a number of years.

"No, sir," repeated the dealer, with strong emphasis, as the reporter took his leave, "a woman never fails to return an umbrella."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

An Italian Trouble.

A delegation of the Italian colony which has settled in Peterborough was at the Police Court this morning to watch a case in which a daughter and son of sunny Italy were the principles. It seems that Mrs. Lucy Minnecola alleges that James S. Pagan used grossly insulting and abusive language towards her and she accordingly laid an information against the offending Italian. James says that Mrs. Minnecola has some furniture of his and that was what he went to her home on Elm-st. after. The lady in the case did not put in an appearance this morning and the case was dismissed after the Magistrate had waited for some time for the prosecutor to appear.

Fell Into a Cattle Guard.

The sad accident on the C. P. R. bridge at Norwood last evening was the cause of another painful accident, as a result of which Henry Woolerton, an emigrant just out from Rutland, Eng., is in the Nicholls hospital here. It seems that Woolerton got off the train when the accident happened and did not get on again when it started back for Norwood station. He started to run down the track to catch the running train when he fell into a cattle guard and struck his abdomen against a cross beam. His injuries rendered him unconscious and a telegram was sent ahead for medical assistance. Dr. Bell met the train at the station here and had the man removed to the hospital. His injuries are not thought to be serious and he will probably be out in a day or two.

The First General Alarm.

The contract which the Bell Telephone Company, through their local agent Mr. H. W. Kent, made with the Town Council called for the new fire alarm system to be in working order by the first day of May. For several weeks past the telephone men have been engaged erecting the poles, stringing the wires and pushing the system to completion and yesterday they completed their task. The new system has been put in carefully by first-class men and every fireman now has an alarm box in his house which will work satisfactorily. To test the system Manager Kent last night sounded a general alarm about 10:20. Councillor Langford, Mr. A. McNeil and others were present to witness the test. Three minutes and forty-two seconds after the alarm was sounded twelve men were in the station and ready to go out. Another test was made in hitching, and in twenty-three seconds the horses were in from the stables harnessed and ready to run out. This is pretty quick work. The test of the alarm was very satisfactory in every particular and good satisfaction will no doubt be given in future.

UNDER THE NEW REGIME.

Mr. John Kelly Leaves the Cemetery and his Successor Moves In.

To-day, the first day of May, the Little Lake Cemetery is under the new regime, Mr. Kelly having moved all his household effects from the house he has occupied for fifteen years past and Mr. W. H. Foord, the new superintendent, having moved in. Mr. Kelly made his last tour as superintendent of the beautiful necropolis last evening, and he had the satisfaction when he took his departure and handed the keys and care over to his successor, of knowing that everything was in an orderly condition throughout the grounds and ready for Mr. Foord to begin this morning.

A REVIEW reporter took a stroll down to the city of the dead yesterday and walked through the grounds. The grass is beginning to look green, while the gentle influences of spring are everywhere promising beauty in budding verdure. Mr. Kelly remarked that he had never given the cemetery a better, more careful or thorough renovating than he had this spring, and his statement is borne out as far as can be observed by the general appearance of the place. The roadways and paths are clean and orderly, the wind mill is in working order and the fountain ready to play. It is eighteen years since Mr. Kelly first went to the cemetery to work, and during the last fifteen years he has been its efficient superintendent. Needless to say he has seen a great transformation in the place since he entered it. At the time he first took charge there were only a few plots opened and these were along the roadways. The plots then occupied numbered about five and now they run up into the hundreds. The work of cleaning the brush which covered the greater portion of the land which is now so beautifully laid out and which forms the last resting place of so many of Peterborough's past citizens who have solved life's great problem and passed from time into eternity, was an arduous task. But year by year the work of cleaning and beautifying has gone on until to-day Peterborough has as beautiful and well laid out necropolis as will be found in the Province. For this none will deny that credit is due to Mr. Kelly's skill and attention, and he has frequently received his well-earned compliments. The last clearing that has been done was in the south-west portion of the grounds, where a very beautiful little spot has been laid out where four drives meet. Mr. Kelly said that he had been enabled to give so much time to renovating this spring on account of the few interments there had been in the cemetery. During this month there had not been one burial from within the corporation. There are only three bodies in the vault, and these would have been placed under the sod, only the friends of the deceased were waiting for distant relatives to arrive. Mr. Kelly said he had always been cordially and kindly treated through his long term of office and hoped he had given satisfaction.

Mr. W. H. Foord, who succeeds Mr. Kelly, is a comparatively young man with a practical knowledge, and will without doubt perform his stewardship in a worthy manner, and the beauty of our cemetery will be maintained by his skilled hands.

Sent Outside the Limits.

The Board of Health met in the committee rooms of the Council Chamber last evening, Dr. Fife, chairman, presiding. The gentlemen present were Messrs. Edg. Pearce, Dr. Brennan, Wm. English, B. Shortly, Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, Jas. G. Macdonald, Secretary, and Chief Roszel, Sanitary Inspector. A deputation of six residents of the south end of the town waited upon the Board and protested against the slaughter houses which were allowed within the town limits. Considerable discussion arose over this matter and finally a resolution was passed to the effect that all slaughter houses must move outside the municipality after the first of July next. Another resolution was also passed instructing the police to strictly enforce rule No. 4 of the Health by-law, which prohibits the depositing of any filth in a public place or in any lake, sewer, stream, pond, etc. The Board then adjourned.

ACCIDENT AT NORWOOD.

A CHILD KILLED BY A CANADIAN PACIFIC TRAIN.

Another Seriously and Probably Fatally Injured—A Heartrending Scene—A Third Child Saved by a Courageous Act.

Correspondence of the Review.

As the 5.12 Canadian Pacific express going west was nearing the station at Norwood last evening the long continued whistling of the locomotive denoted that something was wrong, which proved to be too sadly true. A few seconds before one little girl had received injuries that caused her death, another had been seriously if not fatally injured, while a third had an exceedingly narrow escape.

The three little girls were walking west on the railway track. Near Buck's grist mill a small bridge crosses the creek, and the children were not aware of their danger until they were

ON THE BRIDGE.

Frightened as they were, they made a dash for safety, but the on-coming train moved faster than their little limbs could carry them and before they got safely across the train overtook them,

Annie Waller, who was seven years of age, was struck by the locomotive when just across the bridge and when almost safely off the track. In another moment the poor child would have been free from the terrible danger, but she was a little late and was DRAWN UNDER THE COWCATCHER.

She was struck on the back of the head and had her foot badly crushed. The blow on the head made a ghastly wound and she appeared to have received internal injuries in addition. Her injuries were too great for her frail life to bear, and her sufferings were not of long duration, for in about twenty minutes after the accident her gentle spirit passed away. She was the youngest daughter of Mr. Abram Waller, formerly of Havelock. Both Mr. and Mrs. Waller were at Campbellford at the time of the accident, but were expected home early in the evening.

The other victim of the ruthless iron monster was Regena Fry, aged eight years and the only daughter of Mr. Hiram Fry, a wheelmaker in Finlay's hub factory. She made a brave effort to escape, but was not fleet enough and was caught and thrown on top of the cow-catcher. She was until the train was stopped. The poor little thing was then tenderly picked up and carefully carried home and Dr. Ford, who was on the scene in a few minutes, found two fractures of the child's skull. One of the fractures was not very serious, but the other was sufficient to cause grave fears, for it entered as far as the brain. Little Regena has been conscious ever since the accident up to the time of writing, but it is extremely doubtful if she can recover. The scene was heart rending when the mother met the procession, carrying first the dying Annie Waller, and then her own little wounded darling.

The other child, Cora Waller, an elder sister of Annie, was saved by the valiant action of Mr. Thomas Elliott, a young cheesemaker, who, seeing the great danger of the children, ran forth or fifty yards on the track, meeting the train, and to push Cora Waller off the track. So close was the train upon her that Mr. Waller narrowly escaped being ran down himself and he well merits the praise of everyone for his bravery and presence of mind.

The locomotive was driven by engineer McGuire, who had only joined the train with his engine at Havelock. Conductor James Smith was in charge of the train.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD IN GLOOM.

It is needless to say that the parents of both children have the sincerest sympathy of the community in their very sad afflictions for the accident has cast a gloom over the whole neighborhood.

The value of a remedy should be estimated by its curative properties. According to this standard, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical blood medicine in the market, because the most pure and concentrated. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

At the Opera House.

Ladies largely predominated in the audience which attended the presentation of the drama "A Great Wrong" by the Josie Mills Company at the Opera House last night. The play was well put on and the audience was delighted. To-night "The Silver King" will be presented and as this is a strong play by a strong company there should be a large audience. The company is deserving of it.

Spreading the Light.

A very small audience gathered in the Sunday school room of St. Andrew's Church last evening to hear Rev. Dr. Moffat, Secretary of the Canada Tract and Book Society, who was to speak on "How to reach the Masses and the Jesuits." The rev. gentleman conducted the meeting himself, and after the opening exercises spoke for about an hour, his address being an interesting one in which he sought to set forth the work the Tract and Book Society was doing and the way in which it was intended to send the Gospel to the masses. He spoke of the work in the Northwest, where the Bible and tracts were being sent among the scattered and isolated settlers, of the work done by the different Associations and the work in the Central Prison. He backed up his reference to these different works by relating instances of the good and conversions that had resulted from the Society's efforts to spread the Gospel. They aimed to reach all people by pure Christian literature. In concluding he referred to the work that was being done among the French Roman Catholics in Quebec and said that the Protestants were to-day face to face with the greatest question Canada had ever seen, the Jesuit and Separate school question. He had made this a careful study and, he said, the only settlement of the question was to be found in the evangelization of the French Catholics of Quebec. This the Society was aiming at by sending colporteurs among the lumber camps and thus distributing the Bible and good literature. This was the way he would fight the French by killing them with kindness and sending them the Gospel of Christ. He gave illustrations which he knew for positive fact, showing the good work that had already been accomplished in this direction, and he closed by urging them all to do something to help the cause. A collection was taken up in aid of the Society.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH.

Resignation of Dr. Jamieson—The Affairs of St. Andrew's Church.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in the school room of St. Andrew's church at 9:30 this morning. The Moderator, Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, presided.

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. TORRANCE,—The Presbytery would hereby express its devout gratitude to Almighty God in that He has been graciously pleased to bring so far safely through a severe surgical operation one of its members, Mr. Alexander Bell, and earnestly pray that our Heavenly Father may be pleased to strengthen and restore to complete health our brother that he may be long spared to labor effectually in the work whereunto God has called him.—Carried.

The Moderator and the mover and seconder of the resolution were appointed to wait on Mr. Bell with the resolution.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

A discussion then took place on the arrangements of the docket, after which the resignation of Rev. Dr. Jamieson of the pastoral charge of Garden Hill and Knoxville was taken up. The resignation was laid on the table and the congregation ordered to be cited, Rev. Mr. Cleland being appointed for that purpose.

Rev. Mr. Cleland was appointed delegate to the assembly, vice Mr. Scott, who resigned.

ST. ANDREW'S AFFAIRS.

The St. Andrew's matters were then taken up.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL said he was convinced that this matter would be a difficult one for the Presbytery to satisfactorily settle. He believed it would be better to relegate the matter to the Synod, where it would be considered free from prejudice and feeling, and he moved that that be done and that the Synod be requested to issue a commission to enquire into the affairs of St. Andrew's.

Rev. Mr. McEWEN argued that until the Presbytery had dealt with the matters the Synod would not do so and would refer it back.

After further discussion the Moderator ruled the motion out of order.

Mr. ROXBURGH then presented the report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the financial affairs of St. Andrew's, and the report was received.

Rev. Mr. SUTHERLAND said that the estimated deficit was due very largely to the fact that subscribers had given notice of a reduction of their subscriptions under existing conditions. The year 1889 began favorably, but a part of the falling off was due to the misunderstandings later in the year,

On motion of Rev. Mr. McEwen the records of the Session and Managers were ordered to be laid on the table.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL then renewed his motion to refer to Synod.

The motion was put and lost.

The visitation proceedings were then taken up and the papers in the St. Andrew's matters were read. There appeared to be no one present to represent Rev. Mr. Bell and the question arose whether the Presbytery could proceed in his absence. The Moderator and Rev. Messrs. Duncan and Cleland were appointed a deputation to wait on Mr. Bell in regard to the matter. The consideration of the St. Andrew's matter was then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Into Their New Office.

The first tenant of the new market building moved in last night, when the C.P.R. telegraph and express office transferred their office fixtures and effects from their old quarters opposite the REVIEW office to their handsome and commodious new premises in the south-west corner of the new market building, corner of George and Charlotte-sts. The new office will be an improvement on the old one when the interior has been arranged and settled. The three large plate glass windows on the south side with the glass doors at either end give plenty of light, while the high ceiling and perfect ventilation will make it a pleasant place to work in the summer. It has been fitted up nicely in cherry and will look exceedingly well. The transfer from the old office into the new was made after business last night and in a remarkably short time. Mr. Wm. Marshall, of Toronto, chief inspector for the Company, effected the change with such little interruption. Mr. Marshall yesterday ran all the wires into the new quarters, which was an unusually big undertaking for one day, and last evening cut connections in the old office about 8 20 and had communication with any of the lines in the new office at about 9.15. This was a remarkably quick transfer and no one but an expert could have performed the feat so expeditiously and satisfactorily. Several new improvements have been introduced into the new office which will tend to give a better service. A new Western electric switchboard, the most improved now in use, has been put in and will be a great improvement on the old ones. Mr. T. E. Roddy, the local agent, is pleased with his new office and the patrons of the company will also share this pleasure. Mr. Marshall left for the west again to-day.

Wedding Bells.

Another happy matrimonial event took place last evening when Miss Minnie Sharpe, daughter of Mr. John Sharpe, of Dublin st., was joined in holy wedlock to Mr. Arthur Tebb, a young man who is highly esteemed by a large circle of friends in Peterborough. The pleasant event was solemnized at the residence of the bride's father, and was witnessed by only the relatives and a few immediate friends of the interested parties. Rev. E. F. Torrance tied the nuptial knot, while Miss Belle Sharpe, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Mr. T. Emmerson assisted the groom. After the ceremony an elaborate wedding supper was partaken of by the happy couple and their guests and a pleasant evening was spent before Mr. and Mrs. Tebb left for their new home which was in readiness to receive them on Smith-st. The bride and groom are young people with many friends in town who will extend their kindest wishes and heartiest congratulations as they embark upon the sea of matrimony. A numerous and handsome array of wedding gifts attested this fact. Mr. Tebb has been an active and valued worker in the Charlotte-st. Methodist Sunday school, and the teachers and officers of this school sent their congratulations to the happy couple accompanied by a handsome chair, while his Sunday school class presented him with an elegant silver tea service. Among the other many wedding gifts were a handsome parlor lamp and china tea set from the fellow employes of the groom in the Ontario Canoe Company, a costly rug from Mr. J. C. Turnbull, in whose employ the bride had been, and a very elegant cake basket and breakfast cruet from her fellow employees in Mr. Turnbull's dress making department.

A Suggestion to the Board of Trade.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Are you and the people of Peterborough aware that every person coming to town by water is taxed per head by our Government and every boat passing through the locks pays a heavy tax each time. It is particularly hard on these waters for a boat cannot leave her wharf till a tax is levied on her and her passengers. Is there anything more like going back to the dark ages than putting a toll on people's heads? Why is it necessary that Peterborough should be charged a toll on people coming here to trade? Surely our Government could be satisfied with collecting, as is done on all other canals, so much per ton on freight, cordwood, &c. I think it might be wise for our Board of Trade to take up this matter. We fought for years to get our toll gates done away with as a remnant of barbarity and now we have an enlightened Government putting it on again, and not only charging the vehicle toll, but the persons that ride in it.

Yours truly,
WATER MAN.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

Her fashionable friends had too many other duties to permit them to come often to see the silent girl. She could not feign the old manner, and the fluent sympathy offered was a mockery; so she was glad when they ceased to trouble her, and left her to the kindly ministrations of the little damsel.

They had taken to sewing for the little ones at the Foundlings' Home, and Margaret used laughingly to say, looking at the pile of blue gingham aprons, that she had become a Sister of Charity and renounced the world. To be sure, she made one or two attempts at diversion, fearing that it must be dull for the little damsel. One one occasion she took the country maid to the Fortnightly, the fashionable literary club of the city—a women's club exclusively. There was a paper on Browning, read by Mrs. Bexter, who had met the poet abroad, and who repeated his words with reverence. Three hundred of the most accomplished women of Chicago were there. Chicago is essentially a woman's city, anyway. Women represent the most cultivated half of the city, by all odds, and in philanthropic and social ways are certainly the governing power. In business they bear a good third of work, though not of responsibility. Hardly an office, a store, a shop or a manufactory is without them, and there are certain hours in the morning when one would be almost ready to affirm, judging from the streets, that it was a city of women. The Fortnightly has luxurious rooms in the Art Institute, and here among silken hangings, and fine bronzes, in a dim light appropriate to the subject, Mrs. Bexter read from "Fifine at the Fair," and told stories of Browning. Afterward, fragrant tea was served in transparent cups of amber porcelain, while a softened hum of conversation trembled on the air, and the young ladies sat in esthetic attitudes. The little damsel, tricked out in a grey suit of elegant broadcloth that Margaret had made for her, looked in place and behaved with tact—an American girl always manages to rise to the occasion. But when she got home she had a sick headache and that night she cried herself to sleep with homesickness, so that Margaret concluded the air of the Fortnightly was too tropical for her wayside flower, and did not venture into its rarefied atmosphere again. After that they went on quietly making blue gingham aprons—in the shadow of a scaffold.

After Margaret had found that Harry had been to the bath-house on that memorable day, she was brought to a standstill. There were terrible moments when she really entertained a fleeting suspicion of his guilt, but, woman-like, she did not so much suspect him because of the damaging circumstantial evidence against him as because of his inexplicable behavior to her. There were times when she thought he must be insane—what else could furnish a clue to his conduct? And if he could break her heart, was it not also possible that he might have murdered his uncle? Thus did Margaret reason. And blinded by the horror, she worked day and night, talked, sang, lived a sort of second life which bore little relation to her real one. It is said that in the heat of battle in the great slaveholders' rebellion, the soldiers were jocular, and flung jests at each other over the breastworks where they were dying. Some such strange possession ruled Margaret now, and made it possible for her to listen to fairy tales and sing songs while her needle flew and the little damsel rocked violently in her low chair.

She could not quite forgive her father for his cruelty, as she deemed it, to Harry, and a hardly recognised coldness had come between them. They sat together at twilight, but the hour was a painful one to Margaret. She could not have told why, but it was certain that these visits left her nervous and wearied. The judge seemed restless, too, and he had a feverish way of regarding his daughter that made her think that he was secretly remorseful for his unkindness and only lacked the courage to say so. Indeed, on two or three occasions he had sprung from his chair and rushed toward her in a way most unlike his usual calm. She had always stretched out her arms for him, and on each occasion he had clasped her with a fierceness that had frightened her; then would his breath come hard and his whole frame tremble as if he feared to lose her.

They were sitting quietly together one evening talking about George W. Cable's last book. The judge had been a lover of New Orleans for years, and every tribute paid to it gave him as much pleasure as if it were a personal compliment.

"It is our poets and novelists who make the land beautiful," he was saying. "Should we have loved the west as we do if it had not been for Bret Harte? Would we ever have guessed at the charm of old New York if it had not been for Irving? Our poets have shown us the beauty of the forest primeval, our novelists have given life to the cities. We know Boston through Howells better than we know it by actual observation. It is the eye of genius that perceives, and we common folks must see by this borrowed intelligence. It is not given to all to discover beauty, though most of us may appreciate it after it is pointed out."

Just then the servant entered. He bore a card on a silver plate.

"It is that reporter from the Chronicle," the judge said, with some impatience. "I wonder what he can want."

"Oh! ask him in," returned Margaret. She remembered him with some gratitude. He had never betrayed a word of her confidence, and she imagined that this must be a great sacrifice to a professional newsgatherer. Besides, she thought there might be something new in the case they were all so interested in. Had not Pond told her that in the future he should have nothing to do but work on the murder? His statement was evidently not strictly accurate, however, for as he entered with an apology and saluted first the judge and then herself, he said:

"I have come to trouble you for five minutes, Judge Barthwait, about the law enacted by the Legislature yesterday making it a crime for cousins to marry in this State. I want your opinion concerning its advisability. Can it be enforced, and if so does it not interfere with personal liberty?"

The judge wore a relieved expression. It was evident that he, too, had expected the reporter's visit to be connected with the murder. Pond had seated himself near one of the bookcases by accident, and as his eye fell on them, he seemed to become fascinated. With his head bent respectfully toward the judge, to indicate that he was listening to all he said, he arose and followed the titles of the books along the shelves, with an appreciative eye. Almost all collectors of books are proud to have their selections admired even by the humblest, but the judge was an exception to the rule, or else he thought that the young man had committed an unpardonable rudeness in dividing his attention while he was talking to him. He regarded Pond's investigations with an angry eye, and when the young man drew a note book from his pocket and began to write in it, the judge interrupted him.

"May I ask what you are putting down in that note-book," he remarked.

"I am not always willing to rely entirely on my memory for an interview," Pond replied.

"Then you are putting down my opinion?" interrogated the judge suspiciously.

"What should I be putting down, sir?" responded Pond, with an injured look.

"I beg your pardon," said the judge. "To be sure, what should you be putting down? Do you write shorthand?"

"Well, yes, I do when I takes notes. I am rather ashamed of it though. Most men who write shorthand are unqualified for the business."

"Indeed!" remarked the judge. "Why?"

"Because a newspaper man should see the world with the eye of a novelist and not an amanuensis."

"Surely," returned the judge. He was silent a moment, as if thinking the matter over. "In what else can I serve you?" he asked at length. Pond was still busy with the book cases. Even Margaret, sitting in her customary corner by the fire, was not able to win his attention. She was looking pale, but none the less beautiful. A couple of great Puritan roses that clasped her brocaded tea gown at the throat symbolized her delicate beauty. Yet she was not like the roses, fragile, and one of her greatest charms was her look of substantiality. She looked like a woman who could stand misfortune, or arduous work, without complaint. She was as wholesome, in truth, as it is given to woman to be. The firelight dancing about her brought out splendid gleams of copper in her gown and gleams of gold in her hair—not that her hair was gold, but it held certain imprisoned tints, as an opal does. Pond saw all this out of the corner of his eye, and it may have been that which made him tremble and grow pale. Margaret broke the silence, which she saw was irritating her father.

"I dare say you are a collector of curious books yourself, Mr. Pond," she remarked in her self-contained way.

ARMED PREPARATIONS.

European Authorities on the Alert to Prevent Trouble To-day.

PARIS, April 30.—While policemen were trying to arrest three Italian anarchists in the Faubourg St. Jacques to-day the Italians drew knives to defend themselves. A scuffle ensued, the police using their swords. All were finally arrested. An anarchist arrested yesterday had in his possession a manifesto which shows he intended with friends to sack shops and banks. In consequence of this revelation the number of watchmen in all the banks has been doubled. The Labor Exchange is guarded by police.

Fourteen hundred hawkers have been arrested and will be kept imprisoned till Friday to prevent their being employed and paid to engage in riotous demonstration to-morrow. The police to-day seized 1500 iron tipped cudgels at the office of The Journal d'Assaut and a stock of revolvers and knives at the house of a Socialist. It is stated the Marxist Guarde has been arrested.

PARIS, April 30.—Louise Michel and three other Anarchists were arrested this evening.

M. Floquet, president of the Chamber of Deputies, has instructed the questor of the chamber to receive deputations of workmen who come to present their grievances when such deputations are composed of not more than five persons. No deputation from a street assembly, however, will be received. In addition to the regular Paris garrison, which will be held in their barracks tomorrow in readiness for service, eight cavalry regiments have been placed at the disposal of the governor of the city. These troops will be stationed at the palace of the Elysee, the Legislative Chambers and at other points where disorder is likely to occur. There will be no interruption by the authorities of street traffic throughout the city. Meetings of workingmen on the streets will not be allowed.

Forbidding a Procession.

AMSTERDAM, April 30.—The Municipal Council has forbidden a procession on May Day. The Socialist leaders will deliver speeches in Plancius Hall. A strike is considered improbable.

Uneasiness in Iberia.

MADRID, April 30.—Uneasiness prevails in the provinces and many families are leaving their houses. No disorder, however, is expected. The Governor has issued a proclamation calling the attention of the populace to the penal code and other laws regulating meetings. The Anarchist committee of this city has invited workingmen to assemble in a local music hall.

LISBON, April 30.—The workingmen of this city have been summoned to a mass meeting Sunday to demand a working day of eight hours.

Where They Will Strike To-day.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 30.—President Samuel I. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor passed through here to-day for Louisville to take part in the 8-hour demonstration there to-morrow. He said: "The 8-hour movement will commence tomorrow in Boston and New England cities; New York, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and a host of other cities and towns. I look for nearly every section to be successful. Chicago, which made the first break, will gain the point."

CLEMO'S TRIAL.

A Female Witness Swears He Admitted His Guilt to Her.

CAYUGA, April 30.—The trial of Joseph Clemo for the murder of David Lawrie, whose body was found in the canal at Dunnville in November, 1889, was begun here yesterday, Mr. Macdougall, Q.C., of St. Thomas making the opening statement for the crown in which he detailed the facts already published. A number of witnesses were examined as to the finding and identification of the body and other necessary but uninteresting details.

To-day about a score of witnesses were examined. Many of them testified that Clemo was without money on the evening previous to the old man's disappearance and that he had plenty of it next morning and for some time after.

One of them had seen him at 11 p.m. and again at 3 a.m. At 11 he wanted to borrow 10 cents and at 3 he was boasting of his wealth and displaying it.

To several of these witnesses Clemo stated that he was going to do a job through the night and that he would have plenty of money in the morning, adding that it was a job that he required to be alone to do.

A female witness testified that Clemo wanted her to leave Dunnville with him and go west, assuring her that he had money and showing her some. The rest of this witness' testimony was the most important adduced during the trial. She swore that Clemo told her that he had had trouble on the swing bridge with the old man and had struck him harder than he intended to; that there were two other men on the bridge at the time and that he asked them what he had better do under the circumstances and they said to throw him into the canal, which he did.

The court then adjourned till to-morrow.

West Kent Conservatives

CHATHAM, April 30.—A Conservative convention was held here to-day to select a candidate for West Kent in the approaching provincial elections. The names of James Clancey, C. J. O'Neill, John Langford, Matthew Wilson and T. A. Smith were presented, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Clancey, who was unanimously chosen and having been summoned by a deputation announced his acceptance.

"There was a frog who lived in a spring.
He caught such a cold he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Batrachian! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "genus homo" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head," or on the lungs, or both combined. For the above mentioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by the timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh in the Head, no matter of how long standing, while for all laryngeal, bronchial, throat and lung affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively unequaled. It cures the worst lingering coughs and builds up the flesh and strength of those who have been reduced by wasting diseases. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it refunded.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 8 years, 22c.

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

Agent for domestic patterns. By sending 5c. we will send a fashion book containing about 900 styles.

THE LAND PURCHASE BILL

PASSES ITS SECOND READING BY 80 MAJORITY.

Secretary Balfour's Speech in Defence of the Measure — An Interruption for Which Tim Healy Was Called to Order—The Vote 348 to 268.

LONDON, May 1.—The debate on the Land Purchase Bill was resumed by Secretary Balfour. He approved Parnell's proposal in favor of fixing down rents provided that this scheme be distinctly subordinated to the main scheme for establishing peasant owners and that the tenants where rents are fixed down be permanent. Dillon's suggestions regarding congested districts largely coincided with the Government's plans. Mr. Balfour said the Irish members had made many speeches throughout Ireland but had they ever urged the inexpediency and unwisdom of early marriages? [Hear! hear! and laughter]. Mr. Dillon had thrown the whole blame for the large west coast population upon the landlords. Some responsibility for their having children surely rested upon the parents. [Hear! hear! and laughter].

Tim. Healy (interrupting): Send Mrs. Besant there.

The Speaker called Healy to order.

Mr. Balfour said the Parnellites had refrained from touching the evils of the sub-division of land in the west and from urging consolidation or emigration of those who could not earn a living at home. Their view was families ought to remain no matter whether they could earn a living or not. A more pernicious doctrine was never heard. [Cheers.] The Government dealt with the difficulty of congestion in good faith, hoping its plans would stimulate industries and improve agriculture. He did not believe the measure would endanger the British exchequer Taken as a whole the bill was a great boon to Ireland, such as she never could confer upon herself and never could get except from the party now in power. [Hear, hear.] Mr. Sexton (Nationalist) said the bill was a landlord measure and a betrayal of the country.

The bill passed the second reading, 348 to 268.

The Flour Market.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 1.—The Northwestern Miller says: "The flour output last week was 129,800 barrels. There were 18 mills running to-day and they were grinding about 30,500 barrels per 24 hours. The demand for flour is light and prices are being shaded 5c to 10c as compared with those of a week ago. The past week's sales amounted to about two-thirds of the output. Bakers sold the most freely mainly for export, but patents were harder to move and they were accumulated to some extent. Local millers are getting considerable trade from Montana and other western states and very good prices are obtained."

A Brace of Prize Fights.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L.I., May 2.—Pete McCoy whipped Johnnie [illegible] in a 10-round fight with 2-ounce gloves at the Puritan Club rooms here this morning.

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—Jack Lawrence of Detroit whipped Louis Guilbean, a young New Orleanist, in 7 rounds for a $650 purse before the Columbia Athletic club to-night. Guilbean was green but proved a surprise, having matters his own way for four rounds.

Gossip from Guelph.

GUELPH, May 1.—Arbor Day was celebrated by the planting of many trees to-day.

The open season for trout fishing commenced to-day and many disciples of Izaak Walton took advantage of the occasion to put in a day's fishing.

Customs collections for April, 1890, were $7906, an increase of $1537 over the corresponding month last year.

The Champlain Canal Opened.

TROY, N.Y., May 1.—The Champlain Canal opened at Whitehall at 1 o'clock this morning. About 35 loaded boats cleared at once, 30 of them being loaded with ice. Their cargoes approximate 4450 tons. Six more iceboats cleared during the day.

LABOR'S FIGHT BEGUN.

MAY DAY MORE QUIET THAN WAS ANTICIPATED.

Demonstrations in Many Industrial Centres—A Lively Scrimmage in Paris—Twenty Men Wounded and 300 Arrests Made—Notes of the Strikes.

PARIS, May 1.—A deputation of workingmen went to the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon and presented a petition asking that the chamber make 8 hours a legal day's work. Large crowds gathered in the thoroughfares in the vicinity of the chamber completely blocking them. The cavalry cleared the way for the deputation to proceed.

A row occurred at 7½ o'clock on the Place de la Concorde. A body of workmen wished to pass down the rue de la Cinque toward the Elysee palace. The police barred the way and the paraders tried to force a passage. A squadron of guards charged upon the crowd wounding a large number of men. Many arrests were made on the charge of refusing to move on.

The municipal guards left the Hotel de Ville at 7 o'clock. Upon their departure the crowd began to sing the Marseillaise and were dispersed by the police after a brief scuffle. Another skirmish between the police and sightseers occurred in the Place de la Republique at 10 o'clock to-night. During the fracas a man fired at the police, but nobody was hurt.

PARIS, May 2.—At a late hour the boulevards were thronged with excited people. In the Place Chateau d'Eau the cavalry charged upon the crowd and several more arrests were made. The total number of arrests during the day approaches 300.

It is stated that in the skirmish in the Place de la Concorde 20 persons were injured but they concealed the fact in order to escape arrest.

An Austrian Riot Quelled.

VIENNA, May 1.—The Prater has been occupied all day by troops but the crowds that fill the streets have been orderly and there has been no necessity for official interference. Reports from Ostrau, Troppau and Bruenn say work has been proceeding as usual and no disturbances have occurred. At Prossnitz a number of workmen had been put in prison and when their fellow-workmen gathered on the streets this morning a plot was hatched for their liberation. The result was that a mob of 4000 men made a desperate attack upon the prison. The authorities, however, had provided a strong guard for the prison and the rioters were repulsed and routed. At Trieste, Pola, and Cracow there was only a slight cessation of work and everything is quiet.

A Mild Holiday at Lisbon.

LISBON, May 1.—The day was observed with quietness by the workmen here. A group of workmen who were taking a holiday proceeded to the cemetery in which the remains of the Socialist Fontana are interred and placed a wreath upon his tomb. A manifesto has been issued by the workingmen declaring in favor of 8 hours as a legal day's work and it has received a large number of signatures.

Political Speculators Condemned.

OPORTO, May 1.—A manifesto was issued by the workingmen to-day in which they condemn political speculators for trying to control the labor movement in their own interest. The manifesto further says the men after holding their demonstration to-day will resume their work and will ask the king to see that legislation is adopted by the Cortes for the regulation of labor.

No Disturbance in Holland.

THE HAGUE, May 1.—No disturbance is reported in any part of Holland. Two orderly meetings of workingmen were held at Amsterdam. They were addressed by Socialists who advocated the 8-hour movement.

The Fight for Shorter Hours.

OTTAWA, May 1.—About 400 bricklayers and masons are out here and all building operations are at a standstill. They demand the 9-hour day. The carpenters' organization is not strong and they are not in a position to make a strong demand.

HAVERHILL, Mass., May 1.—The master carpenters here have all granted 9 hours at the old pay.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 1.—The 8-hour day agitation is not likely to cause much trouble here. The workingmen are well organized and several trades have already secured the 8-hour day without serious opposition.

POUGHKEEPSIE, May 1.—About 60 carpenters have struck here for 25 cents an hour and 9 hours a day's work.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Six master carpenters, employing 200 hands, after holding out until noon conceded the demands of their men.

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 1.—Two hundred and fifty granite cutters struck to-day for 9 hours and no reduction in wages.

LYNN, Mass., May 1.—Owing to concessions made in the building and other trades there was no interruption of business here to-day.

TAUNTON, May 1.—All the boss masons here but one agreed to grant 9 hours and 10 hours' pay.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 1.—A 9-hour and more pay movement was inaugurated here to-day by the masons and assistants and all contractors but three yielded.

CHICAGO, May 1.—About 35,000 men took part in the parade this afternoon.

DETROIT, May 1.—Two thousand carpenters are out on strike in this city. The strike is expected to be short as the principal contractors are conceding the men's demands.

Labor Lacunians.

The day passed without disturbance at Vienna. Over 60 workmen's meetings were held, at all of which resolutions were adopted in favor of an 8-hour day.

A few insignificant rows are reported at Milan and Naples. At Naples a police inspector was wounded.

About 2500 Berlin workingmen paraded in an orderly manner.

The New York City end of the world-wide Labor demonstration was not a great success. In the procession that preceded the meeting there were about 5000 paraders.

Thirty thousand workmen paraded in Barcelona.

There are extensive strikes in Saragossa, but no disorder has occurred.

Thirty thousand workmen at Pesth adopted resolutions in favor of a work day of 8 hours.

Mysterious Drowning at Kingston.

KINGSTON, May 1.—The body of John Lee, a carter, aged 60, was found drowned at the foot of Princess-street at 3 o'clock this afternoon. His brother, Robert Lee, was drowned a few years ago. John was seen on the market [illegible] this morning. The affair is very mysterious.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS.

Monck Conservatives Name W. E. Wellington of Toronto.

WELLANDPORT, May 1.—The Conservative convention held in Johnston's Hall to-day was well attended with enthusiastic delegates. Nicholas Shelley of Wainfleet occupied the chair. Addresses were made by Mayor Raymond of Welland, F. R. Lalor of Dunnville, Mr. Dalton of Pelham, W. Brown of Marshville and the chairman.

It was moved by F. R. Lalor and seconded by W. Brown that W. E. Wellington of the Fonthill Nursery be tendered a nomination to represent the Conservatives of the county of Monck in the next Ontario Assembly. The motion was carried unanimously. Messrs. Brown, Mable, Ward and Sandy were appointed a deputation to wait on Mr. Wellington at his office in Toronto on Monday next and tender him the nomination. The meeting adjourned till May 7 at 1 o'clock when it is expected Mr. Wellington will be present.

The Equal Righters hold their convention to-morrow. It is believed that they will adopt Mr. Wellington's candidature.

West Hastings Conservatives.

BELLEVILLE, May 1.—Mr. G. W. Ostrom was unanimously renominated for the Assembly at a Conservative mass meeting this afternoon.

West Algoma Reformers.

PORT ARTHUR, May 1.—The Reform nomination for West Algoma was again tendered to Mr. James Conmee last night and accepted.

Frontenac Reformers.

KINGSTON, May 1.—The Frontenac Reformers to-day selected H. L. Shibley as their candidate for the Assembly.

Nipissing Reformers.

NORTH BAY, May 1.—The Liberals of the new district of Nipissing to-day selected Mr. Loughrin of Mattawa as their Assembly candidate.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S GRIEVANCE.

The Halifax Board of Trade Passes Resolutions of Sympathy.

HALIFAX, May 1.—The Halifax Board of Trade having heard the delegates from Newfoundland on the French shore question adopted these resolutions:

"Resolved, that the Board of Trade of Halifax, having heard the delegation from Newfoundland on the question of French rights and claims on the coast of Newfoundland, desire to express their warmest sympathy with the people of Newfoundland in the efforts they are now making to assert their constitutional rights.

"Resolved, that the Board of Trade desire to express their concurrence with the resolutions passed at a mass meeting of the citizens of St. John's, Nfld., held on March 26 last, and feel convinced that it is the duty of the Imperial authorities to relieve the colony of Newfoundland from a condition of affairs which has become so anomalous and intolerable.

"Resolved, that in view of the important trade relations existing between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, which are seriously prejudiced by the manner in which French rights and claims are enforced on certain parts of the coast of Newfoundland, particularly in relation to the lobster canning industry, this Board of Trade hope that the Dominion Government will carefully consider the matter and take such action as will be best calculated to conserve the interests of the trade of this province."

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

The House Has a Busy But Dull Day—Measures Advanced.

OTTAWA, May 1.—After hearing Sir John Thompson's explanation of the Senate amendments to the bill respecting bills of exchange, checks and promissory notes and giving a second reading to the bill from the Senate removing the 5-year limitation from mortgages made by companys and also to the bill respecting inspection of gas, the House spent the rest of the afternoon in concurrence in the report from the Committee of Supply.

After recess concurrence was continued until 9 p.m. when all the items which have passed the committee had been concurred in. The House then went again into committee on the banking bill, a great deal of discussion taking place on the working of several minor clauses. The committee reported progress and the House adjourned at 1½.

William Smith, Deputy Minister of Marine, has been granted six months' leave of absence and is about to leave for a trip to Europe. He is well advanced in years and has been in failing health and it is probable that he will not resume the duties of his office. It is said to be in contemplation to reunite the marine and fisheries branches of the department under one deputy head, in place of having a deputy for each as has been the case of late years.

SHADOWED BY A DETECTIVE.

A Mysterious Spotter in Hamilton—Work on the Incline Railway Begun.

HAMILTON, May 1.—A "spotter" from Toronto in the employ of a detective agency there is said to be in the city shadowing a man and woman residing in the West End. What "lay" he is on is not known.

The third anniversary of Bishop Dowling's installation in this diocese was appropriately celebrated to-day.

St. Bernard Commandery of Chicago, 700 strong, will visit the city on June 24. The 13th Battalion band has accompanied this commandery on its annual trip for the last two years.

The survey for the incline railway was begun to-day.

The exports from the consular district of Hamilton to the United States during April were $60,250.

The inland revenue returns for April at this port are $36,319, an increase of $3114 over 1889.

The customs duties collected at this port last month were $73,226, an increase of $12,912 over April, 1889.

Postingal's Punishment.

OTTAWA, May 1.—At the assizes to-day Dominique Postingal, convicted of placing with intent to do grievous bodily harm an explosive on the premises occupied by his wife, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

An Ayr Lad Drowned.

AYR, May 1.—John Moore, aged 13, and two young companions were upset from a canoe this morning. Moore was drowned.

Quiet Reigns in Helvetia.

BERNE, May 1.—There was no observance of labor day here and work in all branches progressed as usual. Despatches from all parts of Switzerland report a similar state of affairs.

FOR A DOUBLE MURDER.

SENTENCED TO STATE'S PRISON FOR LIFE.

A Wealthy Michigan Lumberman [illegible] —The [illegible] Jury [illegible] of the [illegible] Murder After [illegible] Hours' Deliberation.

[illegible], Mich., May 1.—Arguments in the Wright murder trial [illegible] yesterday afternoon and the jury [illegible] at 5 o'clock. At [illegible] a verdict declaring Charles T. Wright guilty of murder in the first degree. [illegible] did not move a muscle but his face [illegible] then became deadly pale. This [illegible] he was sentenced to state's prison for life.

Charles T. Wright, the murderer, was president of the Otter Creek Lumber Company and [illegible]. The [illegible] was brought about by an attempt of the county authorities to levy on a lot of logs in payment of back taxes. Wright tried to replevin the logs so as to keep the mill running, but his bonds were not accepted. Wright threatened to take the logs anyway and officers were sent to see that he did not. Under Sheriff [illegible] Marshall and Dr. Frank E. Thurber went to the mill site and arrived while Wright's men were in the act of rolling the logs into the river. Wright, who was armed with a repeating rifle and revolver, met the men and after a few moments of heated argument, raised the gun and deliberately shot Marshall through the heart. Dr. Thurber seeing that his life was in danger sprang upon Wright, who drew a revolver and blew the doctor's brains out. The murderer then fled to the woods, where he was captured the same night. The double murder was one of the most atrocious in the history of the state.

CLEMO ACQUITTED.

The Jury Find Him Not Guilty of the Murder of David Lawrie.

CAYUGA, May 1.—"Not guilty." [illegible] was the verdict that at 8 o'clock to-night freed Joseph Clemo from custody on the charge of murdering old David Lawrie at Dunnville in November, 1888. The jury were by no means unanimous when they first retired, but after a long consultation in view of the spotted character of some of the material witnesses against the prisoner it was decided to render a verdict of acquittal.

Detective Murray's work on the case meets with general commendation. The prisoner's able defence by C. G. Snyder, Q.C., no doubt had a good deal to do with the result.

In November, 1888, the dead body of a man, subsequently recognized as a Toronto harness-maker named David Lawrie, was found floating in a feeder of the Welland Canal at Dunnville. He had $800 in his possession when he disappeared and the pockets had been rifled and the money abstracted. An autopsy proved that he had been murdered before being thrown in the water. Joseph Clemo, a worthless character who had "done time," was ascertained to have made a number of admissions as to the crime and it was learned, that although penniless prior to the murder, he was immediately thereafter quite flush with funds. His arrest at Essex Centre followed the succeeding April. The evidence against Clemo was exclusively confined to the admissions he had made, the circumstances of the sudden possession of money, and several of the principal witnesses were worthless characters.

Charged with Manslaughter.

TORONTO, May 2.—Coroner Johnson held an inquest yesterday afternoon on the death of Mrs. Oakman, the wife of Richard Oakman, of 34 Osgoode-street. The jury returned this verdict: "That Richard Oakman by inflicting injuries on the deceased while in a weakened condition did cause her death, and that Nellie Weir was an accessory before the fact." Both of the parties were committed to jail.

Deputy-Warden Sullivan of Kingston Penitentiary passed through the city last night with three convicts who had been taken to Cayuga to give evidence against Joseph Clemo. Two of the convicts, who were handcuffed and shackled together, are 16-year men who held up a farmer at Canfield Junction. One of them escaped from the penitentiary with five other convicts a few months ago but was recaptured. In jumping from the wall he injured his hip and is permanently lamed as a result. The convicts were objects of considerable curiosity at the depot.

Importers Oppose McKinley's Bill.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Four hundred importers of New York, representing almost every important firm and line of trade, irrespective of party associations, attended a meeting at the Metropolitan Hotel yesterday afternoon to take organized action against the passage of the McKinley Tariff Bill. This memorial to Congress was signed by all present:

"The undersigned merchants and importers do hereby protest in the strongest terms against the enactment of the McKinley Tariff Bill or of any other bill, administrative or otherwise, by which the duty on any single article of merchandise is advanced beyond present rates."

The Peach Crop all Right.

GRIMSBY, May 1.—If the weather continues as favorable for peaches as it has up to date, Grimsby stock will go up in the market. There is at present prospects for the greatest crop of the decade, and there were many who regarded the cold wave of last week with anxiety, but we think it passed over without doing any serious damage.

Barely Escaped Lynching.

SYRACUSE, May 1.—Freda [illegible] and another girl, both from the Cayuga Orphan Asylum, have made revolting charges against Nicholas M. Betsinger, who has been prominent among the prohibitionists and is a leading member of the Methodist church of Marcellus Falls. Freda is only 14 years old. Betsinger was arrested last night and threats of lynching were made. He was held for the grand jury.

A Gloucester (Mass.) Bank Suspends.

GLOUCESTER, N.J., May 1.—The Gloucester City National Bank suspended to-day. The bank was closely connected with the Bank of America of Philadelphia, which suspended yesterday. The bank did not do a very extensive business. The president of the institution declined to make any statement as to amount of liabilities.

Toronto Chinamen in a Hostile Country.

LOCKPORT, May 1.—The Chinamen arrested for smuggling themselves over at Lasalle have turned out to be Ching Chow and My Ching. They have been brought back here and are now in jail. They left Toronto Monday for St. Catharines via Hamilton, drove to Chippewa, Ont., where they crossed the river.

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

SEPARATE SCHOOL SUPPORTERS.

A DEFENCE of the Government and of Messrs. Stratton and Blezard, in voting out Mr. Meredith's bill regarding Separate school supporters has been ventured. The defence is a long one and, like the law itself, is calculated to confuse. Let us examine that defence and see what basis it has in fact. The first reason given for voting against the bill is as follows:—

"In the first place, it was superfluous—it simply declared that the law should be what it really was—to simply re-affirm what section 40 of the Separate School Act, which had never been repealed, also, declared."

Now, to see whether Mr. Meredith's bill was a repetition of section 40 of the Separate School Act, compare the two. Section 40 provides:—

"Every person paying rates, whether as proprietor or tenant, who, by himself or his agent, on or before the first day of March in any year, gives to the clerk of the municipality notice in writing that he is a Roman Catholic, and supporter of a Separate school situated in the municipality or in a municipality contiguous thereto, shall be exempted from the payment of all rates imposed for the support of Public schools," etc.

The bill introduced by Mr. Meredith was as follows:—

"Whereas every ratepayer ought to be by law prima facie a public school supporter, and no one should be rated as a Roman Catholic Separate school supporter unless he by his own voluntary act declares his intention to be a supporter of separate schools in accordance with the provisions of the law;

"Therefore, her majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, enacts as follows:

"1. Notwithstanding the provisions of any Act or law to the contrary, no person otherwise liable for public school rates shall be exempt from the payment thereof or be liable for the payment of rates in support of a Roman Catholic Separate school unless he shall have given the notice provided for by secton 40 of the Separate Schools Act.

"2. It shall be the duty of the clerk of the municipality in preparing the collectors' roll thereof to place in the column of public school rates the rates of every ratepayer who shall not have given the said notice, so as, according to the provisions of the said section and of this Act, to entitle him to exemption from public school rates for the year for which such collectors' roll is being made up, but any error of the clerk in making up his roll shall not be conclusive on any ratepayer who shall be erroneously rated or entered therein, nor shall the assessment roll be any evidence as to whether such ratepayer is a supporter of the public schools or of the Roman Catholic Separate schools."

Note well, that the 40th section states that all who gave the notice should be exempt from paying Public school rates, while Mr. Meredith's proposal was that ONLY those who gave the notice should be exempt. Did it, then, merely re-affirm section 40?

The second reason given in the Examiner is:—

"In the second place, Mr. Meredith's bill made no provision for preventing or rectifying the mistakes which the assessor might fall into in his classification of Public and Separate school supporters, and was, therefore inferior, in this respect at least, to the existing law."

Mr. Meredith's bill left intact all the provisions, of which everyone is aware, for appeal for the purpose of rectifying the errors of the assessor. Further, the clerk was to be guided only by the notices in writing, which he would have in his own possession. Still further, any error of the clerk was not to be binding or conclusive.

The third excuse is:—

"In the third place, Mr. Meredith's bill was designed to place a falsehood on the statute book, to assert by implication that a provision did not exist which had been a part of the law for years, therefore his bill was a prostitution of the functions of the legislature to partizan ends."

This is merely a repetition of the first excuse and the same answer applies.

The fourth excuse takes this shape:—

"In the fourth place, the principle of Mr. Meredith's buncombe bill had been but a short time before affirmed by the passage of Hon. G. W. Ross' bill, which removed all cause of complaint and rendered almost impossible any mistakes in the rating of school supporters, which was a real ground of complaint."

The principle of Mr. Meredith's bill was not affirmed in Mr. Ross' bill. Here we come to a point where it is well to examine into the web of confusion, and the network of trickery, which the Government has woven around this part of the school law.

At the time of confederation and up to the time the Mowat Government amended the law only those who gave the written notice required by section 40 were classed as Separate school supporters. But the Government inserted in the Act this clause:—

"The assessor shall accept the statement of, or made on behalf of, any ratepayer, that he is a Roman Catholic, as sufficient prima facie evidence for placing such person in the proper column of the assessment roll for Separate school supporters, or if the assessor knows personally any ratepayer to be a Roman Catholic this shall be sufficient for placing him in such last mentioned column."

Now, it has been claimed that this clause did not effect the law requiring the notices to be given. As to that we will call three witnesses. The first witness we call is the decision of the judges to whom the question was referred. It has also been claimed that their decision bore out the contention that the 40th section was not effected. Here is what they said:—

"If the assessor is satisfied with the prima facie evidence of the statement made by or on behalf of any ratepayer that he is a Roman Catholic, and thereupon (seeking and having no further information) places such person upon the assessment roll as a Separate school supporter—this ratepayer, though he MAY NOT by himself or his agent give notice in writing pursuant to sec. 40 of the Separate Schools Act (R.S.O. c. 227), may be entitled to exemption from the payment of rates for Public school purposes—he being in the case supposed assessed as a supporter of Roman Catholic Separate schools."

Our first witness therefore proves that a ratepayer might be assessed as a Separate school supporter and his taxes be used in accordance therewith without him having given the notice that he desired to support those schools. Our second witness is the Hon. A. S. Hardy. Speaking in the Opera House here, at the meeting at which Mr. Stratton was nominated, Mr. Hardy said, as reported in the Globe:—

"They had passed what was called the prima facie clause, but that was done because Mr. Crooks had passed a law authorizing one collector to collect taxes for both sets of schools. Therefore IN ORDER THAT HE MIGHT CONVENIENTLY KNOW who were Catholic school supporters and who were not, the prima facie clause was passed."

This witness proves that the intention was to make all whom the assessor knew to be, or all whom he was told were, Roman Catholics, supporters of the Separate schools, whether they had given the notice or not. Because, if the collector still had to be guided entirely by the written notices in the hands of the clerk, this mode of assessment would be no convience for him at all, and the fact that it was put in for his convience, and that he was to be guided thereby, proves the intention and the effect. The third witness is the practice of the municipal officers in carrying out the law after this change was made. Mr. Meredith read in the House letters from the City Clerks of Ottawa and St. Thomas stating that since the change in the law the notices had not been given or required in those cities, and he gave a list of fourteen other places where the practice had been the same. In Peterborough also the practice was the same as in Ottawa and St. Thomas.

Now, we have proved that the change was intended to and had the effect of discontinuing the notices, and that under the altered law Roman Catholics were assessed as Separate school supporters without giving the notices in accordance with section 40. This was the state of affairs when Mr. Meredith introduced his bill and that made the bill necessary. It shows that the contention of the Government that they had not changed the law in this regard was not correct, and utterly shatters that part of the defence.

Now we come to Mr. G. W. Ross' bill of last session. The first two sections provided that the clerk should keep in an index book a record of all the notices and withdrawals he received, and that across or added to the assessment notice to ratepayers there should be written or printed a notification of the way they were assessed either as Public or Separate school supporters. The third and fourth sections are as follows, as given in the Examiner:—

"3. When the list required by the first section of this Act is prepared, the assessor is to be guided thereby in ascertaining who have given the notices which are by law necessary, in order to entitle supporters of Roman Catholic Separate schools to exemption from the Public school tax.

"4. The statement made under the second sub-section of the 48th section of the Separate School Act, or the fourteenth sub-section of the Assessment Act means, and has always meant, a statement made to the assessor on behalf of the ratepayers and by his authority, and not otherwise."

This 4th section refers to the prima facie clause. Now note this. The prima facie clause remains unrepealed and with full effect, and the law still states that the assessor shall accept the fact that a ratepayer is a Roman Catholic as prima facie evidence that he is a Separate school supporter and assess him accordingly. He is also to be guided by the Clerk's index book in "ascertaining who have given the notices" when he wants to know who have given notices. So must everyone else. But when the assessor is still, according to the law, to take the fact that a ratepayer is a Roman Catholic as prima facie evidence that he is a Separate school supporter for assessment purposes, when will he want to know who have given the notices? If it was intended that the notice must be given before assessors can assess a ratepayer as a Separate school supporter, why was the prima facie clause retained—aye, not only retained but re-affirmed? There is another little point that is somewhat peculiar. The prima facie clause was embodied in three Acts—the Assessment Act, the Public School Act and the Separate School Act. Yet, as it is given in the Examiner, Mr. Ross' bill only amended it in two of these Acts and left it unaltered and in its original shape in section 120 in the Public School Act!

The Government bill retained the prima facie clause under which the giving of the notices had been discontinued—retained it, we presume, for the reason given by Mr. Hardy, for no other reason has been given, and the effect is the same. Instead of this Mr. Meredith's bill provided the simple and straightforward course of, in preparing the collector's roll, being guided as to who were Separate school supporters only by the written notices given by the ratepayers who thus said they desired to support those schools. Mr. Meredith's bill proposed not only the simple and straightforward, but proper course, and the excuses given for voting against it, in the light of the facts, fall to the ground.

GEORGIA'S FIELD OF HONOR.

A Cowhided Colonel Wants to Fight His Journalistic Assailant.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 1.—The week before last Elberton, Ga., was startled by the cowhiding of Hon. Phil. W. Davis, member of the lower house of the state legislature, by Editor J. L. Harper of the Elberton Weekly. Harper took Davis by surprise and soundly administered a thrashing on a public square in the presence of several witnesses. The cause of the cowhiding has been kept quiet, but Harper, it is understood, charges that Davis made ungentlemanly advances to one of the lady members of his family. The people of Elberton endorsed Editor Harper's action, for the citizens held an indignantion meeting and requested Davis to resign his seat in the legislature, and also to leave Elberton within six hours. Davis left Elberton before any of the citizens' committee could find him. He fled to Oglethorpe, where he has relatives. He remained there till his wounds were cared for and every sign of the whipping had disappeared. The people of Elberton were somewhat surprised to-day upon seeing Davis on the streets after he had been ordered to leave never to return. His visit was to seek satisfaction, which he now peremptorily demands. This morning he sent a challenge to Editor Harper to meet him on the field of honor. Harper refused to accept the challenge.

Kemmler's New Songs.

AUBURN, May 1.—There is a new song today in Kemmler's steel cage, and "Little Sallie Waters" and "Where Did You Get That Hat" have taken the place of the sombre and pious hymn tunes which had been his erstwhile favorites.

He has thrown aside his bible and dances wildly around the steel cage and the room beside it, and for a time at least religion takes a back seat with him.

Danger.

At the breakfast table.—Husband (looking up from his morning paper)—That is a sad business, my dear, about the Pinchpennys, every one of the family poisoned by eating canned vegetables. I guess we have got to stop using such goods.

Wife—No, sir! not if you trade with a reputable merchant like m. r. kidd. The trouble with the Pinchpennys is they're always spying around where they can get canned goods at a low figure, no matter about quality. So they went down street and bought those cheap goods and now are suffering for their folly. It's worth something to eat without fear of being poisoned.

Training for the Anniversary.

There will be a practice held in the Charlotte-st. Methodist school room this evening at 7.30 p. m., in singing, recitations, dialogues, etc. All the Sunday school children, officers and teachers should be present.

Swept the Field.

It is pleasant to see political differences at times laid aside and a union formed on a good basis. Such a case has occurred here Conservatives, Liberals and Equal Righters unite in polling an unanimous vote that for strength, flavor and cheapness hawley bros.' teas are unparalleled. You will consult your own interests by purchasing at the great tea house. d161tf

A New Industry.

We are always pleased to learn of a new enterprise that fills any long felt want in the community. J. Graham & Co. have struck the nail fairly on the head in opening up a first-class steam laundry here. Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of the latest improved appliances for the thorough completion of work. We wish Jimmy every success in his new undertaking and can safely assure him of a liberal patronage. d166t

Among the Red Coats.

Col. J. Z. Rogers has received an invitation from the committee which has the Grand Toronto Summer Carnival in charge, asking the 57th Battalion to visit Toronto in July 1st and participate in the grand military display which is to be a feature of the carnival. The meals and accommodation of the men will be looked after by the committee. As the 57th have decided to take an outing on the 1st of July the invitation is being favorably considered.

The battalion was exercised in battalion drill last night at the drill shed. Capt.-Adjt. Dennistoun put the battalion through, and the Sergt.-Major instructed the recruits.

A Pleasant Evening and Presentation.

Last evening the members of Mrs. Kendry's Bible class in the George-st. Methodist Sunday school, the pastor, the officers of the school and the orchestra met by invitation at the residence of Mr. James Kendry and enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant evening with games and an impromptu programme. During the evening Rev. Mr. Pearson called the company to order, and after a few remarks called forward Mr. E. S. Griffin, the Superintendent of the school. Miss Lizzie Rutherford then read an address to Mr. Griffin from the class, in which the appreciation of the members of the Superintendent's services was set forth in felicitous language. Miss Edith Glass, on behalf of the class, presented Mr. Griffin with a large Oxford Bible. Mr. Griffin, who had not had the least idea that such an incident was to occur, made a feeling reply.

The value of a remedy should be estimated by its curative properties. According to this standard, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical blood medicine in the market, because the most pure and concentrated. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

The St. Luke's Ladies

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Luke's church held its annual tea and sale yesterday in the school room of the church. A varied collection of fancy articles, of all descriptions, useful and ornamental, were offered for sale and received ready purchasers. The tea served was sumptuous and tempting and a good sum was realized.

Confirmation at St. Luke's.

A letter has been received from the Bishop of Toronto requesting that the time of the Confirmation service on Friday evening be changed to 8 p.m., that is half an hour later than at first announced. This will enable him to come down from Toronto on the evening train and save much valuable time. The Rev. J.C. Davidson, Rector of St. John's, has kindly offered to assist with the services.

At the Opera House.

The Josie Mills Company presented the drama "The Silver King" at the Opera House last evening to an appreciative audience. This popular and well-balanced drama was well put on, and the audience was highly pleased. To-night the Company will present "East Lynn or the Elopement" and a large audience should witness the presentation.

Rev. Wm. Searle, D D.

This eloquent orator is to preach Sunday school anniversary sermons in Charlotte-st. Methodist Church on Sunday, May 11th. Fully fifteen hundred people listened to his burning words in Bridge-st. Methodist church, Belleville, a short time ago. Dr. Searle has been for 16 years Chaplain of the State Prison at Auburn, N. Y., and is the instigator of the extention of time which is deducted from the prisoners' sentence on account of good behavior. Don't fail to hear this famous orator.

Brevities.

—Peterborough is to have another steam laundry.

—The annual meeting of the Mechanics' Institute will be held on Monday night next.

—A new telephone No. 186 has been placed in the stables of Mr. P. J. Grady, hackman, Charlotte-st.

—The Fire Brigade here has received an invitation to a band tournament and carnival to be held at Galt on the 12th and 13th of June.

An Endeavor Union.

There is a Christian Endeavor Society in connection with St. Paul's, the George-st. Methodist and the Baptist churches, and some time ago a union society was mooted and a joint committee appointed. The joint committee met in the Y.M.C.A. parlor last evening, there being present Misses Mann and Hughes and Dr. Scott, from the Baptist Church; Miss Dawson and Mr. Webster, from St. Paul's, and Miss Brown and Messrs. Dixon and Scott, from the George-st. Church. Dr. Scott presided and Mr. Dixon acted as secretary. After discussing the matter it was decided to organize a local union of the three societies, and the first union meeting will be held in the George-st. Church on the evening of Monday, May 19th. A committee was appointed to nominate officers and to report at that meeting, to which the pastors of the churches will be invited.

A Nasal Injector free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

An Evening with the Twins.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Charlotte-st. Methodist church had their efforts crowned with success at the "Twin Social" which was held in the Sunday school of the church last evening. There was a good attendance, and, with the excellent programme, the social spirit and pleasant intercourse, a most enjoyable evening was spent. The great feature of the entertainment were "the twins," represented by fourteen young ladies, each two of whom were attired alike in most becoming costumes. Rev. S. J. Shorey presided as chairman while the programme was rendered. All the contributors acquitted themselves well. Bertie Brooks gave an instrumental solo, the Y.M.C.A. Band sang a chorus, Miss Ostrom recited, Miss Brundrette and Mr. J. Miller rendered a pleasing duet, Miss Rose Clarke gave an instrumental solo, Mr. O. C. Rowse recited and was rapturously encored, and Mrs. Logan, Miss Fawcett and Mr. Stevens contributed vocal solos. Refreshments were served, the tables being tastefully decorated and bountifully supplied.

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which, if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

Give the Employees a Chance.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Will you allow me to trespass on your valuable space to give vent to my own (and I am sure of scores of other persons) feelings as regards the Queen's Birthday holiday, the 24th inst.

It appears a petition has been passed round the town asking the merchants to keep open on Saturday and take the Monday following. I am given to understand the Queen's Own Rifles are coming here on the 24th. Of course our 57th Battalion will be expected to turn out and give them a welcome.

Now should this petition pass as law, it simply means that our battalion will not be able to turn out, as I believe two-thirds of the men are employed in the various stores.

I think the feelings of the employees as well as those of the employers should be taken into consideration.

Many of the merchants sign a petition like this one simply because their neighbors did so.

I do not think the amount of business that would be done on a day like this would amount to much, as the people that come to town will come for pleasure, not business, and the merchants will be just as well off at the end of the year if they close on Saturday as they would be if they were open.

I am employed with a firm where there are four members of the 57th Battalion employed. Each one will expect to be away on that day. I trust our worthy Mayor will consider the thing well over before proclaiming Monday, the 26th, as the holiday.

A FINDING ARRIVED AT

BY THE PRESBYTERY IN THE ST. ANDREW'S MATTERS.

A Lengthy and Tedious Investigation—The Findings not Reached until After Midnight—The Session and Board of Managers Advised to Resign—The Appeal Neither Sustained or Dismissed—A Further Appeal to the Synod.

The Presbytery held a long, tedious but at times animated session yesterday afternoon and evening, when the St. Andrew's Church matters were under consideration. When the session resumed at 2.30 in the afternoon, the Moderator, for the deputation that waited upon Mr. Bell, reported that Mr. Bell felt that he could not appoint a representative to appear for him, as questions would very probably arise that no one could answer but himself. He also read Mr. Bell's answers to the questions prescribed in the back of rules to be asked the pastor when a Presbyterial visit took place, which were all satisfactorily answered.

A LENGTHY INVESTIGATION.

The Presbytery then resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole, with Rev. Dr. Jamieson in the chair and Rev. Mr. Sutherland acting as secretary. The taking of evidence and the work of investigation then began. The elders of St. Andrew's, Messrs. R. Tully, G. Edmison and J. Carnegie, were called forward and examined, the members of the Presbytery asking any questions they desired. The investigation was conducted with open doors as far as the public was concerned, but a resolution was passed requesting the newspaper reporters to take no notes. However very little but what has already been placed before the public was brought out. Messrs. Carnegie, McFarlane, Dr. Bell and T. Fitzgerald addressed the Committee and were questioned and cross questioned. The whole matter was gone over and threshed out as it was at the last meeting of the Presbytery, the proceedings of which were published.

All afternoon did this investigation continue and at six o'clock an adjournment was made for one hour. At seven o'clock the Committee resumed and considered, investigated and discussed until about 10.30, when all the evidence was said to be in and nothing remained but for the Committee to arrive at a finding or verdict which the Presbytery would adopt or reject. For the purpose of casting off all restraint the public were asked to retire and the members of the Presbytery proceeded to discuss privately the evidence with a view to coming at a finding which would be passed with some unanimity.

It was half an hour after midnight before the finding was arrived at and the lengthy, tedious and complicated case was ended as far as the Presbytery is concerned.

THE CONGREGATIONAL MATTERS.

The finding in regard to the congregational affairs was embodied in the following resolution which was carried without a dissenting voice:—

Moved by Rev. Mr. SUTHERLAND, seconded by Rev. Mr. DUNCAN,—That the Presbytery does not deem it expedient to ask Mr. Bell to resign, but do ask the Session and Board of Management to do so and that a new Session and Board of Management be elected by the congregation and that the congregation by entering into such financial arrangements with it as it can reasonably implement, subject to the approval of the Presbytery, that certificates of disjunction be granted to all who ask the same, that all parties be counselled to bear and forebear one with another and work for the things that make for peace, and that the minister and the congregation report to the next meeting of the Presbytery."

THE APPEAL CASE.

In the appeal case of the members of the congregation who were summoned before the church session for absenting themselves from the church services, the following motion was the committee's finding:—

Moved by Rev. J W. BENNETT, seconded by Rev. Mr. McEWEN,—Without either dismissing or sustaining the appeal agree to allow the appellants to retain their status as members of the St. Andrew's congregation and instruct the session to grant certificates of good standing to any of them who may wish to withdraw from the membership of the church.

Both these findings were adopted by the Presbytery.

CONCLUDING THE BUSINESS

This morning the Presbytery resumed at 9 30, and the business of the investigation was concluded.

It was moved by Mr. G. M. ROGER, seconded by Rev. Mr. BENNETT,—That Rev. Messrs. Cleland and McEwen, and Messrs. J. D. Collins, Roxburgh and Harrison act with the present Moderator as a session of St. Andrew's church in the event of the resignation of the present members thereof until a new session shall be appointed by the congregation.

The paper containing the reference from St. Andrew's congregation was laid over until the next meeting of the Presbytery.

AN APPEAL TO THE SYNOD.

Mr. CARNEGIE gave notice on behalf of himself and Rev. Mr. Bell, of an appeal against the finding of the Presbytery in the appeal case.

The Synod meets in Orillia on the 13th of this month and should the appeal be persisted in, the whole case will have to be gone over again before that body.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet in Port Hope on the second Tuesday in July.

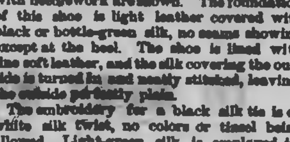
The Tender Awarded.

The Finance Committee of the Town Council met last evening and awarded the contract of erecting the new powder magazine to Mr. P. J. McNamara at $434.

New Embroidered Slippers.

Embroidered slippers is coming in vogue, and many neat specimens of slippers finished with needlework are shown. The foundation of this shoe is light leather covered with black or bottle-green silk, no seams showing except at the heel. The shoe is lined with fine soft leather, and the silk covering the outside is turned in and neatly stitched, leaving the outside perfectly plain.

The embroidery for a black silk tie is of white silk twist, no colors or tinsel being allowed. Light-green silk is employed instead of white where bottle-green silk is used.



The tie illustrated herewith is of graceful form and highly ornamental. The toe is narrow, but not a toothpick. The sole is trimmed close on the edges and finished bevel or round. The heel, if covered can be embroidered, but this cover must for leather.

For Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint you have a printed guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. For sale by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

APSLEY AFFAIRS.

A Meeting of the Council—St. Stephen's Church—Funeral—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

VESTRY MEETING.—The annual vestry meeting of St. Stephen's church was held on Tuesday, April 22nd, Canon Harding presided. It was decided to thoroughly renovate the interior of the church this summer. Mr. Booth was appointed as lay delegate to the Synod and also churchwarden. The Superintendent of the Sunday school also fell to his lot.

BURIAL.—The obsequies of Julius McIlmoyle, son of Mr. Thomas McIlmoyle, were performed in the presence of a large number of sympathizing friends and acquaintances on Thursday, April 24th. He was laid to rest in the burial ground in Apsley, Mr. R. Hales officiating at the grave. The sorrowing parents, brothers and sisters have the deepest sympathy of the entire community in this their great bereavement.

SEDGEMERE VS. CARL.—This was an action brought to recover the price paid for a pair of cart wheels, alleged to have been fraudulently sold by the defendant, they being the property of Mr. Thos. Morrow. Mr. Morrow had claimed and removed the wheels from defendant and in court established his claim. Carl was mulched in [illegible] costs and damages.

RUNAWAY.—Two of our Scotch line fishermen, while en route to Sucker Creek, lost control of their team and the blacks did some very pretty running for a couple miles. No damage was done.

COUNCIL MEETING.—A council meeting was held in the Town Hall, Apsley, on Saturday, April 26th. All the members were present and the minutes of the former meeting were read and confirmed. On motion of Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Langford, the clerk was authorized to procure a letter book and press, provided the cost did not exceed $6.00. Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Scott, that S. S. No. 5, Chandos, be divided according to the petition of Jno. L. Winters and 14 others and that the northern part of the said section shall be known as S. S. No. 6, Chandos, and that the Seal be attached to this resolution.—Carried. It was moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Tucker, that a new S.S. be formed according to the petition of G. S. Prouty and 9 others and that the said section shall be known as S.S. No. 7, Chandos, and that the seal be affixed to this resolution. An application was made by A. McCallum for remission of taxes on his mill property. The taxes for 1889 were, on motion of Mr. Scott, seconded by Mr. Tucker, ordered to be refunded to Mr. McCallum. Moved by Mr. Scott, seconded by Mr. Tucker, that the Clerk notify the County Treasurer to remove all taxes on his books against lots 14 and 15, con. 11, Chandos.—Carried. It was moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Tucker, that the clerk make a list of all back taxes against the several lots charged on Mr. Wilson's rolls and furnish each Councillor with the names and amounts in their several wards and that the Councillors be empowered to permit the said persons to work out the amounts against them on roads, etc.—Carried. On motion of Mr. Langford, seconded by Mr. Tucker, Collector Wilson was allowed $7.22 for postage and expenses in collecting. The Council then adjourned to the call of the Reeve.

APPOINTMENT.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. U. D. R. Booth has received the appointment of magistrate. We believe he will be a capable and painstaking officer, and offer our congratulations to him and wishes for a successful career.

YOUNG'S POINT.

The Cruiser and the Undine Out—Tourists to the Lakes—Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE STEAMER CRUISER.—This fine passenger steamer, now owned by Mr. Reynolds, formally a resident of Port Hope, passed through here on Monday last and went as far as Burleigh. She appears to have been thoroughly overhauled and re-painted. We wish Mr. Reynolds may have a successful season before him.

MAKING NIGHT HIDEOUS.—What between S. B. dogs and curs of every description from cats without number and belly ache calves, it is almost impossible for any person having a good night's rest after retiring for the night. Something will have to be done to abate this nuisance, which seems to be becoming chronic in this place. Every person having a dog should be taxed. There would be fewer mongrels about.

POTATOES.—A good many loads of potatoes are taken from this section and sold at Lakefield for the handsome sum of forty cents a bag. Farmers and others who have any to dispose of ought to be thankful providing they are built that way.

TOURISTS.—Several Americans have already gone up to their cottages on Stony Lake, glad to get away from the bustil of city life and enjoy the fresh air and beautiful scenery of our back lakes. Hundreds more would come this way if it was properly advertised by those interested, such as railway and steamboat companies.

THE UNDINE.—This firm little pleasure steamer belonging to the Messrs. Stricklands, of Lakefield, passed the town on Monday en route to Deer Bay. A party of Peterborough gents were on board as guests. It is a splendid way of driving dull care away, just to leave business alone for a day or two and take an outing such as this. Nothing better for the nerves, etc.

DIED.—Dr. Lanfear, of this place, received the sad news by telegram on Tuesday last of his father's death at the family residence near Napanee. The doctor will return as soon as possible after the funeral.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Mr. Stratton's Cowardly Course.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I noticed a long editorial in Mr. J. R. Stratton's paper yesterday. He began the article with the assertion that your paper is the "organ" of Mr. Carnegie. Some time ago I read your denial of the same assertion and I should think that if there was a spark of honor or honesty in Mr. Stratton, or in his organ grinder, neither of them would describe the REVIEW as the organ of Mr. Carnegie. The readers of the Examiner are not fools, at least I would think not, although to tell the truth one would imagine that the editor thinks differently. Don't you think it would be more manly, more honest and not so cowardly if Mr. Stratton would meet Mr. Carnegie on the platform and there discuss public questions instead of abusing him in his paper?

I haven't yet made up my mind whether I shall vote for Mr. C. or not, but if Mr. Stratton does not "call of his dog" and stop blackguarding a man one hundred times more honest and a thousand times more independent than himself, he will soon drive a lot more men like myself into Mr. Carnegie's camp. Before I finish let me ask Mr. Stratton if he knows that the same pastoral of Archbishop Cleary is being circulated among a certain class of electors by Mr. Stratton's own party friends. Surely the Equal Righters can do what the Grits are doing without calling down on their heads the anathemas of Mr. Stratton.

By the way, Mr. Editor, can you tell me what Mr. Stratton meant when he claimed credit for building a steamer on some back lake or other?

It is rumored around town that the lake is right in the middle of a certain lumber company's limit and that the steamer, and also the dam, were put there to help the lumber company. Is there any truth in it?

Yours,
SCRUTATOR.

The Canadian Pacific to Issue $20,000,000 of New Four Per Cents.

BOSTON, May 1.—A despatch to Messrs. Lee, Higginson & Co. says the Canadian Pacific Company proposes to issue $20,000,000 four per cent. bonds on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic and the Marquette, Houghton & Outonagon roads and to guarantee the bonds. They will retire all the M., H. & O. bonds and stock, leaving only the Duluth-South Shore & Atlantic fives ahead of the fours. They will use the additional money in betterments and some new mileage in the way of spurs. The $1,800,000 M. H. & O. sixes of 1923 may be called at 105 and the $676,320 sixes of 1908 may be paid at par from the proceeds of land sales.

World's Fair Officers.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The directors of the world's fair last night elected Lyman J. Gage president and Thomas Bryan and Potter Palmer first and second vice-presidents. Mr. Gage is vice-president of the First National Bank. Mr. Bryan is a lawyer and capitalist, Mr. Palmer, the millionaire owner of the Palmer House.

Five London Liquor Sellers Cut Off.

LONDON, Ont., May 1.—The License Commissioners of the city of London met yesterday and granted licenses to sell liquor for the ensuing year. A great deal of pressure was brought to bear to have the board largely curtail the number of licenses this year and they cut off four taverns and one shop. No new licenses were granted.

Home Seekers & Investors Look at This.

I have bought more property than I can afford to carry and consequently must sell even at a loss. I am not alone. Several others have done likewise, and have also resolved to follow my example by unloading regardless of cost. Our loss will be the buyer's gain, and sharp men having money to invest never had such a chance to secure homes and profitable investments, choice properties of all kinds, central and suburban. Delay means loss. Full particulars at the office, 387 George-st.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"A poor man cannot be much of a collector, Miss Barthwait, but I have a shelf or two in my room. I have one little volume that you might be interested in. It bears an early date, and is the letters of de Balzac, an essayist. Its pages are worm-eaten, and though the sides are rebound, the back is the original. But the interesting part of it is that it bears the autograph of Wordsworth on the title page."

"How wonderful," cried Margaret. "Where did you get it?" But no reply came, for the judge strode over to where Pond was still making notes in his book, and held out his hand for it.

"You can hardly be taking my remarks down when I am making none," he said. "May I ask what you are doing, once more? Permit me to see your book, sir."

Margaret arose and stood flushing scarlet at the judge's rudeness. Pond colored, too, but he gave the book to the judge with a bow.

"It is certainly at your disposal, sir," he said. "And I only regret that it is in shorthand."

The judge held it a moment, looked at it with a sort of dull expression, like a man who had been eating opium, and then returned it without apology.

"Papa!" cried Margaret, in distress, but he paid no attention to her. Pond, anxious to relieve her embarrassment, bowed and withdrew. The judge, still seeming to be under that opium-like cloud, preceded him to the door, and as he walked the reporter's eyes were riveted on him.

"Has every one gone mad, or is it only me!" cried Margaret to herself. Just then the little damsel entered by another door. Margaret seized her by the wrist.

"Go into the hall, quick, Jeanne," she whispered. "Seem to go by accident and notice what papa and the gentleman with him are doing. They act so queer! Run!"

Jeanne went out by the door that he entered, and reached the hall through a cloak room. The judge was leaning against the tall newel post looking at the reporter with hot eyes. Pond was returning the look steadily but calmly as he slowly buttoned his overcoat. Jeanne stood still in amazement, hardly believing her eyes. Suddenly Pond caught sight of her. She was so round and dimpled, so homely and jolly that he could have cried out with relief. Her red hair curled more fiercely than ever; her blue eyes were stretched to their widest; her warm brown dress and dainty mull apron were so suggestive of comfort and femininity that she seemed like an angel to him. The judge saw her, too, and saying:

"You let this gentleman out, Jeanne." He turned and mounted the stairs. Pond followed him to the top with his eyes and then he turned to the little damsel and lifted his hat.

"I beg your pardon," he said absently.

"Yes, sir," returned Jeanne, blushing.

"Are you Miss Barthwait, also?" ventured Pond. "I beg your pardon for asking."

"I'm Miss Barthwait's maid, sir. At least, she doesn't call me that exactly. I read to her—and—things."

"How delightful," said Pond. "Perhaps you will be good enough then to carry a line to her that I am going to write."

The little damsel said she would be good enough, and Pond tore a leaf out of the troublesome note book and wrote on it. Then he gave it to Jeanne.

"Permit me ask your name," he said.

"Well," said Jeanne doubtfully. "Of course if you want to. It's Jeanne Whitfield, and I'm a farmer's daughter."

"Thank you, Miss Whitfield. Mine is Pond. I hope you'll remember it and me, for we may both be of use to Miss Barthwait yet. Good-night."

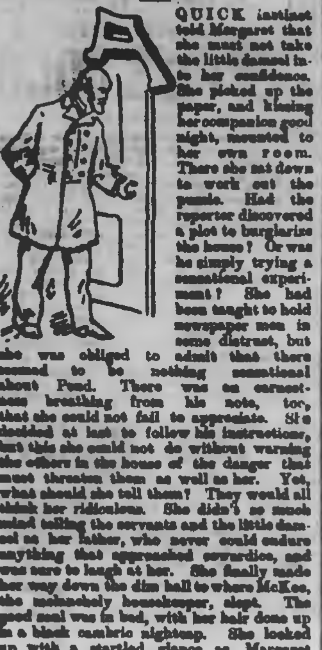
He lifted his hat in a manner that the little damsel thought ravishing, and departed. Then she took the line to her mistress. Margaret still stood by the fire, with the frightened look on her face.

"The young man sent you this little note," ventured Jeanne, somewhat frightened herself again, now that the splendid young man was gone. Margaret opened it, and then dropped it with a cry of amazement and dread. It read:

"Miss Barthwait:

"For God's sake, see that your bedroom doors are locked to-night and all nights. See to it well, I beg from my innermost heart.—Yours faithfully, DENNIS POND."

CHAPTER XII.



QUICK instinct told Margaret that she must not take the little damsel into her confidence. She picked up the paper, and kissing her companion good night, mounted to her own room. There she sat down to work out the puzzle. Had the reporter discovered a plot to burglarize the house? Or was he simply trying a sensational experiment? She had been taught to hold newspaper men in some distrust, but she was obliged to admit that there seemed to be nothing sensational about Pond. There was an earnestness breathing from his note, too, that she could not fail to appreciate. She decided at last to follow his instructions, but this she could not do without warning the others in the house of the danger that must threaten them as well as her. Yet, what should she tell them? They would all think her ridiculous. She didn't so much mind telling the servants and the little damsel as her father, who never could endure anything that approached cowardice, and was sure to laugh at her. She finally made her way down the dim hall to where McKee, the melancholy housekeeper, slept. The good soul was in bed, with her hair done up in a black cambric nightcap. She looked up with a startled glance as Margaret entered, as much as to say:

"It has come at last. I have always known that misfortune would overtake us, and here it is." She really suffered some disappointment when Margaret said:

"Why not lock your door for a few nights, Mrs. McKee? The papers are full of accounts of burglaries these last few days. I would feel safer if we all had our doors locked."

"That's so," assented the McKee, drawing a handkerchief from under her pillow, where she kept it ready for any mournful emergency, and wiping her eyes. "No one knows what may happen, Miss Margaret, and in the midst of life——"

"Now, Mrs. McKee!" protested Margaret, "don't tell any home truths this evening."

"It is well enough for you to joke, Miss Margaret. You are not so old as I, and you have not seen what I have seen."

"No, dear McKee, and I don't think I want to. Now, kiss me good-night, like the good old soul you are. I couldn't get along without you, McKee."

"And yet, miss," said the McKee, letting fall some salt drops, "who knows at what hour we may be separated?" With these encouraging words ringing in her ears, Margaret went on to the rooms of the other servants and called them to make fast their doors. There were so many burglars in the neighborhood, she explained to them. There was only Jeremiah and Lotte, the assistant of McKee, and she heard them both get up sleepily and make fast their doors. Then she went to Jeanne. That small person was trying in vain to comb the snarls out of her beautiful curls, and dropping shining tears of pain on her lap in the process. Margaret fastened the door behind her and assisted at this heroic task. She found it harder to introduce the subject of the burglars here, but she finally plucked up heart to say that she was nervous, and that she would feel safer if the doors were locked. There was a door opening from Jeanne's room to hers, and she left this ajar, when she made her final good night and left the red head peeping above the bed clothes. Still she had not warned the judge. She could not rest till she had, and yet she felt like a child who knows that it will be reprimanded. But it must be done, so she ran along the hall to her father's room. The transom was all dark, so she concluded that he was abed, and pushed upon the door without knocking.

The judge was sitting by the window in the moonlight, and as Margaret entered he started up with a frightened cry.

"Margaret!" he exclaimed, in relief, when he saw who it was, "try to give a little warning of your approach, my dear! You frightened me."

"Dear me," she said reproachfully, "I am always doing something stupid. What are you sitting in the dark for, papa?"

"I'm not sleepy yet. I sometimes find it hard to sleep now." He sat down again and went on absently drawing a pocket-knife over his boot to sharpen it. "I ought to have a rest."

THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Trotters and Trotting Men Expelled.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The Board of Review of the National Trotting Association finished its docket to-day. The following cases were disposed of: James Allen of Kingston, Ont., and his bay gelding F.O.P. were expelled; G. W. Smith, Binghamton, N.Y., expelled; G. I. Young, East Boston, Mass., expelled for fraud; C. L. Reed and J. Mayer, Pictou, N.S., and b.m. Mattie B. alias Little Eva were expelled; H. H. Nye, Wellsville, N.Y., his black gelding Jack alias Dexter was reinstated on payment of claims; Spencer Owens of Faber, N.Y., expelled; J. A. Juvenal, Upper Sandusky, O. Michael Brannigan, Mt. Vernon, O., and b.g. Dorgan, alleged to be Freddie J., were expelled.

Frank Noble Wants Reparation.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Frank C. Noble, the owner of the stallion Alcryon, has sued the National Trotting Association and Philip P. Johnson for $25,000 and the Standard Stock Farm for the same amount. The suits grew out of the race at Boston last fall between Alcryon and Nelson, in which Nelson won in 2.18. It was claimed Noble "threw" the race and pools were called off and Noble and his driver, Robins were suspended at Buffalo. Noble claims he did not sell the race and that his suspension was without notice to him and he had no chance to defend himself. His suspension and the charges against him, he says, have greatly injured his reputation.

Winners at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The 2.27 race to-day was won by Suison, Friday second, Richard Wilkes third. Best time 2.25½.

The 2.37 race was won by Chester A., Susie S. second, Link third. Best time 2.30.

The first heat of the 2.50 pacer's race was won in 2.34 by J. R. S., Sagiva second. Rain postponed the balance.

A New Players' League.

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—Something is brewing in the Western Baseball Association's territory. The Brotherhood fever, if the statements of one man can be depended upon, has spread to this association. The project on foot is announced by one of the leaders to be the organization of a Western Players' League, composed of the cities of Detroit, Milwaukee, Chicago, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Kansas City. The gentleman who seems to be the leading factor is a wholesale cigar manufacturer of St. Louis named S. W. Adler. He says no attention will be paid to the National agreement or to the blacklist of the National League. Strangely enough the gentleman has addressed a letter on the subject to Harry D. Quin, the secretary of the Milwaukee Club, a man who has little or no use for the Brotherhood.

Almost as Slippery.

"Ain't you going to have an ice palace this year?"

"No," said the westerner, sadly. "Ice is too scarce. We may get up a lard carnival."—Puck.

"WHAT MEDICINES ARE MOST CALLED FOR?"

asked the reporter of an old druggist.

"Dr. Pierce's preparations," he replied. "They are sold under a positive guarantee that they will, in every case, give satisfaction, or the money is promptly refunded. His 'Favorite Prescription,' for all those chronic weaknesses, nervous and other derangements peculiar to women, is used with unfailing success. It cures weak back, bearing-down sensations, irregularities and weaknesses common to the sex, and being the most perfect of tonic medicines builds up and strengthens the entire system. The demand for it is constant, and I am conversant with scores of cases cured by it."

Returning after a few moments' absence, the venerable wielder of the pestle remarked, "the number of sarsaparillas and other, so-called, 'blood medicines' is legion; but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery outsells them all and it is the only blood-purifier out of the many which I am obliged to keep upon my shelves, that is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all cases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it is refunded."

"In the line of Pills," remarked the old gentleman, "the little Sugar-coated 'Pellets' put up by Dr. Pierce lead all others, both in amount of sales and the general satisfaction they give my customers."

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

Agent for domestic patterns. By sending 5c. we will send a fashion book containing about 900 styles.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1890.

MR. CULLOM'S COMPLAINT

AGAINST CANADIAN RAILWAYS AND CANALS.

The Report of the Special Committee Presented to the United States Senate —Retaliation in Various Forms Recommended to Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Senator Cullom, chairman of the special committee appointed appointed to investigate the alleged diverting of commerce from the railways of the United States to those of Canada and the alleged discrimination on Canadian canals against American vessels, presented the report of of the committee to the Senate to-day. The substance of the report was recently published.

In concluding the report the committee says that the entrance fee of 50 cents and clearance fee of 50 cents or $1 every time an American vessel visits a Canadian port on the great lakes and their tributary bays, rivers and straits, constitute an unjust discrimination against American vessels, Canadian vessels being exempt from such charges by a license fee of 50 cents payable once a year. Such discrimination violates the spirit if not the letter of the Washington treaty of 1871. The laws of Canada place American and Canadian vessels upon the same terms as to entrance and clearance fees, but the discrimination is made through an order-in-council.

The committee recommends that so long as such discrimination continues all Canadian vessels should be required to pay entrance and clearance fees of equal amount on entering and clearing the ports of the United States on the great lakes or their tributary navigable waters.

The report also says that the rebate of 18 cents per ton in tolls on certain products of the United States passing through the Welland canal if bound to Montreal constitutes an unjust discrimination against ports of the United States on Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. This discrimination is an open violation both of the spirit and letter of the treaty of Washington.

The committee recommends that so long as this discrimination is made a discriminating toll on the tonnage of all Canadian vessels shall be imposed every time they pass through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal.

The report says that the proposition that Canadian railways which compete with American railways for traffic between different points of the United States shall be subjected to the same requirements of law and regulations which apply to American railways, must command the assent of every fair-minded person. The Canadian laws justify Canadian railways in disregarding the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce Act.

The committee recommends that either such a license system shall be established as will be applicable to the Canadian railways doing business in the United States, or that some other plan not injurious to the general trade and commerce of the country be adopted, which shall secure to American railways an equal chance in competition with Canadian railways.

Mt. Platt, a member of the committee, dissent from the above report. He wants the long and short haul clause and the pooling clause of the Interstate Commerce law repealed.

THE M'KINLEY TARIFF.

If Passed the Changes Not Likely to Go Into Effect This Year.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A large number of inquiries have been received by Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee respecting the date of probable passage of the Tariff Bill. The date fixed in the bill for the beginning of its operations is July 1 next, and from statements contained in these communications it appears the business of the country is in a very unsettled condition in anticipation of unlooked-for changes in the tariff. It is stated the sugar trade in particular is depressed and disturbed. To these inquiries the reply is being made that the Senate cannot possibly pass the bill finally before July 1, which fact in itself would necessitate a change in the date fixed in the bill, and the probabilities are that the change to be made will provide that the bill shall not take effect before the beginning of the next calendar year and possibly not until July 1, 1891. The committee was in session to-day trying to agree on the time to be allowed for the consideration of the bill in the House. The Democrats wanted three weeks at least—two of them to be devoted to general debate—while the Republicans desired the general debate to be one week and the detailed consideration of the bill another week. No agreement has yet been reached and it may yet remain for the Committee on Rules to arrange the program.

The President to-day approved the act providing for the establishment of a temporary Government in the Territory of Oklahoma.

Hitt's Resolution Reported.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The House Committee on Foreign Affairs reported a resolution providing that when the President is duly informed that Canada desires a reciprocity treaty with the United States, he shall appoint three commissioners to consult with the Canadian commissioners on the subject of extending trade relations between the two countries. These commissioners shall make a report to the President and he shall lay their report before Congress.

THE LABOR TROUBLES.

THOUSANDS OF IDLE WORKERS IN CHICAGO.

Other Strikes in the States—Disturbances in Spain and France—Conflicts with the Troops—A State of Siege Proclaimed.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The 1200 employes of the Malleable Iron Works are out as a result of the moulders' strike. The chairman of the Moulders' Committee says they want 10 hours a day's work, 25 per cent. advance in wages and 50 per cent. extra for overtime. The Chicago car wheel foundry moulders are also out. At the Welch and French Car Company's shops all the employes went out and the shops were closed. The 200 blacksmiths were the only ones who made known their demand, which was for an 8-hour day. The coopers are earnest in their demand for eight hours, and in all portions of the city men are quitting work. In the northwestern districts there is not one cooper at work. Three to four thousand sash, door and blind men walked out of the various factories in the southwest lumber district this morning. Four hundred men in Dennis & Duke's furniture factory and 700 employes of the Chicago cottage organ factory struck for 8 hours. The new Bosses' Association, it is said, has conceded the striking carpenters 8 hours and the old Bosses' Association announces readiness to concede the 8-hour day but not recognise the union.

LOUISVILLE, May 2.—Between 900 and 1000 carpenters struck here to-day for 8 hours and 25 cents an hour as the minimum rate of wages. The non-unionists are fast joining the strikers.

ELMIRA, N.Y., May 21.—Between 300 and 500 miners at Arnot, Pa., went on strike yesterday. The superintendent of the mines says he doesn't know the cause of the strike.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Special reports to Bradstreet's from 110 cities show that on May 1 there were 51 strikes at 46 cities involving 12,000 employes, most of which were for fewer hours of work daily. At 63 cities strikes were expected but did not take place.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Dun, Wiman & Co's Weekly Review of Trade will say: It is most encouraging that the labor demonstrations have thus far tended to no violence and in a number of cities the desire of employers to avoid strikes has caused full or partial concessions. These have plainly encouraged strikers elsewhere to insist upon demands which employers say it is impossible to concede, so that there is more prospect of prolonged and serious controversy than there was a week ago. As yet the markets for materials have not been much affected, though sales of lumber are restricted in some cities. But it is perceived that success of the movement is certain to increase the cost of production in many departments, the prices of many necessaries and the rents of buildings; a change which will not conduce to business activity. Higher wages would at least enable workers to purchase more freely, but smaller production and larger rents will no have that tendency. The immediate prospect is that many industries may be to some extent disturbed for weeks to come.

Riots in Spain.

MADRID, May 2.—The strikers at Barcelona conducted themselves in a riotous manner throughout the day. They impeded all kinds of business, stopping market carts and scattering and trampling upon their contents of provisions. The civil guard was continually engaged in attempting to disperse the rioters but failed to quell them. Finally a state of siege was declared.

At Valencia many masters conceded the demands of the workmen but the strikers prevented the men from resuming work. The railway-goods porters and the dockmen joined in the strike and became riotous but were suppressed by the cavalry. Troops are now guarding the threatened factories and other establishments.

Similar disturbances have occurred in Saragossa and Alicante.

Other Disturbances.

TOURCOING, May 2.—8.30 p.m.—Twenty thousand strikers are parading the streets committing many excesses. The cavalry disperses all groups. Twenty persons have been arrested.

LISBON, May 2.—Strikers have resumed work throughout the country. The police have arrested a foreign Anarchist.

PRAGUE, May 2.—Six hundred employes on the state railway have struck.

BARCELONA, May 2.—10 p.m.—A mob of strikers set fire to a tool hut here. The guard charged the mob and two strikers were injured. Several shots were fired. Another group of strikers attacked a printing office in which siege proclamations were being printed. They put a stop to the work and the authorities were obliged to have the proclamations printed elsewhere under military protection.

HAMBURG, May 2.—Nine thousand men have been dismissed for being absent from work yesterday.

PARIS, May 2.—The Roubaix strike is extending to other communes. At Croix the strikers attacked Holden's factory intending to plunder it. They shattered the windows when the troops compelled them to desist. They then proceeded to the telegraph office and wrecked the interior.

PARIS, May 2.—The number of strikers at Tourcoing is estimated at 40,000. The streets and factories are guarded by troops. The Journal des Debats says in connection with yesterday's labor demonstration that it would be a mistake to treat the celebrations as affairs of no importance seeing that they showed that the workingmen obeyed the word of command to mark the day in some form. The total number of persons arrested in Paris during the day and night was 300. Of this number only 150 were detained over night. The injuries received by a number of persons during the row in the Place de la Concorde consisted of slight bruises. All the papers concur in congratulating the Government upon the success of its precautions to prevent disturbance and the Parisians upon their prudence.

Provincial Appointments.

TORONTO, May 2.—These provincial appointments have been gazetted.

Alexander Mutchmor, Ottawa, Commissioner for taking affidavits in Quebec for use in Ontario courts.

J. R. Gordon, Toronto, notary public for Algoma and Nipissing only.

F. F. Lemieux, Sudbury, Nipissing, notary public for Ontario.

Montreal's Proposed New Loan.

MONTREAL, May 2.—The Finance Committee of the City Council has decided to borrow $1,500,000 in the London market at 3½ per cent on second mortgage, the bonds to be redeemable in 40 years.

A Youthful Would-be Train Wrecker.

HALIFAX, May 2.—Edward Weeks, aged 13, has been caught placing obstructions on the Intercolonial Railway track near Parrsboro and committed to the Supreme Court for trial.

TRANSATLANTIC TOPICS.

Honors for Stanley—Scotch Disestablishment Defeated.

LONDON, May 3.—The Emin Relief Committee gave a reception in honor of Henry M. Stanley this evening. The Prince of Wales presided. Among the guests were the Princess of Wales, Princess Victoria, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburg, Prince Christian, Prince Albert Victor, Prince George, the Duke of Fife, the Lord Mayor of London, and a large number of distinguished persons. The Prince of Wales in the name of the English people welcomed the illustrious traveler and said he was glad to accord him a hearty greeting after all he had gone through. Mr. Stanley, who was received with prolonged cheers, said his position was a difficult one in addressing them, the committee hampering his freedom in regard to what he should say. He defended the route across Africa which he had selected. He paid a high tribute to the devotion and courage of his associates. He said he could have dispensed with the services of none of them. When Emin was relieved for the second time, said Mr. Stanley, his so-called subjects had revolted four times. Relief reached him at a critical period. The Prince of Wales proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Stanley which was adopted by acclamation.

The Delagoa Bay Affair.

PARIS, May 3.—Mr. Loring, the United States Minister, has received the reply of the Portuguese government in regard to the Delagoa Bay Railway question. Portugal accepts the principle of arbitration but proposes that an impartial nation shall first decide whether the matter is a proper case for arbitration, and if it decides in the affirmative that the same nation shall decide the terms of settlement.

Herr Barnay's Jubilee.

BERLIN, May 2.—The jubilee of Herr Barnay, the actor, was celebrated at the Berliner theatre to-day. The building was crowded to its utmost capacity. The Berlin artists presented Herr Barnay with a bust of himself as Marc Antony and he received the decoration of the order of St. Stanislaus from the Czar. He was also given a gold medal. Suitable speeches were made. Barnay manifested much emotion. Emperor William has conferred upon Barnay the fourth-class order of the crown.

Boulanger's Return Demanded.

LONDON, May 2.—A Paris despatch says General Boulanger's friends have insisted upon the General's return to France. They threaten that if he does not return they will abandon his cause.

Disestablishment Defeated.

LONDON, May 2.—In the House of Commons to-night Mr. Cameron moved the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of Scotland. Mr. Gladstone supported the motion, which was rejected, 256 to 218.

Sunk by a Collision.

LONDON, May 2.—The British steamer Halt wich collided with the British steamer Mount Olivet at Gibraltar yesterday and the latter sank. The Mount Olivet was bound from Bollo for Montreal.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS.

Hon. G. W. Ross Renominated in His Old Constituency.

MOUNT BRYDGES, May 2.—A meeting of West Middlesex Reformers convened for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest the riding, met here to-day at 11 o'clock. All the municipalities were well represented. After the Committee on Credentials had reported nominations were called for and Hon. G. W. Ross was nominated. There being no other candidate his nomination was made unanimous by a standing vote. Hon. G. W. Ross spoke at considerable length on questions of the day, but principally on educational topics. A number of other addresses were made, and after the usual resolutions had been passed the meeting adjourned with cheers for the Premier, the nominee and the Queen.

Ottawa's Equal Rights Candidate.

OTTAWA, May 2.—D. Donaldson, merchant tailor, was selected as the Equal Rights standard-bearer in the coming provincial election.

Monck Equal Righters.

WELLANDPORT, May 2.—At a meeting of the Equal Rights Association of the County of Monck held here to-day a committee was appointed to wait on the candidates for parliamentary honors and present the claims of the Equal Rights Association. Should the two men now in the field fail to comply with the wishes of the association they will at once put another man in the field.

Eastern Algoma Conservatives.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 2.—The Conservatives of Eastern Algoma at a convention at Bruce Mines yesterday selected Barrister W. Hearst of Sault Ste. Marie as their candidate for the Assembly.

A DEADLY TOY.

Oliver Mainer, An Orillia Lad, Shot and Killed by a Playmate.

ORILLIA, May 2.—This afternoon a number of lads were practising shooting at a target in the yard of R. Mainer and while Willie Breckon was in the act of shooting at the target Oliver, the fourth son of Mr. Mainer, ran out of the shed and received the bullet in the temple. He at once fell and became unconscious and shortly after died.

A Jersey Bank Failure.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 1.—The Merchants' Bank of this city suspended payment to-day on account of a run caused by reports that its branches at Elmer, Pleasantville, Egg Harbor City, and Mullica Hill had closed upon account of the suspension of the Bank of America, Philadelphia. There was an excited crowd about the bank. The depositors are principally small business men. The capital of the bank, fully paid, is $60,000. Deposits estimated at $50,000.

Capital Notes.

OTTAWA, May 2.—Mr. Chapleau gives notice of a bill for the establishment of a bureau of labor statistics. It is the intention to establish it as a branch of the Department of Agriculture. It will be presided over by a commissioner.

Mr. Prendergast, late of the Manitoba Government, waited upon the Governor-General to-day, accompanied by Messrs. Lariviere and Girouard, M. Ps., and presented a memorial asking for the disallowance of the school bill recently passed by the Manitoba Legislature.

Struck by Lightning.

WINDSOR, May 2.—The house of James Dixon in London-street, was struck by lightning on Wednesday night during the storm and considerable damage done. The family had retired to bed, but none of them were injured except Mrs. Dixon, who was visibly affected by the shock.

Up Goes the Price of Meat at Halifax.

HALIFAX, May 2.—The city butchers in view of the high price of beef, have decided to raise the price of steak to 18 cents per pound and best cuts of roasting beef to 17 cents. There is talk of forming a consumers' co-operative company in consequence.

MR. RYKERT RESIGNS.

THE SEAT FOR LINCOLN AND NIAGARA VACATED.

The Action Taken in View of a Probable Adverse Report by the Committee—The ex-Member Talks Freely to a Reporter.

OTTAWA, May 2.—John Charles Rykert, M.P. for Lincoln has resigned.

After a very dull afternoon the House opened with quite a dramatic incident this evening. The members were scarce half in their places when the event occurred, and it was begun and ended within five minutes.

Rising "to a question of privilege," Mr. Rykert proceeded calmly and in a tone expressing a sense of injury to make what may be his last address to the House of which for half a life-time he has been a member.

He wished to speak, he said, relative to the publication in The Globe newspaper twelve weeks ago of certain correspondence purporting to have been written by him and the subsequent proceedings in the House. He had been called upon to make an explanation in the House and he had done so then, taking occasion to state that the correspondence in question had been published broadcast in Lincoln previous to the elections of 1882 and was made a chief issue in that campaign. He felt that the matter having at that time been so thoroughly discussed he had a right to claim protection under the law against it being brought up again after this lapse of time, and he thought also that this correspondence, which was of a private and confidential nature, had no right to be seized and dragged before Parliament for action.

Two parliaments had elapsed since it was first published and he felt that at this time he had a right to claim freedom from further discussion here. When, however, the House decided to take proceedings he had felt that he had a right to demand that charges of a specific character should be laid against him. He felt that his 30 years' continuous and faithful service in Parliament entitled him to that, but instead the committee appointed called upon him to proceed with his defence without any specific charges being laid and without giving him fair play.

It seemed as if Mr. Rykert was launching upon a lengthy address, but he was here interrupted by Mr. Blake, who raised a point of order. It was not in order, said Mr. Blake, to discuss the conduct of a committee which had not reported.

The Speaker thereupon remarked that he hoped Mr. Rykert would refrain from discussing the conduct of the committee.

Mr. Rykert declared he had no desire to infringe upon the rules of the House, but he did feel and felt yet that he had not had fair play at the hands of the House or of the committee. He had hoped when his case was first closed before the committee that it would not be opened again, but shortly afterwards it was reopened and he understood that again to-day it was reopened in his absence. In view of the nature of the charges brought and the manner in which he had discharged his trust being questioned, he felt that he should give that trust back to his constituents and enable them to dispose of it as they thought fit.

Having been charged with accepting that trust and betraying it he could no longer occupy his seat in the House. Therefore, he felt it his duty to tender, as he now tendered, his resignation as a member of this House for the County of Lincoln.

His speech had been received in perfect silence and there was not a sound as he marched out of the chamber, looking neither to the right nor left, and without even a parting salute to the Speaker, towards whom he walked from his desk to the door.

The episode was a painful one and it was with a feeling of relief that the House proceeded, without a syllable respecting the departed member, to take up the routine business.

Mr. Rykert seems merely to have forestalled the action of the House, as the investigating committee were to have unanimously reported him guilty of conduct scandalous, corrupt and discreditable. The fact that this report was agreed upon was currently reported about 5 o'clock and just about that time Mr. Rykert appears to have made up his mind to resign.

Speaking to a reporter after he had left the chamber, Mr. Rykert said he had not yet made up his mind what his future movements would be.

"This step is rather sudden," he said, "for even my own family do not know that I have taken it, but I could not leave my case in the hands of a committee which had shown itself so determined to deny me what I considered was fair play."

Asked if he would be a candidate again, Mr. Rykert said he did not know. "I am tired of public life," he said, "but I will hear what my friends have to say before I make any definite announcement about my future movements."

"Do you suppose I could not be elected again in Lincoln? I tell you I could by a bigger majority than ever. I am not dead yet and you will hear from me again."

The general feeling appears to be that Mr. Rykert took the wisest course in resigning. His political friends were loath to vote for the adoption of a report which would have called for his expulsion, but under the circumstances of the case they could not see their way clear to reject the report.

Rumor has it that Mr. Rykert has an idea that he can be returned as an Independent member and come back to Parliament to make it hot for those who he thinks have persecuted him.

In committee on the banking bill Mr. Foster announced a modification of the clause respecting unclaimed balances. These are to be left with the banks, and instead of requiring the money to be paid over the Government simply asks a statement in detail respecting such unclaimed moneys, this return to be laid before Parliament.

The House adjourned at 12.10.

The Combines Bill Killed.

OTTAWA, May 2.—The Senate Banking and Commerce Committee to-day threw out the bill to amend the Combines Act, 15 to 2. The minority were Senators Wark, Robitaille and McCallum.

A Slashing Cut in Rates.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The great Northern Railway has made a slashing cut in lake and rail rates from New York to the Northwest. Official announcement was made to-day that the rate hereafter from New York to St. Paul would be but one cent higher than the rate from Chicago to St. Paul. This [illegible] of 11 cents on business between New York and Omaha in favor of the St. Paul route.

Belleville Officials Fined.

BELLEVILLE, May 2.—The Police Magistrate to-day fined Police Sergeant Thomas Downs and Assistant Fishery Overseer A. H. Crosby $20 each for having pickerel in their possession during the close season.

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1890.

THE CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

ONE week from to-day a convention of the Conservatives of the West Riding of Peterborough will be held in the Old Music Hall, Peterborough, to nominate a candidate for the Provincial Legislature.

The convention will meet at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Important issues are before the country to be decided. A Government that has forfeited the confidence of the people by its abuse of power and misgovernment is on trial. It is important, therefore, that there should be a large attendance and unanimity in action in order that in West Peterborough, as elsewhere in the Province, the friends of good government may defend with success the interests and rights of the people.

THE MISSISSAUGA DAM.

AMONG the claims of the Government and its candidate presented to the farmers is the one that an appropriation of $5,200 has been made to construct a dam at the outlet of Mississauga lake. This claim, like others of a similar character, is an absurd one.

The claim is presented in this way in our evening contemporary:—

> "It is expected as the first practical result of the construction of the Mississauga dam, that a steamer will be placed on the lake, and collect all the milk supplied from the farmers on and tributary to its shores, and deliver at a factory which will be erected the coming season, on one of the several favorable points now under construction."

The only reason given for the expenditure of this money, the only excuse for the appropriation, is that it will benefit the "farmers on and tributary to its shores" in the collecting of milk for a cheese factory.

Now, how many farmers are there on the shores of this lake? Last fall there was none, and it is not probable that many or any went in during the winter. How many are there "tributary" to its shores? Not one near enough or in a position to be benefitted in the way described by the steamer it is alleged will be put on the lake. This information we have from a trustworthy source.

The lake is a small one. It is only a couple of miles long and a little narrower than it is long. Locally it is known as Gull lake. The money is professedly to be expended for a factory, that does not exist, and for farmers, who are not there. If a factory is to be built at some point in north Harvey or Cavendish, it is nonsense to suppose that a steamer would be built to collect milk on the shores of a lake on which there are no farmers. The neighborhood is a favorite one for sportsmen; but the settlements do not reach the shores of the lake or near it.

Yet the appropriation of $5,200 has been made to construct the dam.

It is true that a dam was once built at this point. But it was not constructed for "milk gathering" purposes. No doubt the purpose it served was just as useful. It assisted in getting logs out of the Scott limits and was built, we believe by the late Mr. Scott, for that purpose.

A dam there now would probably be of use for the same purpose still. The Scott limits are in other hands, but they will, it may be presumed, be worked. But for any other purpose the dam and the mythical steamer would be useless, unless the hunters could use the steamer in the fall!

Why was not the truth straightforwardly stated? Why was it thought wise to conjure up a nonsensical excuse for giving this grant? If there was nothing wrong about making the appropriation to aid the lumbermen who now own the Scott limits, why was such a poor but brazen attempt made to deceive the people? Perhaps the Government, or its candidate, feared that the people would not look with favor upon a large grant being made to assist the wealthy corporation, composed of political friends, that now controls the limits.

The people, however, have not been deceived, and the only result of the milk and steamer excuse has been to provide some amusement at Mr. Stratton's expense and to expose the hollowness of the pretences made on behalf of the Government and its candidate.

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

Some Improvement in the Outlook—The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's indicate much the same condition of affairs in general distributive trade circles as existed a week ago. There is some improvement in the outlook and therefore in the feeling.

Leather continues to show an upward tendency and lumber and other building materials are firm with a good demand. The movement of drygoods, hardware and boots and shoes is full and that of wheat and corn eastward is very heavy. Cattle have advanced in price at western centres some 20c per cwt. while hogs have declined half as much.

Bank clearings in April showed a larger gain over the like month in the preceding year (when clearings declined) than for any previous month since November. The total clearings for April at 52 cities aggregated $4,728,000,000, or a gain over a year ago of 10 per cent. and over March this year of 4 per cent. There were two more business days in April this year than last owing to the centennial celebration. The gain over March this year is credited to improved speculation and freer collection.

There is no actual or widespread gain in the iron or coal trades either as to demand or prices, although at the west a more active demand has existed than is felt elsewhere. Production of crude iron remains very heavy, and buyers know it. This is an element of weakness in prices of northern pig iron. There is less uniformity of belief as to whether stocks of pig iron are accumulating or not.

Dry goods at the East are in fair demand for the season. Wool is in fair demand and this, added to broken stocks, tends to strengthen prices. Raw cotton is 1-16c. higher.

Exports of wheat this week, both coasts, counting flour as wheat, equal 2,747,048 bushels against 2,892,988 bushels in the like week last year, and 2,259,530 bushels last week. The total exported July, to date is 90,453,616 bushels against 94,084,088 bushels in a like portion of 1888-'89.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 138 in the United States this week against 174 last week and 151 this week last year. Canada had 23 this week against 26 last week. The total number of failures in the United States from Jan. 1 to date is 4128 against 4386 in a like portion of 1889.

Dun-Wiman's Review.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Dun, Wiman & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say: Prospects of silver legislation having become less distinct, some of the speculative markets have reacted from the recent advance. At the same time the outlook for industries and legitimate trade is distinctly less favorable owing to damage to wheat and cotton and labor disturbances. The accounts of injury to winter wheat grow more definite and foreshadow a lower official report than that of last month. The reports are generally favorable as to the volume of business.

Burned in Her Bed.

QUEBEC, May 2.—A fatal catastrophe has just occurred in St. George Beauce. Paschal Nadeau was working at sugar-making in company with his daughter, aged 14, and a boy aged 15. During the night while they were asleep fire started in the stable attached to the sugar cabin. The horse got away after being nearly roasted alive. The father awakening in a half-stifled condition caught up the boy, who was sleeping in the same bed, under his arm and then went over to another couch and carried out the bed clothes, thinking it was his daughter. When he got outside he perceived his mistake, but it was too late as the roof of the sugar-house had fallen in and the girl was burned to death.

WITH A BABY IN HER ARMS.

Annie Crook in Search of Her Worthless Husband—Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, May 2.—A pale-faced, sunken-eyed woman, scarcely more than a girl, dressed in faded garments and her whole appearance denoting an extreme of abject poverty, walked into Mayor McLellan's office this morning. In her arms she carried a sickly-looking little child, which was munching greedily at a biscuit, crying fretfully meantime. She said the Rochester poor-master sent her and that she was looking for her husband, who deserted her ten months ago. She heard that he was working in Napanee. The Mayor passed her to Toronto.

Patrick Bresnahan, a Dun[illegible] youth, was to-day fined $5 for scalding a dog.

Charles S. Armstrong of 130 Market-street was stricken with paralysis yesterday afternoon at the baseball match. He is now unconscious and his recovery is despaired of. Mr. Armstrong is perhaps the oldest grain-buyer in Hamilton. He is 71 years old.

It is reported that Colin McRae, formerly a boot and shoe merchant here and now employed as a commercial traveler by a Montreal firm, is lying in Montreal seriously ill from a paralytic stroke.

The Mail to Appeal.

MONTREAL, May 2.—J. J. McLaren, Q.C., of Toronto, Hon. R. Laflamme, Q.C., Mr. Smith and Mr. N. W. A Mean Revenge.

Bobbins and his wife just had a terrible row. Mrs. Bobbins was bathed in tears.

"Just see, you ugly brute! you've gone and made me use up six handkerchiefs."

"Well," was the brutal rejoinder, "it ain't worth while a-goin' and a-increasin' of the laundry-bill for a little thing like that, Judge.

A Fad for Pronunciation.

Don't, I beg of you, allow your vowels to flatten or shorten. You know how we learned to write the English hand, don't you! Well, there are "social assistants" at the women's exchanges who take pupils and teach them to talk as broad English as the Duchess of Marlborough. The key-note is "far." Remember. Now, give "a" in the words cat, can,t, basket, glass, hand, have land, stand, man, the sound of the vowel in "far," and you have the London accent. Make rhetorical sandwiches of "Oh deahr, no," and "Don't you know." and if you are clever, and affect severe styles, you can make the world believe you are "just over."

Characteristic Enterprise.

Ingalls is intensely interesting influential and intellectual, and as one of the most prominent statesmen in public life to-day his views on economic matters are imbued with an importance which ought to commend them to the thoughtful consideration of patriotic readers, with characteristic enterprise the New York World secured an interview with the Senator covering a broad range of questions of current moment, and it is certainly worth while to succinctly summarize his statements and make a few running comments.—Troy Press.

At the Opera House.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company put "East Lynn or the Elopement" on the boards at the Opera House last evening. The audience present was well pleased. The company will conclude their week's engagement to-night when they will appear in "The Light of London." Give them a big house.

It Was Not Him.

A letter received from Mr. Joseph Graham, formerly of Ashburnham, but now of Cloquet, Minn., states that the report that the man Hugh Graham who was killed in a shooting affray in a lumber camp in Michigan is not his son. Mr. Graham says that his son Hugh is residing in Minnesota and never lived in Michigan. This will be good news for Mr. Graham's friends here.

Floating Aloft.

Mr. J. J. Turner has made a large new flag for Mr. D. Belleghem, the furniture king. The flag is twenty-one feet long and is red with "Belleghem" emblazoned on it in large white letters. The new streamer floats from the top of Mr. Belleghem's factory, to which another storey has just been added. Mr. Turner has also just shipped an order to Port Arthur and another of wagon covers to the Dominion Express Company of Toronto.

Anniversary Service and Organ Recital.

The anniversary service in connection with St. Paul's church will be held on Sabbath the 11th inst., when Rev. Principal Grant, D. D, of Queen's College, Kingston, will preach both morning and evening. Collections in aid of the church debt. On the Tuesday evening following a secred cantata entitled "The Pilgrims" will be rendered by the choir under the direction of Mr. Parker organist. Silver collection at the door.

Did not Appear.

Frank Legros was arrested a week ago charged with stealing a quantity of maple syrup from a can which stood in Ritchie Kidd's wagon in the yard of the Temperance hotel. Legros was arraigned at the Police Court on Saturday last, but as the case was not ready he was allowed out on his own recognizance for $100 to appear this morning for trial. At the court this morning he failed to put in an appearance and he will probably be put to considerable inconvenience as the result of his failure to materialize.

THE EAST RIDING.

A Meeting in Otonabee—Addresses by Messrs. Geo. Stewart, Kidd and Stone.

A meeting was held last evening at Stewart's school house, Otonabee, in the interests of Mr. A. R. Kidd, the Equal Rights candidate in the East Riding. The building where the young ideas of the Stewart settlement are trained to shoot was packed to overflowing with the electors of the neighborhood, and the audience proved to be both interested and enthusiastic listeners. The speakers were Messrs. Geo. Stewart, Reeve of Otonabee, A. R. Kidd and E. B. Stone. Mr. Stewart was elected to preside as chairman, and his remarks were confined to a few at the opening, but were to the point. He said it was unnecessary for him to state the object of the meeting. It had been called by Mr. Kidd to set forth his views of the coming contest. "With regard to Mr. Kidd," Mr. Stewart said, "I have been acquainted with him for a number of years and have been with him in the County Council for the past eight years, where he has sat as Reeve of Dummer for the past twelve years and where he has served the county well. If elected to represent you he will do his duty just as faithfully, and I have much pleasure in recommending him to you. I wish to say I will give him my hearty support and, as all of you are probably aware, the principles of the Equal Rights Association have my hearty sympathy and support also."

Mr. Kidd's speech was short, but it fell upon attentive ears. He referred in a general way to his nomination and the reports regarding it that had been circulated. After referring to the unfair position the Examiner had placed him in he said he had felt he should put his views on paper and he had done so and his address was in the hands of many of them. They therefore knew the grounds upon which he came before them and he felt they would do their duty. After extending an invitation to any representative of Mr. Blezard who might be present to come forward to the platform, he read the enunciated aims and objects of the Equal Rights Association and said he had pledged himself to carry them out on the floor of the House if elected, and proceeded to explain his views. He closed by referring to his canvass in which he said he was meeting with great kindness and the best kind of success.

Mr. E. B. Stone made a lengthy address in which he blamed both political parties and for raising the race and creed cry, and advocate the platform adopted by Mr. Kidd.

The meeting closed with cheers for Mr. Kidd, the Queen and Mr. Stone.

In Darkest Africa.

Henry M. Stanley, prehaps the foremost living man in pluck, endurance and achievement, has just finished writing "In Darkest Africa," the story of his last and greatest undertaking, the quest and rescue of Emin. It will reveal for the first time the full extent of Mr. Stanley's recent discoveries. No authentic information concerning this expedition has yet been published, beyond the few letters and newspaper accounts which have appeared from time to time during the past three years, and which contain little more than a suggestion of the dangers encountered and overcome, and the important results achieved. "In Darkest Africa" will be published shortly by Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, and Mr. John Watt has secured the sole agency for the town, for the sale by subscription of this remarkable book. Mr. Watt will wait on our citizens, or he can be seen at his residence 226 Sherbrooke-st. 1d104 1w19

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Bible training Bible class Tuesday evening at 7.30.

Board of Directors will hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. Business of importance will be brought forward. A full attendance is requested.

Confirmation.

The confirmation at St. Luke's was held ast evening at 8 p.m. Lectures had been given on Thursday evenings to a large class and they had the advantage of plenty of time to make good preparation and search their hearts. When the appointed time at length arrived, the candidates met in the Sunday school to receive final directions and offer up a prayer that the Heavenly Father would strengthen them to keep the vows and promises made and pour out an abundance of His Spirit upon them. The Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, was present and read the shortened form of evening prayer, with its appropriate lesson from Acts viii. After a hymn the preface to the confirmation service was read, and then followed His Lordship's address—a real practical address, most suitable to the needs of the young people about to be confirmed. The fact that each one before him was a child of God from the time of baptism was strongly insisted upon and each was encouraged to go to God as a Father, tender and considerate, ready to overlook shortcomings and ever ready to help on to better things. They were specially urged to seek that required [illegible] Communion. Then, after [illegible] question was put and the candidates standing answered, the female portion of them occupying the two front seats of the church, went forward to the communion railing and knelt down to receive the "laying on of hands" with its accompanying blessing. When they had returned to their seats again the male portion went forward in like manner. There were just sixteen of each, making thirty-two in all, that is counting one who was sick in bed and confirmed by His Lordship this morning in private. The service was then closed by singing the hymn, "O Jesus I have Promised," and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Bishop. After the service a few friends were entertained at luncheon in the rectory. The Bishop left for Lakefield at noon to-day, where he holds confirmation on Sunday.

BAILLIEBORO SPRING SHOW.

A Good Show of Horses—The Prize Winners.

The sixth annual spring show of the Baillieboro Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday, says the Reporter. The attendance was not quite so large as in former years. The show of horses was good, there being several fine stallions on the ground.

T. H. Hassard, V.S., of Millbrook, showed his fine three year old carriage horse in aged class, and was greatly admired by the spectators, and secured third prize, competing against such horses as Choat's "Norfolk Hero," "Young Clear Grit," and "Warrior Chief," all aged horses. Mr. Wm. H. Armstrong's thoroughbred Durham bull, "Norman," was greatly admired. Following is the list of

The Union Farmers' Picnic.

At a joint meeting the committees of the Farmers' Institutes of the East and West Ridings held this afternoon, it was decided by the vote of the majority to hold the grand Union Farmers' Institute picnic on June 12th at Idyl Wild. The professors of the Dominion and Ontario Experimental farms are expected to be present and give addresses.

To the Board of Trade.

The Secretary of the Board of Trade has received a communication from St. Johns, Nfd., making the intimation that the delegates which are being sent through Canada will be here before long and the Board of Trade is requested to afford these delegates an opportunity to explain to the people the disadvantages of the modus vivendi to Newfoundland. The Dominion of Canada is requested to exercise its influence in their behalf, especially as the colony, it is expected, is to have closer connection with the Dominion.

The Good Templar Officers.

The newly organized lodge of Good Templars which was instituted here last week held its first regular meeting last evening. The name of the new lodge is Carswell Lodge, No. 312, and the prospects for a flourishing future are good. I have bought more property than I can afford to carry and consequently must sell even at a loss. I am not alone. Several others have done likewise, and have also resolved to follow my example by unloading regardless of cost. Our loss will be the buyer's gain, and sharp men having money to invest never had such a chance to secure homes and profitable investments, choice properties of all kinds, central and suburban. Delay means loss. Full particulars at the office, 367 George-st.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"That you ought, papa. You haven't seemed like yourself lately."

"Have you noticed a change?" cried the judge, pulling her down to his knee. "What does the change seem like, Margaret? Describe it to me. Is it anything that any but you would notice, do you think?"

He looked feverish now, and the hand that lay on Margaret's was hot. The other hand still held the knife and the thumb rubbed back and forth over the edge.

"It isn't easy to describe," said Margaret, slowly. "I should say that you did not enjoy life as you used, and yet I think I have noticed more force in you than I used—I don't know just how to express it exactly. But I should say your will was stronger, or that your nature had increased in intensity. Do you know, papa, that I have an idea that you are a good man. I cannot tell you how proud I am of you." She brought her sentence to a sudden stop, for the knife fell on the floor with a little clangor against the metal claw at the foot of the chair.

"You love me, Margaret?" he said, taking her face between his hands and looking into it with deep eyes.

"More than words can say. Can you doubt it?" Her eyes filled with tender tears.

"In spite of the change you see in me, you love me still?" he persisted.

"It is not a change that makes any difference with your loveliness, so why should I not love you just the same?"

"I thank heaven for you, daughter. I thank heaven for its great gift to me. Who am I that I should have such a pure and delicate thing for my own?"

Margaret moved uneasily and struggled from his embrace. She did not like to see the sadness settling upon him, and her nature shrank from the display of emotion. According to her wholesome theory there was need of nothing but hearty kisses and natural deeds of kindness between those who loved each other. She objected to protestations.

"I came in to ask you to lock your door at night, papa. I am going to lock mine every night. I hear there are some terrible burglars about. You read of that robbery last night? Besides, ever since Uncle Leiter's death I have felt nervous."

"That's right," said the judge, rising and pacing back and forth in a strip of moonlight, "make your doors fast—and your windows, Margaret, your windows! See to it that the window above the porte cochere is fastened. See to it every night. Especially if I am absent-minded, or—or—changed, see to it. I might forget to look after it myself, you know. But I will try to make the round of the house every evening, and see that it is safe. I am glad of your determination, Margaret. You are right to be cautious. Good night."

"But you will lock your doors too, will you not?" Margaret pleaded.

"Take no thought of me. I will look to myself, never fear. God keep you safe, my girl, now and always. May you rest in His care."

He kissed her twice on the brow and turned her out into the hall. Soothed, she returned to her room, fastened the door as he had instructed, and in a few moments was lying in a flood of moonlight in her white bed, thinking of Harry. She had almost fallen asleep when she heard the handle of her door tried. She sat up with a startled cry of:

"Who is it?"

The voice of her father replied:

"I wanted to make sure that you had made it safe," he called. "Did you make the window safe, too?"

"Everything is safe," returned she.

"All right. Lie down and sleep, my child. God keep you." A few moments later her bosom rose in regular pulsations. She was asleep.

The morning came and found all as usual. It was a beautiful morning, with an intensely blue sky and a lake of dazzling icebergs of miniature size on a sea that reflected the sky. The apprehensions of the night before seemed absurd enough now, especially as Margaret and Jeanne sat at the breakfast table with the judge, who was in one of his best moods, and told them stories of the days of the Pike's Peak fever, when he had crossed the plains. He had a delicious sense of humor, and not a little imagination. Veracity did not hinder him from making a story good, and he kept the young girls laughing all through meal time. There was a snapping fire in the grate and yellow chrysanthemums on the table, and the girls in gay morning dresses, and the fragrant coffee, and McKee having given away to the more sprightly Lotta, all went merrily. The sunshine always seems brighter after a storm, and the happiness of the morning thrilled Margaret with a new pleasure, after the depression of the last few days. She followed her father to the door, and after she had reluctantly seen him depart, she opened the piano and played for an hour to the great delight of the little damsel, who skipped about the drawing room in time to the music, like a kid in a spring meadow. In the midst of this matutinal merriment a blue uniformed messenger brought a note for Margaret. Following an impulse, she ran to her room and closed the door. Was it possible that she had recognized the handwriting. She tore it open and then braced herself for a moment before she found courage to glance at the signature. It was: "Your repentant Harry—your lover." She did not read the letter for a few moments. She dropped on her knees first, and her pure thanks arose as her pure tears fell. When her heart was a little calmer she began the letter, and after she had started, her eyes dried, and she read on with mingled feelings of anger, astonishment and dismay.

"My Margaret," it began, "I stand abjectly before you for pardon. There may have been worse sinners than I in the world, but I cannot recall them. Let me confess everything to you immediately."

"It cannot be that he is guilty," whispered poor Margaret to herself, thinking only of the murder at the time.

"I have doubted you, Margaret," the letter went on. "You can imagine how loathsome I seem to you now to myself, when I were these doubts, that I was contemptible dare tell you the character of them even would hardly understand me if I did, but the consciousness of this fact makes me wonder if I was a mad man. I shall not tell you just the form that my crime took till some happier day when I am free and you are my wife—if that time ever comes. I have terrible moments when I fear that you will cast me off utterly as unworthy of you. If I were more fortunately placed I am almost sure you would. But I am base enough to count on your pity for my present plight. I think you will perhaps forgive me for my misfortunes. For I am indeed unfortunate, beloved. I am innocent of all of which I stand accused, and I must not prove it. Oh! love me still, lest I despair utterly! So inexplicable and terrible was the thing that made me suspect you of—not loving me—that it is little wonder I could not meet it with rejection. You will agree with me when I am able to tell you of it.

"But I do not write you to-day to tell you of the love that has tormented me like a madness since I have been in this place; nor to tell you what a benediction that love has become now that I know you are my own bright and tender girl; nor to beg forgiveness for the shameful sacrilege of my conduct; though I might write all day on these subjects and not exhaust them.

"I write, my darling, my poor dove, to tell you that you are in great danger. The nature of this danger I cannot tell you. I may seem cruel to warn you. Perhaps it will do no good and will only cause you suffering. You could escape that danger, which I hope is only temporary, by going away for a time. If you would make me happy go away from home to visit some friends, and stay till I write you to return. Believe that I have the most important reasons in the world for this. Our happiness depends upon it. I would say more, but dare not, and there are things that cannot be told with the pen. My lips must speak them when my arm is around you, poor lonely one, to comfort you. And mark me now! Make fast your windows and your doors each night when you go to bed. Let nothing tempt you to forget or neglect this. Let me ask you to read my words twice—three times. I do not speak from idle impulse.

"Oh God! That I were free! That I could go to you! That you should need me and I not free to give you aid. Do not come to see me. I have reason to suppose it would increase your danger. If Mr. Pond, the reporter, has occasion to come to the house, do not seem to pay any attention to him. He is our true friend, and it is for our sakes that he makes this request. He tells me you have a pleasant little companion. I am thankful for that. Keep her always near you. If you have any message to send to me, let her take it to the office of the Chronicle and deliver it to him. On no account go to the office of the Chronicle yourself. After you have read my letter two or three times, so as to remember all that I have told you, burn it. Do not forget to follow this instructing. Burn it where the ashes will not be noticed.

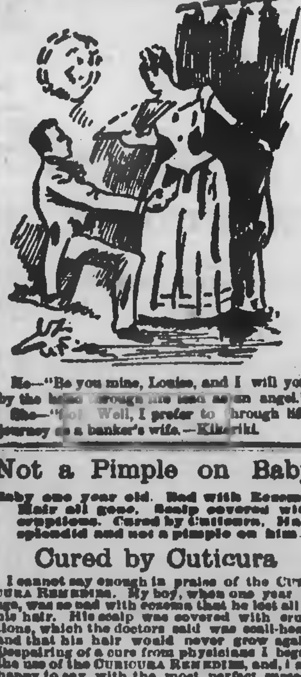
About 250,000 Square Miles Covered by Thick Woods.

One of the most striking passages in Mr. Stanley's letters, received before he himself emerged from the centre of Africa, was that in which he described the vast, gloomy forest of the Congo. In the "parliamentary papers" upon the Emin relief expedition just issued, containing Stanley's report, there is another remarkable description of this wonderful region, says the London News.

"We can prove," says Stanley, "that east and north and northeast of the Congo there exists an immense area of about 250,000 square miles, which is covered by one unbroken, compact and veritable forest. A scientific writer, Professor Drummond, as late as 1888, writes that the fairy labyrinth of ferns and palms, the festoons of climbing plants blocking the paths and scenting the forest with their flowers, the gorgeous cloud of insects, the gayly plumed birds, the paroquets, the monkeys swinging from their trapeze in the shaded bowers, are unknown to Africa.

With due deference to the professor, these are precisely what are every day seen within that area of 250,000 square miles, through the core of which we traveled for thirteen months and in whose gloomy shades so many scores of our dark followers perished. Our progress through the dense undergrowth of brush and ambitious young trees which grow beneath the impervious shades of the forest giants, and which was matted by arums, phrynia and amoma, meshed by endless lines of calamus, and complicated by great cable-like convolvuli, was often only at the rate of 400 yards an hour. Through such obstructions as these we had to tunnel a way for the column to pass. The Amazon valley cannot boast a more impervious or a more umbrageous forest, nor one which has more truly a tropical character than this vast upper Congo forest, nourished as it is by eleven months of tropical showers."



He—"Be you mine, Louise, and I will you by the hand through life lead as an angel."
She—"Fool! Well, I prefer to go through life journey as a banker's wife.—Kikeriki.

Not a Pimple on Baby

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy, when one year of age, was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions, which the doctors said was scall-head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and, I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway, Me.

Fever Sore Eight Years

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers who has been cured by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well,—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name, which is H. H. CASON, merchant. JOHN V MINOR, Druggist, Gainesboro, Tenn.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of scrofula I ever saw was cured by them.

LONGFELLOW'S MAIDEN, who is—
"Standing, with reluctant feet,
Where the brook and river meet,
Womanhood and childhood fleet!"

is a type of thousands of young girls who are emerging from the chrysalis stage of their existence, as they enter upon their "teens." Nervous, excitable, irritable, stirred by strange, unknowable forces within them, each a mystery unto herself, our girls need the tenderest care, the most loving, patient oversight, and the aid of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, to safely carry them through this critical period, during which, in too many lives, alas, are sown the seeds of distressing forms of diseases peculiar to the female sex. But this boon to womankind will prevent all such diseases, or cure them if they have already seized a victim. Woman owes it to herself, to her family, and to her social station, to be well and strong. Let her then not neglect the sure means of cure. "Favorite Prescription" is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. Sold by druggists; $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Coughs, Colds, Croup.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black." whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

A BIG FIRE AT ST. KITTS.

FOUR BUSINESS BLOCKS DESTROYED BY FLAMES.

The Whole City Narrowly Escapes Destruction—The Losses and Insurance Twenty-two Buildings Burnt in a New York Town.

ST. CATHARINES, May 4.—A fire broke out this morning in an unoccupied store in St. Paul-street which threatened the destruction of the entire business portion of the city. A stiff breeze caused the flames to spread rapidly to the wooden sheds in the rear of the adjoining buildings. The conflagration made made such rapid progress before the firemen were summoned that at one time the whole city was in imminent danger.

The total loss is placed at $20,000. The properties destroyed were: Large two-story double brick building, owned by Dan McGuire and occupiedby Parker's dye works and Thomas Orr, harness maker, $7000, insured for $4500; two-story brick unoccupied building owned by Thomas Orr, $4000, insured for $3000; Ahearn's two-story brick building occupied by Dennis McGuire as a liquor store, $4000, insured for $3500; two-story frame building owned be Dan McGuire and occupied by Woolverton & Brick, $1500, insured for $600.

FORESTS IN FLAMES.

An Alarming Condition of Affairs in Northern Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, May 4.—Serious forest fires are reported from the northern part of the state. Much damage has been done around Mason, along the Omaha road, where the woods are ablaze and two or three houses in the town were burned yesterday. A fire in the stumps and underbush between Hurley and Ironwood spread with great rapidity along the section bordering on the mines from the Ashland to the Aurora, burning three or four miners' cottages. All the mills and factories at Rice Lake, Barron county, were kept closed yesterday so the men could protect their homes and a fire engine was sent from Chippewa Falls.

A New York Village Wiped Out.

GILBOA, N.Y., May 4.—This morning a fire broke out in the arcade, a large wooden building here, and the flames quickly spread to the adjoining buildings, which were soon enveloped in flames. There being no means of extinguishing the fire the whole village was at the mercy of the flames. The entire business portion of the town was destroyed, 22 buildings in all. Not a store is left in town and most of the stock was destroyed. The loss is estimated at from $150,000 to $175,000. Insurance is estimated at about $50,000.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The warehouse of the Matton Furniture Company was burned here last night. Loss $75,000.

A Reign of Terror.

OTTAWA, May 4.—Girls of tender age in Rochesterville and Hintonburg suburbs are living in a reign of terror owing to the blackguardly behavior of some tough or toughs. During the last fortnight three attempts have been made to outrage children of 11 and 13 years of age, only one of which was, however, successful. From the descriptions given by the victims it would appear that two well known characters, one of whom has long been wanted by the police in a matter of an unpaid fine, are the brutes who are insulting and terrorizing so many innocent children.

Horrible Butchery.

BRISTOL, Conn., May 3.—Arthur Jackson, a worthless negro, last night called his wife out of a hotel where she was employed as a waitress, and compelling her to go home with him, made her hold a light while he killed his dog with an axe. He then attacked his wife with a razor and cut her throat, slicing off several of her fingers in the struggle. A neighbor found him kicking the dying woman and attempting to burn the house. Jealousy was the cause of the crime. Jackson never supported his wife. H escaped, but was captured at Plainville.

Doctors Quarrel.

MONTREAL, May 4.—Two physicians have disagreed, Drs. de Martigny and J. Mount, and the quarrel has assumed $15,000 dimensions, to be settled by the courts. Dr. Mount asserted to a patient of Dr. de Martigny that the latter's treatment of a case was barbarous, hence the quarrel. The question the counsel are now discussing is whether or not a doctor is priviledged in expressing to a patient, when consulted, an opinion on another practitioner's methods.

The Date Unchanged.

TORONTO, May 5.—As a reply to the rumor that the date of the Ontario elections would be changed The Globe this morning again contains the announcement: Nominations May 20, polling June 5.

Burned The Toll Gate.

CHICAGO, May 4.—A mob of angry citizens gathered around the toll house at the southern terminus of the Snell toll road at midnight last night and after removing a part of the tollkeeper's household goods burned the building. As soon as the building was well on fire the mob dispersed and when the fire department arrived there was not a soul in sight save the tollkeeper, Fred Smith, and his wife with one or two of his friends. The men who made up the mob made no effort to conceal their identity and both Smith and his wife recognized many of them as residents of the vicinity. This road is inside the city limits. Litigation has long been pending for the abolition of tolls upon it and those who travel over it have evidently tired of waiting.

"LABOR OMNIA VINCIT!"

AN IMMENSE DEMONSTRATION IN HYGH PARK.

German Employers Form a Union Against Strikes—Rioters at Barcelona Shot by the Troops—The Ottawa Contractors Concede the Workingmen's Demands.

LONDON, May 4.—To-day's labor demonstration in Hyde Park was a magnificent success and excelled in point of numbers and orderly enthusiasm all working class gatherings since the great Reform assemblage in 1866. The splendid organization of the different sections taking part in the processions brought together in the park 500,000 people who went through their business and dispersed without a single disorderly incident. The leading sections were the trades councils which included eight groups, representing the leather trades, metal and cabinet workers, and the shipping, clothing, printing, paper and building trades. These bodies, in which were numerous related trades mustered in specified districts of the metropolis early in the forenoon and marched headed by their leaders and with bands and banners toward the Thames Embankment, whence the marshalled array was to start for the park. Crowds of sightseers gathered at the embankment. Soon after 2 o'cock the first column of the procession was seen advancing with a brave show of banners toward the National Liberal Club and before long the embankment as far as the eye could reach was a dense mass of moving columns, all keeping admirable order. The leaders on horseback guided the different sections toward their proper places and mounted policemen, by an arrangement with the Trades Councils, assisted in the formation of the ranks.

At 3 o'clock the gigantic procession moved off amid thunderous cheering and the music of many bands. The route toward the park was along Bridge-street, St. James Park and Birdcage-walk, which were lined with spectators. Masses of artisans joined the paraders on the way until on entering the park the estimated number of men in line was 150,000. Simultaneously with the appearance in the park of the trades columns, sections of the Social Democratic Federation began to enter. Some of them had joined the main body on the Thames Embankment while others marshalled in distant suburbs marched from different points converging toward the two platforms in the park especially allotted to socialist speakers. The Railway Workers' Union had also special processions, some of the groups of which swelled the embankment columns while others marched isolated towards the platform centres. The total number taking part in the various processions is estimated at 170,000, and these were almost lost in the vastness of the assemblage gathered around the thirteen platforms upon which the labor advocates held forth.

Among the far-stretching, dense crowd no police were visible. Orders from headquarters to refrain from interfering or co-operating with the organisers of the demonstration had caused the police to judiciously keep in the background. The tact and prudence of the organisers of the demonstration was further seen in the brevity of the proceedings. After the paraders had formed around the platforms the speaking commenced.

Shortly after 4 o'clock resolutions demanding that eight hours be recognised as a day's work were put and carried amid the acclamations of the multitude and by 5 o'clock, when the paraders had reformed in line, the assemblage began to disperse.

At the stands of the Social Democrats, at which all the speakers were Socialists, there was an audience of 12,000 of whom three-quarters wore red sashes. The speeches were moderate in tone. The speakers claimed that the Socialists initiated the 8-hour movement and urged their hearers to regard it as the first step towards securing complete freedom for workmen. Hyndman, who was one of the speakers, apologised for the failure of their brethren on the continent to gather in greater force on May Day. The Socialist orators denounced Mr. Bradlaugh and Mr. Morley.

Strikers Shot by Soldiers.

BARCELONA, May 4.—The strikers assembled last night in thousands. The troops endeavored to disperse them, but were met with resistance. Several shots were fired at the soldiers, who replied with a volley. The mob was then charged and scattered at the point of the bayonet. Three of the strikers were shot and seriously wounded. Many arrests were made. A striker was sentenced to imprisonment for life at hard labor yesterday for wounding a policeman. Five others were sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment each at hard labor for attempting to prevent others from going to work.

German Union Against Strikes.

BERLIN, May 4.—The first prominent result of the May Day agitation has been a formidable movement among manufacturers, merchants, mine owners and others employing large numbers of hands to promote the formation of a German union against strikes. The idea had its origin in the communication that passed between the merchants' and manufacturers' associations here and kindred organizations in Chemnitz, Hamburg, Bremen and Frankfort regarding the May Day demonstrations at a time when the celebrations threatened to paralyze trade. These communications led to further united action. At a meeting of Chemnitz manufacturers yesterday, which was attended by representatives of several Berlin industries, it was decided to create an Employers' Protective Union. If this plan is carried out a league will be formed covering Germany with a network of employers' associations.

The Ottawa Strike Ended.

OTTAWA, May 4.—The contractors have granted the bricklayers, stonemasons and carpenters the 9-hour day and the men go back to work to-morrow.

The Employers Yielded.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The threatened general strike of the 2000 housesmiths here has been averted by the employers agreeing to the new scale of wages.

Strikes in Cuba.

HAVANA, May 4.—The employes of the Street Car and Omnibus Companies here and many of the wharf hands have struck. The Governor has forbidden further labor demonstrations.

Order Restored in Valencia.

MADRID, May 4.—The strikers assembled in the bull ring at Valencia to-night and marched with bands and banners through the streets. The men gave cheers for the authorities and were orderly.

Conceded the Men's Terms.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Two large meetings of carpenters and joiners were held last night to hear reports of the situation. That presented by the United Order of American Carpenters and Joiners showed that 90 per cent. of the employers had accepted the terms proposed by the men. To the United Brotherhood it was reported that 196 bosses had conceded the demands regarding the 8-hour movement, and that but 15 had refused. Headquarters have been engaged in case of a strike against the bosses holding out.

The Chicago Strikes.

CHICAGO, May 4.—At a meeting of the Marble Cutters' Union it was resolved to make a demand on the employers for eight hours' work and nine hours' pay. In the shops heard from the demand has been conceded. This demand only applies on the retail shops, which employ about 3000 men. The employes in the wholesale establishments decided not to make any demand, being convinced that their employers, who have to compete with Vermont marble, are not in position to give better terms.

A temporary truce was called in the sash, door and blind mills strike yesterday, the employers conceding the strikers' demands for the day pending conference with the men and with each other. The employers say they cannot afford to give their men the 8-hour day unless it becomes general among their competitors.

The strike of 1200 employes at the malleable iron works will be continued indefinitely. The company has refused to grant the men's demands.

The arbitration committee on the carpenters' strike matter continued its labors yesterday.

It is stated the work has progressed so far that it has been decided work shall be resumed to-morrow.

FOUR THOUSAND VOLTS.

An Electric Light Employe Instantly Killed.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3.—The power of electricity as a death-dealing instrument was demonstrated at the works of the Brush Electric Light and Power Company here last night. James Clark, an employe was instantly killed by a shock. He had charge of two dynamos and also assisted in operating the switchboard. Clark started to change the circuit from one engine to another by shifting the wires on the board. Attached to the end of each wire is a wooden handle, through which the insulated wire passes. The handle hangs from a hook. In shifting the current Clark unhooked one wire with his left hand and the other with his right. As he did so his fingers touched the metal at the end of one of the handles. The touch formed a circuit, which the man's body completed. The current, 4000 volts strong, hurled Clark backward a distance of 20 feet. Death was instantaneous. The current that passed through Clark's body supplies 67 arc lights.

A FLURRY IN THE PIT.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The excitement on 'change was intense yesterday morning when July wheat opened over one cent higher than the close Friday. It continued to advance rapidly under a heavy demand from the "shorts" and soon rose by rapid strides to 93½c., at which it was quoted at 10 o'clock. The other two options advanced in proportion, May selling at 96c. and June at 95c. The continued reports of drought in the northwest were the principal cause of the advance.

The gathering clouds quickly scattered, however, and the temperature continued to fall till it was evident that if there should be any precipitation it would be in the shape of snow rather than rain. This started the buying movement again and the scenes in the pit became wilder than ever. In fact the excitement was at a pitch seldom witnessed on the board. The pit was crowded to suffocation, as many from the other trading centres as could get a foothold upon the raised platform around the pit jostled and crowded each other in a frantic effort to see or make themselves heard over the din. Brokers yelled themselves hoarse, and worked themselves into a steaming perspiration with their gesticulations in their efforts to execute orders. Prices climbed up steadily, and at noon July was quoted at 94½c, June at 98 to 99c in various portions of the pit, amid a mighty shout the figure for May was boomed to $1.

Boycotting a Postoffice.

ERIE, Pa., May 4.—An information was filed here yesterday before United States Commission Grant against John Cooper of Rundells, Crawford County, for being the principal in the boycotting of a postoffice. Deputy-Marshal Lord brought the prisoner to Erie last night. John Cooper was postmaster at Rundells for some time, but the office was given to the present occupant, Postmaster Roberts, who also keeps a store. The change caused a bitter fight among the friends of each, and a boycott was organized. Cooper not only kept his old boxes and other office furniture in place, but had a list of those who adhered to him and made it his business daily to send his son to the postoffice to get the mail belonging to the disgruntled parties, and then he distributed it in his boxes as of yore. While the fact of boycotting may be construed into an offence against the Government, it is also an offence to run a postoffice without authority.

A Druggist's Fatal Error.

ST. JOHN, N.B., May 4.—Despatches from Dalhousie announce the death of the wife of Michael Connors of New Mills, Restigouche, through the fatal error of a drug clerk in T. B. Barker & Sons' employ in this city. On Monday last Mr. Peters, head of the firm, received an order from J. P. Windsor, storekeeper at New Mills, for two ounces of powdered Peruvian bark. On the same day he received an order from Dr. Curry of Fredericton for six drachms of morphia. These he did up and labeled, marking the morphia "poison." In some unaccountable manner he, however, placed the wrong addresses on the packages, with the result, as afterwards learned, that Windsor received the morphia and Dr. Curry the bark.

A Colorado Tragedy.

DENVER, May 4.—Mrs. Butler, a widow, was found dead on the floor of her room here this morning. Her clothes were torn off, the body badly bruised, and there were other indications of a desperate struggle. The physicians say the woman was outraged and then murdered. There is no clue to the murderer.

The Newfoundland Seal Catch.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 4.—The total catch of seals by 19 vessels this season was 207,000, as against 307,000 caught by the same number of vessels last season. The seals captured this year are of very superior quality, 50 per cent. better than those of ordinary years.

Mr. McGreevy Strikes Back.

QUEBEC, May 4.—Hon. T. McGreevy, M.P., has laid an information before the Police Magistrate against Messrs Tarte, R. H. McGreevy and Owen E. Murphy charging them with criminal libel and conspiracy. Warrants were issued for their arrest and they appeared before Judge Murray and were bailed out in $800 each and bondsmen in $400 each.

A Guelph Girl's Mishap.

GUELPH, May 4.—Olive Prescott, aged 6 years, crossed the Grand Trunk track with her mother and sister in front of a west-bound train but did not notice the east-bound passenger, which struck Olive, fracturing her skull.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

A NEW BRUNSWICKER'S ELOQUENT ADDRESS IN LONDON.

The War in Dahomey—A Brilliant Reception in Honor of Miss Ward and Her Prince—Activity on the European Bourses—Why Bismarck Retired.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Mr. Smalley cables The Tribune from London: The East End of London has been considering Imperial Federation, the Duke of Cambridge presiding on Tuesday over a meeting at the People's Palace. Mr. Parkin of New Brunswick, who delivered an address, is an expert on this subject, and his address was described by Lord Rosebery as eloquent. But the London papers have no room for eloquence from New Brunswick. Lord Rosebery spoke briefly and weightily, urging, as Mr. Foster used to urge, that all English-speaking countries, the United States as well as those less fortunate colonies which have remained colonies, should be welded into one great league and so control the world. He does not doubt that in Canada and Australia great nations will arise. They and the other colonies must federate among themselves as the first step to this great league. England remains and will still remain a home to all British subjects. "In these islands are the title-deeds of the Anglo-Saxon race. In these islands we mean to keep them." The people in the People's Palace duly cheered these fine sentences.

Whydah Bombarded.

PARIS, May 4.—Advices received from Logos, West Africa, say a French man-of-war bombarded, Whydah, Dahomey, April 29 and 39. The fire was directed so as to avoid hitting the factories. After the bombardment Commander Fournier of the man-of-war sent an ultimatum to the King of Dahomey, demanding the surrender of the European prisoners in his hands and declaring if the prisoners were not surrendered he would again bombard Whydah May 5. Reports received from natives state that the people in Whydah were panic-stricken during the bombardment. The Dahomian troops are encamped on the left bank of the Oueme River, 70 kilometers north of Porto Novo.

For Insulting an American Lady.

BERLIN, May 4.—At Weimar yesterday a rich citizen named Doebereiner was sentenced by the court to nine months' imprisonment for insulting Miss Lemmer, an American lady. The lady had been pursued for some time with anonymous letters accusing her of immorality, and their authorship was finally traced to Doebereiner. The offender was not indicted, despite the attempts of the friends of Miss Lemmer to prosecute him, until the American consul took the matter in hand and insisted upon his prosecution.

The Panama Canal.

PARIS, May 4.—The Temps says the liquidator of the Panama Canal Company has appointed M. Wyse to conduct negotiations looking to the formation of a new company, and Wyse will go on a mission to the Government of Columbia to obtain an extension of the concession.

Why Bismarck Retired.

BERLIN, May 4.—The Hamburger Nachrichten gives a new and startling phase to the secret history of Prince Bismarck's retirement by stating as a positive fact that the Emperor's mind was prejudiced by enemies, who influenced him to believe the Prince took such large doses of morphine that he often lost the power of connected thought. The reports reached the Emperor in such a credible form that he deemed it necessary to summon Dr. Schweeniger in order to question him regarding Bismarck's condition and habits. Bismarck resented the inquiries put to his doctor, although the answers received by the Emperor convinced him that the reports were groundless. At the same time interested persons busied themselves with creating in the Chancellor's mind an impression that the Emperor was resolved to get rid of him at any price, and was taking steps to find a successor. The manipulators of the intrigue in the meantime assured the Emperor that Bismarck was firmly resolved to resign. The Nachrichten adds: "It will not be long before the names of the authors of this intrigue are disclosed." The article indicates a desire on the part of Bismarck to renew close relations with the Emperor. All misunderstandings between the Emperor and ex-Chancellor are being explained.

European Stock Markets.

LONDON, May 4.—On the stock exchange business expands daily. American railways were largely bought early in the past week but eased off slightly after a rapid advance.

PARIS, May 4.—Prices on the Bourse were firm during the week past and business was fairly active.

BERLIN, May 4.—On the Bourse since Thursday there has been a rapid expansion of business. Large purchases were made yesterday and prices closed very strong. A German-American trust with a capital of 20,000,000 marks has been formed for the sale of American loans here. The indiarubber manufacturers have raised their prices 20 per cent. owing to the enhanced cost of the raw material.

FRANKFORT, May 4.—On the Bourse here prices were very firm during the week past.

A Brilliant Reception.

PARIS, May 4.—On Thursday evening M. Hector Fabre and Mme. Fabre, who wore a handsome costume of black satin, gave a brilliant reception on the occasion of the coming marriage of Miss Clara Ward with Prince de Caraman-Chimay. The fiance's mother wore a brocade toilet of white and gold and some fine diamonds, while Miss Ward herself, who was much admired, had a dress of heliotrope satin covered with tulle of the same shade and trimmed with daisies.

Famine in Abyssinia.

MASSOWAH, May 4.—A famine prevails in Tigre. Owing to the misrule of the Government hosts of people are migrating. Many have died from hunger on the roadside.

Killed by a Runaway Horse.

HASTINGS, Eng., May 4.—A runaway horse yesterday dashed into a van in which 40 little children from one of the Barnardo homes were taking an airing, killing four and wounding 18.

A Canadian Company Launched.

LONDON, May 3.—Another new Canadian enterprise was announced Saturday, called the Lake Superior Queen Silver Mining Company. Its object is to acquire and develop mining property in the Thunder Bay District. The capital is £175,000. The [illegible] is fairly good. Mr. [illegible] McDonald of Winnipeg is the only Canadian member of the local managing board.

Inhospitable Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, May 4.—The City Council have decided against giving a grant of $50 towards the cost of entertaining the Royal Grenadiers of Toronto and the Governor-General's Guards of Ottawa, whom the [illegible] proposed to invite here as visitors on the Queen's birthday.

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

THE PRESTON BOODLE FUND.

THE publication of Mr. Preston's circular collecting campaign funds from Government officers and the consequent exposure of the discreditable means employed to obtain a boodle fund to assist the Government candidates has made those who expected to benefit by it very angry. It was impossible for them to deny that the circular had been sent out, and the defence attempted was that the offence was "a little one" as only four of the circulars had been issued. This defence, poor as it was, for it did not show the officials had not been assessed, was soon shattered, for as other places were heard from it was seen that the system had been extended over the country. The circular was in this form:—

CONFIDENTIAL.

TORONTO, April 17, 1890.

MY DEAR SIR,—Owing to the expenses incurred in connection with the pending provincial election campaign, I take the liberty of requesting you to remit either to the treasurer, Mr. G. M. Rose, Toronto, or to myself, $22.66, that being the balance of amount unpaid, inclusive of 1890, which you were kind enough to subscribe in 1888 towards the funds of the Provincial Reform Association. We are now on the eve of the elections, and that is my excuse for writing to you on the subject.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) W. T. R. PRESTON.

So long ago as in 1888 preparations had been made for collecting the fund, and although it was only to the delinquents that the circular was sent the Kingston News says that several similar letters were received there and the Belleville Intelligencer adds that no less than eighteen such gentle reminders were received in that city.

The Government saw that the people had withdrawn their confidence, with good reason, and the boodle fund, large as it may be, will not save it.

IT is said in our evening contemporary that the REVIEW filled a column to show that an insult had been offered the farmers of Smith. Not at all; we gave quotations from the Independent and the Examiner to show that. They were pointed enough without being a column long, and we defy proof that the quotations were not correctly made. It does not require argument to show that such epithets as "antideluvian fossils" and references to "ears and nothing but ears" are insults. The Examiner had surely done enough to aggravate the insults without attempting a defence of them.

THE REVIEW is asked to give a fair contrast of the bills of Mr. Meredith and Mr. Ross regarding Separate school supporters. That is just what we did, for we clearly outlined the effect of the first two sections of Mr. Ross' bill and quoted in full the two sections bearing on the point at issue. On the other hand our contemporary did not give Mr. Meredith's bill at all and grossly misrepresented it. Our arguments were backed by proof, which was laid before the public so that everyone could judge for himself, and the proof was clear.

THE Examiner quotes Rev. Principal Caven as having said that the defeat of the Mowat Government would be a calamity. The Globe also once said that Sir Richard Cartwright was a "mixer and muddler" of figures, and many who are now opposing the Government candidates formerly supported them. Don't quote ancient history.

"WHOM the gods would destroy they first make mad." The Examiner is already shouting "fool" and "fools."

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

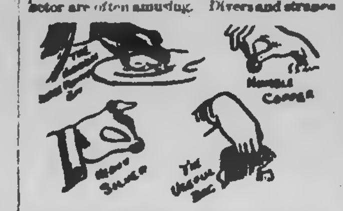
CHURCH COLLECTIONS.

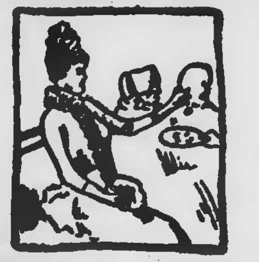
CHARACTER IN OCCUPANTS OF PEWS AS THE PLATE IS PASSED.

The Man Who Drops in a Piece That Falls with a Thud—The Threepenny Piece the Popular One in England.

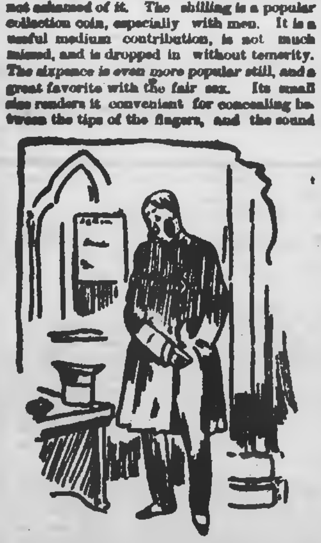
Among some of the curious characteristic actions by which people may betray their peculiarities to the close observer is the manner which many have of contributing to a collection, and the experiences of some who have long officiated in the capacity of collector are often amusing. Divers and strange also are the different forms of receptacles adopted by church authorities for the necessary and charitable purpose. They vary from the metal plate, beloved of Nonconformity, and which, we are told, stands unrivaled as an incentive to deposit a large coin, for obvious reasons, to the more accommodating velvet bag of varied shape and size.



As usual, in places where no change is given, people as a rule go prepared to give a coin of a certain value. The individuals who give half-sovereigns, and they are rare, usually hold the coin carefully between the finger and thumb, probably to convince those round about that it is not a sixpence. Those who contribute half-crowns, and this is far from being a popular coin, generally drop it into the bag, where it falls with a heavy thud. They have a self-complacent look, as much as to say they have done their share, and are not ashamed of it. The shilling is a popular collection coin, especially with men. It is a useful medium contribution, is not much missed, and is dropped in without temerity. The sixpence is even more popular still, and a great favorite with the fair sex. Its small size renders it convenient for concealing between the tips of the fingers, and the sound as it falls can never be mistaken for a copper. More than once in the hurried search for a small coin, when the bag approaches, a half sovereign has been dropped in by mistake for sixpence, which is afterwards discovered to the dismay and chagrin of the giver, and the collection for the worn-out "curates' fund" increased by an involuntary nine and sixpence.



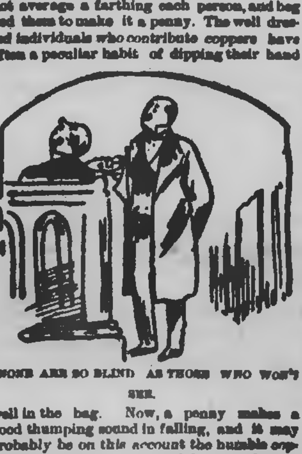
SELF-SATISFIED DROP BY THE HALF-CROWN.



SEARCHING FOR THE LAST NICKEL.

But, above all, the threepenny piece stands pre-eminent as a collection coin and it is open to doubt whether collections generally would benefit or suffer by the abolition of this diminutive but useful coin. It is said to form part of fully half the average collection, and might have been specially designed for that purpose, so easily may it be hidden between the finger and thumb of the giver, and gently deposited in the bag or box. One drawback is the fact that it rarely makes any sound in dropping into the bag, which causes the contributor to be somewhat doubtful at times if it has gone in at all. But far be it from the collector to despise the "nimble threepenny bit."

Then we come to the bronze. It would be a matter of astonishment to some to know the large number of pence and halfpence that are given to collections. They are heavy, and take up much room. Even farthings are sometimes found in the collection bag of so-called fashionable churches. A well-known divine of a West-End church, which is usually crowded, some time ago informed his congregation that their weekly offering did not average a farthing each person, and begged them to make it a penny. The well dressed individuals who contribute coppers have often a peculiar habit of dipping their hand well in the bag. Now, a penny makes a good thumping sound in falling, and it may probably be on this account the humble copper is so carefully concealed by the fingers, and with a gentle, gliding motion is deposited in the receptacle. Among other curiosities of the collection bag three-halfpenny pieces, foreign coins, and brass buttons are not unknown, and occasionally articles of jewelry have been found after an exceptionally exciting exhortation. Finally, we come to those people who do not give anything, and sometimes puzzle the collector. They are either deeply absorbed in some distant object in the opposite direction, or engaged in a careful examination of the roof of the building, or may be singing vigorously, and apparently utterly oblivious of the fact that the bag waits under their nose. Others shrink up into a corner of the pew, and from a gentle depreciating glance or shake of the head the collector knows to pass on. The nervous man is always in a flurry, and begins to get his coin ready early. He first places it in his waistcoat pocket as a convenient situation; then he'll presently feel to make sure it is there, and eventually, thinking he might perchance be unable to find it in time, holds it consciously in one hand, his book in the other, and probably with the laudable intention of carrying out the scriptural precept of "Letting not his right hand know what his left hand doeth," blindly dives about for the entrance to the bag. The ostentatious and vulgar person first rattles his money in his pocket, or takes out his purse, and carefully placing the coin betwixt finger and thumb, drops it in from a lofty attitude. To study some eccentricities of collection-making, a visit should be made to some Nonconformist chapel in a small town on the occasion of a great anniversary. As a rule large flat metal plates are brought out, specially for the occasion, so that the meanest may be ashamed of giving a copper. The individual to whom the plate is intrusted has agreed to give a certain amount, perhaps a bank-note, which is laid out on the plate to start with. Then the stout gentleman in the next pew, responding to nudges from his much-bedecked spouse, not to be outdone by his neighbor, deposits six greasy sovereigns on the note, which causes quite a flutter of excitement; and so on, till at the close the reverend gentleman is enabled to announce a gratifying increase to the funds. Such are a few of the peculiarities of collection contributors, which may not be infrequently noticed by any careful student of human nature.—Pall Mall Gazette.



NONE ARE SO BLIND AS THOSE WHO WON'T SEE.

A Pennsylvania Little Machine.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 4.—For several days past rumors have been floating about that the Montgomery National Bank had been affected by the collapse of the Bank of America. Last night it was announced that William F. Slingluff, cashier of the bank and treasurer of the Montgomery Trust Company, a concern organised within the bank, had resigned both positions and a judgment for $16,000 had been entered up against him. He has assigned his personal property to the trust company. It is said by one of the trust company officials that the impairment of its assets was due altogether to the fact that Mr. Slingluff made unauthorised loans.

A director of the trust company says its loss will not exceed $35,000 but others declare it will be much greater. It is not believed the bank will suffer to any great extent. Its capital stock is $100,000 and the surplus $300,000.

The Troubles of a Farmer's Daughter.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., May 4.—Lizzie Nelson, a farmer's daughter aged 17, of Otto Creek, Dunn Co., was engaged to be married to Ole Anderson. Her father favored the match, but one of Lizzie's brothers and an accomplice kidnapped her at dawn Thursday as she went out to milk the cows. They placed her in a wagon and drove to this city and are holding her a prisoner. Her lover has arrived in pursuit and has secured a writ of habeas corpus from a court commissioner. Lizzie's father is on the road and there will be a wedding to-day. It is supposed the kidnapping was in the interest of another suitor for Lizzie's hand.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

WINCHESTER, Pa., May 4.—John Fitzpatrick to-day placed his two children and his two nieces in a carriage to take them to Oakland Cemetery to see the grave of his daughter. Before he could get in Willie, his 8-year-old son, struck the horse with the whip and it ran away. Fitzpatrick caught a wheel of the carriage and was dragged 200 yards. All the children were thrown out upon a pile of stones. Willie was instantly killed; Clara, aged 6, had her skull fractured and will die. The other two children are probably fatally injured.

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which, if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

A DAY OF GOOD TIDINGS.

Foreign Mission Sunday at the Baptist Church—Sermons by Rev. Dr. McLaurin.

Yesterday was missionary Sunday in the Baptist Church, and appropriate missionary sermons were delivered by Rev. Dr. McLaurin, who occupied the sacred desk both morning and evening. The rev. gentleman, who has lately been appointed Secretary of Baptist Foreign Missions, has labored for years in the mission field in India among the Telegus, and he is therefore enabled to make his discourses interesting by relating and picturing the condition and life of these benighted people among whom the church is desirous of sending some eighteen additional missionary workers.

THE DAY OF GOOD TIDINGS.

Yesterday morning a good congregation listened to the interesting and earnest sermon of the missionary laborer. He chose for the basis of his discourse the words:—

> "Then they said one to another, we do not well, this day is a day of good tidings and we hold our peace; if we tarry till the morning light some mischief will come upon us, now therefore come that we may go and tell the King's household."—II Kings, vii. 9.

The rev. gentleman said he did not mean to take this in the ordinary sense as a text, but he would like to have each regenerated soul keep asking himself and herself if this was true about them and if so to what extent. This was a day of good tidings and they held their peace. Was this true of any of them, or of the Christian church? He spoke of the circumstances under which the text was intended, and said the points he wanted to make were these:—Looking abroad upon the world, God's broad harvest field, they saw thousands and millions of men dying without the bread of life. There was no doubt of this. Looking into their hearts and upon this broad continent and Europe they saw also that the supply was bountiful. Lastly they were the means by which God's Word was to be sent to the heathen. He then spoke of the millions in different countries who were dying beyond the reach of the Gospel, and said he would like to bring before their minds a more definite picture of the need. There was very little use in generalizing, touching here and touching there in the great missionary field, for they only became amazed and felt they were working in vain. Out in the land where he had been laboring there were the Telegus. There were 13,000 of these people, only five per cent of whom could read. He had not time to talk about their religions and superstitions, but he wished them to get a picture of the class from whom most of these converts came. He wanted them to understand the ignorance and depth of sin of these people, and then they might partly realize for them in restraining them. No man here could realize one-tenth of the good that the Word of God had accomplished. The rev. gentleman then proceeded to paint a picture of one of the native villages, showing the dirt and filth in which these natives lived. The children never were washed or combed, the husband and wife were densely ignorant, many of them had not been ten miles from their native town. They had religion, plenty of it, and he went on to tell of their benighted religious ceremonies and beliefs. What struck new comers to India was the fearful number of people out there. These men were not Anglo Saxons either and they did not suppose that they could reach every one of these millions, but they could guide the native teachers and preachers. The missionary had to strengthen them here and strengthen them there, speak where they were weak and mould them. Yet they were only asking one missionary for every fifty thousand of these people. He thought if they would go about this business in a human like manner, take one hour for thinking this thing over, they would come to the conclusion that they had a bountiful supply here at home. Christ had told somebody to preach the gospel to every creature. Who, he asked, were commissioned to preached the Gospel to every creature? "You and I," said the preacher. The question was could they afford to send eighteen men out to preach in the Telegu country. It was his conviction that they could not afford not to do it, for they were losing in spiritual strength by not doing so.

WHAT THE WORD OF GOD HAD DONE

WERE THERE NOT MEN ENOUGH?

Some said they could not spare the men. He asked if they could not in Peterborough spare one half of these eighteen young men and women and God would bless them in consequence. Regarding the money side of the question he said they knew there was money enough wasting in the pockets of God's people to send out these missionaries and a spiritual awakening would bring this to the work. In conclusion he spoke of their responsibility, impressing upon them their duty in sending the Gospel to the ends of the earth. All the blood that had been shed, all the souls that had been lost would be required at somebody's hand and the question was "Are my skirts clean." They were responsible to God for all they could do and he closed by telling them to give what they could if it was only one cent and the Lord would multiply it and it would do much good in the mission field.

The First of the Season.

On Saturday next the first cricket match of the season will be played, when a scratch game will be arranged probably between the first eleven and the pro. and all-comers. All members of the club desirous of playing in this match should send their names at once to Mr. Sam Ray, secretary of the club.

Arranging for Catering.

A Toronto hotel man was in town on saturday arranging for the supplies for the Queen's Own Rifles during their visit here. He gave the contract for the supply of meat, bread, etc., and stated that Peterborough could expect an immense crowd of visitors along with the the six hundred or more soldiers on the 24th.

Among the Churches.

The anniversary services in connection with St. Paul's church will be held on Sunday next. Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston, will preach both morning and evening.

The Charlotte-st. church Sunday school will commerate its anniversary by special services on Sunday next. Chaplin Searles will conduct the services.

The special musical service at George-st. church last evening was excellent and was listened to by a large congregation.

On Wednesday afternoon next a meeting will be held in the Baptist church for the ladies of the different Missionary Societies in town and any other ladies who may be interested. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. Dr. McLaurin and Mrs. Lillie, Secretary of the Ladies Home Mission Society, Toronto. At six o'clock tea will be served in the basement of the church and in the evening a public meeting will be held in the church.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Swept the Field.

It is pleasant to see political differences at times laid aside and a union formed on a good basis. Such a case has occurred here Conservatives, Liberals and Equal Righters unite in polling an unanimous vote that for strength, flavor and cheapness Bawley bros.' teas are unparalleled. You will consult your own interests by purchasing at the great tea house. d16tf

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Mr. Fred. Saunders gave a thoughtful address at the young men's meeting Saturday evening. The attendance was good, the orchestra rendered good service in the singing.

Mr. Arthur Burch led the Conservative meeting Lord's Day morning. All present received a blessing.

The General Secretary gave a short talk at the personal purity meeting yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Mr. McLaurin, returned missionary from India, gave an earnest and impressive address at the gospel and song service last evening. The attendance was good and know good results will follow. Rev. Mr. Parker also spoke.

Monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Tuesday afternoon at 4 p. m. Bible training class Tuesday evening at 7.30.

Board of Directors meet Tuesday evening, full attendance requested.

A Small Smash-Up.

A smash-up occurred on the Grand Junction early this morning, which fortunately did not result in any injury to life or limb and not any great damage to property. It seems that a freight train in charge of Conductor Johns and pulled by engine 179, of which J. McArthur is driver, left here at 4.50 bound for the east. The sixteen cars, of which the train was made up, were loaded with corn. When the train crossed the locks bridge and struck the up grade on the other side she got stuck. Two or three attempts were made to work her up grade without avail and finally Driver McArthur backed up to get a good start to carry his train over the incline. While this delay had taken place, precious moments had been lost and at 5.14 another cornladen freight train in charge of Conductor Jobbit and drawn by engine 621 left the station here also bound eastward. Louis McGreggor was driving 621 and, thinking that the preceding freight was almost to Keene, a collision was as far from his mind as a murder. It was foggy and as his train was moving slowly after crossing the bridge he came suddenly upon the delayed freight at the up grade and crashed into it. The collision was a severe one, and had the train been running at good speed the damage would have been very serious. As it was the van of the first train was badly demolished with a couple of the cars and the crown sheet of McGreggor's engine was smashed in and the head light broken. The bulk heads of several of the cars in his train were also demolished and corn was spilled all along the line. Conductor Johns, however, managed to continue his journey, but Conductor Jobbit backed into the station with his disabled engine and delapidated cars. It was a fortunate thing that the smash-up did not result more seriously. No one can be blamed particularly, unless it is the train men on the first train who should have sent a flag man back to flag any following trains. It was not thought, however, that the delay would be anything lengthy or this would have been done.

The value of a remedy should be estimated by its curative properties. According to this standard, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and most economical blood medicine in the market, because the most pure and concentrated. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

The Coming Holiday.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I was more than pleased to see a letter from a clerk in your edition of Friday in reference to the selfish action on the part of some of the merchants of our town requesting the stores to be kept open on Saturday, the 24th of May, a day appointed by our Government as a public holiday.

Now, sir, in the first place I question the legality of such a proceeding and would like to hear our Town Solicitor's opinion on the subject.

In the next place it appears to me a very selfish motive on the part of those merchants who signed the petition for the opening of the stores on the 24th, thereby compelling the employees to be at their posts on that day, regardless of any inconvenience it may cause the clerks who would like to share in the day's enjoyment. Many of us will have friends from a distance on that day and if we are expected to be at work how will it be possible for us to entertain them when we will be behind the counter till 11 o'clock p. m. or past? I certainly think "Clerk" was right when he says there will be very little business done on that day.

People who come here on an occasion of that sort do not come here (especially from a city like Toronto) to buy dry goods or groceries. As far as the local trade is concerned if the farmers cannot get their goods one day they can get them the next. It is a mere fallacy on the part of the merchants if they think they will lose anything by closing. Of what use would the following Monday as a holiday be to the young men of Peterborough? All they could do would be to walk up and down the street sucking their thumbs or loafing around the street corners, as there would be no amusements going on that day.

I understand a grant of some $450 or $500 is to be asked of the Council to entertain the Queen's Own. Now, is it fair that I, as a ratepayer, along with others, should pay our share to that grant and yet be debarred from receiving some of the pleasure. I certainly think "Clerk" is right when he speaks of our own 57th battalion being principally comprised of clerks and should each volunteer leave his work in the store on that day it will throw so much more on the clerks who are left behind, and as some of our merchants think they are going to be so busy on that day I think it would be a great injustice to those so left.

Should the stores remain open I am thinking the Queen's Own will go back to Toronto with a very poor op'nion of Peterborough's merchants. Let the stores all be closed and give the City Battalion a right loyal welcome when perhaps they may be induced to come here in some future time. I see by the list of merchants who have signed this petition that it is not a fair representative list of the merchants, as there are names on that list who are not merchants at all. And there are several merchants who have not been canvassed at all and to their credit are strongly opposed to it. I would like to see some person more able than I am myself to get up a counter petition and find out the feelings of the employees as well as the merchants.

Let the merchants take more interest in their employees and I rather think the employees would reciprocate. Apologising for trespassing on your valuable space,

Yours truly,

ONE OF THE 57TH.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the Remedy for you. Sold by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist Peterborough.

The Contest.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I hope you will allow a good old Tory sufficient space in your paper to ventilate his views and to ask some questions. In the first place I wish to say that I think that "half a loaf is better than none" and that "if there is a choice between two evils choose the lesser." For both of those reasons I am in favor of allowing the present fight to be decided between the candidates who are now before the people in East and West Peterborough. To put up a Conservative candidate in West Peterborough would simply mean to be beaten, and as the Equal Rights candidate will have to vote for Meredith on a large number of questions (their platforms being very similar on some of them), why not turn in and help him? The same thing can be said of the candidate in the East.

So much for my views. Now for Mr. Stratton.

Mr. S. asks for support on his past record—the principal thing was a slavish support of Mr. Mowat. Let me give him credit for one thing—he has done a lot of work for the back part of the country; but he must remember that he was sent to Toronto for that very purpose. He must also remember that he worked for his own interests while working for the interests of his constituents. And he must also bear in mind that he would be on the wrong side of the house (even if he were elected again) to have much influence with the in-coming administration.

Why do you, Mr. Stratton, "lay claim to being as good a Protestant as any in the community," and at the same time "traffic in your religious opinions and prostitute them to the advancement of your own ends?" Your own best friends acknowledge that you are too subservient to our Roman Catholic brethren—you will remember how you "knuckled down" to His Lordship Bishop O'Connor re the advertisement of the Separate school trustees.

Often I have read in your paper how the "great Reform party" by force made Sir John Macdonald pass this measure or that measure—you would give the Dominion Government no credit for the bills that have been made law under the auspices of the present Conservative administration—but at the same time you selfishly want to claim all the credit for the bills passed by the Mowat Government. This is all the worse when you know that some of the acts to favor what you call the working classes were introduced by Mr. Meredith one session, and voted down, and then the very next session would be introduced and carried by the Government.

What do you mean by giving an "Independent" support to the Mowat Government? Did you ever vote against a Government measure?

You give all the credit to the present Government for the erection and maintenance of charitable and various other governmental institutions. You are not too young to remember that the large majority of those institutions were begun by the Sandfield Macdonald Government.

You claim that "the Mowat Government has dealt liberally with the municipalities." The larger part of the money they expend is given them by the Dominion Government, but you would not be honest enough to give them any credit. Another large part is taken from the municipalities in the shape of licenses, and Mowat is grabbing something more every year.

Now, Mr. Stratton, you saw a copy of a circular sent out by Mr. Preston asking for a balance of $66 from a Grit official in Ottawa. In the first place, don't you think it a strange thing that Preston should start to collect money 3 years before it was needed? In the second place, do you, as a practical printer, believe what the Globe said—that there were only four such circulars printed? You know that people never get four copies of a circular printed; so that I hope you will agree with me in saying that the assertion was only another of the Globe's lies.

You are also a practical bookseller and should know that it was a gross imposition on the parents of this province when G. W. Ross allowed a publishing house to charge 10 cents for a drawing book worth 5. The mere fact of their having reduced the price 40 per cent. is evidence that the former charge was extortionate. But there are other school books that are too high in price. There are hundreds of thousands of copy books sold in Ontario every year and the price, 10 cents, is just double what it ought to be.

Can you tell us how the school law has been changed since Mowat went into power? Formerly every man was considered a supporter of the state schools unless he asked to be put down as a Separate school supporter. Now the very opposite to that is the case. Who changed the law?

Why should not the Roman Catholics have the ballot in their school elections? Can't they read? At all events, you can give us your reason for voting against giving them that right.

Do you honestly believe that the ballot is secret? If it is not, why did you vote that it should remain a non-secret ballot?

One more question and I am done. If you have so much influence with the Ontario Government as you pretend why do you not try and get them to put the administration of the license law outside of partisanship? It is because you expect to benefit by using the licenses as a lever to make votes? You know that if every license holder in West Peterborough had been allowed to vote as he wished in 1886 you would never have been in the legislature. Don't you think that that is a very dishonorable position in which to place yourself? Sixteen hotel keepers votes would have change the result and you would have left at home.

Yours,

MONDAY, MAY 5, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"Oh, my girl! my girl! Our life promised so happily! To what misery have we been brought! It does not seem as if it could be so, does it? And I have added so much to your suffering and my own by my criminal stupidity. But if you knew what I have endured—what nights of terrible sleeplessness, what days of dread and almost madness, I think you might find it in your heart to forgive. I suppose I can never seem just the same to you—you will not trust me as you did your old lover, whose devotion was unstained with treachery or distrust—but give me something, some poor shadow of the old love. Mind, I do not expect too much. A little will content me till I have earned the right to ask for more. It seems to me that I know the awful anxiety of those who stand outside the door of Heaven and wait to hear their sentence. What shall it be Margaret? May I still think of you as my love—my own—why should I try to say in these hackneyed words that the most shallow lovers use, what only my eyes could tell you? Why must the most divine passion be expressed in these cheap and common words? It makes one feel like a charlatan or a clown. Words are very coarse. Language is a poor invention after all. I am burning with a celestial fire and I write like a cabman. I send you, my dear, a kiss. It may have the chill of death on it, for it may yet come that I shall have to die. Think of me so and pray for me. It is true I might be saved, but the price is too great. And yet—there are other things that I cannot tell you. Go from home at once and until you go guard yourself day and night. Take none—none—in your confidence. Farewell. Oh! that this world were big enough to let us love each other somewhere in peace. Time is so cold, we are so small and unimportant! Why should we be interfered with? Would it make any difference in the economy of the world if we were happy? I am incoherent, but I cannot see why fate should trouble herself with us.

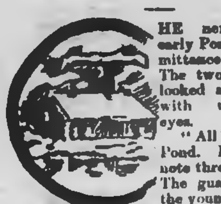
"Farewell, again,

"Your repentant

"HARRY—your lover."

"Great God," sighed Margaret, remembering nothing but the love in what she had read, "how different your sunshine can be made to look in one little minute!"

CHAPTER XIII.



HE next morning early Pond sought admittance to Harry. The two young men looked at each other with understanding eyes.

"All is well," said Pond. He handed a note through the bars. The guard looked at the young man inquiringly, but he accepted Pond's wink as a guarantee of good faith and said nothing.

"Thank God," cried Harry, "she is going away, Pond. You will see that she goes quickly."

"I'll do what I can, my boy. I wonder if she is going to take the little red-headed girl with her? That little girl is a brick, sir. She came up to the office this morning looking as cheerful as a woodpecker. She was all done up in furs and was more like a small princess than a maid. Not a word could I get out of her. Would she sit down? No, she would not. Would she take the elevator? No, she preferred the stairs. She would do nothing but blush, apparently, and that she did like an angel. 'Miss Barthwait sent her sincere thanks,' and she must be going, and she went. I heard her little shoes clanking on the iron stairs as she went down. Why she refused to wait for the elevator I can't imagine."

It was Pond's way to keep up a great chatter when he came to see Harry, and he was not very particular what he was about.

"Even a man on the verge of the grave likes to be amused," reasoned Pond to himself, "and if one must die, it had better be by the rope than with ennui." And so he rattled on to Harry like a school boy.

"You are in love with the red headed girl," said Harry, smiling at him wanly. He expressed a gay retort, but it did not come. Instead, Pond's face took on a look of pain that Harry had never seen it wear before.

"I wish I were, Leiter. I wish I knew how to make it so, but I fear I do not."

"I beg your pardon, old fellow," Harry cried, thrusting out his hand, "I never dreamed that I could hurt you."

"Well, you see, Leiter," Pond replied, managing to get a sort of misfit smile on his face, "I have a sore spot, and it is easily hurt. I'm in love with a woman who will never love me—one I have no right to think of. It doesn't matter much, and I know it will come out all right, but it makes me kind of blue, sometimes."

"Yes," said Harry, with a sad little look of quizicality, "I have heard of such things making one blue. I am a very fortunate person myself."

"I am glad you think so," responded Pond dryly.

"I mean in having such ready forgiveness. She forgives me fully, she says. Only fancy, she was never angry. It never occurred to her innocent heart to imagine that I could doubt her. She thought my troubles had unsettled my brain. See the pathos of it, will you! She would sooner believe that I had lost my reason than that I could be false to my word!"

"If she leaves the city, where will she go?"

"She does not yet know. Somewhere away from all the people she knows. She says she wishes to be solitary."

"No, no! Leiter! It must not be that! Do you not see the danger of it! Oh! what shall we do with her? Where can we put her and be sure that she is safe?"

"I shall go mad some day," moaned Harry, sitting down weakly in a chair, and leaning his head against the wall. "So terrible is the thing you told me the other day that my understanding actually refuses to accept it. I remember what you said, but I cannot grasp the fact of it. Your words have brought it all back to me. Can you tell me what to do? I am like a child in the dark. I can do nothing but cry out."

"Leave it to me, old fellow. I swear that I will do all that you could do if you were free. An idea has come into my head now. By Jove! now I come to think of it, it is an idea, indeed, and one that will set all our doubts at rest. I am going. Do not speak to me—do not ask me a word. I will tell you all another time. Now I must reach Miss Barthwait before it is too late." So Harry was left to pace the floor for another day.

Two days later those inquisitive souls who are in the habit of studying windows as they pass noticed that several of the pleasantest windows in Judge Barthwait's house were dismantled. Only the grey linen shades remained in the place of the bright draperies they had been used to seeing, and the window boxes had been quite removed. The explanation was that Margaret had gone from home for several weeks and had taken her little damsel with her.

To all inquiries about his daughter the judge replied:

"She is like her father—fond of experiments. At present she is trying the experiment of solitude. I have a shooting box out here about fifty miles. It's as neat a place for snipe and ducks as you can find in the State. I keep a man and his wife down there in the winter time to look after things, and Margaret took it into her head that she would sleep better for a change of air, and that the shooting box would be a good place to get it in. I think myself that she will get more air there than she bargained for. But she has taken a box of new books along, and has a jolly little girl with her—a sort of paid friend, you might say—and I have no doubt they will do some amateur cooking and come back with the indigestion."

"You'd better take a vacation yourself and go down and see her," his friends would suggest, noticing the worn look on his face.

"Well, I'm not so enthusiastic as my daughter," the judge would reply. "She thinks the country is as beautiful in winter as in summer and professes to derive as much delight from it. I have got sadly by the sentimental age, and a great misfortune I count it that I have. One loses a deal of pleasure with the decay of the romantic period. But Margaret will be happy down there in these snow-covered marshes. They are noted for their fiery sunsets, and the bushes will be splendid with the hoar-frost on them. There is a fire-place inside as big as the side of a house, and Margaret is reading Russian books, like every one else now. She has become a disciple of Tolstoi. Talk about going down—maybe I will, unexpectedly some time, unexpectedly. There are plenty of bedrooms. The one she sleeps in is a little apart from the rest. It's a snug place, and nothing can disturb her there—nothing."

A Fatal Hurricane in Texas.

WILLSPOINT, Tex., May 4.—A hurricane struck here yesterday and every house in town is more or less damaged. Two persons were killed outright and several injured. The killed are:

Mrs. Bowen, caught under a falling wall and crushed to death.

The 14-year-old daughter of Tom. Mitchells (colored).

A Modern Instance.

"Come, General," said Miss Rosebud, "tell us the story of your achievements in the field. I do so love to hear you talk of yourself."

"And my reward?" asked the veteran.

"A kiss," returned the girl.

"Well," ejaculated the green eyed civilian, who was calling, "that is a case of giving a kiss for a blow."—Puck.

"AGE CANNOT WITHER HER," remarked an old gentleman, as he gazed fondly upon the comely little woman by his side; "but frankly," he continued, "at one time I was afraid cosmetics would. The silly little woman, in order to appear youthful, plastered her face with different varieties of whitewash, yclept 'balms,' 'creams,' 'lotions,' etc." "Yes," interrupted the little woman, "I did, until my skin became like parchment and so pimply and coarse." "Well," said the listener, "What do you use now?" "Use," was the reply, "nothing but common sense and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Common sense told me that if my blood was pure, liver active, appetite and digestion good, that the outward woman would take on the hue of health. The 'Discovery' did all those things and actually rejuvenated me." If you would possess a clear, beautiful complexion, free from blotches, pimples, eruptions, yellow spots and roughness, use the "Golden Medical Discovery." It is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

A RECEPTION TO STANLEY.

Portugal to Arbitrate the Delagoa Bay Question.

LONDON, May 5.—Stanley was given a grand reception to-night by the Geographical Society. The Prince of Wales and many other notables were present. Stanley made a speech and was enthusiastically applauded.

Accepted Arbitration.

LONDON, May 6.—The Herald says Portugal accepts without reserve the proposition to submit the Delagoa question to arbitration.

Rifle Contest at Rome.

ROME, May 5.—The International rifle contest was opened here to-day. King Humbert, Queen Magherita and all the members of the Italian Cabinet were present. The Italian provinces are represented by 20,000 riflemen. The King fired the first five shots.

A Letter from Dr. Peters.

BERLIN, May 5.—The Emin Relief Committee has received a letter from Dr. Peters in which he says he ascended the Tana River and camped from Nov. 16 to Nov. 26 in the Mamoni Mountains. He attempted to bridge the Tana but failed, and traversed the right bank to Kikuju through Leikapia and thence to Lake Maringo. Dr. Peters and his party had frequent engagements with the natives and defeated them. They reached Mjemps Jan. 7 and started for Victoria Nyanza Jan. 13. The caravan comprised Dr. Peters, Lieut. Tiedeman, 30 porters, 10 soldiers, 3 camel drivers, 2 kitchen boys, 3 servants, 2 camels, 6 donkeys and 315 sheep.

Entered Germany's Service.

BERLIN, May 5.—Capt. Casati, the African explorer, has entered the German service.

Premier Crispi Resigns.

ROME, May 5.—The Senate to-day in the debate on the Charities Bill rejected the clause providing for church expenses. Premier Crispi thereupon declared he would resign in order to decide the question of dissolution of the cabinet or its reconstruction under Signor Saracco. His announcement caused great excitement.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

TORONTO, May 6.—Eggs are scarce and prices ½c higher, ruling at 11c. Butter receipts are large and prices rule at 13c and 14c. Cars of baled hay on track $1.50 for No. 1 timothy and $6.50 to $8 for mixed. Potatoes quiet and steady, cars on track 55c and small lots 65c.

BREADSTUFFS.

Flour—Millers are firm in asking high prices, which buyers are loath to pay and consequently trade is not brisk. Straight rollers are held at $4.70; spring patents, $5.05; fall patents $5.70; bakers', $5.50; pastry, $5.25; family, $6.

Wheat—The market is very strong and holders are firm at Saturday's advance, asking $1.05 for No. 2 red and white f.o.b. No. 1 white is held at $1.03 on the Midland and No. 2 spring at the same.

Barley—There is little to offer and trade is practically over for the season.

Oats—Seem to be slightly easier, though no noticeable decline in price is to be reported. Holders are offering 37c and 38c here for mixed.

Peas—Quiet, with only a moderate enquiry. Prices unchanged, at 56c and 57c outside.

Bran—The market is weak, with offerings free at $11.50, Toronto freights. Small lots $12 and $12.50 at the mills.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat, strong; corn, steady. Cargoes on passage—Wheat rising; corn, quiet but steady. Mark Lane—Wheat, strong; corn, quiet; flour, strong; spot good No. 2 Club California wheat, 36s, was 35s 6d, present or following month, 34s, was 33s 9d; do mixed American corn, 17s 3d, was 17s 9d; straight Minnesota flour, 25s, was 24s 9d; Cal. wheat off coast, 36s and 36s 3d, was 35s 9d and 36s; do mixed American corn, prompt steamer, 17s 6d and 17s 9d, was 17s 9d. London—Good shipping No. 1 Cal. wheat, prompt sail, 36s, was 35s 9d; do nearly due, 36s was 36s. French country markets generally dearer. Weather in England showery. Liverpool—Spot wheat, strong; corn, firm.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Buffalo reports: 1800 boxes of cheese sold at the Stafford House Monday at 9c. The sales included 700 each of Cloverfield and Marshfield and 400 boxes of Springfield.

Utica reports: Under the influence of the re-action in New York last week there was a decided decline in prices. Monday's salesmen who easily succeeded in obtaining 10 cents last week had difficulty in getting above 9 cents. The opinion seemed to prevail that the market had been overdone. Buyers who have been caught were inclined to be cautious as a rule. However, new cheese was held back. The ruling price was established at 9c., ⅝c. below what it was last Monday.

A Gotham Stock Broker Missing.

NEW YORK, May 5—W. Quinlan of the Stock Exchange is missing. There were about 10,000 shares of stock bought in for his account under the rule. About 4000 of these shares were Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. Mr. Quinlan's family believe his disappearance is due to mental derangement. It is said Quinlan has been short of the market during the entire recent rise. He has not been seen since Friday.

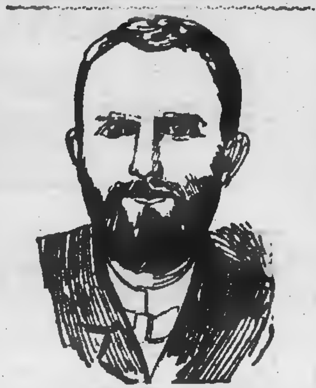
THE MURDER OF MR. LARGE

A COMPLETE ACCOUNT OF THE TOKYO TRAGEDY.

Butchered by Burglars—The Missionary's Faithful Wife Badly Wounded—A Watchman Bound Hand and Foot—The Terrible Japanese Swords.

TORONTO, May 6.—The Japan Daily Mail (published at Yokohama) of April 7 received to-day gives the first complete account of the murder of Rev. T. A. Large, the Canadian missionary. The Mail says:

A terrible tragedy occurred in Tokyo on Friday night resulting in the death of the Rev. T. A. Large and the severe wounding of his wife. Mr. Large belonged to the Methodist mission of Canada, and at the time of his death was acting as assistant instructor in divinity at the large school, the Toyo Eiwa Gakka, established by that mission at Torilzaka, Azabu, Tokyo. Mrs. Large is lady principal of the girls' school, which forms part of the same institution. The deceased gentleman lived with his wife in a portion of the building used for the girls' school. They had been away at Miyanoshita for the Easter recess and had returned on Friday, a day earlier than that originally intended. Tired by the long journey they retired to bed at about 10 o'clock. The custom at the school is to have the circuit of the premises made once every hour by a watchman. The man went his rounds shortly after 11 and had retired to his room when, a few minutes later, two men made their appearance. Both had their faces covered and the skirts of their Japanese robes tucked under their girdles. They wore tight trousers, after the fashion of the lower orders, had Japanese socks on their feet and were judged to be youths, the elder some 27 or 28 years old and the other three or four years younger. Making their way to the watchman's room, they seized him, bound him hand and foot, and required him to indicate the whereabouts of the money box. The man directed them to the place where the safe was kept, but they appear to have known that without the keys it would be impossible to possess themselves of the contents, for, without going to the safe, they asked the watchman where the keys were, and learning that they were in the lady principal's room desired to be conducted there.



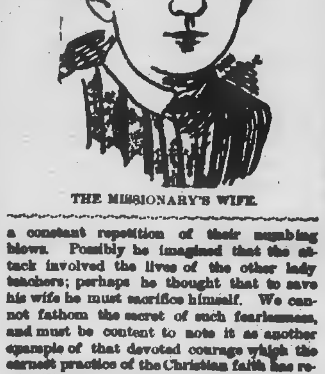
THE MURDERED MISSIONARY.

This part of the story is a little indistinct. Whether the watchman's feet were unbound to enable him to act as guide, and if so, why he subsequently failed to give any alarm, are points not yet elucidated, the man having been promptly arrested and kept in close custody by the police, who naturally take care that none of the details of his evidence shall be prematurely divulged. What is certain is that the two men, led or directed by the servant, made their way to the room where Mr. and Mrs. Large were sleeping and entered it. The room is upstairs. It lies at one end of a corridor only 3½ feet wide. There are two means of access to this corridor. One is by the front stairs, which ascend parallel to the corridor, the continuation of their balustrade becoming its boundary on the side opposite the sleeping rooms; the other is by the back stairs, which form the continuation of the corridor. Climbing the latter stairs the burglars walked along the corridor, passing the doors of rooms in which two of the lady teachers, the Misses Hart, were sleeping, and entered the chamber of Mr. and Mrs. Large. With what definite purpose they went there cannot be known until they are arrested. They may have supposed it possible to obtain the keys of the safe without disturbing the sleepers; they may have resolved to possess themselves of the keys at any cost. At all events their movements were not so guarded that they failed to rouse Mrs. Large. Sitting up in bed but not having any distinct consciousness of what was going on about her, she found herself putting the query "nan deska" (what is it). A reply came, "yoji-ga-aru" (we have business), in a voice which seemed familiar but which the lady could not identify. In the narrow passage a lighted kerosene lamp hung at a height of about five feet from the ground. The burglars, having left the door of the room open as they entered, the light of this lamp rendered everything quite distinct.

Mrs. Large could see that there were two strangers in the room; that they were of medium height; that they wore clothes resembling those of common laborers and that they carried in their hands weapons which to her seemed like long bamboos with sharpened points, but which beyond question were swords. Japanese do not usually carry naked swords in their hands unless they mean to use them. The inference to be apparently drawn from this part of the story is that the burglars either intended to intimidate Mr. and Mrs. Large and to obtain the keys of the safe without bloodshed, or that they were actuated from the first by a murderous purpose, a hypothesis inconsistent not only with all reasonable probability but also with the subsequent events of the tragedy. Scarcely had Mrs. Large's question been put and answered when Mr. Large awoke and sprang up. This apparently was the turning point of the affair. The burglars had counted on effecting their purpose by such a show of force that all resistance would have been prevented. On the contrary, they saw themselves suddenly confronted by a vigorous young man, who, despite their weapons and their superior numbers, asked no questions but proceeded to action at once. Unhesitatingly they struck at him with their swords and then made for the door. He, wounded as he doubtless was by these first blows, followed the burglars resolutely, and coming within arm's length of them at the door, was again struck. Still he pursued them and grappling with one of them in the narrow corridor had nearly succeeded in throwing him over the balustrade of the stairs, when the blows of the other burglar disabled the brave gentleman's arm.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Large had joined the struggle and endeavored to interpose her person between the burglars and her husband. She received a slash which laid open the right side of her face, and in seeking to grasp one of the assailants' weapons, the two first fingers of her right hand were almost cut off and the third finger was deeply wounded. But happily the end came too quickly for any further display of such fruitless and probably fatal courage on the lady's part. Mr. Large, though in the effort to throw one of the burglars over the balustrade he had received two wounds biting to the bone, on his left arm and a terrible gash across the back, still with dogged bravery persisted in trying to close with the burglars, who on their side, continued to cut at him while retreating. It was of course impossible that the strongest man could have long stood up against a shower of blows delivered by such weapons as Japanese swords skilfully wielded. A moment later Mr. Large fell and death came instantaneously. His slayers retreated unmolested by the way they had come. Meanwhile the noise had alarmed Miss Lizzie Hart, who slept in the adjoining chamber. Opening the door and finding herself almost in contact with two men who were slashing rapidly with swords she naturally shut herself in again. But a moment afterwards a scream from Mrs. Large made the young lady forget her fears. She felt as she stated with touching frankness at the inquest, that she "must do something," and so, helpless and unarmed, she passed from her room into the narrow passage at the very place where she had seen the flashing of naked blades. Almost simultaneously Miss Nellie Hart also came from her chamber. They found Mr. Large lying on the ground in a pool of blood and his wife standing over him. Mrs. Large, saying that her fingers were broken, begged the young ladies to raise her husband, and they, although they saw plainly that he was dead, carried him into his room and laid him on the bed. There Mrs. Large, using her left hand and careless of her own cruel wounds, washed her husband's face several times with cold water and resorted to other means of restoring him.

But the terrible truth soon forced itself upon her also, and at the same time becoming conscious that she herself was bleeding to death she sat down and asked the other ladies to apply a tourniquet to her arm, explaining to them how it should be done These incidents, related in part at the inquest, make a tale of helpful bravery which compels strong admiration. It is difficult to conceive by what motive Mr. Large himself was inspired. The dogged, unflinching, and persistent courage shown by him in returning, empty-handed, again and again to the attack of two men armed with drawn swords which they were using mercilessly, savors of recklessness. It is true, indeed, that he probably had no consciousness of the fatal injuries he was receiving. All experience goes to show that sword cuts, especially when delivered with such a keen blade as that of the Japanese, give no pain at a time of excitement and certainly convey no sensation of deadliness. But even assuming that the unfortunate gentleman mistook the steel blades as his wife had done, for sharpened bamboos, he should have hesitated to expose himself to a constant repetition of their numbing blows. Possibly he imagined that the attack involved the lives of the other lady teachers; perhaps he thought that to save his wife he must sacrifice himself. We cannot fathom the secret of such fearlessness, and must be content to note it as another example of that devoted courage which the earnest practice of the Christian faith has repeatedly been observed to inspire. As for Mrs. Large and the Misses Hart, we should like to think that there are many Englishwomen who would have behaved as they did.



THE MISSIONARY'S WIFE.

It will, perhaps, be surmised that this unprecedented act of violence should be ascribed either to anti-Christian fanaticism or to some sentiment of hatred towards Mr. or Mrs. Large. There appear to be no grounds whatever for any such conjecture. The deceased gentleman was universally beloved and his wife's long and able labors in the cause of Japanese education have awakened a wide-spread feeling of gratitude. It is plain also that the men did not originally seek to take Mr. Large's life. Their first impulse was to retreat, and had he not persisted in pursuing and attempting to grapple with them, we are justified in assuming that he would have escaped comparatively unscathed. But it became for the burglars a question either of disabling him or of being seized themselves, and most unhappily the strange tenacity of Mr. Large's courage sustained him against all disablement short of death. He cannot have been severely wounded until he pursued the intruders to the threshold of his room. The absence of blood upon the floor or walls compared with its profuse scattering over all parts of the corridor proves this. He received his serious wounds, then, because of his repeated attempts to seize the burglars, not because they had come seeking his life. Their original purpose was robbery and robbery only. Had they met with the timid obedience which is generally shown by unarmed persons in the presence of deadly weapons there would have been no killing. Evidently they knew that the house was worth robbing.

IT WAS A USELESS ORDER.

Cording and Sealing Baggage Going Through Canada Again Allowed.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 5.—The order of the Secretary of the Treasury, issued on March 25, suspending the practice of cording and sealing of the baggage of passengers through Canada to the Pacific coast points has worked great hardships to the great Northern roads and the Manitoba and the Pacific route. It has been found that the order, which was orginally intended to prevent opium smuggling, is practically useless, while at the same time it is a discrimination against those roads. This state of things was communicated to Secretary Windom, who last night telegraphed to Collector Edwards rescinding the order.

Fact Versus Fiction.

"Just my luck!" growled the contractor, "to run out of mortar at the last moment. Is there plenty of lime left?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boss bricklayer, with alacrity.

"Then run to the nearest grocery and bring over two barrels of sugar. It's a little cheaper than sand, but it'll have to do this time." And then the contractor glanced over the current humorous weeklies and smiled.—American Grocer.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

THE REPORT OF THE RYKERT COMMITTEE PRESENTED.

A New Election to Be Held in Lincoln at Once—The Proposed Labor Statistics Bureau—The Iron Bounty Adopted.

OTTAWA, May 5.—Mr. Rykert's resignation has not stayed the House proceedings with respect to his case. The committee's report was presented the first thing this afternoon and Mr. Blake immediately asked when Chairman Girouard proposed that it should be discussed. The chairman referred him to the Government and Sir John Macdonald said an opportunity would be afforded at an early day. The report reviews the case fully and concludes: "Summing up our view of the whole affair we are of opinion that, having regard to Mr. Rykert's conduct and representation in respect to the matter on which we have above reported, Mr. Rykert's course has been discreditable, corrupt and scandalous." The speaker has issued his warrant for a writ for the county of Lincoln, made vacant through the resignation of Mr. Rykert.

Mr. Chapleau introduced his Labor Statistics Bill, the purport of which has already been explained. The new branch of the department will be presided over by the Minister of Agriculture, who will have the title also of Commissioner of Labor Statistics. He will have an assistant commissioner. Ten thousand dollars will be asked this season to meet the expense of the new bureau.

In amendment to motion for third reading of the Seamen's Act, Mr. Wilson (Elg.) moved the insertion of a clause to provide that the right of appeal granted under the general law against summary conviction shall also apply to summary convictions under the Seamen's Act. Mr. Blake supported this amendment but Sir John Thompson pointed out that offences under the Seamen's Act had to be decided summarily or they would not be decided at all, because of the departure of witnesses. Mr. Jones (Hal.) supported the minister. The amendment was declared lost on division and the bill got its third reading.

The iron bounty resolution was adopted on division, 69 to 45.

The Senate amendments to the bill respecting bills of exchange, checks and promissory notes were taken into consideration, and after recess were concurred in.

The Banking Bill was again considered in committee and further progress reported.

Sir John Macdonald moved the House into committee on the resolution respecting the proposed contract with the Calgary & Edmonton Railway Company, which provides for payment of $80,000 a year for 20 years to the company for transport services to be rendered for the Government. The road will be 200 miles long, and there is a subsidy of 6400 acres a mile in addition to the contract stated above. For several years attempts have been made to have this road built for a subsidy of 10,000 acres a mile but without success. Now the work is to be undertaken by the same capitalists who are building the Long Lake & Qu'Appelle Railway, with which a precisely similar contract was made last year. The same company are to build a line from Calgary to the boundary line, work upon which will start simultaneously with the work on the Calgary & Edmonton Road. After a general discussion on the regulations which should govern land grants the House went into committee on the resolution. The resolution was adopted in committee and a bill founded upon it was introduced.

Mr. Blake gives notice that on an early day next session he will introduce certain measures for further securing the independence of Parliament.

Mr. Patterson (Essex) is about to move for copies of all correspondence relative to alleged improper conduct on the part of Customs Officer McLagan of Sarnia.

Mr. Scriver will enquire whether the Postmaster-General intends to stop further importation of The New York Mercury on the ground that it contains matter of an immoral character.

The House adjourned at 12¼.

MONTREAL WILL MISS HIM.

Boodle Alderman Henry L. Sayles Goes Back to New York.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Ex-Ald. Henry L. Sayles, a member of the notorious board of 1884, has returned from Montreal, where he has been sojourning since October, 1887. His brother consulted with the district attorney and agreed that his bail should be fixed at $25,000.

Sayles was indicted in October, 1886, for receiving a bribe for his vote for the Broadway Surface Road franchise in 1884.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, May 5.—The Duke and Duchess of Aberdeen will probably spend the summer at Highfield, the residence of the late Senator Turner.

An English syndicate is negotiating for the purchase of the Hamilton cotton mills.

The Depositors Lost Confidence.

NORRISTOWN, PA., May 5.—The Montgomery Insurance Trust and Safe Deposit Company suspended payment to-day on account of a heavy run on its funds. Its remittances enabled it to resume again this afternoon. The officers refuse to make a statement.

A British Steamer Lost.

BUENOS AYRES, May 5.—The British steamer Richmond has foundered near the eastern coast of the Argentine Republic.

Dress the Hair

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal toilet use. It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and, if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the

of this preparation."—Mrs. P. H. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.

TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1890.

A SUMMER RESORT THIS TIME.

Mr. Stratton's attempt to get around the difficulty he made for himself in connection with the proposed dam at Mississauga Lake is very amusing and the Examiner seems to have a mission to cover him with ridicule. Although it tries to sneer at the Review's knowledge of the geography of the locality it does not dispute anything we said regarding it, and it could not, for there are too many even in town who know the locality well.

The Examiner, however, intimates that the dam is not to be built for lumbering purposes, for it says that "there is already a dam at the outlet of 'Gull Lake' sufficient for the lumbering purposes of the district." In saying this the Examiner does a foolish thing, for it throws away the only reason for building the dam. If the work was needed for lumbering there would be those who would not object to the expenditure, but when, as the Examiner says, it is not needed for that purpose, and the reason it did give for building it is nonsense, what are the people to conclude? We were really doing Mr. Stratton a kindness in suggesting a defence he might set up for the expenditure, and in rejecting the suggestion, as he does with bitterness, he only leaves himself in a worse predicament.

The Examiner, however, gives other excuses for building the dam besides the service the steamer that is to be built will be in gathering the milk of the cows that will be owned by the farmers who will sometime settle on the shore of the lake. One is that it will be useful as a reservoir for husbanding water for the Trent Valley Canal. But does anyone for a moment believe that the Ontario Government appropriated the $5,200 for the purpose of assisting a Dominion Government work? Scarcely; not in this case.

Another excuse is that the scenery of the district is unequalled and it may "in time" become a popular summer resort. It may "in time," certainly. But if this is the reason the dam is to be built other work would be necessary first in order to make this new summer resort popular and "a great attraction to visitors from abroad." It is about a dozen miles from the waters at present navigable to Mississauga Lake, and to get up stream to it in a canoe portages aggregating several miles in length have to be made and the canoe carried that distance. We hope the locality will become a popular resort, but under the circumstances people will smile at this excuse, and it must be classed along with the one about the steamer that is to be built to gather the milk for the factory that may be put up by the farmers who will in the future settle on the lake.

A third excuse is that by building the dam now while the land is sparsely settled land damages will be avoided. Now it must be admitted that we cannot dispute the fact upon which this excuse is based. The land is sparsely settled; in fact, we believe we hinted at that before somewhat pointedly.

The Examiner further says that the Review attacked the Dickson Company. That is untrue, as everyone who read our article knows. It also says that the Review is hostile to that company, which is also untrue, for the Review has no quarrel with the company and has no prejudice against it. It still further intimates that the Review is "down on dams." We deny that. We deny it emphatically. The Review is not down on dams—except the profane kind. But supposing all this were true, it would not supply one quart of milk for that steamer that is to be built and the factory that may be constructed, and it would not lift Mr. Stratton out of the hole he has foolishly dug for himself in attempting to deceive the people.

Again, the Examiner says we are opposed to the improvement of the back country. And again this is entirely untrue. Our complaint against the Government in this regard is that owing to its wastefulness and extravagance the people do not receive the benefit they should in this and other directions from the money the Government receives to expend for the Province. In making this charge the Examiner is simply drawing on that inexhaustible imagination that conjured up that milk-carrying steamer.

In this matter Mr. Stratton stands convicted of deliberately trying to deceive the people. No defence of the first misleading statement regarding the work can be made, and none has been attempted. How, then, can he or "his organ" be depended upon in other matters when even in a matter like this they will so deliberately and brazenly, though foolishly, try to deceive and mislead?

A dry, hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which, if not speedily removed, may lead to bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be had than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is both an anodyne and expectorant.

MOTIONS

Moved by Mr. THROOP, seconded by Mr F. ADAMS.—That the Court of Revision for the year 1890 be held at the Council Chamber on Wednesday, May 28th, at 7.30 p.m., and that the Clerk publish the required notice thereof.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. WARD, seconded by Mr THROOP.—That with reference to the petition of John Carlisle and others, and E. Courtney for sidewalks, that the Street and Bridge Committee inspect the streets referred to, with power to act.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. THROOP, seconded by Mr WARD.—That the collectors be authorized to rebate one-half of Gregor McGregor's taxes and to give receipt in full upon payment of balance.—Carried.

MORE COMMUNICATIONS.

Mr. Bridgewater made an application for a sidewalk from Dickson-st. to Dufferin-st, on west side of Concession-st., and Mr. Huskins applied for a sidewalk from Concession-st. to Smith-st., on the north side of Smith-st. These were referred to the Street and Bridge Committee. Mr. J. Telford came in with a second petition for a sidewalk on Euclid Avenue, the first one being that of John Carlisle and others. It was also received.

Mr. Fitzgerald, contractor for the new Town Hall building, asked the Council to enquire into the work on that building, and it was moved by Mr. Adams, seconded by Mr. Throop, that the architect, Mr. Blackwell, be requested to make a report to this Council with reference to the town building and if the work is completed according to his instructions to report to this Council, and if not done according to his instructions, why not?—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS.

Barrister Garrow Gets the West Huron Reform Nomination.

GODERICH, May 4.—The West Huron Reform convention met here to-day, 120 delegates being present. A vote of thanks to Hon. A. M. Ross for faithful services in the past was unanimously carried and a brief address was made in reply by that gentleman, after which these nominations were made: D. McGillicuddy, Goderich; J. T. Garrow, Goderich, A. H. Manning, Clinton; R. Currie, East Wawanosh; A. McMurchie, Clinton; Dr. Sloan, Blyth, and J. Kernigan, Colborne. All retired except Messrs. McGillicuddy, Garrow and Manning. On the first vote McGillicuddy was dropped, but as no candidate had a majority of the convention the nominees were pitted individually one against the other. In the contest between Garrow and Manning the vote stood 68 to 58 in favor of the former. It was then arranged that Garrow and McGillicuddy would go to a ballot but the latter retired from the contest, and on motion of Mr. Manning, seconded by Mr. McGillicuddy, Mr. Garrow's nomination was made unanimous. Mr. Garrow is a barrister.

North Middlesex Conservatives.

AILSA CRAIG, May 5.—The Conservatives of North Middlesex held a meeting here today at which W. H. Hutchins of Parkhill received the unanimous call of the convention to become a candidate for the Assembly in the approaching elections.

E. E. Sheppard in Haldimand.

CAYUGA, May 5.—At a convention of the Conservatives of Haldimand held here to-day to select a candidate to contest the riding for the Assembly, Edmund E. Sheppard of Toronto was the unanimous choice of the delegates.

Mr. Maclean in North Wentworth.

DUNDAS, May 5.—Mr. W. F. Maclean of Toronto was chosen to-day as the Meredith candidate in North Wentworth at a largely attended meeting of the Conservative party.

KILLED IN JAIL.

A Colored Prisoner Under Sentence of Death Lynched.

COLUMBUS, S.C., May 5.—Willie Leaphart, colored, was shot and killed in Lexington jail last night. Leaphart was convicted of an assault on Rosa Cannon, a young white girl, at her house while the rest of the family were away, and was sentenced to be hanged April 18. Learning of an attempt to lynch him notwithstanding the death sentence Leaphart was brought to Columbia for safekeeping upon advice of the judge who tried him. The people of Lexington became greatly exasperated and public meetings were held denouncing the Governor for the removal and declaring it to be a reflection upon the dignity of the county and its ability to shield its prisoners. A strong delegation waited upon the Governor and judge, and after personally pledging themselves for Leaphart's safety while in Lexington jail they were allowed to take him back. The Governor has telegraphed for full particulars. Leaphart had been respited to allow time for a motion for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence.

THE KEMMLER CASE.

A Habeas Corpus Refused by the United States Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Roger M. Sherman today made application in the United States Supreme Court for writ of habeas corpus for Kemmler, under sentence of death in New York by electricity, pursuant to the order of Judge Wallace of New York directing that he should make the application immediately.

The court denied the application for a writ of habeas corpus, but informed Mr. Sherman that on May 19 the court would hear a motion for the writ of error in the case; notice to be given the Attorney-General of the state.

This will permit the whole record to be brought here and the case argued. The court follows the precedent established in the Spies anarchist case.

As the court adjourns for the term on May 19, the decision denying or granting the writ of error will be announced almost immediately after the argument.

The Chief Justice, in denying the application for a writ of habeas corpus, said he did so inasmuch as a writ had been granted by Judge Wallace.

Justice Blatchford then said that as Mr. Sherman had applied to him in chambers, the justice presiding over the Circuit Court, for a writ of error to bring the case here for review, he would suggest that Mr. Sherman should make such an application before the full court, as was done in the anarchist case.

Mr. Sherman said he would do this, and the court said it would hear the application at its next and final session of the term on May 19. Should the application be denied, as in the anarchist case, it ends the matter; but should it be granted, it simply defers for about a year final disposition of the matter, the case having to come up again in a more extended form.

Court of Revision.

Wednesday, 28th day of May, 1890, at 7.30 o'clock p.m.

A MISSIONARY'S MURDER

A Letter From Miss Munro Regarding the Murder in Japan.

By telegraph the news was briefly conveyed to Canada of the murder by burglars of Rev. Mr. Large, a Methodist missionary in Japan, and considerable interest not to say anxiety was felt here among those who knew that Miss Jessie Munro, daughter of Mr. George Munro, Division-st., resided in the same house as Mr. and Mrs. Large. In our telegraphic columns an account of the murder is given, and in a letter just received by her parents Miss Munro says:—

"Do not be alarmed for our safety. Anyone who reads the Canadian papers knows that even in Canada such things happen. You know we did not intend to return to Tokyo until Saturday (they had been at Miyanoshita for Easter), but several little things made us change our minds and we returned Friday. That night we slept more soundly than usual after our long journey. About midnight Miss Blackmore and I, who sleep in the other end of the house quite remote from Mrs. Large's room, were awakened by someone running down stairs. We got up to see what was the matter and found Mr. Large dead—butchered—thirteen great gashes in his head, breast and body, Mrs. Large badly wounded, Miss Nellie and Miss Lizzie Hart, who had carried him to the bed, covered with blood, and blood everywhere. Mrs. Large's escape was most miraculous. Two fingers are gone and she will bear on her face the scar of the sword-cut. A bandage that Miss Blackmore tied on her wrist saved her life. Detectives are swarming everywhere, but no one is in custody, although several suspected persons are being shadowed. The foreigners of Japan feel very nervous and the Japanese are quite as bad, although as we feel pretty well satisfied that robbery only was the object of the midnight visit there is not so much cause for fear. Of course it was a terrible shock to us all. No one else knows how awful, how full of horror. The horror of it seemed for the first day or two to have overpowered our grief, but God has sustained us in the most wonderful manner. Mrs. Large has been so comforted by the peace of God. In the presence of such awful sights sentiment vanishes, and it has been like sitting at the gate of Heaven to listen to Mrs. Large speak of the depth of peace in Jesus even while she weeps for her dead husband. The whole school has felt His presence most wonderfully. We had more than twenty pupils with us during this time. They all saw that terrible pool of human blood and the walls and most of them saw Mr. Large after he fell. Yet we sleep soundly, with rest undisturbed even by dreams. Everyone says it is the most wonderful thing. Mrs. Large sleeps in the same room without the least fear. At first she was afraid of being nervous, but God has answered her prayers. I am afraid you will feel nervous and think we are in danger, but I think not. We have placed the house under police protection and two police tramp around the house and through the halls all night, but we know that 'except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh in vain.' Mrs. Large will go to Canada in July to remain home for one year, after which she will return to Japan. If she goes to Peterborough go to see and hear her. Her 'support girl,' Ichi Sigimoto, goes with her. Her maimed right hand will leave her almost helpless and little Kate is not one and a half years old yet. We all believe that Mr. Large's death will do and is doing much good for the work. Japanese Christians and foreign Christians have been united in a common sorrow and in prayers for foreigners. The Japanese generally believe, as we do, that Mr. Large fought so desperately because he believed the lives of others depended on him. The teachers and pupils of our school gave to Mrs. Large such a touching address of sympathy. A Japanese gentleman told me that the feeling among non-Christians was that it was worse because Mr. Large was a missionary who came to Japan only to do Japan good and then to be killed by the Japanese was very bad indeed. There is a strong feeling among all classes that this will do much to remove the prejudice against foreigners, especially against Christians. One of the first things Mrs. Large said was, 'May my Father forgive them for killing my boy.' This of course was passed from one to another until all Japan has it. But I can write no more. May Mr. Large's death be productive of much good to Japan, is the constant prayer of all in this house. God moves in a mysterious way. He did not send the murderers, but out of evil He is bringing forth good. He permitted this thing in His providence. I never before saw God's hand, God's care so clearly. Do not be afraid for my personal safety. When you pray, pray that we who remain in the school may be filled with heavenly wisdom."

Sleepless nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the Remedy for you. Sold by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist Peterborough.

George-st. Young People.

The Y. P. C. A. of the George-st. church held its usual gathering last evening. Mr. H. S. Griffin was leader. It was well attended and full of interest. A business meeting was held afterwards, the President, Mr. A. E. Scott, in the chair, and the following draft of committees was adopted:—

Lookout Committee.—Mr. J. W. Dozzee, Miss E. Turner, Mr. Freeburn, Miss Allen and Mr. T. York.

Prayer Meeting Committee.—Mr. A. E. Scott, Miss White, Mr. Strike, Miss A. Sanderson and Mr. Lowry.

Social Committee.—Mr. Burch, Miss Brown, Miss M. Gamble, Mr. Coveney, Miss Breeze and Mr. Bradley.

Calling Committee.—Miss E. Shortly, Miss Dixon, Mr. McCamus, Miss Griffith and Miss B. Smith.

Flower Committee.—Miss L. Rutherford, Miss M. Mason, Miss E. Robinson, Mr. T. Tebb and Miss N. Sperry.

The meeting was brought to a close by prayer and the benediction.

Golden Wedding.

Not many couples who start to spend life together have the happiness to be able to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage day, but Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grundy, sr., of Aylmer-st., were today able to look back over fifty years of happy married life. On the 6th of May, 1840, Mr. Grundy and Miss Annie Spencer, of Ashby-de-la-Zouche, Leicestershire, England, were married at that place, and Mr. Grundy, in his 80th year, and Mrs. Grundy, one year his junior, received the congratulations of friends on their golden wedding. Of a family of eight children, two died in infancy. Of the two elder brothers, one is in Toronto, and the other in New York City. The sisters reside with their parents, and Mr. H. Grundy, jr., the Deputy Registrar of our County, is the other child. We regret very much to have to add that this morning Mr. Grundy was taken suddenly ill and the gravest fears were felt. We are glad to say that he is much better again, and his many friends will hope that he may see many more anniversaries of his wedding day.

Will you suffer with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint? Shiloh's Vitalizer is guaranteed to cure you. Sold by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

THE TOWN WILL ASSIST

TO ENTERTAIN THE Q.O.R. TO THE EXTENT OF $400.

A Grant Made for the 24th—A Big Batch of Communications and Accounts—Committee Reports—Twenty-six Additional Electric Lights Proposed—The Proposition Referred Back for Further Consideration—The Rents of the New Shops in the Town Buildings—No Liquor to be Sold in the Buildings—A Discussion on Sidewalks—No Darkness on the 24th or 25th.

It was long after ten o'clock last night before the motion to adjourn was carried by our municipal legislators at the regular meeting of the Town Council. Mayor Stevenson presided and the ward representatives present were Councillors Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, E. H. D. Hall, A. Hall, Dawson, Rutherford, Langford and Hartley.

FROM THE RATEPAYERS.

After the minutes had been confirmed Town Clerk Macdonald read the following communications:—

From Mr. Geo. Dunsford calling attention to the fact that the sidewalk on Water-st. near Charlotte-st. had not been lowered or the crossing laid as per former recommendation.—Street and Bridge Committee.

Mrs. Beauregard asked for remission of taxes, as also did Wm. Wallbrook (on a dog), W. J. Stapley, F. D. Wench, Ella Dwyer and M. J. Hartley.

From Mr. J. H. Burnham, Secretary of the Board of Trade, enclosing a resolution by which the Board of Trade endorsed any grant the Council might make towards the 24th celebration as high as $500.—Received.

From Messrs. Dennistoun & Stevenson on behalf of Mr. J. H. Stevens stating that the erection of the powder magazine on the proposed site will injurously effect Mr. Stevens' property.—Received.]

From Mr. C. Rutherford, Secretary of the Fire Brigade, asking the Council to purchase the harness which the men had had placed on the sleds at a cost of $60.—Received.

From Mr. A. E. Dixon and twenty others asking for a sidewalk on Reid-st., north of Edinburgh-st.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Mr. Richard T. Cook drawing attention to a pool of stagnant water in the rear of his premises and asking that Mr. Pope be ordered to investigate.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From John McNaughton asking permission to place a wire fence around his boulevards.—Granted.

From Messrs. Geo. Pope and M. Tierney asking the Council to remit one-half of the license money which they paid in 1889-1890 for a full year, but which only extended over five and a half months. They also asked the Council to request the Government to return one-half of the fee it received.—License Committee.

From residents living near the intersection of Park and Weller-sts., asking for a drain in this locality and for a sidewalk on Weller-st. from Park-st. west to the boundary.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Mr. W. J. Hall re taxes.—Court of Revision.

That the contract for the erection of the powder magazine be awarded to P. J. McNamara at $434, his being the lowest tender, and that the salary of the Town Solicitor be $400 per annum.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE HAND OF CHARITY.

Councillor A. HALL, Chairman of the Charity Committee, presented the report of that committee. The Committee could not recommend the remission of Mrs. Thornton's and Mrs. Drake's taxes and reported the amount of relief given in the months of March and April to have been $280.15, distributed as follows:—No. One Ward, $88; No. Two Ward, $84 00; No. Three Ward, $63 75; No. Four Ward, $62.

The report was adopted.

NEW ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Councillor A. HALL then read the following report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee:—

To the Mayor and Town Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend that Terrance Smith be re-appointed at same salary as last year, namely $1,475, for five horses and two men for fire hall and street watering purposes; also that his offer of $380 for one horse and one man for street watering from 20th April to 15th of October be accepted, and when horses and men are not employed street watering they to do work on the street under Mr. Pope's, the Street Inspector's, direction.

Your committee also recommend that there be electric lamps put up on the following corners:—Dixon and Murray, Sheridan and Brock, College and McDonnell, Hervey and London, Water and London, Water and Simcoe, Water and Charlotte, Aylmer and Dublin, Aylmer and McDonnell, Aylmer and King, Aylmer and Sherbrooke, Aylmer and Dalhousie, Aylmer and Smith, Bethune and Hunter, Bethune and Wolfe, Stewart and London, Stewart and McDonnell, Stewart and King, Stewart and Sherbrooke or Bethune, Reid and McDonnell, Donegal and McDonnell, Park and McDonnell, Park and London, Park and Elm, Park and Weller, Park and Gilmour.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ADAM HALL,
Chairman.

OBJECTIONS TO THE ADOPTION.

Councillor KELLY complained that the electric lights were not burning on all dark nights.

Councillor CAHILL put in a claim for lights in the South Ward, claiming that that part of the town had not been given its share of illumination. Mr. Cahill wanted time to consider the report.

Councillor A. HALL said these new lights would do away with fifty-five gas lamps.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL thought that they should not rush into this new obligation without consideration and the seeking of better arrangements with the Electric Light Company if possible.

Councillor DAVIDSON also thought the report should be referred back as the representatives of the South Ward had not been at the Committee meeting or knew anything about the proposed distribution of the new lights. He wanted further consideration.

Councillor HARTLEY also thought the matter was being sprung upon the Council as he had not heard of the new lights. He thought the report should be referred back for further consideration. He also objected to the clause of the report which gave the contract for another horse for street watering purpose to Terrance Smith, as he did not want to see one man monopolise the work of the town.

THE CLAUSE REFERRED BACK.

Councillor A. HALL was willing to have the clause in the report recommending the new lights referred back to the Committee, and he moved to that effect.

Councillor HARTLEY moved in amendment that the whole report be referred back.

Councillor RUTHERFORD favored the giving of the contract to Terrance Smith.

Councillor DAWSON also wanted to see another man given the extra work, although he said Mr. Smith had done his work well, yet he wanted to distribute the town work among the ratepayers.

After a little cross-firing between Councillors Dawson, Hartley and Rutherford, the amendment of Councillor Hartley's amendment was lost and the first clause of the report was adopted and the electric light clause was referred to a Committee of the whole Council.

A LUMBER YARD.

Councillor LANGFORD, Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, reported that in accordance with a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Council he had taken the lot at the corner of George and Dalhousie-sts., owned by Messrs. Ed. Pearce and D. W. Dumble, for the use of the town for storing lumber, etc. He read an agreement of the lease for two years, which had been drawn up, which asked that one year's back taxes be remitted and gave the town the use of the lot at a rent of one dollar a year and the taxes thereon.

After some discussion Councillor Langford, Moore and E. H. D. Hall were appointed a committee to confer with the Town Solicitor and have the lease adjusted in some respects.

SEEKING LIGHT ON LIGHT.

Councillor MOORE moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That the Town Clerk write the clerks of Guelph, St. Catharines, Stratford, Galt, Berlin, and St. Thomas as to the cost of street electric lights and the time the lights burn.—Carried.

A GRANT FOR THE SOLDIERS.

A deputation of military men were present in the people's gallery to request the Council to make a grant to the committee of the 57th Battalion for the purpose of entertaining the Queen's Own on the occasion of their visit here on the 24th.

Adjut.-Capt. DENNISTOUN presented the request and pointed out the expense which the committee would be under in properly entertaining the visiting soldiers. He pointed out also that a public concert might be given in the evening by the Queen's Own band which would alone cost one hundred dollars. He thought the figure the Board of Trade suggested was about right. Lieut. Hayes and Capt. Brennan also supported the request.

$400 TO ENTERTAIN.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL thought the town should do something to entertain the volunteers as it would advertise the town. Whatever grant was made he believed it should be given to a committee of the Council. He therefore moved that the sum of $400 be granted to entertain the Queen's Own on the 24th of May and to advertise the town, the committee to consist of Councillors Cahill, Dawson, Rutherford, Hartley, E. H. D. Hall and Moore.

Councillor CAHILL favored making the grant directly to the officers.

Councillor A. HALL said he would second Mr. E. H. D. Hall's motion if the sum was made $500, as he thought they might as well do the thing properly if they did it at all.

Councillor MOORE thought $400 should be the limit of the grant. Councillor Moore seconded Councillor E. H. D. Hall's resolution.

The motion was carried.

BUYING FROM THE FIREMEN.

Councillor A. HALL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Fire Brigade received a grant of one hundred dollars for improvement of the fire hall and that in consideration of the same the set of double harness now the property of the fire brigade be considered the property of the corporation in consideration of the above grant.—Carried.

TO HOLD UP OUR ADVANTAGES.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor WINCH,—That Messrs. E. H. D. Hall, Moore, Langford, Rutherford, Davidson and Kendry be a special committee to be known as the Manufacturing Committee, the first named to be Chairman thereof, and that the said Committee be empowered to expend a sum not to exceed $200 in bringing the superior advantages afforded by this town and vicinity for manufacturing purposes before the public in such manner as may seem to them best calculated to promote the best interests of the town.—Carried.

A DISCUSSION ON SIDEWALKS.

Councillor RUTHERFORD enquired why the new sidewalk on Elm-st. had not been put down according to a resolution passed at the last meeting. He said he believed also that sidewalks were being put down that were unauthorized by the chairman.

Councillor LANGFORD, Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, said that lumber for sidewalks had not been on hand until about two weeks ago. As regarded the unauthorized sidewalks, he wanted a rule made by which no sidewalks would be laid by the Street Inspector unless authorized by the Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee, and he would not authorize any new walks that the Council had not passed.

The Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee had his attention called to several sidewalks and roads which needed attention.

Mr. LEARMOUTH, of Sherbrooke-st., addressed the Council regarding the water in his cellar and asked that the drain be deepened so as to prevent this grievance.

The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

THE TOWN'S SHOP RENTS.

Councillor E. H. D. HALL moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That the Market Committee be and are hereby authorized to arrange the rent of the shops in the new market building at the rents herein set out, namely:—$——per year for each of the shops next the arcade, and $——for the other shops, except that rented to the C. P. R. payable quarterly and that none of the shops be rented to anyone who intends to carry on any business for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and that all leases of the said shops shall contain a covenant on the part of the lesee that he will not carry on such a business, and also a clause for the forfeiture of the lease if such be done.

This motion was referred to the Market Committee to fill in the blanks and report to the Committee of the Whole Council.

SWEEPING THE STREETS.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON,—That the Fire, Water and Light Committee be requested to consider the advisibility of having the streets that are usually watered swept from time to time as may be found expedient and if in their judgment deemed advisable, they be empowered to purchase the necessary appliances for that purpose to be run by horse power or otherwise.—Carried.

ANOTHER SIDEWALK TALK.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor DAWSON,—That no new sidewalks or crossings be put down except what have first been ordered by the Council.

A long discussion followed the introduction of this resolution and finally the motion was dropped, Mr. Pope, it being considered, understanding that he was to lay no sidewalks that were unauthorized.

FREE BOARD AT THE GAOL.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor WINCH.—That the Council pay another week's board for Lawerence Hill in the Protestant Home.

Councillor RUTHERFORD objected to the motion, as he said some of Peterborough's old residents were in gaol and he objected to outside loafers coming here and being supported in the Protestant Home.

Councillor A. HALL vigorously combatted the motion and held that Mr. Hill was not worthy of any special charity and should be sent to gaol if he was not able to work. He had been laid up in a drunken spree and had been kept for ten months in the Nicholls Hospital.

Councillors Dawson and Moore thought Mr. Hill should go to gaol and endorsed what had been said.

The motion was lost.

ALL NIGHT ILLUMINATION.

Councillor A. HALL said that as the Queen's Own Rifles were coming here on the 24th of May, he moved, seconded by Councillor E.H.D. Hall,—That the Electric Light Company be instructed to burn the electric lights all night on the nights of the 23rd and 24th inst.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

The Daily Review.

TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

Pond burst in on Harry three days after their last interview. "The good fellow here didn't want to let me in," he said, shaking his fist at the warden who had accompanied him. "He seems to think I am a dangerous fellow, and so I am not going to trouble him or you for a while. Your friend whom you know of is all right. She is where one would least expect to find her. I had to use a good deal of influence, and of course I worked everything through you. She has her little companion with her, and though she woefully hated to deceive any one, I got up a cock-and-bull story how she could help you by doing as I told her, and she is quite content."

"God bless you, old fellow; I will never forget your kindness," whispered Harry with a trembling lip.

"Dry up, can't you," snarled Pond. "I don't want any thanks. Now I have to carry out the other part of my plan, and that will take me away from home for a time. Do not try to send me any word. Be patient, and all will come well. Your case has been set for the spring term. I saw your attorney yesterday, and he said he would be around again to-day. I can't say, Leiter, that I take to that gentleman very well."

"He's the most successful criminal lawyer in the city," replied Harry, "I have heard you say so yourself."

"Plague take it, yes—he is too successful. That is the trouble. If he wins a case it does not clear a man's character, because the victory is always set down to his transcendent ability. There is an impression abroad that he can manage anything. I want you cleared, but not at the expense of your reputation. Roger Brisbane has been famous for twenty years. That is too long. That will spoil any man. Do you know he never thinks of his fellow creatures as being anything but parties of the first and second part, or the accused or the defendant. His social conversation is conducted on cross questioning principles, he considers—even his own personal experience—in the light of a case. In short, his sympathies have long since been drowned in a professional mechanism. He is a learned automaton."

"Well," said Harry wearily, "he is the best man in the city by all accounts. I do not see that I can do any better. I am not going to be able to make out much of a case, for reasons that must be obvious to you."

"Don't be discouraged, old man. Your life is in your own hand."

"Great God, man! Don't you see that is the worst feature of it. I tell you I will never be cleared at the expense of ——"

"But," argued Pond, "do you not see——"

"I see nothing but the old way. I know what my poor uncle would have me do if he were alive."

"You are an obstinate fellow, but I have a great confidence in the kindly dispositions of fate. I feel that all must come right."

"Yes; but if it does, through what sorrow and shame and horror it must come!"

Pond made no reply. He shook his friend's hand and went out.

West Walnut street is a dingy place. The houses have a peculiarity of seeming to be always unpainted. In summer the shade from the dusty trees darkens the windows, and in winter a continual gloom is there. The houses stand shoulder to shoulder like soldiers in a narrow street. The light enters them only by the dingy kitchen windows or by the over-curtained front ones. It would be unsafe to say that there are more children in Walnut street than any other part of the city, but certainly no other portion has more. It is wonderful to see what a quantity of candy these children eat, or the number of pop corn balls that they make way with. These little ones are not without finery; indeed, they wear more ribbons than the young ones of far more aristocratic districts. Yet it is not to be imagined that Walnut street is without pride. It is counted a desirable place, and there are many who look up to it as the goal of ambition. The dwellers have many tastes in common. They have, for instance, a fondness for plush albums and ribbon-decorated wicker chairs. They affect white "lace" curtains, and they have a passion for the circus and the national game.

They are not without their sociabilities, and occasionally entertain each other with "high-five" bad salads and chocolate, served with Japanese napkins. A dressmaker is not looked down on in this district, and a book-keeper is as good as the best.

When the snow, dirty with much lingering, lies in the tiny door-yards, and the leafless trees of a dull March sway before the windows, and the base burners in the front rooms are red with the exertions attendant upon a severe winter, Walnut street is at its worst. The young women who entered it on such a morning thought it very desolate indeed. But then there may have been reasons for its seeming disagreeable to them. Everything goes by contrast, does it not. These young women were in a cab, and on top of that vehicle were two very large valises. In their arms they carried some large flower pots, and they were laughing a good deal, although it was evident from the eyes that they had been crying also. They were looking for a furnished front room, and they had little difficulty in finding one.

It was a dull place. On the floor was a dun-brown carpet, which may have been dirty or may not, but was always destined to look so. Brown paper shades were at the window and furnished a ghastly contrast to the walls, which were white. A folding bed—that most dismal of inventions for aiding the repair of the ravelled sleeve of care—offered its doubtful comforts. Two rockers with a tendency to tip forward, a folding chair covered with Brussels carpeting of an uncompromising green, a washstand and a bare dresser with drawers that hesitated and hitched in their incomings and outgoings, made up the rest. Once inside, with the cabby paid and the door closed on the landlady, the two young women sat down and laughed at each other. Then the older one justified the redness about her eyes and burst into tears.

The next day a specimen of amateur painting decorated the window of that room. It informed the public that the Misses Browne were fashionable dressmakers, and that they made infants' wardrobes a specialty. A sewing machine delivered in the course of the afternoon apprised the ladies looking out of their front windows at the new arrivals that the Misses Browne were ready for work. No one ventured to call for two or three days after that, but when they did they met an astonishing sight. The room they entered was charming, and no one, least of all the landlady, could understand how it had been done so quietly and so quickly. A cretonne of wonderful Persian design hung like a loose tapestry from numerous hooks depended from the picture [illegible] Above was a staining of tender blue. The dresser had taken to itself a very French air with drapings of lace that did not add materially to the inaccessibility of the drawers. The washstand was hidden behind a screen; in front of the folding bed was an easel that bore a pleasant burden and drew the attention from the giant piece of furniture behind. The shades were gone, and in their places was a delicate bit of splendor from Madras. The light must have been very much surprised to find such an opening for its enterprise on Walnut street. The chairs that tilted the wrong way had been returned with thanks to the landlady, who said she was short of chairs when she gave a "progressive euchre" any way, and so was glad to get them. More luxurious ones had taken their places. On the floor was stretched a neat covering of holland, which the young ladies pointed out to the landlady, would save the carpet. The grate was open for the first time in many years, and filled with a cheerful blaze to supplement the languid heat of the furnace. The hideous mantle was hidden with a robe of daffodil silk and some bric-a-brac. And in a conspicuous place stood the machine, while all over the strange wall covering, the spring fashion plates were pinned up, intermingled with jaunty plates from the illustrated French papers. The discovery of this room made the Misses Browne the rage. They had offers for work immediately, and the first week they received an invitation to a "high five." It was the highest compliment the neighborhood could pay. The Misses Browne was not so dull as to refuse. They went, and they saw and heard some things that they did not forget for a great many years.

"You would make any exile bearable, Jeanne," said the elder that night to her little companion. "But for you I should have broken my heart. You put new life into me."

"Oh! now Miss Margaret," protested the other running her hands through a very red crop of curls. "I haven't done a thing. You only think so. Of course we must stand by each other whatever comes, and above all we must do exactly as Mr. Pond says."

"Why?" said the elder humorously.

"Because," said the other, unconscious of the fact that she was being laughed at, "I am sure he knows what is best, if any one does."

CUPID GONE ASTRAY.

A Widower 101 Years Old Married to a Widow Aged 63 Years.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., May 5.—A remarkable wedding took place last night near Laurel Fork, in Boone county. The contracting parties were James Savall and Mrs. Amy Terrence. The groom, who was a widower, but had outlived his children, was 101 years old, and the bride, a widow, also without encumbrance, was 63. The best man was 81 years old and the bridesmaid 78. The bride and groom are still quite sprightly for their age.

The affair was widely attended and is the talk of the entire state. The bride was dressed in a handsome silk gown, made 64 years ago on the occasion of her former marriage.

For the Benefit of Exporters.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—This bill has been introduced in the House by Mr. Breckenridge, read twice and referred to the Committee on Ways and Means:

That any citizen of the United States who shall, within the territory thereof, manufacture or produce any article or articles of commerce, and shall sell or send the same for use in any place outside the territory of the United States, shall be entitled to receive from the collector of any port of entry where such articles may be shipped a certificate setting forth the value or values thereof, all such values to be verified and determined in a manner similar to that by which the values of imports subject to duty are now determined; and upon the production of such certificate at any port of entry such citizen shall be entitled to the admission, free of duty, of any article or articles of commerce, which he may desire to use in the conduct of his business, personally or otherwise, to the extent of value set forth in such certificate.

The Industrial War.

PARIS, May 5.—The labor agitation at Roubaix and Tourcoing is abating, though the conference between the masters and the strikers' delegates was productive of no result.

VIENNA, May 5.—The strike of the employes of the state railway has been settled, the authorities having conceded higher wages.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 5.—Seven hundred masons and bricklayers and 100 helpers are on strike here for an increase of wages.

CHICAGO, May 5.—The striking carpenters and the new Bosses Association have reached an agreement and 4000 carpenters will resume work Thursday. The old Bosses' association is out of the deal. The strikers gain a most sweeping victory, the bosses granting the 8-hour-day and other concessions.

Druggist, 308 Young st., Toronto, Ont.

IF A BODY MEET A BODY

the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the rye," or not. Life is full of collisions. We are constantly colliding with somebody or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread disease that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems, have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than mankind. In all cases of nervousness, bearing-down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, sick headache, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration and all "female irregularities" and "weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. See guarantee on bottle-wrapper.

GOLDEN LION

CARPETS! CARPETS! CARPETS!—A Large Consignment of Brussels, Tapestry and Kidderminster Carpets came to hand to-day. Some very handsome designs in Hall Carpets, with stair to match.

BARGAIN SEEKERS—We are showing this week many lines purchased from the bankrupt stock of a large wholesale house in Toronto. Among these is a very choice lot of German Table Linens, selling fast at 25c. a yd., former price 75c., and a lot of 15 dozen fine bleached Table Napkins in [illegible] and [illegible] sizes. Also square and oval shaped Fringed Doylies, one size of Striped Ginghams, sold everywhere at 10c., our price 6c.

OUR DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT is full to overflowing with all the latest novelties; Printed Wool Challies, All Wool Grenadines, Silk Grenadines, Persian Cashmeres and many new styles in Trimmings. A choice lot of [illegible] direct from New York.

OUR TAILORING DEPARTMENT is very attractive at present. A customer remitting for a suit recently sent these remarks: "I have seldom paid a bill with so much satisfaction as I do this. I am highly pleased with the suit. Fit, finish and material up to the best London ever made, turned out to my order."

DRESS MAKING DEPARTMENT—The popularity of our Dressmaking Department under the management and supervision of Miss Reid, is evidently appreciated. All work tastily and artistically done with promptness

Ladies' Super Taffeta Gloves, 25c. a pair.
Ladies' ex-Super Taffeta Gloves, 30c. a pair.
Children's Gloves, all colors, 10c. a pair.

Boys' Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy of 4 years, for 10c.

Boys' Ribbed Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy 8 years for 12½c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 8 years, 22c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, 30c.

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

" Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the " Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

Agent for domestic patterns. By sending 5c. we will send a fashion book containing about 900 styles.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.

A Surplus of Over $15,000,000—The Report of the Panama Canal Commission—Stanley Given an Audience by the Queen—The Kaiser's Speech.

LONDON, May 6.—The revenues of the United Kingdom for the year ending March 31 were £89,304,316, expenditures £86,083,314.

The Panama Ditch.

PARIS, May 6.—The report of the Panama Canal Commission estimates it would cost 465,000,000 francs to complete the canal on the locks system. To this should be added 20 per cent. for unforeseen expenses and 20 per cent. for the expenses of management and for interest. The total cost is fixed at 200,000,000 francs. It would take between seven and eight years to complete the canal. According to the estimates of the commissioners the net receipts for the first three years after the opening of the canal would be 30,000,000 francs annually, gradually increasing until 12 years after the opening, when they would amount to 61,000,000 francs. The material of the old company and the work already performed are valued at 450,000,000 francs.

The Emperor's Speech.

BERLIN, May 6.—In opening the Reichstag to-day the Emperor said he wanted above all things to effect further legislation for the protection of the workingmen.

A bill will be submitted for the better regulation and organization of industrial courts of arbitration, so the courts may be appealed to for the settlement of disputes between the employers and the employed. The Emperor remarked:

"A just solicitude for the workmen constitutes the most effectual means by which to strengthen the resources with which I and my exalted allies are resolved to oppose with unbending determination any attempt to disturb the legal order of things. In effecting these reforms only such measures will come up for consideration as can be carried out without endangering the industry of the fatherland."

The Emperor's speech made an excellent impression, all parties, even the Radicals, admitting that it was a model of simplicity, directness and clearness. During the reading of the speech the Emperor was frequently interrupted by cheers.

The new military bill fixes the peace effective at 486,783 troops exclusive of the one-year volunteers. The non-recurring expenditures entailed by the new measures amount to 31,500,000 marks. The increase in the permanent yearly expenditure is 18,000,000 marks.

Stanley, the Town is Yours.

EDINBURGH, May 6.—The authorities of Edinburgh have resolved to confer the freedom of the city upon Henry M. Stanley.

LONDON, May 6.—Mr. Stanley proceeded to Windsor Castle to-day and was given an audience by the Queen.

MILLIONS IN ASHES.

The Singer Sewing Machine Works at Elizabeth (N.J.) Burnt.

ELIZABETH, N.J., May 7, 9 a.m.—The Singer sewing machine factory was discovered on fire at 11 o'clock last night. The flames were first seen at the third floor having broken out in the main office. The entire fire department responded to the alarm but the water from the six steam engines had but little effect. At midnight the flames were burning fiercely and it was evident that the main building, which covered acres of ground, would be destroyed.

Within 30 minutes after the fire was discovered the immense building was a mass of flames and the different factories and foundries seemed doomed. The blaze was first seen by a watchman but he lost his presence of mind and an alarm was not sent out for some time. The works employ 3500 people and pay out $40,000 weekly in wages.

The fire is still raging. All the engines in the city are working, including five tugs. The main building is all burned down and the fire is spreading rapidly. It is likely the entire factory will be destroyed. The loss will amount to several million dollars.

NEW MEDICAL SCHOOL FOR WOMEN.

Ladies Raising $150,000 for an Annex to Johns Hopkins University.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 6.—Miss Mary Garrett and a number of other wealthy ladies in Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia and Boston are raising a fund of $150,000 towards the proposed medical school of the Johns Hopkins University, with the understanding that this branch of the university will be open to women. Mrs. Henry Winter Davis has been elected president of the organization, which in circulars sent to the ladies in all the principal eastern and western cities declares its aim to be the higher medical education of women. Miss Garrett has subscribed $5000 and a number of Baltimore ladies $1000 each. Auxiliary committees are at work in Boston, New York and Philadelphia, and the leaders in the movement say that similar committees will be organized in Chicago and Cincinnati. The students will have all the advantages of the great Johns Hopkins Hospital.

IN SHROUDS OF FLAME.

A HUNDRED FEMALE MANIACS PERISH AT LONGUE POINTE.

Four of the Nuns Among the Dead—The Male Patients All Saved—Scenes of Horror at the Burning of the Lunatic Asylum.

MONTREAL, May 6.—A long line of gaunt towers, the blazing debris reflected in the wild eyes of the maniacs—that is all one now sees of Longue Pointe Lunatic Asylum, but the tragic sights witnessed there to-day can never be forgotten.

Taking it all in all, nothing could exceed the horror attending this terrible calamity, considering the number of helpless victims, the terrible nature of their death and the manner in which they met their fate. What to the spectators was a scene of horror was to the lunatics a moment of supreme glee, and in their delight they sported themselves in the flames, waved their blazing limbs in fiendish satisfaction at the ruin that was about them, and not until the walls tumbled over their heads were their maniacal screams silenced.

There were incarcerated in Longue Pointe 1300 lunatics, for that asylum was a prison more than an hospital. Not more than 1150 are accounted for, but many escaped into the fields and the woods, and the dead are ashes amongst the ashes. The number of dead is purely a matter of conjecture and can never be ascertained, since no other record is kept than that in the asylum books, and they are also destroyed. Taking into consideration the whole evidence from firemen, [illegible] inmates, the sisters in charge, bystanders and personal observation it is a conservative estimate to say that 100 persons met their death, though some assert that the number is double that stated, and others place it below this figure.

This fact remains that no such calamity has fallen upon Quebec province since the earliest times.

Ever since Quebec was a province its management of these most helpless of all creatures has been its shame. They have been farmed out to the nuns at $100 a head per year, and the sisters' aim was to keep them as frugally as possible and with the least possible outlay for permanent works or repairs. While their most urgent bodily wants were supplied no attempt was made at systematic medical treatment. Insanity was regarded not as a disease amenable to treatment but as a malady instigated by the evil one to be exorcised by prayers and incantations.

By a curious coincidence the only Protestant insane asylum in the province was inaugurated to-day by its new superintendent. Hitherto patients of all denominations were crowded together, and the Protestants by persistent personal solicitations raised enough money to found an institution of their own, in which their own patients are being cared for. For years the Government has been urged to redeem its treatment of the insane from its mediæval condition, and last summer the mother superior with a body guard was sent abroad with due solemnity to ascertain if anything could be learned from similar institutions in Europe, but up to this morning she had evidently discovered nothing that would be of value to her in the care of those entrusted to her.

If "Hard Cash" were to be written again Charles Reade might have gleaned some interesting details from the Longue Pointe asylum management.

At 11.55 a telegraph message was received in Montreal saying that the asylum was on fire and imploring assistance. This could not be done without consulting Mayor Grenier, who was found at the Banque du Peuple, and he at once ordered the engines to be despatched. One engine and two reels started on their 10-mile run and were quickly on the spot, but they might as well have remained at home, for in five minutes they exhausted the water supply. The only thing that could save the building was the St. Lawrence River and it was a half mile distant.

Ten miles below Montreal a point of land juts into the river. Here is the village of Longue Pointe and here was the famous lunatic asylum. Fifteen minutes before noon the cry of fire was given. The blaze originated in a cupboard and was kindled there by a patient. From the construction of the building there is some doubt as to whether it was intended for an asylum or a blast furnace; in any case it served the latter purpose admirably. It was constructed of brick and was 620 feet long, running back from the river half the distance. The main building occupied the centre and on each side extended four wings six stories in height. To the east were the men's wards and to the west the women's, making sixty in all. In the rear was the engine house, laundry and store rooms, all of which were saved.

The fire started in the second ward in the women's side in an upper story and as the ventilation was carried on by a longitudinal shaft connected with the towers the flames soon appeared blazing up through the roof in the centre of each tower. When your correspondent arrived with the firemen the dome of one tower had just fallen and the flames were bursting out everywhere. Streams were laid on and while they lasted some good was done, but that was for a very brief space.

The horror of the situation was revealed as the heat increased, the statues fell from their niches to the ground and then the inhabitants prostrated themselves and said that the saints had deserted them indeed. Meantime beds, furniture and utensils were being showered from the windows and a stream of ill-clad nuns poured out of the eastern wing.

Not a male patient was lost. Among the women it was different. The less hopeless cases were placed in the lower wards and they were removed without difficulty, but from the upper wards where the violent patients were secured there came the wildest screams as they resisted, the nuns beseeching them to make their escape. At the windows a maniac would be seen peering through the bars, grinning and jabbering at the bright flame that went up to the sky. As the heat became more intense she would grasp the bars and remain there till the flames enveloped her. The habitants had come from all parts attracted by the blaze and in an hour the little village was one surging mass of [illegible] vociferating Frenchmen, drinking whisky blanc and recounting the strange scenes they beheld.

When the firemen found they were powerless to save the building they turned their attention to the inmates and burst in the doors with axes. Inside Chief Benoit says it was such a sight as no fireman ever before witnessed. In one ward he entered there were 20 patients and at his approach they huddled together like a pack of hounds, twisting their arms into one mass of humanity. He seized the nearest but, said the chief, "I could no more separate the crowd than I could the parts of your horse." The chief tugged at them till the fire darted into their garments and enfolded them like a shroud of flame and then he escaped with his life.

In another ward three firemen were nearly trapped to death, Captain Doolan, Lambert and Cyr. They entered and the door closed behind them by a spring lock. As is customary, there was no handle on the inside, the doors resisted their axes and they rushed to the windows but were driven back by the flames. The chief suspecting their peril sent to the other side and the men were carried down on ladders. O'Rourke, the engineer of the building, did good work in saving nine patients and every fireman made a record of which he may feel proud. On the first alarm the engineer turned on the hose but it was utterly useless, as the fire [illegible] the ventilating shaft to the towers and burned in a dozen places at once.

And here a melancholy event occurred. One of the tertiary nuns, Sister Marie, lay sick in the infirmary on the fifth floor and to her rescue came three others. They raised their companion and bore her in a blanket to the staircase, but they were met by a sheet of flame and all four perished:

Soeur Marie. Soeur [illegible].
Soeur Gilbert. Soeur [illegible].

None of these were over 20 years of age and all came from [illegible] below Quebec. The sisters worked with the persistency of heroines, by turns imploring, beseeching and commanding the patients, and finally saving an enormous number in view of the inadequate facilities at hand. Sister Therese, the superioress, is broken hearted, and being at present in ill health the shock and distress are likely to prove fatal to her. Drs. Bourque and Baralet were carried from the building unconscious, and whatever can be said of the management as a whole the individuals exercised every power to lessen the calamity they neglected to avert.

A loud explosion was followed by a crash of beams, the interior was giving way, wild faces each from the windows and the shrieks of the maniacs were lost in the general uproar. One by one the walls toppled inward and a fierce blaze burst up from the newly added fuel that rose to the dark sky and shot its glare over the St. Lawrence to the southern shore, and even tinged the crest of Mount Royal, 10 miles distant. Then it died down into blackness, and nothing but a few broken towers remained bounding a seething mass of metal and debris, under which are now not the bodies but the ashes of a hundred victims.

By this time it was 6 o'clock and growing dark and very cold. The spring rains had converted the place into a quagmire and only horsemen could get from place to place. The poor sisters, most of them young and delicate, stood ankle deep in mud, covering and superintending the removal of such furniture as had been saved. The patients wandered about aimlessly, clad in scant garments, many of them veritable Ophelias, in their fantastic dress. When released many of them leapt for joy and bounded like deer across the fields to the woods. Patients of both sexes escaped and though a cordon of police was thrown round not all were included and a horribly suggestive tale was borne in by a habitant who was coming through the woods to the scene of the disaster.

A new dread has come upon the inhabitants from the presence of so many escaped lunatics and they will count themselves fortunate if they are not visited by a series of such crimes as only madmen can devise. All the times every high house top in Montreal had its curious sight-seers, for the news seemed to spread in some mysterious way and this disaster has been foretold for many years. The long road was thronged by carriages. The Mayor and aldermen drove out in pairs, ladies were there in their dog-carts and a few rode on horseback. It was a strange procession they met. The transport service of Montreal was pressed into the service and cabs, busses and hacks were returning filled with vacant-eyed women, wearing blankets over their shoulders and in front a pair of weeping nuns clad in their black robes. Many were taken to the neighboring convents of St. Isidore, St. Joseph de Bencit, St. Laurent and Point Aux Trembles.

Premier Mercier has placed the Montreal exhibition buildings at the disposal of the nuns and to-morrow they will be stocked with provisions. There was an entire absence of fire-fighting facilities. Though the appliances were there they were utterly useless. The institution had excellent engines, 10 good pumps, new boilers, but no connection existed between pumps and boilers.

The St. Jean de Dieu asylum, commonly called Longue Pointe, was founded in the year 1873. The Government being desirous of closing the St. Jean d'Iberville asylum and relieving the Beauport asylum at Quebec, which was overcrowded, came to an understanding with the Sisters of Providence with a view of establishing an asylum for idiots and for the insane. The erection of the edifice was commenced the following year and on July 11, 1875, this asylum received its first patients. The buildings consisted of the main building, of four other smaller buildings connected by wings and had a frontage of 680 feet. These edifices were of brick with frieze and ground floor in cut stone. The principal building was six stories high, the other portions of the building five. The Sisters of Providence spent in founding and organizing this institution $1,132,892, of which sum $700,000 was spent in buildings.

The building was insured by the Government for $600,000 in the Royal Insurance Company. This sum has been re-insured in 19 local companies in sums varying from $5000 to $32,000. The Sisterhood of Providence, who owned the building and under whose management the institution has always been, is the largest of the many large Canadian religious communities, although only established 50 years ago. Its founder was Madame Gamelin, widow of a wealthy Montreal merchant, who endowed the new sisterhood. The mother house of the order was for many years the convent connected with St. James' Roman Catholic Church. Lately the headquarters of the order were removed to the large new convent and asylum in Fullum-street. The Deaf and Dumb Institute in St. Denis-street is the other large city house of the Providence nuns.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

DISCUSSING THE NORTHWEST BILL IN THE COMMONS.

Mr. McCarthy and Others Advocate Responsible Government—Another Dual Language Debate Looming Up—Objection to the New Name.

OTTAWA, May 6.—The House devoted this afternoon to discussion of the Northwest Bill reported from the Senate, and of which Mr. Dewdney moved the second reading. Messrs. Laurier, Davin and Blake complained that a measure of responsible government was not given by this bill. Mr. Lariviere said there was not a Frenchman or a Roman Catholic among the 22 members of the Legislative Assembly and wished the constituencies rearranged so as to make a change in this respect. Mr. McCarthy also advocated a large degree of responsible government for the Northwest. He objected to the dual language clause inserted in accordance with the resolution passed by the Commons earlier in the session and announced that at a later stage he would move to strike out the clause. He would propose a new clause with the separate school system in view, providing that after next election the Legislative Assembly shall have power to deal with education without the restrictions now imposed.

Sir John Macdonald reminded the House that the bill did not propose a new constitution for the Northwest but merely some comparatively trifling amendments. He supposed that in a few years the increase of population in the Northwest would call for a division of the territories into provinces, and no doubt with a constitution similar to those of the present provinces. From all he had heard from the Northwest the people there, warned by the unhappy experience of Manitoba and the wasteful and reckless expenditures there by an administration composed of men with no experience in government, had no desire for the premature introduction of responsible government in the Northwest. The bill was then read a second time and the House went into committee upon it.

Messrs. Charlton, Mills, Blake, O'Brien and others objected to the new name, the "Western Territories of Canada," proposed for the Northwest, and this clause was allowed to stand. What promised to be a lengthy general debate arising on the whole constitution of the Northwest collapsed, Sir John Macdonald stating that the Government could not at this late period of the session debate the whole constitution, and if the discussion was to be continued in this fashion the Government would have to withdraw the clauses debated or perhaps withdraw the whole bill for this session. The committee shortly afterwards rose and reported progress.

After recess the bill founded on the tariff resolutions was considered in committee. Several changes were made, mostly of minor importance. Among those worthy of note was substitution of a specific duty of 3 cents per pound for the old duty of 20 per cent ad val. on live hogs, this change being in accordance with the general increase in the pork duties. Kid leather for the manufacture of gloves is to be taxed 10 in place of 20 per cent. The mess pork duty of 1½ cents a pound is interpreted to include all pork made from hogs more than 200 pounds in weight, cut from the sides after the hams and shoulders have been cut off and requiring not more than 16 pieces to the barrel. This will admit clear pork made from larger hogs than those raised in Canada.

After further discussion the bill was adopted in committee and the House adjourned at 10.55.

SUPPLEMENTARY ESTIMATES.

$150,000 Asked for Immigration—Ontario Public Improvement Items.

OTTAWA, May 6.—The supplementary estimates for the year 1890-91 brought down to-day amount to $1,456,915, of which $[illegible] is chargeable to capital. Among the noteworthy items are these: Hon. David Mills gets $232 of his sessional indemnity for 1884 deducted on account of absence, the sessions being partly over before he was given his seat by the courts. To aid in publishing yearly reports of the Dominion Dairying and Fruit Growing Association $2000 is asked and $5000 to aid in a Canadian representation at the Jamaica exhibition in 1891. In accordance with the promise made that monuments would be erected year by year until all the Canadian battlefields are commemorated $3600 is asked for two monuments, one of which will no doubt be placed on the site of Lundy's Lane. These items are asked for public improvements in Ontario:

Welland Canal	[illegible]
Toronto examining warehouse, purchase of water lots, additional amount required	[illegible]
Petrolia public buildings	[illegible]
Brantford postoffice and custom house	[illegible]
Toronto postoffice improvements	[illegible]
Toronto custom house sanitary works	[illegible]
Owen Sound, dredging entrance channel	[illegible]

Saugeen River	[illegible]
Big Bay, north Keppel	[illegible]
Thornbury, dredging	[illegible]
Parry Sound narrows	[illegible]
Goderich harbor	[illegible]

Among the important appropriations of general interest are $150,000 in aid of immigration and $10,000 for artesian boring in the Northwest.

ROWING FOR $2600.

Hanlan Defeats Plaisted Over a Mile Course—Way Down in Alabama.

BRIDGEPORT, Ala., May 6.—Hanlan and Plaisted rowed here to-day for a purse of $2600. The oarsmen agree to row three successive days, the man winning two races to take the purse. It was the first professional race ever rowed on the Tennessee River and was witnessed by a very large crowd. The distance was one mile down stream. Hanlan led from the start. Two-thirds of the way down they were on even terms and the finish was spirited, Hanlan crossing the line in the fast time of 4½ minutes. The two row again to-morrow. Hanlan says positively this is his last season as an oarsman.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity, of the Blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies, for a while, thinking the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alterative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being

GOVERNMENT EXTRAVAGANCE.

The Ontario Government receives large sums every year from the Dominion to expend for the benefit of the people of the Province. Since Mr. Mowat became Premier the subsidy has been largely increased, but owing to the extravagance of the Government the people do not receive the full benefit.

Since 1870 the expenditure on civil government has been increased from $164,909 to $311,765, an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

The expenditure for legislation has been increased since 1870 from $67,467 to $119,908.

In such ways as this the official salaries and expenses intercept the money that should be expended for the benefit of the people.

And the taxes of the people are increased by municipal funds being taken by the Government.

A change is necessary in the interests of the Province.

Four Liberal nominating conventions meet on the same day as the West Peterborough Conservative convention—next Saturday.

The Examiner refers the Review and Mr. Carnegie as "the local organ and its candidate." The Examiner has made a mistake—quite unintentionally, of course. Mr. Carnegie is the candidate of the Equal Rights Association, and the Review is not his organ. The Examiner will no doubt be grateful for this information and show its gratitude in its own peculiar and original way.

A DAY OF CONVENTIONS.

Archie Patterson Chosen as the Conservative Candidate in East Kent.

Ridgetown, May 6.—The Liberal-Conservative Convention here to-day was well attended. The names of Messrs. Ingram of St. Thomas, Archie Patterson, John Langford, David Gesner (warden of the county), Henry Buller, P. H. Bowyer (Ridgetown Standard), Dr. Clark, R. W. Willson and T. P. Watson were presented to the convention. After a number of addresses Archie Patterson was chosen unanimously as the standard bearer of the Liberal-Conservative party of East Kent to oppose Mr. Ferguson in the present contest.

W. H. Biggar (Ref.) in West Hastings.

Belleville, May 6.—Mr. W. H. Biggar received the Reform nomination for West Hastings at the convention held here this afternoon.

W. P. Hudson (Con.) in East Hastings.

Roslin, May 6.—About 200 delegates attended the Conservative convention here to-day to select a candidate for East Hastings. Mr. W. P. Hudson's name was the only one presented and he accepted the nomination.

Oliver Austin (Ref.) in South Norfolk.

Vittoria, May 6.—The South Norfolk Reform convention held here to-day was attended by a large gathering of delegates and representative men from all over the riding. These candidates were proposed: W. A. Charlton, Oliver Austin, reeve of Woodhouse; G. D. McCall, O. D. Dewitt, J. Ellis, W. H. Anderson, A. S. Ball, John Braley and R. Killmaster, all of whom retired except Oliver Austin, who was made the unanimous choice of the convention.

John Dryden (Ref.) in Ontario.

Brooklin, May 6.— The Reformers of South Ontario met here to-day to select their candidate for the coming election. Mr. John Dryden, the old member, was the unanimous choice of the meeting. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Dryden and Dr. McLaughlin of West Durham.

J. G. Holmes (Con.) in South Huron.

Exeter, May 6.—A meeting of the Liberal-Conservatives of South Huron was held at Hensall to-day, every polling sub-division in the riding being represented. Mr. J. G. Holmes of Toronto was made the unanimous choice of the convention to contest the riding for the Assembly in the interests of the Liberal-Conservative party of South Huron.

A. Robillard (Ref.) in Russell.

Bear Brook, May 6.—At the Liberal convention here to-day Mr. Alex. Robillard was unanimously chosen as the Assembly candidate for Russell.

Mr. W. C. Edwards, M.P., was selected as the Liberal candidate for the House of Commons.

Mr. Rykert Will Go to the People.

Ottawa, May 6.—Nominations in Lincoln for the Dominion Commons will take place May 15, polling May 22.

St. Catharines, May 6.—It is understood that the Conservatives will not hold a convention to nominate a candidate to fill the vacancy in the Dominion House caused by Mr. Rykert's resignation. The ex-member has fully decided to take the field on his own responsibility against all comers, Conservative, Liberal or Equal Righter. The Equal Righters will probably make a nomination.

KISSED HIS NEIGHBOR'S WIFE.

And the St. Kitts Jury Award the Injured Husband $125 Damages.

St. Catharines, May 6.—At the Spring Assizes to-day the case of Dunmede v. Hipple, an action for crim. con., was tried. The defendant, who is a church member, admitted that he had kissed plaintiff's wife on one occasion but denied further intimacy. Evidence was given to show that plaintiff had accepted $55 from a man presumably for improper conduct with Mrs. Dunmede. The jury returned a verdict of $125 for plaintiff.

ROOMY AND ATTRACTIVE.

A Commodious Cottage That Can be Built for Less Than $2,000.

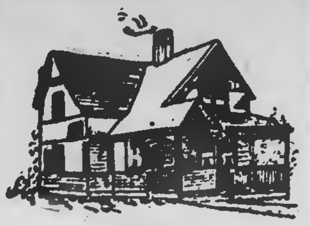
The design given herewith is one that is almost universally popular, which is information of special interest to those who build to sell. Those also who build low-cost cottages for homes should bear in mind that Dame Fortune regards them with unusual favor. Future prosperity may impose duties and awaken ambitions that will make it desirable to sell the small cottage and build more pretentious dwellings.

Following will be found a somewhat detailed description:

General Dimensions—Width, 28 feet 6 inches; depth, including veranda, 50 feet 10 inches. Heights of stories—first story, 9 feet; second story, 8 feet.

Exterior Materials—Foundation, brick piers; first story, clapboards; second story and roof, shingles.

Interior Finish—Hard white plaster ceilings; walls plastered for papering; soft wood floors, trim and stairs, finished in hard oil.



PERSPECTIVE.

Colors—Clapboards, lattice-work in front gable, sashes and piazza floor, light brown. Siding below window sills in first story, all trim and doors, dark brown. Brick work dark red. Wall shingles dipped in buff stain and brush coated. Roof shingles left natural.

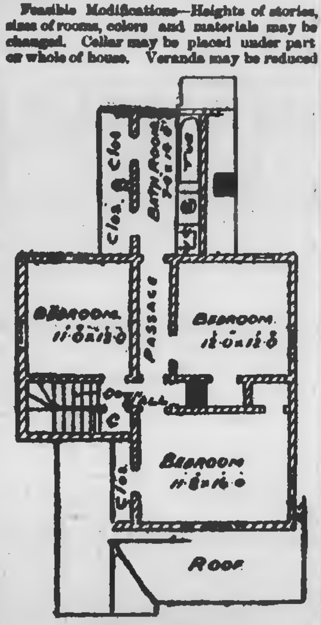
FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

Cost—$1,898, including mantels in parlor and library. The estimate is based on New York prices for materials and labor. In many sections of the country the cost should be less.

Feasible Modifications—Heights of stories, sizes of rooms, colors and materials may be changed. Cellar may be placed under part or whole of house. Veranda may be reduced in size. A part or all of the plumbing may be omitted. If heating apparatus be used one chimney will suffice.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

It may interest many to be advised that frame structures, well anchored, afford the best protection where cyclones and earthquakes prevail. A frame house is not so rigid as a structure of stone or brick; it will bend a good deal before it will break.

Misplaced Confidence.

The assassination of the late emperor of Russia, is to be commemorated at St. Petersburg by the erection of a magnificent church on the spot where the tragedy took place. A large sum had been subscribed toward the work, which is being carried on under the auspices of a committee, of which the Grand Duke Vladimir is president. The confidential functionary who had charge of the funds, in whom this aristocratic committee of course had "unbounded confidence," has disappeared, and £50,000 has gone with him, the melancholy result being that the emperor has insisted upon his brother, the Grand Duke Vladimir, replacing the deficiency out of his private fortune—an order which has caused the relations between them to become decidedly strained.

The Virtues of the Onion.

If I should be asked what was the best substitute for quinine I should say onions. Time and again the sleep-producing virtues of the loud-smelling onion have been sung, but comparatively few know how valuable it is as a cure for chills and ague. Several customers explain their boycott on quinine by saying onions are cheaper and quite as effective, and one man in particular, who has been a martyr to malaria for years, has been another being since he acquired the habit of chewing onion peel. The onion is used frequently to cure rheumatism with varying success, but I never heard of its failing when persevered in as a cure for malaria or chills.

Ashburnham School Board.

A regular meeting of the Ashburnham School Board was held last night. The members present were Messrs. J. J. Rooney, A. Ingram, F. Glover and F. Adams, and in the absence of the chairman Mr. Rooney presided. The reports of average attendance at the school were as follows:—Miss Bennett's room 47, Miss Stephenson's 43, Miss Smith's 38, and Mr. Strike's 45. An account from Salisbury Bros. for $8 and one from W. Croft for 80 cents were passed. Repairs to the school fence, gates and windows were ordered. Miss Smith's leave of absence was extended to the summer holidays on account of illness, and the Board adjourned.

THE OLYMPIC CLUB MINSTRELS.

A Crowded House Greets the Amateur Artists—A Good Performance.

Last night one of the largest audiences that has ever been squeezed into the Opera House jammed the hall to the doors. They crowded the seats, sat on window sills and filled the gallery, and made joyous the heart of the management. The performance was made up after the old-time minstrel lines and was very successfully rendered, considering that no professional assistance had been engaged to complete the programme. The audience were delighted with the fine appearance made when the curtain was raised disclosing the company in full evening dress and cork black faces and a variety of smile that promised fun all around. The blushes of the performers who were favored with approval were not discernable.

The Peterborough Amateur Orchestra played the accompaniments and some selections and were a great support to the choruses. The orchestra were on the stage behind the chorus, and also had the same dark looks that prevailed in front. The soloists were Messrs. Dunn, Elliott, M. Tierney and Gessicht, who sang admirably and in good voice the ballads and songs assigned. The end men, Messrs. Simons, Berritt, R. Tierney, Logan, Matchett and MacAdams, (Lindsay) made fun galore and worked off a large variety of jokes that provoked much laughter, Simons being particularly funny. Messrs. Matchett and MacAdams were placed at a disadvantage in their double end song, the music forwarded from Lindsay having been lost and another copy could not be had in time to allow a practice. This they learned on arrival here but pluckily determined to try to do their part.

The gentlemen of the chorus will be mentioned en bloc as particularly good, while Mr. Loucks, as the "middle man," was active, gentlemanly and clever. The specialties of the second part were all well taken. The banjo solos by Dr. Jebb (Toronto) being magnificently executed and a revelation as to the capabilities of the instrument in a master's hand. He well deserved the double encore received. Dr. Jebb also played in duets with Mr. J. F. Daly, our local banjoist, and they were heartily encored. Mr. Daly's playing is always a welcome addition to any programme. Dan. Simons and R. Tierney made a great hit in their double clog and double reel and had they responded to the encores given might have danced out the balance of the evening, so well was their dancing appreciated. Dan Simons also captured the fancy of the audience in his "Hurricane Jig." Frank Clarke, an old Peterborough boy, gave some clever musical specialities and was well applauded. One of the best vocal pieces was the trio by Messrs. Dunn, Elliott and Tierney, sung with admirable taste and skill. The management are pleased with the success, and pleased with a substantial addition to the club exchequer. After the performance the company were entertained to supper at the Palace Restaurant.

An Effective Advertisement.

The posters for the Queen's Birthday celebration is out. It is a three-sheet bill printed in two colors and typographically has been tastefully put together. The work was done in the REVIEW job room. The posters will be distributed among all the neighboring towns and villages and will no doubt prove an effective advertisement which will attract a host of visitors to our town on the Queen's Birthday.

No. 80 Speaks.

We have been requested to publish the following resolution, which was adopted at a meeting of L.O.L., No. 80, held in their lodge room on Tuesday evening, May 6th:—

"That inasmuch as a united movement on the part of English speaking Ontario, to show their unity and power, is absolutely needed in this the hour of danger to our Queen, our country and our open Bible, and inasmuch as the principles of the Equal Rights Association are based on the same foundation as that of our own glorious Order,—Be it therefore resolved, that the members of this L.O.L., No. 80, give their hearty support to Messrs. Kidd and Carnegie, the Equal Rights candidates for this county, and that all brother Orangemen be requested to rally to their support."

The Minstrels' Supper.

At the conclusion of the Olympic Club Minstrel performance on Tuesday night at the Opera House, the company were entertained at supper at the Palace Restaurant. Mine Host Dunn provided a splendid spread, a credit to the house and to Mr. Bowman, caterer. Over fifty sat down and partook and enjoyed the viands heartily after their vocal and other gymnastics. Then the people of the company who had exerted themselves in the interests of the evening were toasted and complimented and a pleasant hour was spent with songs and speeches. Mr. Ketcham, who had trained the chorus as far as the chorus would be trained, was thanked for his industry and attention, and Mr. Batcher and the orchestra were told that they were a mighty decent lot of fellows who deserved the best thanks and a deal more, for they rendered invaluable service.

A GOOD INSTITUTION

THAT SHOULD BE BETTER PATRONIZED BY THE PEOPLE.

The Annual Meeting of the Mechanics' Institute—The Directors' and Other Reports—Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the members of the Mechanics Institute was held Monday night. The President, Mr. T. A. Hay, was in the chair and there was a good attendance.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The PRESIDENT read the following report of the Directors:—

Your Directors, in compliance with the by-laws, submit for your consideration the following report of the affairs of the Institute for the year ending April 30th, 1890.

Business in general has been dull during the latter part of the year, and money scarce, and the Institute has suffered to a certain extent from the scarcity, as there has been a slight falling off in the amount received for the sale of membership tickets; but, in every other respect, the Institute has made fair progress. The number of books added to the library has been larger than usual, and the number issued to members shows an increase over last year's issue. The reference library is being increasingly consulted by members and occasionally by visitors or strangers who have asked for the privilege.

In the reading room several new and valuable magazines have been placed on the table in addition to those formerly used, and a new Albo Carbon gas burner has been put in, making it one of the best lighted rooms in town.

The drawing class in connection with the Institute was held as usual during the winter and the attendance was more regular than usual, so that there is a good prospect of those succeeding who have tried the examination required by the Education Department. Of those who competed at the examination held one year ago four obtained certificates since our last annual meeting.

The financial statement of the Secretary-Treasurer and the reports of the chairman of the Library and Class Committees are herewith appended.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOMAS A. HAY, President.

JOHN CORKERY, Sec.-Treas.

REPORT ON THE LIBRARY.

To the President Peterborough Mechanics Institute:

SIR,—Your Library Committee beg to report that since the last annual meeting a large number of books have been added to the library at a cost of $388.55 and they have been classified as follows, viz.—

Biography	25	vols, value	$ 21 90
Essays and Lectures	7	" "	8 20
Fiction	46	" "	34 20
History	38	" "	61 60

Religious Works	6	" "	10 65
Science and Art	14	" "	24 55
Voyages and Travel	30	" "	65 15
	314		$388 55

During the year we have been presented by Mr. Geo. Tighe 2 vols. of Parliamentary papers dating back to 1836 and 1837; by Jas. Stevenson, Esq., M.P., vol. iv. of the proceedings and transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, 54 vols. Sessional papers and 8 vols. of the journals of the House of Commons and the Senate of Canada. These and other presentations are included in the above list.

The number of members on 1st May, 1890, was 287. These took out of the library during the year 8296 vols., being an increase of 716 vols. over the number read last year. History, Ficton, Poetry, Periodicals, Religious Works, Voyages and Travels and Miscellaneous each show an increase as an indication of the class of reading that is done by the two hundred and eight-seven members. I give below a classified list of the books taken out, viz:

Biography	173	vols
Essays and Lectures	112	"
Fiction	3866	"
History	246	"
Miscellaneous { Natural History Standard Works, &c. }	2251	"
Philosophy	22	"
Poetry	57	"
Periodicals	129	"
Religious Works	119	"
Science and Art	227	"
Voyages and Travels	497	"

Your committee have had in view the publishing of a printed catalogue of the books and would recommend their successors to complete the arrangements for this, as it should increase the membership, which is ridiculously small, 287 out of a population of some 12,000, for it must be remembered we draw a considerable membership from the surrounding country, and your committee hope that the distribution of printed catalogues may set before the people some of the advantages a trifle invested in a membership ticket would give them and largely augument our numbers.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

F. J. LEWIS, Chairman.

P. HENRY,
C. H. CLEMENTI, } Auditors.

Peterborough, May 2nd, 1890.

REPORTS ADOPTED.

The reports were adopted on motion of Mr. Roger, seconded by Mr. Robertson. The mover commented on the small patronage the Institute received considering the advantages it offered.

THE DIRECTORATE.

The election of President and Directors was proceeded with, Messrs. P. Henry and S. R. Armstrong acting as scrutineers, and resulted as follows:—

PRESIDENT—T. A. Hay, re-elected by acclamation.

DIRECTORS—Dr. Brennan, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Clarke, John Corkery, James English, Wm. English, John Fraser, F. J. Lewis and Robert Robertson.

The meeting then adjourned.

—Take good care of your beard and keep it clear of gray hairs so as to retain your young looks by using Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

A Challenge for the Boys.

The Elect Baseball Club, of Toronto, would like to arrange with some of the amateur baseball clubs of Peterborough, not to exceed 18 years of age, for a match to be played in Peterborough on May 24th. Secretary's address is Arthur Dunman, 51 Berkley-st, or James Wilson, 306 Ontario-st., Toronto.

To Nervous Debilitated Men.

If you will send us your address, we will mail you our illustrated pamphlet explaining all about Dr. Dye's Celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and Appliances, and their charming effects upon the nervous debilitated system, and how they will quickly restore you to vigor, and manhood. Pamphlet free. If you are thus afflicted, we will send you a Belt and Appliances on a trial.

VOLTAIC BELT CO., Marshall, Mich.

Advertising the Town.

For some time a special committee of the Board of Trade has been at work on a folding pamphlet containing a lot of material likely to advantageously advertise the town. It is the intention of the Board to distribute these in the United States and Canada. They will be out shortly.

Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. Sold by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Some Changes in the Schools—The School Grounds to be Graded—The Janitor and the Teachers.

The ministrel show at the Opera House failed to have sufficient attractions to prevent a quorum of the members attending the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening. Mr. James Stevenson, Chairman, presided, and seated around the long table were Messrs. Hill, McKee, Denne, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher, Bradburn, English, Corkery and Dumble.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The minutes of the last meeting were read when the following communications were read:—

Miss Eliz. R. Angus wrote from the Normal School at Ottawa, asking if there was a kindergarten school in Peterborough and if not what were the prospects of establishing one, she wishing to be engaged as directoress.—Received.

Miss Lizzie E. Rutherford, of the West Ward School, asked for leave of absence to attend the Normal School.—Received.

The Treasury Department, Toronto, sent the cheque for $367.48 in payment of the Government grant.

Messrs. Stratton & Hall notified the Board that they had been instructed by Mr. Jas. Bogue to collect the sum of $70.50, the amount of his account against the Board for services in connection with the South Ward School.—Referred to the Chairman of the Property Committee, with instructions to protect the Board.

FEES AND ATTENDANCE.

The fees collected for April were reported as having been $250 in the Collegiate Institute and $7 in the Public schools.

The reports of attendance were received as follows for the month of April:—

	On Roll	Ave.
Collegiate Institute		149
Central School	573	477

THE GROUNDS TO BE GRADED.

Mr. DENNE, Chairman of the Supervision Committee, made a verbal report of a visit of inspection which had been made to the ward schools. The schools were found to be working in a satisfactory condition, but there was some grading needed in the grounds.

Mr. DUMBLE moved that the Property Committee be authorized to have the grounds of all the schools graded and the out buildings put in order. This was carried.

CHANGES IN THE SCHOOLL.

Mr. DUMBLE, Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, presented that committee's report as follows:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—The Committee on Appointments having considered the matter of Sergt.-Major Rundle's application for an increase of salary beg to report that the sergeant has proved himself a most effective instructor. He is in attendance at the school about eight hours a day and the Inspector and Principal report that much benefit has been derived from his services. Your Committee therefore recommend that Major Rundle's salary be increased by $50 a year to be computed from January, 1890.

Your Committee also report that Miss Cameron has been appointed to take charge of the primary room established to relieve the rooms of Miss Wrighton and Miss Blackwell, Miss Cameron's appointment to extend to the mid-summer vacation at a salary at a rate of $150 a year.

Miss Davidson has been appointed for a like term and at the same rate of salary to take charge of the lower room at the Fourth Ward School.

Regarding the Kindergarten and lower rooms in the school on consideration it was found expedient to remove the advanced pupils of Miss Wrighton's room to Miss Blackwell's, the lower pupils of Miss Blackwell's to Miss Wrighton's, this making these two rooms of more even grade while the youngest pupils of both rooms were removed to Miss Cameron's room while such of the young pupils as desired to enter the Kindergarten school have been allowed to do so under the new arrangements as reported at the last meeting. The Kindergarten school has a full supply of pupils.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE JANITOR AND THE TEACHERS.

Mr. DUMBLE said that complaints had reached some of the trustees that the relations existing between the janitor of the Central school and the teachers were such that they could no longer exist. He therefore moved that the matter be referred to the Supervision Committee to investigate and report on.

ALL NON-RESIDENTS TO PAY FEES.

Mr. HILL enquired in reference to the fees of non-resident pupils at the North Ward school. He said there were several pupils attending that school who lived outside the town, and one of the parents of these children had said that he owned property in town and paid taxes on it and was not entitled to pay fees.

This was said to be a mistake.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. ENGLISH,—That in accordance with the law the Principals of the Ward schools be requested to enforce the payment by non-resident pupils of fifty cents per month as provided by law. Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Geo. A. Schofield, Druggist, Peterborough.

A NEW STYLE OF WORK.

Mr. H. Silver Desires to Establish a Factory Here to Manufacture Vineer Work.

Mr. Hugh Silver, of Lindsay, has on exhibition in the store formerly occupied by Mr. Johnston Carey, samples of vineer work for which he has the patent in the Dominion, United States and England. This work, which Mr. Silver, originated himself, is beautiful in effect and varied in its uses. It consists of a very thinly cut straight-grained wood of dark and light colors, which are glued to a heavy paper. The work is turned out in any design and is splendidly adapted for ceiling, wainscoting, picture frames, counters, church pews, fancy doors, etc., and can be manufactured at a very cheap rate. Mr. Silver is now desirous to begin the manufacture of this vineer work and he is exhibiting his work in Peterborough in the hope of forming a joint stock company and establishing a factory. He would want about $30,000 capital to start with, and would employ thirty or forty hands at first, but, as it is an entirely new line of goods, he believes the demands on the factory would soon cause it to increase to far larger proportions. Mr. Silver says he has met with considerable encouragement and is hopeful of establishing a factory. The exhibition of the work is well worth seeing and all citizens are invited to examine it.

Late Labor News.

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor says the demand for an 8-hour day will next be made by the coal miners, who number 280,000.

The New York carpenters have practically attained complete victory in their fight for an 8-hour day. Only four shops of any importance refuse to grant the demand.

The Pather Lloyd says the labor revolt was the work of a new international union founded during the congress at Paris which passed secret resolutions on this matter.

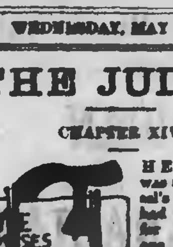
THE JUDGE!

CHAPTER XIV.



HE dressmaking was the little damsel's idea, and she had three reasons for it. The first one was that as none of their friends were to know where they were, they might become short of money; the second was that by associating with the people of the neighborhood in that close way they would learn more about them than they possibly could in any other manner and this the little damsel, being of an adventurous nature, valued exceedingly; and the third reason was that she thought it best Margaret should have something to keep her constantly employed, lest remorse for deceiving her father and anxiety for her lover and curiosity concerning the strange necessity that placed her in such a position should make her ill.

It had taken the united eloquence of Jeanne and Pond to persuade Margaret to leave home under such peculiar circumstances, and had she been less wearied mentally, they would never have succeeded. As it was she found a certain pleasure in yielding her will to others. The little damsel had been very determined, indeed, and for no other reason than that she desired to assist Pond and firmly believed that all that delightful young man said must be true.

It must be taken into consideration that both the girls were at the age where they were not averse to mystery and romance, and upon this Pond had craftily counted.

"Besides," Margaret told herself over and over again, "no harm can possibly come, and I am pleasing poor Harry."

At the "high five," the Misses Browne were received with much consideration. Their severe cashmeres, elegantly made, were looked at in the light of advertisements for their trade, and Margaret's music was considered wonderful. There was a young woman present who was introduced with the announcement that she was an actress—"the well-known actress, Miss Tessie Thompson." Margaret acknowledged her scraping bow as she prodded her memory in vain to recall her.

"I dare say you have a stage name also, Miss Thompson," she said.

"No," returned Miss Thompson, sitting down with one foot under her; "I said when I first went on the stage that I was going to make a name—that is, you know, if I did make a name—under the right one, the one I was born with. Ma wanted me to change, but I said, 'No, ma; those who laugh now may not laugh so hard some time. Those who cut us now may be very glad to come around at my receptions yet, and we will stick to the old name.'"

"Then you have it printed boldly on the programme, do you?" asked Margaret, making conversation with her thoughts far away.

"Well, not yet. I have never been on the programme yet. I am in the chorus. I go on at almost all the theatres. When anything comes here that needs a lot of people, I get in. I have never had any speaking part. Except now and then we all have to call out something, or make a murmur."

"You have a great work before you then," said Margaret entering into the spirit of thing. "It is very difficult to make a murmur. I have never heard one yet that sounded at all like a crowd's murmur. Why do you not make yourself immortal, Miss Thompson, by inventing a successful murmur?"

"Well," said Miss Thompson, grinning till she showed a perfect set of good-sized teeth, "I might. I believe I will. It is well enough to talk about climbing the ladder of fame, but the thing is to get hold of it."

She raised her plump hands and carefully adjusted her yellow wig, which she wore with the most innocent candor, expecting no one to be deceived, but believing it to be a charming ornament.

The hostess was evidently proud of having such a lioness to introduce to the Misses Browne, and was quite beside herself with gratification to see them taking so kindly to each other. Much to the dismay of the little damsel, she found herself besieged by the son of the hostess. He was an overgrown lad who bore the proud name of Barnum, and he seemed to take it as a very great compliment when Jeanne asked him if he was any relation to the greatest show man on earth. He insisted on fanning her and with each motion of the fan he succeeded in hitting her somewhere, to his ever-recurring embarrassment. Margaret and Jeanne not being accomplished in the exciting game of "high five," they had to be instructed, and so far from considering this to be a drawback to the evening's pleasure, the guests rivaled each other in their explanations of the game, and corrected each other in so many particulars that the learners concluded it must be an indefinite thing, like poetry, and so hard to define. Young Barnum refused to act as Jeanne's partner for the reason that it would interfere with his fanning; he therefore consented to be her opponent, and disinterestedly undertook to watch her cards and tell her how to play. Margaret had for a partner a punning young man in the undertaker business. He gave her a card with his name, Jasper Shields, on it, and his business address. The card bore the information that the most fashionable burial outfits were kept constantly on hand.

"Do you really mean to say, Mr. Shields," said Margaret, looking at the card, "that there are fashions in burial clothes?"

Mr. Shields smiled cautiously behind his hand, as if afraid of offending the friends of the departed, and said:

"There ain't a business, Miss Browne, that has more dash and go to it than ours does. We have to be modish if anybody does. No one likes to have the corpse of any one they was fond of laid away in out of date things. Your play, Miss Browne; be careful now and remember what I told you about trumps. It's been a splendid winter for trade. The business was never in a more flourishing condition, and we have a man now that is a 'daisy.'"

"Yes?" faintly ejaculated Margaret. The rest were evidently used to the commercial enthusiasm of Mr. Shields.

"Yes. He can beat us as nice a class of trade as you would care to see."

"How charming," murmured Miss Thompson, putting out her foot so that every one could see her little white kid slipper. It had seen much service, and was not exactly congruous with the green plush dress sported by its vivacious mistress, but it showed that Miss Thompson knew what was what, if anybody did. Above it was the glimpse of a pink silk stocking, which had been painstakingly mended with solferino silk.

"Yes," said Shields, replying to her remark. "He don't let no one get ahead of him, that is sure. He talks right up. We use nothing but the best linings for our coffins, and our hearse is as pretty a waggon as you would see in a day's walk. I'd like to show it to you some day, Miss Browne."

"Thank you," said Margaret. "I hope you don't want me to ride in it, Mr. Shields?"

"Eh! No. At least—oh! now, I say that is good! Eh! Well, well. I didn't know you made jokes, Miss Browne. I like a joke myself, especially a pun. Usually I make a good many. My friends like them very much. I may say they are a good deal laughed over, Miss Browne. But they don't seem to come as easy as usual to-night. Perhaps you don't care for puns, Miss Browne?"

Margaret protested that she did—she adored them. Mr. Shields thereupon went into a sort of clairvoyant trance, out of which he emerged after a time to say:

"Do you sing?"

"Not very much," said Margaret, "Do you?"

"Yes," sighed Shields, gratified to see that her remarks were taking the right direction. "I sing falsetto."

"How pleasant," murmured Margaret.

"Yes," went on Shields, "I never did till last week, when I went to my dentist, and he gave me a false set o' teeth. That's how it come." He assumed a look of owl-like sobriety, while his friends nodded to each other as much as to say, "this was worth waiting for."

"I should think you would have a brisk trade, Mr. Shields" cried the little damsel, feigning not to see that Margaret was shaking her head at her.

(To be Continued).

MR. MEREDITH AT TORONTO.

The Leader of the Ontario Opposition Addresses a Mass Meeting.

TORONTO, May 7.—The leader of the Ontario Opposition addressed a mass meeting in the Pavilion last night. Mr. Meredith received an enthusiastic reception. The opening sentences of his speech were a eulogy of the first Government of Ontario, that of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald. He spoke of the railway policy inaugurated then and the surplus of almost $4,000,000 left by that Minister, and which had been so managed that he claimed hardly any of that sum was now left. Continuing in his criticism of the Treasury Department, he claimed that the Government had sold the timber lands of Ontario, the chief source of revenue of the Province, without consulting the Legislature.

As to the course of the Opposition in the House Mr. Meredith claimed that a great part of the good legislation of the Province was placed on the statute books by the party led by him, and the Government received every assistance from that party in framing fair legislation.

The matter of the license laws was the next one touched upon, and the speaker claimed that in the administration of the license law was to be found one of the grievous sins of the Government. He contended that there had been no demand on the part of the temperance people for the appointment of license commissioners by the Government. He said that in Toronto was an example of the evil methods of the Government.

With reference to the education question Mr. Meredith said that the sentiment of the Opposition was in the words of the motto, "English Schools for Ontario. [Cheers.] The church, he said, in separate school matters had usurped the functions of the state. It was the duty of all to see that the State had control of the education of its children. "No church, Catholic or Protestant, shall intrude within the domain of the State or the sacred sovereign right of the people." And if separate school trustees were but voting machines to be worked by the hierarchy, then in decency, the hierarchy should at once be given the power to elect the trustees themselves.

The concluding sentences were that separate schools were engrafted on our constitution and it was regretted that our Roman Catholic friends cannot see their way to do without them. But while that was so, if it was found impossible to protect the Catholic electors from the coercion of the bishops, then an agitation ought to arise from this hour to wipe out the separate schools. He held that he was no Protestant crusader, that this was no Protestant movement, but one for civil and religious liberty. Mr. Meredith resumed his seat amid cheers, after speaking for about 2½ hours, declaring his motto to be "For God and My Right."

Not a Pimple on Baby

Cured by Cuticura

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy, when one year of age, was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions, which the doctors said was scall-head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and, I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

TO WEAK MEN

Suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise (sealed) containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical work; should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Moodus, Conn.

Then he clasped her with emotion,
Drew the maiden to his breast,
Whispered vows of true devotion,
The old, old tale,—you know the rest.
From his circled arms upspringing,
With a tear she turned away,
And her voice with sorrow ringing,
"I shall not see my bridal day."

This dramatic speech broke him up badly; but when she explained that her apprehensions were founded on the fact of an inherited predisposition to consumption in her family, he calmed her fears, bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for her, and she is now the incarnation of health. Consumption fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. But it must be taken before the disease is too far advanced in order to be effective. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM is the Great Modern Remedy. For Croup and Whooping Cough it is almost a specific. It is an old standard remedy, and sold universally at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. The 25-cent bottles are put out to answer the constant call for a Good and Low-Priced COUGH CURE. If you have not tried the Balsam, call for a 25-cent bottle to test it.

CARPETS! CARPETS! CARPETS!—A Large Consignment of Brussels, Tapestry and Kidderminster Carpets come to hand to-day. Some very handsome designs in Hall Carpets, with stair to match.

BARGAIN SEEKERS—We are showing this week many lines purchased from the bankrupt stock of a large wholesale house in Toronto. Among these is a very choice lot of German Table Linens, selling fast at 60c. a yd. former price 75c., and a lot of 50 dozen fine bleached Table Napkins in ½ and ¾ sizes. Also square and oval shaped Fringed Doylies, odd sizes of Striped Ginghams, sold everywhere at 10c., our price 8c.

OUR DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT is fast overflowing with all the latest novelties; Printed Wool Challies, All Wool Grenadines, Silk Grenadines, Persian Cashmeres and many new styles in Trimmings. A choice lot of Ruchings direct from New York.

OUR TAILORING DEPARTMENT is very attractive at present. A customer remitting for a suit recently, sent these remarks: "I have seldom paid a bill with so much satisfaction as I do this. I am highly pleased with the suit. Fit, finish and material up to the best London make, ever turned out to my order."

DRESS MAKING DEPARTMENT—The popularity of our Dressmaking Department under the management and supervision of Miss Reid, is evidently appreciated. All work tastily and artistically done with promptness.

NEW LINES —OF— Dry Goods

[illegible] DAILY, AT

T[illegible]ULL'S.

We would call attention to the following goods which are worth remembering and asking for:—

Turkey Red and White Edgings and Embroideries from 2c. to 10c. a yard.

Six-button Undressed Kid Gloves, at 85c. a pair.

Ladies' Taffeta Gloves, 20c. a pair.

Ladies' Super Taffeta Gloves, 25c. a pair.

Ladies' ex-Super Taffeta Gloves, 30c. a pair.

Children's Gloves, all colors, 10c. a pair.

Boys' Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy of 4 years, for 10c.

Boys' Ribbed Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy 8 years for 12½c.

Boys' Ribbed Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, for 17c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 8 years, 22c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, 30c.

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them:

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

THE ASYLUM HORROR.

LATEST ESTIMATES PLACE THE NUMBER OF DEAD AT 150.

Sorrowing Relatives Looking for Their Friends—Only a Few Names of the Lost Obtainable—Many of the Male Patients Perished.

LONGUE POINTE, May 7.—Dr. Duquette, the Government medical inspector, places the loss of life in the asylum fire at 60 at the least. The loss financially is $1,500,000; insurance $300,000.

Others deride the statement that the number of the dead does not exceed 60. It is known by the last report to the Quebec Government that there were 1780 inmates instead of 1300, and this much is certain that no one will ever know the number of victims. From collateral information it must be that there are 150 dead. The coroner, with Premier Mercier, Judge Dugas, Senator Thibaudeau and two crown ministers arrived at the scene this afternoon, and if enough material can be found an inquest will be held. The firemen have left the ground and the heat is dying out of the ruins.

It is now known that many of the wards were locked and that in cases where the firemen did not break in the doors whole roomsfull perished miserably.

The sight of the screaming wretches yesterday was bad enough, but to-day there was a sadder spectacle in the weeping relatives seeking in vain for some tidings of some member of their family. Men coming up town to-night to dinner were startled by seeing a lunatic parading the streets rejoicing in his freedom and menacing women till he was secured. The paying patients fared best, but the great loss was among those confined in the upper stories and amongst those imprisoned in the dark basement cells.

Fire Commissioner Perry characterises the building as a death-trap and as a disgrace to a civilized country. According to the law of chances the disaster must have come sooner or later, and if it had been at night in the dead of winter when the Montreal brigade could not come to the relief not a patient in the 1700 would have escaped. Many of the firemen are suffering from exposure and injuries. Lambert of No. 7 station had a leg broken and one correspondent had an an ankle sprained by leaping from his horse.

What steps will be taken to provide a new asylum have not been made known. At present the patients are confined everywhere in convents, outhouses, the exhibition buildings and in neighboring buildings. The startling feature of to-night's report is that a large number of men have perished, all of whom were thought to have escaped, but it is absolutely impossible to add any names to the list of the dead.

The only names of dead that can be procured are: Two sisters named Gravel, Miss McMullen, Miss Theriault, Sister Bonteiller, Sister Lumine, Sister Victoria McNichol and Sister Labate of Sacred Heart Convent. The latter was a patient in the violent ward.

The following are missing: Victorine Beaudry, Augustine Laroux, Camille Marchmont, Delphine Archambault, Marie H. Denis, El H. Louis, Christine Demers.

AN HEIRESS' CHINESE HUSBAND.

Yan Phou Lee, the Yale Graduate, Sued for Divorce.

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—Yan Phou Lee, graduate of Yale, '87, has been sued for divorce by his wife Elizabeth Ward Jerome Lee. The defendant is the author of many magazine articles, and was the editor of a Chinese-American periodical. He was graduated with honors at Yale. His wife is heiress to $100,000 in her own right. Lee is reputed to be the son of a Chinese nobleman. He was first graduated at the Hopkins grammar school here. The couple were married at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. D. Gilbert Jerome, in this city, July 6, 1887.

During the past year Lee has been employed in San Francisco. The complaint alleges infidelity with some woman in San Francisco, whose name is not given, and at Portland, Ore., with some other unknown woman. The filing of the papers has caused a sensation.

BANK OFFICIALS ARRESTED.

Trouble Growing Out of the Bank of America's Suspension.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—President Louis Pfeffer, Cashier James L. Dungan, Assistant-Cashier Joshua Pfeffer and Paying Teller W. H. Hergesheimer of the suspended Bank of America, were arrested here to day on two warrants sworn out by Roger Maynes, a director and stockholder of the bank. Maynes swears that the day before the suspension President Pfeffer and Cashier Dungan received from him as deposit $3910, though knowing the bank was insolvent. He also alleges Assistant Cashier Pfeffer and Teller Hergesheimer refused to honor a check drawn by him for $6008 when he had over $5500 on deposit, and that they declared Maynes had no funds to his credit.

New York's Weekly Wage Payment Bill.

ALBANY, May 7.—The New York Assembly has passed, 108 to 1, a bill providing that: "Every manufacturing, mining or quarrying, lumbering, merchantile, railroad, surface, street, electric and elevated railway (except steam surface railroads), steamboat, telegraph, telephone and municipal corporation and every incorporated express company and water company shall pay weekly each and every employe engaged in its business, the wages earned by such employe to within six days of the date of such payment."

Not Seriously Damaged.

PICTOU, May 7.—The steamer Alexandria arrived here this afternoon. The damage to her bottom is not very serious.

Newspaper Men in Conclave.

CINCINNATI, May 7.—The Executive Committee of the National Editorial Association met to-day to prepare a program for the meeting to be held in Boston, June 28. The Executive Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association also met here and the two held a conference to discuss the prospect of uniting the associations.

To Extend the Duluth & Winnipeg Line.

DULUTH MINN., May 7.—The Duluth & Winnipeg Railroad directors at a private meeting here decided to increase the capital stock of the company to $2,000,000 to be paid in at once. No bonds are for sale, and the road will be continued from the present terminus to the international boundary at once.

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

A SENSATIONAL EPISODE AT MIDNIGHT.

The Tariff Bill Passes Its Third Reading. Sir Richard Cartwright's Amendment Being Defeated on a Party Vote—An Alleged Immoral Publication.

OTTAWA, May 7.—Mr. Scriver this afternoon questioned the Postmaster-General as to whether or not The New York Mercury, complained of as an immoral publication, is to be allowed to come through the mails. Mr. Haggart replied that the matter was under the consideration of the Government.

Sir John Macdonald, in answer to enquiry, said Monday next would be set apart for discussion of the reports of the Rykert and Middleton Committees.

The banking bill was again considered in committee. Several trifling amendments, mainly explanatory, were made and one new clause was added respecting the note circulation of the Bank of British North America and the Banque du Peuple. Their charters do not impose on the shareholders of these banks double liability for the notes, and as they thus offer less security than the other banks Mr. Foster proposed that their authorised note issue should not be to the full amount of the paid-up capital, as is the case with the others, but only to the extent of 75 per cent. of their capital, and that for any further issue desired they should deposit cash or bonds as security for the same.

After recess the bill was reported from committee.

Mr. Foster moved the third reading of the tariff bill and Sir Richard Cartwright thereupon moved an amendment, declaring that in view of the excess of revenue over expenditure reported and estimated in the Budget it was inexpedient to continue to tax the necessities of life.

Mr. Foster in reply showed that the tariff did not bear heavily upon necessities and met Sir Richard Cartwright's arguments, that because the revenue was more than sufficient the tariff should be lowered, by showing that the high tariff was maintained for protective purposes more than for revenue.

After further discussion the amendment was lost on a party division, 68 to 98, and the bill was then read a third time and passed.

There was quite a sensational period in the House about midnight when Dr. Hickey, after a lengthy introductory speech, in which he applied all the uncomplimentary epithets he could think of to Mr. Charlton, wound up with this resolution moved in amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply:

That inasmuch as on May 4, 1886, John Charlton the then member for North Norfolk, delivered a speech in the House in which he stated referring to a return presented on March 27, 1886, in respect of timber limit licenses that: "I have gone through it carefully and some of the results of that investigation I will give to the House later on." That later on, in a list tabulated by himself under the heading of members of the House of Commons and Senate who have received timber limits by order-in-council for themselves, he specified C. E. Hickey, M.P., co-applicant with William Broder, Q.C., for self and partner, 50 miles, Lake Kaskgaikok, Man., April 30, 1881.

That at the village of Lyndoch on Feb. 14, 1887, the said John Carlton made a solemn affidavit declaring among other things: "That the said returns contained an application from William Broder, that Charles E. Hickey, M.P., was a co-applicant, that the application was made April 30, 1881, and that an order-in-council for 50 miles on the south side of Lake Kaskgaikok issued upon said application April 20, 1884."

That on March 11, 1890, John Charlton, the present member for North Norfolk, repeated the same specific statement.

That inasmuch as the said Charles E. Hickey has not at any time made an application for a timber limit license for himself nor had he at any time been a partner in any sense of William Broder and therefore could not have been a co-applicant with him and was not with any other person, and that William Broder made the said application himself and for himself, all of which the correspondence fully sustains.

That no order-in-council was ever issued granting a timber limit license to the said Charles E. Hickey, as has been stated and sworn to have been by the said John Charlton, the member for North Norfolk.

Therefore the conduct of the said John Charlton in the premises was and is discreditable, dishonest and scandalous.

Mr. Charlton admitted that he had made a mistake, but denied that he was actuated by any thing but the most praiseworthy desire.

Sir John Macdonald said if ever there was a malicious attack by one member upon another this was one, as the affidavit made and circulated plainly showed.

Mr. McMullen commenced to interrupt and Sir John Macdonald at length rather testily said: "Hold your tongue, sir." Mr. McMullen called upon the Speaker to have Sir John recall the words, but the speaker told him that he had no right to interrupt Sir John and that he therefore did not fell inclined to call the Premier to order.

Sir John then continuing advised Dr. Hickey to withdraw his motion and bring it in in such form that the matter could be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections. Mr. Hickey withdrew the motion, promising to bring it up again next session.

The House spent some time in supply and adjourned at 1.30 a.m.

GUION'S GOBBLE.

Alleged to Have Stolen $30,000 Bonds of a Toronto Company.

NEW YORK, May 7.—An evening paper says: William H. Guion, the junior partner of the ocean steamship firm of Williams & Guion, has been discovered in the act of stealing $30,000 worth of bonds over which he was co-trustee with William H. Booth, president of the Third National Bank, at least so asserts his co-trustee. Some years ago the Canadian Insurance Company of Toronto, desiring to do business in this state, deposited a certain number of securities in a safe deposit company of this city and appointed Booth and Guion to serve as trustees. No one besides the two possessed keys or knew the combination to the lock of the box. Of late Guion has been unsuccessful financially and has been greatly cramped.

A short time ago Booth discovered that 30 of the bonds valued at $1000 each were missing from the safe deposit box. Booth telegraphed to the Canadian Insurance Company who sent an agent here to make an investigation. Guion explained that he had become suddenly and seriously embarrassed and that it was absolutely necessary for him to have money at once. In his extremity he took the bonds and secured $21,000 on them at one of the city banks. Guion, however, confessed to his utter inability to replace the stolen bonds. The insurance company obtained the balance of $9000 and has brought suit against both trustees to recover the $21,000.

TORONTO, May 8.—Investigation shows that there is no such concern as "The Canadian Insurance Company of Toronto." The only two Toronto companies that are known to do business in New York are the Western and the British America. One manager said he always understood that moneys or securities of this kind would have to be deposited with the Government at Albany and not with a safe deposit company, or under any such arrangement as described in the despatch.

An Alleged Horse Thief Arrested.

BLENHEIM, May 7.—Henry Bryan from Merlin was arrested this morning charged with stealing a horse and buggy from William Hickey for whom he had been working. The magistrate sent the prisoner to Chatham jail to await his trial.

Drowned Himself.

QUEBEC, May 7.—An old man named John Mather was seen last evening to walk down the Louis embankment and leap into the River St. Charles. His body was recovered some time afterwards. Deceased was from St. Catharines, Que.

Morin to Be Hanged May 16.

OTTAWA, May 7.—Morin, the Montmagny murderer, will be hanged May 16, the executive having refused to interfere.

Welland Convicts Sentenced.

WELLAND, May 7.—Judge Falconbridge to-day sentenced L. W. Wallace, forgery, to 3 years, and P. Crowley, manslaughter, to 7 years in the penitentiary.

FIRED ON FROM AMBUSH.

Rival Parties of Italians Have a Shooting Match in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., May 8.—An attempt at wholesale assassination, believed to be the result of an Italian vendetta, was made at an early hour this morning and resulted in the serious wounding of three men. Eight Italians engaged in the stevedore business were riding up Esplanade-avenue in a wagon at the time. When they reached the intersection of Claiborne-street a party of men were discovered in the shadows of the trees down the centre of the two wide avenues. As the wagon approached the party under the trees opened fire upon the men in the vehicle, and for a minute there was a sharp fusilade, 25 shots being fired altogether.

Most of the shots came from the men lying in wait, four or five being fired in return by the men in the wagon. The people living in the neighborhood rushed from their homes to enquire into the cause of the shooting, but before they arrived on the scene the assailants had disappeared. It was discovered that three of the men on the wagon—Tony Matrongo, Vincent Caruso and Salvadore Soncera—were badly wounded. Caruso was shot in the right leg near the hip joint, Matrango received a ballet in the left leg below the knee and Soncera was wounded in the left hip. All the bullets were of large calibre, having been fired from rifles or muskets and caused ugly and serious wounds.

The other five men in the wagon escaped injury by jumping to the ground as soon as the firing began and lying down. These men stated that they were so greatly surprised at the attack and the whole affair happened in so short a space of time that they were unable to obtain a view of the assailants so that they might be identified. They were at a loss, they said, to account for the murderous assault, but one of them intimated that there was ill-feeling between them and the Provenzano gang. Acting upon this hint and upon other information the police arrested 10 men, and charged them with the assault. These are Vincent Provenzano, Peter Provenzano, George Provenzano, Joe Provenzano, Tony Jumporara, A. Pelligrini, Nicholas Giglio, Peter Salvador, Charles Adonio and Salvador Giglio. The men under arrest took the matter stoically, said they knew nothing about the affair and were prepared to establish alibis when they were given an examination.

The cause of the attack is believed to grow out of the rivalry between the Matrangas and the Provenzanos in their business. Many disputes have already occurred between the rival parties and one or two shooting scrapes have followed. Lying in wait with intent to kill is capital crime in Louisiana, but it is doubtful if any convictions will result from this affair, as it will be difficult to secure testimony against the criminals, whoever they may be. It is evident that the police will receive little assistance from the assaulted party, as they profess to be ignorant of their assailants. The general opinion is that they will seek vengeance in their own way.

CRAZED BY "GREEN GOODS."

Mr. Hogue of North Carolina Was Too Nervous for that Sort of Business.

NEW YORK, May 8.—J. J. Hogue of Grover Cleveland county, N.C., and his brother in law, R. F. Hambright, who is said to be a wealthy planter, arrived at the Continental Hotel in Newark early on Friday morning. They wore homespun clothing and looked travel-worn. Hambright is a powerfully built man and weighs 225 pounds. Hogue is a much smaller man, of a very nervous temperament. Hamright carried a small black satchel, which never left his hand. In the billiard-room of the hotel, after breakfast, the two men whispered so much and appeared to be so absorbed in mysterious business that the police were notified to keep an eye on them. Detectives Ward and Cosgrove were detailed. They noticed that a man named Watson appeared to have a great deal of business with the strangers, and that frequent conferences were held in room No. 32. Watson is the agent of a "green goods firm," but the police do not know him.

Hogue was particularly nervous Saturday morning. The men were evidently waiting for Watson. He didn't come, and Hambright went "over to New York to see the sights." He had hardly left the hotel before Hogue seemed to lose all self-control. He wandered away and was not heard of again until Detective Gregory of New Brunswick, N.J., found him in that city acting like a lunatic. As the detective approached Hogue to arrest him Hogue drew a revolver, but Gregory was too quick for him. At the station house he calmed down sufficiently to tell something about himself. He said that he and Hambright had come north to deal with the "green goods" men. When his brother-in-law left him he became seized with the idea that he was about to be arrested. It seemed to him as if every person he met was about to make him a prisoner. How he reached New Brunswick he did not know, but he thought he must have walked, as a ticket that he had purchased at the Market-street station was still in his pocket and had not been punched. Hogue had two 38 calibre revolvers, every chamber loaded, and about $30 in gold coin and a lot of counterfeit bills. He afterward showed the police where $300 in good money was sewed in the lining of his vest.

When Hambright returned to the Continental Hotel after his trip to New York he was surprised to learn that Hogue had not been seen since the morning. He finally reported the case to the police, who learned where Hogue was. Hambright was allowed to go to New Brunswick, and afterward started for the south with Hogue. The circular which brought the two men North said the green goods were made from stolen Government plates, and were of course, indistinguishable from lawful money.

Earned His Insurance.

DETROIT, May 9.—Joseph Gingreau, an employe of the Detroit Electric Light and Power Company, was told by the superintendent to go to the basement and cut one of the wires of the lightning arrester—a duty with which he was familiar. An hour afterward he was found dead beside the arrester. The shock of a thousand volts from a live incandescent light wire had instantly killed him. A small burnt spot on the forefinger of the right hand showed where the deadly fluid had touched him. The company insures all its employes' lives for $5000.

Love's Young Dream a Nightmare.

DYSART, IA., May 8.—Ella Taylor, the 14-year-old niece of W. P. Lincoln, living near this city, attempted suicide by shooting herself with a revolver, but the ball glanced from her skull and she will recover. Her attempt at self-destruction was prompted by despondency, brought on by an unhappy love affair.

McCarthy Knocks Out McHale.

BUFFALO, May 7.—Charles McCarthy of New York and Charles McHale of Philadelphia fought 20 rounds at the Erie Athletic Club to-night with 2-ounce gloves for $500, $100 to the loser. McHale was knocked senseless in the 20th round and the fight was awarded to McCarthy.

DOINGS IN THE DOMINION

JOHN BECKER'S SUIT AGAINST SOUTH WATERLOO'S M.P.

A Clandestine Wedding and What Came of It—Mrs. Hendip's Claim for Alimony—Dolly Bosley Up to Her Old Tricks at Hamilton.

TORONTO, May 8.—Messrs. Ritchie, Lossing & Ludwig for John Becker yesterday at Osgoode Hall issued a writ against James Livingston, M.P. for South Waterloo, for $20,000 for alienating the affections of Mrs. Becker from her husband. Mrs. Becker is the youngest daughter of Mr. Livingston and was privately married to Becker about last Christmas at Shakespeare. Becker was then a dry-goods clerk at Baden, the home of the Livingstons. After the ceremony the newly-wedded pair returned to their respective homes, intending to keep the marriage a secret for a time. The news reached Mr. Livingston, however, very soon and the irate father sent his daughter to friends in Michigan, and has since kept her from living with her husband. Becker has several times attempted to assert his marital rights to Mrs. B.'s society but has been worsted in his attempts by the obdurate M.P. Mrs. Becker, it seems, is in sympathy with her husband and encourages his present action. An injunction restraining the father from asserting his parental authority was also applied for yesterday. The case will be tried at Toronto at next assizes.

Mr. Justice Robertson gave judgment yesterday in the case of Hendip v. Hendip. This is an action brought by Mrs. Annie Hendip against her husband, John Hendip, for $2000 a year alimony. Mr. and Mrs. Hendip were married in Port Hope in 1862, and have a grown-up daughter and two sons. They have been living apart in this city for some time, the wife claiming that the husband did not use her right. She was granted interim alimony of $500 a year, but the judgment of Mr. Justice Robertson was for permanent alimony with costs to the defendant, the Master-in-Ordinary to fix the amount of the alimony.

Policeman Young yesterday found the body of a newly-born male infant stuffed beneath the front steps of 48 Bulwer-street. The remains were conveyed to the morgue, where Coroner Johnston will hold an inquest this afternoon.

Detective Alf Cuddy made an important arrest last night when he brought Phil, alias "Slim," Harrington into Police Headquarters. Harrington is the third and last of the gang of burglars who entered Father Egan's Thornhill residence on the morning of Sept. 29, 1887. The other two, John Williams and John Giraux were arrested some time ago by Detectives Davis and McGrath and sentenced to four and five years respectively in the Kingston Penitentiary. The valuables secured by them were a gold watch, a revolver and $30. The watch, which Father Egan prized highly, was subsequently recovered. At the time of the burglary Harrington was for hitting the rev. father over the head, but was prevented from so doing by his companions. He is one of the old Spellman gang. The arrest was made in Court-street. "Slim" is supposed to have been in Montreal during the past few weeks.

THE RIFLE LEAGUE MATCHES.

A Deputation Ask Sir Adolphe for Free Ammunition.

OTTAWA, May 7.—A deputation representing the various provinces of the Dominion from which teams have been entered for the league matches had an interview with the Minister of Militia this evening to prefer the request that the ammunition required for the matches of the Canadian Military Rifle League might be issued by the Government free of expense to the competitors. Among those present were Lt.-Col. O'Brien, Lt.-Col. Denison, Lt.-Col. Amyot, Major Carpenter, Messrs. Cockburn, MacIntosh, Dickinson, Brown, Montague, Hall, Curran, Kenny, Daly and Davis.

It was pointed out that teams had been entered from the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Quebec, Halifax, St. John, Winnipeg and Ottawa and from rural battalions in all the provinces with the exception of British Columbia. As all the expense of the matches will be borne by the regiments entering teams, it was urged that the Government should supply the ammunition, in view of the fact that the proposed matches, being carried on at battalion headquarters, promised to give to the men of the various corps, especially of the rural battalions, more direct encouragement than did the great contests for the prizes offered by the Dominion and Provincial Rifle Associations.

The minister in reply entered very fully into the question and promised to give the request made the most favorable consideration.

UP TO HER OLD TRICKS.

Dollie Bosley Reappears in Hamilton—Canadian Beauties Wanted.

HAMILTON, May 7.—Dollie Bosley, who victimized Dr. Cochrane at Brantford last December, has just paid Hamilton a visit, among her dupes being Nurses Coleman and Stiff of the hospital. Dollie, who has swindled in a dozen Canadian towns, is described as about 28 years of age, five feet high, very stout, full bust, thick lips, full-faced and dresses her hair on the top of her head. She is lady-like, accomplished and a splendid conversationalist. As a bright, vivacious and artistic swindler she is without an equal on the police records at present.

A Buffalo woman has inserted advertisements in the local papers for 20 good-looking young ladies between 15 and 20. They are wanted as exhibits of Canadian girls in the Buffalo Museum of Wonderland and will not be allowed to flirt.

Chief of Police McKinnon has determined to enforce the Sunday observance law in the case of the cigar stores and to prevent druggists from selling the weed on the first day of the week.

Dollie Reaches Guelph.

GUELPH, May 7.—Last night a city clergyman received a telegram from Suspension Bridge, warning him to be on the lookout for a lady-sharper, who would probably turn up here to-day. This morning his meditations were disturbed by a lady visitor, who had rather a sad tale to narrate of her personal experiences, having been accidentally left behind by her cousin en route to Stratford. The reverend gentleman told her that by a most remarkable coincidence he had received a telegram the night before warning him against just such a visitor as she was. She said it was impossible she could be meant, as she was a lady, had a gold watch, etc., and if she only had 25 cents to pay for a telegram she could get plenty of money. She also said her father had an intimate friend here, a lawyer, but she could not remember his name, but would know it if she heard it. Various names were mentioned, but none of them were recognized and at last she said she thought it was Fletcher. She called herself here Miss Edwards.

Drowned in a Spring.

GUELPH, May 7.—Miss Margaret Black of Aberfoyle went to a spring for a pail of water this morning and not returning search was made for her, when her lifeless body was found in the spring. Deceased was subject to fits and it is supposed fell into the water while in a fit.

Godkin's Daily Arrest.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Lawyer Peter Mitchell today obtained a warrant for the arrest of Edwin Godkin of The Evening Post charging him with libel.

Cronin Counsel Refused Pay.

CHICAGO, May 7.—A final refusal to pay the bills of the special counsel engaged for the prosecution in the Cronin case has been made by the County Board. The bills were those of Mills and Ingham for $9850 and W. J. Hynes for $9650. The vote on the question of payment stood eight to seven.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity of the Blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies, for a while, thinking the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alterative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being above all others, we used it with marvelous results. The sore healed and health and strength rapidly returned." — J. J. Armstrong, Weimar, Texas.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time." — E. L. Pater, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier." — W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1890.

MR. MEREDITH'S "LIEUTENANTS."

A GREAT to do was made in the Liberal organs because, a few days ago, three Conservative members of the Legislature were in Ottawa. All sorts of conjectures, insinuations and statements were made, the principal "evil" seen in the visit by the organs being that these members had gone to consult with Sir John Macdonald regarding the Ontario campaign. It is too bad, perhaps, to deprive them of the little comfort they received from this idea, but the fact is that they did not go for that purpose. In a letter received here yesterday from Mr. F. J. French, M.P.P. for Grenville, one of the "lieutenants" referred to by the organs, that gentleman says:— "I did not see Sir John Macdonald except at a distance and did not even speak to him, nor did he know of my presence." How Mr. French and the other gentlemen arranged the policy or plan of campaign with Sir John by seeing him at a distance it is not easy to explain. Sir John attends to Dominion business and Mr. Meredith and his "lieutenants" give their attention to Ontario affairs. After June 5th, when their policy will be endorsed by the people, they will be in a position to do the Province still better service.

THE independent papers of the Province are opposed to the Mowat Government candidates in this campaign. And so are the independent electors.

A GENTLEMAN acquainted with the Mississauga lake locality suggests that the intention may be to milk the deer for that cheese factory and steamer.

THE Methodist Conferences meet on the 4th and 5th of June. The 5th is the date of the election. The Government cares little for the convenience of the clergymen or delegates who wish to attend these conferences and who, if they attend to their ecclesiastical duties, will be disfranchised.

MR. STRATTON now compares himself to the late W. H. Scott. If his modesty continues to increase in the same elegant proportions what will we hear next? Mr. Scott, however, did not support the Mowat Government, while Mr. Stratton has been its slavish supporter. And that is not the only contrast the comparison will call to mind.

IT is the opinion of the Canadian Baptist that the Mowat Government's tax-exemption measure, passed at the last session of the Legislature, was "halting and illogical." That is the view of every unprejudiced person. The Baptist also alludes regretfully to the attitude of Mr. Mowat as disappointing, while the Conservative leader advocated the true principle.

THE Examiner last night evinced a burning desire to know where the REVIEW stands in local politics. On the principle that anyone who shows a desire for information should not be chided on account of his ignorance, it might be out of place to point out that our contemporary must have seen the REVIEW'S views in these columns. For its benefit it may be said now that the REVIEW'S platform in local politics agrees with Mr. Meredith's; but as the Examiner does not know (or misrepresents) that gentleman's platform perhaps it will be none the wiser now.

A PITIFUL plea is made in the Examiner on Mr. Stratton's behalf that credit may be given him for obtaining Government aid for the Nicholls Hospital. The tears of our contemporary would almost move one in this case to give credit where credit is not due, but the fact that the Inspector visited the hospital before Mr. Stratton was a member at all, pointed out what was required to be done to receive Legislative aid, and that upon these conditions being complied with the aid was given, precludes our complying with the Examiner's tearful request. By the way, we do not remember seeing in the Examiner any commendation of the member for this riding in the Dominion Parliament for his efforts on behalf of the constituency, although it might not wish to admit that it was not a "fair-minded opponent" of that gentleman.

Floods in Maine.

AUGUSTA, ME., May 7.—The Kennebec River is very high to-day, being several feet over the wharves. The ice-stack on North's wharf, belonging to R. W. Sarle and seven others, was undermined by the flood and collapsed this forenoon, a portion going down the river. The stack contained 2000 tons of ice and had been sold for $2000. Twenty thousand tons of ice in houses above the dam are liable to go under the water. The houses at other points are also endangered. There is a large quantity of snow at the head waters of the river and if warm weather continues more serious results are anticipated.

A New York Failure.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Joachim Maidhof, one of the oldest and best-known men in the dress trimming trade, failed here to-day. Liabilities over $100,000, assets as yet unknown. Maidhof was formerly colonel of the 11th Regiment.

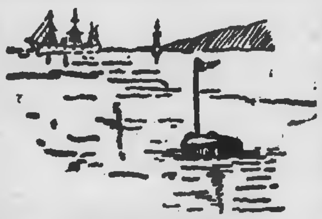
A NEW SUBMARINE BOAT.

THE NOVEL CRAFT CAN REMAIN UNDER WATER 24 HOURS.

It is of French Device, and is Called the Goubet—The Results Said to be Highly Successful—Its Size and Capacity.

While the new Spanish submarine boat Peral is having its final trials at Cadiz and all Spain and Spanish America is putting itself out to honor the young inventor who invented and constructed it, a new submarine boat, whose performances are alleged to throw those of the Spaniard entirely into the shade, is being tested successfully at Cherbourg, in France. France has already made one experiment of that sort, the Gymnote, of which much was prophesied but little heard after a trial trip or two. That was a boat like the Peral, built to carry a crew of ten or a dozen men, and constructed much on the model of an ordinary fish torpedo vastly enlarged. The new boat, called the Goubet, after its inventor, is about 18 feet long and 5 feet in diameter, and requires a crew of but two or three persons. Its total weight is seven tons, so that it can be easily carried about on board of an ordinary man-of-war, or transported by rail from one port to another. The hull is made of a single piece of bronze, and it is shaped somewhat like an elongated egg, with a pointed nose, projection like fins at the sides, and a little propeller for a tail. Upon the top is a small dome, through which is the entrance to the interior. Around the edges of this are deep holes, filled with glass. The motive power, like that of the Peral and the Gymnote, is electricity. The air in the vessel is kept pure by means of oxygen compressed in tanks, while the foul air is expelled by pumps. The supply of oxygenated air is regulated automatically in such a way as to keep the atmosphere within the boat at normal pressure.

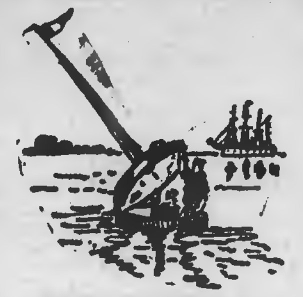


APPROACHING AN IRON-CLAD.

It is claimed for the new boat that it can be handled under water or upon the surface with perfect ease, twisting and turning at full speed under the absolute control of the pilot; that it can remain below twenty-four hours, or even longer if necessary, without ever having to come to the surface, and that it can remain motionless at any given depth beneath the surface for any length of time, instead of having to keep moving constantly to avoid coming to the surface, as was the case with the Gymnote. Minor advantages alleged to exist are the possible substitution of submarine oars for motive power in case of the breakdown of the engine; the provision by means of a ton of lead attached to the keel and detachable at the touch of a button, for the instant rise of the boat to the surface in case of accident; the ease of the steering which is done by the same propellor that moves the boat, the possibility of sending messages to the surface enclosed in wooden cases, while the boat remains submerged.

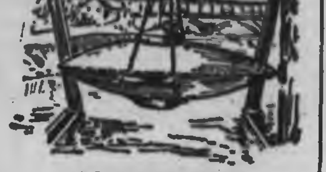
The handiness of the vessel upon the surface has been proven at several trials, as has also its ability to remain beneath the surface for any indefinite time. The longest time it has yet remained submerged was eight hours. There were two men aboard then, and they suffered no hardships whatever, but passed the time playing cards. After that test it was alleged that there was oxygen enough in the chambers for twenty hours.

Another time, after the vessel had remained below for several hours, it came to the surface unexpectedly, and it was supposed that some accident had happened. When a boat reached the spot, however, the crew had opened the man hole and were sitting on the edge waiting to get some coffee with which to wind up the dinner they had been enjoying twenty feet under water. The same tests have proven the ability of the boat to remain motionless under water at any given depth. A point which remains to determined is the speed of the boat and the ability to manœuvre it safely under water near a rough and uneven coast, or among the shipping in a harbor with its anchor chains and other obstruction. The authorities of the port at Cherbourg have refused to allow the use of electricity in the enclosed portion of the harbor where the Goubet now is and the inventor of the boat has had therefore to take out the electrical apparatus used in the first tests and substitute a temporary contrivance for moving the boat during the tests as to buoyancy and other points. These are concluded, and the electrical power will be replaced and the final trial made in a short time.



THE CREW CAME UP FOR COFFEE.

The design is that the vessel shall be navigated most of the time with its dome above water. Through the little glass windows in the side of this the surface of the sea for a long distance around can be constantly surveyed. The dome is so small that it will be a hard mark to hit when in motion, and the boat can safely approach within a comparatively short distance of a hostile vessel with the dome above water. When the balls from the rapid-fire guns of the enemy get to coming unpleasantly near, the submarine Captain can take a good aim, sink below the water, and shoot ahead at full speed, until the torpedo with which the bow is armed strikes something and goes off. If nothing is struck, the Captain will know that he has undershot his mark or that his aim has been bad, and he will have to come to the surface and take a peek at his surroundings before trying again.



THE GOUBET OUT OF WATER.

M. Goubet is however, at work upon an apparatus which if successful, will do away with the uncertainty due to the impossibility of seeing far ahead below water, which is a chief difficulty with submarine navigation. He says that by an arrangement of mirrors he will be able, at the next test of his Goubet, to see everything upon the surface of the water anywhere near while his boat remains completely submerged. When he can do this he can slip up safely at his leisure to within a few feet of the biggest ironclad afloat, fire a torpedo into one side of her, dodge around to the other side and give her another one there, and if that doesn't do the business, blow her propellers and rudder to pieces with a third torpedo, all without the folks aboard the big boat getting a glimpse of him. The only trouble will be that the big ironclad will be moving about all the time at the rate of fifteen or twenty miles an hour, if her commander suspects submarine boats are around, and unless the Goubet has a good deal more speed than such a small boat is likely to develop, it will never get within hitting distance of the ironclad except by luck.—N. Y. Sun.

AN ERROR BY JUDGE LYNCH.

Tardy Proof of the Innocence of a Wild Mob's Victim.

COLUMBIA, S.C., May 7.—The inquest on the body of Willie Leaphart, the negro who was lynched at Lexington on Monday, was held today. The testimony of Sheriff Drafts and his wife went to show that five citizens of Lexington, among others, were implicated in the lynching, and that one led the mob. After retiring for 15 minutes the jury returned the startling verdict that Leaphart came to his death by gunshot wounds at the hands of parties unknown. Solicitor Nelson, who conducted the examination of the witnesses, was completely thunderstruck at this verdict, in which the testimony was utterly disregarded. He will place the matter before the grand jury and sift it to the bottom.

Governor Richardson made public the affidavits upon which he had respited Leaphart. One of the affidavits is made by United States Deputy Marshall Miller, in which he alleges that after the trial and conviction of Leaphart, Charlie Cannon, brother of Miss Rosa Cannon, stated to deponent, in presence of other witnesses that he did not believe Willie Leaphart had assaulted his sister, and that he believed she had been persuaded by certain persons to state that the negro had committed an assault in order to convict him. Charlie Cannon also makes affidavit that his sister told him privately that she was not assaulted or injured. There are also two letters from Miss Cannon to her mother, in which she says: "He never hurt me any, only my throat is a little sore. He never tried to do anything except to keep me from hollering."

Sunday School Anniversary.

One of the pleasing events of the year is the Charlotte Street Methodist Sunday School anniversary. This year will crown all previous efforts. We direct our many readers to the Sunday announcements as follows:—On Sunday next at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services will be conducted by the eloquent Dr. Wm. Searle, for sixteen years chaplain of Auburn prison. In the afternoon at 2.45 there will be a grand temperance meeting to be addressed by Rev. Dr. Searle and others. Choice temperance music will be rendered by the Sunday school choir and by the children of the school. As Dr. Searle is one of the most brilliant and effective prohibition speakers on this continent, and as there will sure to be a great crowd in the afternoon, a special silver collection will be taken up at the door so as to avoid confusion. Please bear in mind that the special collections on Sunday next are in aid of the Sunday school fund.

A FORESTER'S FAVOR.

Election of Officers and a Pleasant Presentation.

The regular meeting of Court Little John, C. O. F., held last evening was an interesting one. The election of officers for the ensuing term and their installation took place. Bro. W. M. Green, D.D.H.C.R., assisted by local brethren, officiated. The newly elected and installed officers were as follows:—E. A. Kemp, C.R.; W. J. Stock, V.C.R.; R. H. Lithgow, R.S.; John Sawers, F.S.; W. S. Cooke, Treas.; Geo. Sloan, Chap.; Alex. Carter, S.W.; T. E. Staunton, J.W.; J. Cannan, S.B.; Geo. Chambers, J.B. Bros. J. Sawers, Thos. Rutherford and W. M. Green were appointed delegates to the High Court which meets on the first of June at Kingston.

A PLEASANT PRESENTATION.

After the officers had been duly installed and the order of good and welfare had been taken up, Bro. W. M. Green, W.D.D.H.C.R., and Bro. W. S. Cooke, P.C.R., presented Bro. R. J. Neithercut with a handsome P.C.R's jewell, accompanied by the following address:—

To Bro. J. J. Neithercut J. P. C. R. of Court Little John No. 92, C. O. F.

DEAR SIR AND BRO.—We, the officers and members of of Court Little John, No. 92, C. O. F., learn with sincere regret of your intended removal from amongst us and we feel that your removal will be a great loss to our Court you having at all times taken a great interest in its prosperity and welfare. As a slight token of the esteem and appreciation of your valuable services by your Bro. officers and members of the Court we ask you to accept the P. C. R.'s jewel, hoping that you may long be spared to wear it and that our beloved Order will always find in you a staunch supporter and earnest advocate. Realizing that our loss will be a great gain to those amongst whom you are about to locate and wishing you and your wife every blessing and increased prosperity in your new home on behalf of the brother officers and members of Court Little John No. 92, C.O.F., we remain

Yours in L.B. and C.,
W. M. GREEN, D.D.H.C.R.,
W. S. COOKE, S.P.C.R.

Bro. Neithercut, who was entirely taken by surprise, made a suitable reply.

A Close Call.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Ladies Auxiliary held their monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. H. S. Griffin presided. Considerable business was attended too which will be a great help in our work. Arrangements are being made for an "At Home" to be given on May 29th, to celebrate the induction of the general secretary.

The adjourned meeting of the board of directors will be held to-night at 7 p.m.

The Nassau Lodge.

L. O. L. No. 457 (130 strong) unanimously passed the following resolution on Monday evening, 5th May, and request its publication:—

"That we, the assembled members of L O. L. No. 457, are satisfied with the principles and platform of the Equal Rights Association and of the Equal Rights candidates now asking the confidence and votes of the electors of east and west Peterborough, and believe that all Orangemen and loyal Protestants should support them, and so unite and be such a power in this Protestant Ontario that there will be no further encroachments by the Romish Church, a church which has been endowed and bowed down to by the politicians of both the old political parties."

Clergymen in Session.

As mentioned last evening the members of the Deanery of Northumberland, which is composed of Peterborough and Northumberland, met here. Eight of the twelve clergymen of the district were present. At 8.30 o'clock in the morning Holy Communion was celebrated at St. John's church, Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector, officiating, assisted by Rev. C. S. Sills, of Brighton. From ten o'clock until one a session of the members was held under the presidency of Rural Dean Davidson, of Colborne. At noon the members were entertained at dinner at the Snowden House by the Rector. In the afternoon another session was held until five o'clock and in the evening a service was conducted at St. Luke's, Ashburnham. There was a fair congregation, composed of the members of both St. John's and St. Luke's. Rural Dean Davidson read the services, Rev. Messrs. Walker, of Campbellford, and J. C. Cooper, of Hastings, read the lessons, and Rev. W. E. Cooper, of Grafton, preached the sermon. The matters under consideration during the day were practical matters affecting the welfare of the church in this deanery and matters which will come before the Synod in June. It was resolved to hold the next meeting in Colborne on the first Tuesday in September.

Among the Red Coats.

Battalion drill is called for this evening at the drill shed. Every man is expected to be on parade.

The first battalion march out of the season will be held on Tuesday evening next.

An unusual interest should be evinced by the men of the battalion this year as it will be a summer of unusual events. The visit of the Queen's Own on the 24th should spur them to proficiency, while the contemplated trip to Toronto on Dominion Day will be another incentive.

Hard drill and an intelligent interest will make the 57th boys compare favorably among the military which are to be in Toronto on the First of July. The Empire says in speaking of the summer carnival:—"The battalions which have been invited to take part in the military demonstration are: The 6th Fusiliers, Montreal; Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa; 15th battalion, Argyle Light Infantry, Belleville; 57th battalion, Peterborough Rangers; 14th battalion, P.W.O.R., Kingston; 12th battalion, York Rangers; 13th battalion, Hamilton; 38th battalion, Dufferin Rifles, Brantford; 7th Fusiliers, London, and all the Toronto corps. The American corps invited are: The Light Guards, Detroit; Cleveland Greys; 7th regiment New York, and the 13th regiment, Brooklyn. The Dufferin Rifles and the 6th Fusiliers have already accepted the invitation and it is expected that all the other Canadian battalions will accept as well as some of the American regiments. It is expected that about four thousand troops will take part in the military parade."

THE BAPTIST MISSONS.

A Missionary Week—The Women's Home Mission Circle—The Growth of the Mission Work.

This has been a mission week in the Baptist church in Peterborough. On Sunday Rev. Mr. McLaurin, a returned missionary who has been laboring among the Telegus in India and who is now Superintendent of Baptist Foreign Missions, preached two missionary sermons in the Murray-st. church, and yesterday two more interesting and instructive missionary meetings were held. The result is obvious and as Rev. Mr. Parker remarked last evening the members of the Baptist congregation here have received a great deal of light and information in regard to their foreign missions.

The meetings yesterday were held under the auspices of the Women's Home Mission Circle of the church and proved to be of a very interesting character. In the afternoon a meeting for ladies was held in the church. Mrs. Lilly, of Toronto, Secretary of the Women's Home Mission Board, was present and gave a very interesting address, full of information, on

THE HOME MISSION WORK.

The address had been carefully prepared and was detailed in its description of the work. After referring to the necessity of the Home Mission work as well as the labor in the foreign fields, Mrs. Lilly described the methods of working of the Woman's Home Mission Society which had been organized a few years ago. In 1885 she said there had been only 18 circles raising $690, but last year there were 140 circles raising $4,000. The height of the Society's ambition was to see a circle organized in every Baptist congregation. The object of the Society was to raise money to supplement the funds or salaries of poor congregations or mission stations. In this way poor people had the Gospel preached to them who might never had heard it at all. They were doing missionary work at Granlee, in Quebec, Bracebridge in Muskoka, in the Parry Sound district, and in Calgary, in the Northwest. The lady then proceeded to speak of the work being done in each of these places, telling of the assistance in money that was being given either to pay the missionary's salary or assist to erect a church. She also told of the good that had resulted from missionaries' labors and related two remarkable conversions that had occurred at Sault Ste. Marie through the instrumentality of the missionary there. Mrs. Lilly also referred to the Indian work which was fast pressing its demands upon them, and in closing spoke a few earnest words to the ladies of the Home Mission Circle in Peterborough, telling them to remember the work in their prayers, to assist by generous liberality, by attending the meetings and by their example show to others that they were in earnest and in this way awaken interest.

Rev. Mr. McLaurin also gave an interesting and instructive address on the Zeanna work in India and the ladies were attentive listeners, as he sought to awaken an interest in the work among the poor unfortunate women of India.

THE EVENING MEETING.

A sumptuous tea was served in the basement of the church at six o'clock, which was partaken of by the members of the Home Mission Circle and their friends. At eight o'clock a good audience had assembled in the church, when Rev. P. Clifton Parker opened the meeting.

After the opening exercises and an anthem by the choir, Mrs. Lilly, by request, repeated her address of the afternoon and she received a very attentive and interested hearing.

Rev. Mr. McLaurin also gave another short address, in which he did not take up any particular line of mission work, but gave a few very interesting experiences of his own and described a few of the native characters with whom he had came in contact. These experiences, while furnishing a most interesting narrative, served to illustrate the mode of work among the Telegus and were attentively listened to.

THE GROWTH OF MISSIONS.

Just before the closing exercises, Rev. Mr. Parker took occasion to speak of the remarkable growth of the Baptist missions. Six years ago that church had expended $4,000 for home missions and to-day they were spending at least $16,000. Six years ago they had expended $6,000 in foreign missions and now the amount spent was about $20,000. Thus while the home missions had grown the foreign missions had also increased, so that it was plain that the two were not in opposition one to the other but were for the one God of missions.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

Organizing for the Campaign.

A largely attended meeting of the supporters of Mr. Carnegie, the Equal Rights Candidate, was held in the committee rooms (old Council Chamber, Opera House block) last evening for the purpose of organizing for the campaign. Shortly after 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Mr. Carnegie, who, after briefly explaining its object and necessity for energetic work, asked for nominations for a chairman of the general committee, when it was moved by Mr. Kendry, seconded by Mr. Henry Best (several other gentlemen rising at the same time to second the nomination), that Mr. Pousette be chairman. The motion was carried with applause. Mr. Pousette in taking the chair thanked the meeting, saying that he was glad to undertake the labor and responsibility involved in the necessary organization for carrying on the contest and would not grudge a moment of the time which he would have to give to consummate the election of their trusted candidate, Mr. Carnegie. He then asked the meeting to nominate a secretary, when it was moved by Mr. J. L. Hughes, seconded by Mr. C. W. Sawers, that Mr. Robt. Weir be secretary. The motion was carried with applause. The work of organizing Ward Committees for the town was then proceeded with, a large number of those present volunteering their services. There will be meetings in the same room, which has been secured for the use of Mr. Carnegie's committees on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Sporting Sparks.

The Athletic baseball nine expect to play a game in Lindsay on the 24th inst.

The Bicycle Club will have the second of their fortnightly runs this evening, when every member is requested to be on hand.

The Secretary of the Cricket Club, Mr. Sam Ray, has accepted two more dates for matches here. The 'Varsity team will play here on July 1st and the East Toronto club on the 13th of August.

The first cricket match of the season, as already announced, will be played here on Saturday afternoon next. The game will be between the first eleven and an eleven of all-comers with the pro.

Stapleton's Coming Sales.

THURSDAY, May 15.—Sale of houses and lots property of Mr. J. H. Stephens, jr., at the store on Water-st., 2 doors north of Stevenson's coal office. Sale at 7.30 sharp. Terms liberal.

United in Matrimony.

A happy matrimonial event took place at 226 George-st. last evening when Mr. W. J. Outram was united in marriage to Miss Nellie Pugh. Rev. S. J. Shorey performed the ceremony and Miss Ida Outram was bridesmaid and Mr. C. A. Wright was best man. The friends of the happy couple will wish them happiness.

—This has been a quiet week in police circles. There was another blank at the Police Court this morning.

—Belleville's assessment returns places the total population of that city at 10,028 and the total assessment at $4,004,728.

—The last couple of nights there has been a heavy frost. Last night, according to Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer, the mercury fell to 20°—12° of frost. On Tuesday night it was still colder, registering 20°.

—Church entertainments this evening:—St. John's Church semi-annual "At Home"; St. Paul's Church Juvenile Mission Band entertainment, and a sugar social in connection with the Baptist church at Mrs. Fowler's, Fowlers' Corners.

Personal.

Mr. Robert Weir was elected Deputy Grand Master of British North America of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland at the Supreme Grand Lodge meeting in Toronto this week. This is a high honor in the Order and is the highest office ever held by any Orangemen of this county. Mr Weir will receive the congratulations of his brethren.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"Captain C. H. A. Williams, late of the 3rd regiment of cavalry, and brother of the late Col. Williams of Port Hope, is spending a few days in the city. He is taken orders for an original Canadian novel, written by Miss Maud Ogilvie entitled 'Marie Gourdon—A Romance of the Lower St. Lawrence.' The scene is laid chiefly in Rimouski and the heroine is a descendant of some Scotch colonists, part of one of Wolfe's highland regiments which settled there in 1790. Captain Williams is meeting with great encouragement."

A Veteran's Views.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—I was agreeably surprised to witness the ardent zeal displayed by the loyal citizens of Peterborough, as shown by the number of volunteers who assemble weekly in the drill shed (Central Park) for instruction in company drill and field movements. One evening last week I was vividly reminded of by-gone days on beholding the 57th Battalion at drill under command of the gallant Adjt.-Captain Dennistoun. The professional manner in which he told off the battalion, the clear, distinct instructions given by him to covering sergeants, aids and rank and file, would have done credit to an older officer of the regular army, and showed clearly that he must have given more than ordinary attention to the perusal of the drill book. While the adjutant was thus imparting instructions to the battalion, Sergeant-Major Rundle had a squad of recruits under his command at the farthest end of the drill shed, exercising them in squad drill at open order with intervals.

Here I am constrained to mention that this same Sergeant Major Rundle was also a Col. Sergeant and drill instructor in my own old corps, the 17th regiment, and as such was very much respected, both for his high sense of discipline, as well as his entire knowledge of drill. I am sure that his ability as a drill instructor who has come from such a distinguished regiment as the 17th, which has always been designated in the common parlance of military men as a crack corps, must be a great acquisition to the gallant 57th Battalion. Peterborough can also boast of a troop of cavalry and a detachment of field artillery, the former commanded by Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, and the latter by Capt. Sanderson Should Great Britain ever again be forced into war with any nation, Peterborough will not be backward in sending her quantum of volunteers to the front to swell up the auxiliary forces of British North America as a factor of the English nation to fight for the honor of Canada and the glory of the British Crown; or should the Fenians or halfbreeds of the Northwest ever again make a raid on the peaceable inhabitants of this free and glorious country of ours, we will be well prepared to give them a warm reception with the bayonet, and make them skedaddle back, as we had done before, faster than they come. Although war is a necessary evil sometimes, the best guarantee against it is to be always well prepared to meet the insidious foe.

The of number public schools which are well attended, and the number of teachers employed verify the advanced state of civilization in Peterborough. The facilities for a sound and liberal education to the rising generation are remarkable features in the city's progress which I would like to dilate upon if time and space would permit. Suffice it to say at the present time, however, that the Collegiate Institute, a splendid building opposite the Court House Park, caps the climax of all the other educational establishments of the city. Here a staff of well trained teachers are employed under the supervision of the Principal, Mr. Long. The opportunity for attaining the highest degree of perfection in classics, modern languages, science, English literature and mathematics, cannot be surpassed by any similar Institute in Canada.

The advantages to children who apply themselves diligently to their studies are often the very best and cannot fail to bring forth good fruit in due season. There are large recreation grounds and a well equipped gymnasium in connection with the institute. The boys and girls are divided into classes and exercised by squads in gymnastics and calisthenics by Sergeant-Major Rundle, whose ability as an instructor in those graceful exercises cannot be surpassed. I myself was very much edified and amused on several occasions while witnessing the sergeant-major exercising the squads in marching and extension motions, with club practice in quick time, produced by one of the pupils by music on the piano supplied for that purpose. The young ladies as well as the boys are well practised in those exercises which never fail to give strength to the muscles and a graceful movement to the body. No person can appreciate the benefit conferred on the physical superstructure of the individual except those who have gone through them.

They invigorate both mind and body with a heathful energy. I would like to have written a protracted account of the town of Peterborough, with its magnificent public and private buildings, its large and well equipped manufacturing establishments which are numerous and important, and the commercial intercourse and railway facilities, but as I am well aware that space will not admit of a lengthy detail just now, consequent on the coming provincial elections, I will forego the pleasure until a more fitting and convenient occasion. But before the unrelenting scissors cut me off, I desire to thank the loyal citizens of Peterborough with many expressions of gratitude for the cordial manner in which they have received and appreciated my literary endeavors by subscribing so largely to my autobiography, i.e., "Stirring Incidents in the Life of a British Soldier," as well as my new book, "The Young Hussar or Lady Iris's Adventure." With much pleasure I subscribe myself yours faithfully,

The Queen's Birthday—Political Meetings—The Bridge Needing Attention.

Correspondence of the Review.

ANNIVERSARY OF EBENEZER CHURCH.—On the Queen's Birthday, Saturday, 24th May, there will be held on the grounds adjourning the above church the grand annual picnic, which will be, I may say, the best one yet, as there will be any number of the fair sex, young and old, to wait on the wants of the guests. People are expected from the east, the west, the north and the south, to partake of all the nice spread. Dinner and tea will be served on the grounds and in the church. Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Lakefield, will preside and several others of the same cloth will give short addresses. The funds collected will be applied to painting and repairing the church. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Reid are taking the entire management and their efforts are always crowned with success.

BADLY WANTED.—What the villagers want in the worst way is to be supplied with good butchers meat. What has become of the Lakefield butchers? We want to be supplied twice a week during the summer months.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.—Mr. Stratton's bill for a meeting of the electors of this section was posted up here some time ago, to take place at the school house here on Wednesday, the 7th inst. Mr. Carnegie, the Equal Rights candidate, has also had his bills of meeting posted up and will address the electors in this section at the school house on Thursday, the 8th inst. He will have a full meeting and all are anxious to hear his arguments. His motto is "Discussion invited," &c.

THE BRIDGE.—The bridge flooring requires some overhauling and the sooner the better. Also something will have to be done to caution parties trotting and galloping across the bridge. There are no notices put up as a warning, and guilty parties might claim this error as an excuse. Please, Mr. Warden, kindly see to this matter, or you will hear from me later.

BENSFORT BRIEFS.

Preparing to Sow the Two-Rowed Barley—Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

A PEACEABLE NEIGHBORHOOD.—It is some time now since we have had a toot from Bensfort in the columns of the REVIEW. The reason is that this is such a law abiding part of the country that there are no exploits or excitements of any kind to write about in the shape of news.

SPRING WORK.—The spring work is going on well. A good many are nearly through. Still some heavy clay and low lying lands are not in a fit state for cultivation yet. The farmers' anticipating the raise in the American duty on barley are not sowing so much of that grain as formerly, more spring wheat, peas and oats are being sown. A good many have secured two bushel lots of the english two-rowed barley brought out by the Dominion Government to work into seed for another year to try shipping to the English market. From the reports of those who have grown the two rowed barley in former years it is quite reasonable to expect that we can grow a good sample upon our land here. Fall wheat and clover came through the winter rather better than was expected, although some on low land is badly heaved by the frost and is looking very backward.

CHEESE FACTORY.—The Bensfort Cheese Factory commenced operations on Monday last with Mr. Ed. Hosson at the helm as head cheese maker. It is expected that there will be a large increase in the business of this factory this year.

POLITICAL.—The excitement in politics does not seem to have struck this vicinity yet, as everything is quiet in that line. But of course in another week or two things will begin to liven up.

The Daily Review.

THURSDAY, MAY 8, 1890.

THE JUDGE!

"Yes, miss," replied Shields, not catching the bearing of the remark, "this man I have finds out that some one is ailing and just camps before the place. He used to be in the prize ring, but he has gone to the stable now, you may say, and is not much good in that line. But he is as good a man for a spurt as there is to be found, and no one else has leave to get near a 'prospective' that he has his eye on. We have trade about all our own way here. Besides, there's the churches. I realized from the start that it was a great thing to get the friendship of the churches. So I up and joined the Baptist Church and my assistant joined the Methodist, and the brethren stand by us."

About this time refreshments were brought in, and Miss Thompson sat down near Margaret to eat her shrimp salad. She engaged the young dressmaker for a certain abbreviated costume that she was soon to need, and which Margaret calculated could be made out of three yards of cloth and a little ribbon. That closed the evening's entertainment, for the guests had to be up early in the morning and could not stand late hours. Mr. Shields and Mr. Barnum begged that they might have the honor of walking home with the young ladies, and were unable to conceal their astonishment when the Misses Browne protested that the distance was so short that they really preferred to go alone and not trouble any one. The hostess insisted that her son would be delighted, but the Misses Browne were firm. Young Barnum found an opportunity to whisper, as Jeanne was putting on her cloak: "I hope you ain't got anything against me, Miss Browne, that you don't want me to go home with you?" His large, protruding eyes had a look of real anxiety in them.

"Goodness gracious, no," responded Jeanne warmly. "How could I have?"

"Well," said the strapping young fellow, raising his shoulders, "girls are queer sometimes. If you ain't opposed to me no way, Miss Browne, perhaps you would be good enough to go the museum with me to-morrow—to see the two-headed girl, you know. A lot of us is goin'. It's a perfectly respectable place, you know."

"Well, you see, Mr. Barnum," said Jeanne, looking as demure as possible, "sister and I are not—not going out anywhere. We are alone here in the city, and have left home to make our living. We have made up our minds to save our strength for work and not go out. But I thank you just as much."

"Well, now, said the young giant, flushing scarlet, "I call that a burning shame. Ma said to me only to-night, 'There's two young ladies, Tom, that I would like to see you keep company with in a genteel friendly way, Tom,' says she. And now you say you don't mean to keep no company. I believe it's a dislike you have taken to me.'

"Oh! believe me," cried Jeanne earnestly, "it is not. I should like to have you call with your mother. We would like to see you."

"Call with my mother!" burst out Barnum in a very indiscreet tone of voice "well, say, I don't have to take my mother around with me. I know how to get along without her, I should hope. I'm much obliged to you, but I don't think I will call. I don't look very good, I suppose but you're the first girl that ever was afraid to have me call on her."

"Oh! Mr. Barnum," protested Jeanne with tears in her eyes, "I cannot tell you how you make me feel! You do not understand at all. Tell your mother about it. She will explain. You see, it is not as if we were at home with friends."

"That's all right," replied Barnum, tossing his head with its mop of hair. "I guess I know when I've got the mitten without asking ma. I'm not the man to trouble you."

And as Margaret spoke her thanks to her hostess for her hospitality and bowed herself out, drawing Jeanne with her, the offended giant still stood sulking in the hall.

Thus did life go on with Margaret and her friend. Their little room got to be a popular meeting place in the evening for some of the neighbors. The young giant never came, but he used to promenade up and down in front of the house with the ever-smiling Miss Thompson. It was evident that he wished to excite bitter regret in the breasts of the haughty Misses Brown.

The rabbit, leaping noiselessly through the Tillingham marshes, was startled one morning by seeing a young man approach through the narrow path that pierced the undergrowth. He walked as if he enjoyed the solitude as much as did the rabbit. Swinging up one arm, he shook a shower of snow from one of the branches of a homely white oak that stood surrounded by a group of aspens, so slim and delicate that they reminded one of a band of young maidens beside the masculine oak. Once he stooped, and bringing up a handful of snow, put it to his lips. When his eye fell on the rabbit, who stood poised ready for flight, he sent out a cheerful shout that even the rabbit must have felt had more of greeting than of defiance in it.

In the midst of the marsh stood a long, red house of wood—a typical shooting-box. To this the young man directed his steps. It is true that the man and woman who sat in the smoky kitchen protested that they were not at liberty to take any boarders, and that the proprietor would be exceedingly vexed if he knew of their doing so. But the inducement offered by their visitor was too great for them to refuse. He was worn out, he said, and on the verge of nervous prostration. The doctor said he must have quiet. Surely he could get no more quiet than he was getting there. He was determined to stay. No one would know. The couple who kept guard of the place were not altogether averse to having some one to share their solitude, especially when they observed that the stranger carried a violin case, and they finally gave their consent.

The young man was given the best bedroom. The house was principally composed of bedrooms, but this stood apart from the rest, beyond the general hall. This hall was an inviting apartment. A fireplace made one end of it, and before it were great rush chairs, calculated to invite the tired hunter after a day's work. Skins and fowling pieces hung upon the walls, and a huge leather sofa was placed [illegible] the fireplace. The young man [illegible] his solitude with perfect [illegible] slept most of the morning, played on the violin and read old papers in the afternoon, told stories to his companions in the evening—and then retired. The good woman would have been better pleased if he had been an earlier riser, but he was too generous a boarder to complain about, and besides she really found him a charming young man. He made her a present of a silk handkerchief one day, and told her she ought always to wear a scarlet handkerchief. So every evening she donned it, stopping to admire her strong brown throat in the glass, and to wonder why her husband never spoke about it. The host had been a lake sailor for many years, but an accident had incapacitated him for further work on shipboard. He made a good companion, and was capable of telling a yarn himself if the provocation was sufficient.

One night the young man had retired to his room, early, as usual. The good people of the house sprinkled ashes over the fire, saw to the winding of the clock, and went to their room at the rear of the house. The young man, left to himself, opened the door of his room into the hall, brushed off the ashes from the fire so that it would continue to burn, and blowing out the light, placed himself in an easy chair and laid a small revolver on a deal table at his right. As the hours passed, he did not move from his seat, but kept his eyes fixed on the window.

"It occurs to me," he said once to himself, almost audibly, "that I may be making a great fool of myself. I haven't over much faith in my judgment, and I must hope that I have been mistaken. And yet it will be exceedingly mortifying to go back and—my God, it has come."

There was certainly a slight noise at the window, if that was what he meant. But there was surely nothing in so slight a noise to make a person tremble, and grasp the revolver and breathe a prayer. It was surely an arrant coward that would be so affected. The eyes fastened on the window saw the sash move up slowly—slowly, and the leg of a man put in. Pond sat motionless. The man coming in from the snow, which even at night gave out a sort of luminosity, could not see so well as Pond, whose eyes had become accustomed to the dark. The man entered the room by slow degrees. Once inside, he made a noiseless rush for the bed. Pond could hear him making inarticulate exclamations as he felt about the empty cot. Then suddenly Pond struck a match, or attempted to strike one. It was one of the explosive "parlor matches," and it emitted a shower of tiny sparks, made a startling noise, and refused to go off. It did not show Pond the face of the man, although he thought he saw a pair of hot, mad eyes gleaming at him; but it revealed Pond to the intruder. He gave one angry sob, and before Pond could move, had burst through the window, carrying the sash with him.

The rest of the night Pond paced the floor. He astonished his hostess by appearing early at breakfast. His belongings were packed, he said, and he had determined to return to the city that day. He was anxious to catch the first train in.

As he took his seat in the car and purchased a morning paper, he was not astonished to see reflected in the mirror opposite him the face that he expected to see when he tried to light that match the night before.

WISSMAN CAPTURES KILWA.

The Natives Paralyzed With Fear of the German Cannon.

ZANZIBAR, May 7.—Wissmann's expedition against Kilwa has been successful. The place was occupied May 4. The town was bombarded by the German gunboats and the natives were paralyzed with fear and made no resistance. The British subjects who were held in the town by the natives were not injured.

COLOGNE, May 7.—The Gazette's report of the occupation of Kilwa by the Germans says Wissmann made an attack from the south and two blacks were killed before the Germans entered the place. On the march to Kilwa the expedition had a number of engagements with Arabs and repeatedly defeated them. Wissmann is preparing to pursue the Arabs who fled from Kilwa.

The Dahomians Demoralized.

PARIS, May 7.—Official despatches from Kotonau say that the bombarding of Whydah has demoralized the Dahomians and they are inclined to accept the terms of the French.

The Industrial War.

BERLIN, May 7.—Seventeen hundred carpenters have struck here. They are supported by their union. The masons have also struck. Twenty six masters have yielded to the carpenters' demand of 8 hours.

FOR THE FARMERS' BENEFIT.

Congressman McKinley's Speech on the United States Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—In the debate on the Tariff Bill to-day Mr. McKinley said every relief which could be afforded agricultural interests by the tariff had been recommended. The minority said a duty on agricultural products would not benefit the farmer. The majority thinking differently had advanced the duty all along the line. If gentlemen reflected upon the difference in the price of labor here and abroad in the production of wheat they would perceive how near we were, if we had not indeed reached it, to the danger line so far even as our home market was concerned. The farmers appreciated the fact that the American agriculturist must sell his products in the markets of the world in competition with wheat produced by the low-priced labor of other countries. Their care must be to preserve their own market, for they must be driven from the foreign one unless, by reducing the cost of production, they could compete with unequal conditions.

Under the duties fixed by the bill the annual imports of $95,000,000 of agricultural products would be supplied the people of the United States by the American farmer rather than by the Canadian farmer, and that $95,000,000 distributed among the farmers would relieve some of the depression prevailing and give them confidence and courage and increased ability to raise the mortgages upon their farms. During the 12 years of reciprocity with Canada the United States bought much more than it sold. What Canada and other countries wanted was a free and open market in the United States. What the United States wanted, if it ever had reciprocity, was reciprocity with equality, reciprocity that was fair and that would give her her share in the trade or the bargain she made with the other countries of the world. Whenever the United States had had trade reciprocity or low duties it had always been the loser, but he would not discuss reciprocity. This was a domestic bill, it was not a foreign bill.

Mr. Mills declared this was the first bill that had come before the people with its mask torn off like a highwayman demanding their purses. To check importation was to check exportation. No man could show that we might sell without buying. As we removed the barriers to free exchange we increased our trade. Protection boiled down meant more work and less result, and carried to its conclusion it meant all work and no result.

LOSSES CAUSED BY FLAMES.

A $15,000 Fire at Windsor—An $8000 Blaze at Bradford.

WINDSOR, May 7.—Fire this morning about 5½ in the building in Ouelette-avenue next the ferry, owned by the Medbury estate, resulted in these losses: Globe Spice Works $10,000, insurance $6000; C. W. Bristol $2000, insurance $2000; Parisian laundry $2000, loss on building $2000.

Fire in a Colliery.

LONDON, May 7.—Fire broke out to-day in Abram colliery at Leigh. Great excitement prevailed as 200 miners were in the burning pit. Preparations were instantly made for their rescue and they were all brought to the surface in safety.

A $150,000 Fire at Scranton, Pa.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 7.—The Bloom carriage manufactory here was burned this evening. The fire also destroyed 16 dwellings, the pattern shop and boiler house of Finche's foundry and the screen works of Breck & Ross. The loss will reach $150,000, partly insured.

A Bradford Blaze.

BRADFORD, Ont., May 7.—Fire at 3½ this morning destroyed Western Hotel, owned by Building & Loan Company of Toronto, insured for $1200; McKay, tenant, $1000 insurance; Gibson & Cook's grocery store, insured for $1500; Mrs. Douglas' residence and contents, insured for $1200.

CUPID'S HARNESS.

Most women naturally look forward to matrimony as their proper sphere in life, but they should constantly bear in mind that a fair, rosy face, bright eyes, and a healthy, well-developed form, are the best passports to a happy marriage. All those wasting disorders, weaknesses, and functional irregularities peculiar to their sex, destroy beauty and attractiveness and make life miserable. An unfailing specific for these maladies is to be found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrappers, and faithfully carried out for many years. $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

BARGAIN SEEKERS.—We are showing this week many lines purchased from the bankrupt stock of a large wholesale house in Toronto. Among these is a very choice lot of German Table Linens, selling fast at 50c. a yd. former price 75c., and a lot of 50 dozen fine bleached Table Napkins in ½ and ¾ sizes. Also square and oval shaped Fringed Doylies, one case of striped Ginghams, sold everywhere at 10c., our price 8c.

OUR DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT is full to overflowing with all the latest novelties; Printed Wool Challies, All Wool Grenadines, Silk Grenadines, Persian Cashmeres and many new styles in Trimmings. A choice lot of Buckles direct from New York.

OUR TAILORING DEPARTMENT is very attractive at present. A customer remitting for a suit recently, sent these remarks: "I have seldom paid a bill with so much satisfaction as I do this. I am highly pleased with the suit. Fit, finish and material up to the best London make, ever turned out to my order."

DRESS MAKING DEPARTMENT—The popularity of our Dressmaking Department under the management and supervision of Miss Neild, is evidently appreciated. All work tastily and artistically done with promptness.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, 30c.

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

DOMINION LAWMAKERS.

THE BANKING BILL GETS ITS THIRD READING.

Mr. Mulock Arraigns the Government's Railway Policy—Mr. Burns and the Caraquet Road—Gen. Laurier's Mileage Again—Militia Matters.

OTTAWA, May 8.—The banking bill got its third reading this afternoon. Mr. Armstrong moved an amendment making it compulsory for banks to keep open until 3 o'clock on Saturday, which was declared lost on a division.

On motion that the House go into committee of supply Mr. Mulock arraigned the Government in connection with the railway subsidy policy generally and the subsidies to the Caraquet Railway in particular, and denounced Mr. Burns, M.P., for having sat in Parliament and voted for these subsidies when he was virtually the sole owner of the road.

Mr. Blake followed in a 2-hours' speech continuing the attack upon Mr. Burns and the Government.

Mr. Burns, in reply, claimed that he had been forced by circumstances to assume almost entire control of the enterprise and that so far from having unduly profited he had lost money by his connection with the road.

Sir John Macdonald held that the attack on Mr. Burns was very unjust. He defended the general railway policy. He scouted the idea advanced by Mr. Blake that members of Parliament should not engage in railways and kindred enterprises, and said that this was a kind of affected purity that does not mean anything and is a very easy kind of morality from the teeth outward. He took occasion to state that there was no ground for the apprehension, that the Government were about to acquire any other branches of the Intercolonial, that road being quite a sufficient burden as it is.

Mr. McMullen proposed a resolution in amendment to supply, declaring that no member of the House or Senate should be permitted to draw mileage beyond the limits of the Dominion. This renewed the discussion on Gen. Laurie's mileage and gave the general opportunity of declaring that he had already given the extra amount he drew for the benefit of fishermen's widows and orphans in his constituency. He questioned whether Mr. McMullen had ever fulfilled the promise he made in 1885 to give his extra indemnity to the agricultural societies in his constituency. Mr. McMullen replied to this that he had distributed the money as promised.

Sir John Thompson said the resolution was not one that could be adopted, being in direct contravention of the statute bearing on the subject.

The motion was declared lost on a division.

The House then went into supply.

In answer to Mr. Denison Sir Adolphe Caron said he regretted that the Government had not been able to put in the supplementary estimates a sum sufficient to drill the whole militia force this year, but he had hopes that such provision might be made in the near future.

In answer to Mr. Sutherland he said that the matter of supplying helmets had been considered but there was no money available for it at present. It would cost $10,000 a year for three years.

The Minister of Militia has decided to accede to the request made of him yesterday that the Government should issue free the ammunition required for the proposed matches of the Canadian Military Rifle League.

The House adjourned at 12.50.

HE MADE CARDIFF SICK.

Boston's Colored Pug Knocks Out the Western Giant.

PROVIDENCE, May 8.—Twelve hundred people at the Gladstone Club to-night saw Patsy Cardiff of Minneapolis fall before George Godfrey, the colored heavy-weight champion of Boston, in 16 rounds. The opinion was generally expressed that the western man voluntarily surrendered the contest. The $1200 trophy was awarded to Godfrey. Godfrey weighed 173 pounds and the westerner 176. The referee was Billy Mahoney of Boston. Godfrey's seconds were Baldy Carroll and George Bush. Cardiff's seconds were Dan Gill and Tom Kelly.

Cardiff was remarkably clever in dodging and avoiding punishment. His left eye became completely closed during the struggle. The men fought at close quarters for the greater part of the set-to. Godfrey used aggressive tactics, standing right up to his man. The Boston man's left eye was discolored and his face was cut by the powerful left hand blows delivered by his adversary. Neither received any body punishment, the objective point of each being the other's physiognomy. In the 16th round the men came together at the word of time and clinched near the ropes when suddenly Cardiff fell to the floor upon his face. He was seized with nausea and suffered from exhaustion. This closed the fight.

PORT ARTHUR, May 8.—The ballast train is running and more men are needed at once. Work is now proceeding rapidly on the grade west of Kaministiquia River. Orders have been given for the placing of the crossings. Work is now going on and it is expected that the track will very shortly be laid between Port Arthur and Fort William. The work on the line west of Silver Mountain will be let in small sections.

LONDON, May 8.—In the House of Commons this evening Sir James Fergusson denied that the Government had proposed a convention with the Porte making Great Britain permanent protector of Egypt.

They Read Between the Lines.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 8.—Emperor William's speech has produced a bad impression here. It is regarded as having a warlike significance beneath the pacific protests. The fact of increased military credits being asked is considered as contradictory to the Emperor's pacific phrases.

The Pope Praises the Kaiser.

ROME, May 8.—The Pope in receiving German pilgrims to-day praised the Catholic spirit of Germany and eulogised Emperor William's efforts to ameliorate the condition of the working classes.

Breadless Pesth.

PESTH, May 8.—The bakers' strike continues. The price of bread is rising. Five hundred strikers are camping on an island in the river. They pass the time with music and dancing.

The bakers' strike has caused great suffering among the poor here. Many are reported starving. The Government is implored to compel the strikers to resume work.

Castellar Condemns the Kaiser.

MADRID, May 8.—Senor Castellar in a discussion with a member of the Chamber of Deputies condemned Emperor William's social policy as inspired by mere political designs. He blamed the Pope for making advances to socialism. He admitted the grievances of the working classes but maintained that state interference would fail to cure them.

An Outbreak in Syria.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 8.—There has been severe fighting between the Maronites and Druses in the Mount Lebanon district of Syria. The Porte has sent troops to suppress the outbreak.

WAS HE MURDERED.

Mysterious Disappearance of a Former Hamiltonian in Dakota.

HAMILTON, May 8.—About six years ago William Gale, who worked in a brickyard in this city, removed to Sanborne, Dak., and settled on a farm adjoining one owned by his mother. Everything prospered under his management and Mr. Gale was rapidly becoming wealthy. One afternoon along about April 1 last he did not return from his work in the evening as usual. Nothing was thought of this, however, as his mother supposed he had gone to Cooperstown, not far away, where he had some acquaintances. Days went by, however, and he did not return. His relatives began to feel alarmed, and a strict enquiry as to his whereabouts was instituted, but without success. Mr. Gale had disappeared. The farm, with the horses and cattle, was left just as it had always been. Nothing was missed except the owner. To all appearances when he left the farm it would seem that he had no intention of remaining away. A letter from Mrs. Gale to G. A. White of 585 King-street west, this city, says that no trace of his whereabouts has been discovered up to date. Letters from neighbors to the same effect have been received by Mr. White. They state that the general opinion in Sanborne and vicinity is that he was murdered while at his work and the body hidden away.

CURIOUS LAW SUIT.

A Student Seeks to Recover a Reward for Temperance.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., May 8.—A very queer case in the history of university students' life came up before the general term of the Supreme Court yesterday. The case was an appeal from a judgment of $9960 entered in Chemung county in favor of William E. Story, jr., and against the estate of his deceased uncle, William E. Story. The action was originally brought to recover $5000. In March, 1869, when 15 years old, the nephew made a contract with his uncle that he would not drink liquor, smoke or play cards or billiards until he was 21 years of age. The young man sacredly adhered to the letter of the contract and would not even take whisky prescribed as a medicine by a physician while attending the university at Ann Arbor. He now seeks to recover the $5000 and interest.

A FAILING WITH PUGS.

Jackson Resembles Sullivan in Rushing the Growler.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—There are evidently some strong points of resemblance between Peter Jackson, the negro pugilist, and John L. Sullivan, as will appear from the following paragraph printed in an afternoon paper to-day:

Fred Dyson, who was acquitted of a charge of running a gambling house a week ago, was in the Police Court again this afternoon accused of selling liquor without a license. Several colored girls testified that when Peter Jackson was in town they had a glorious time and drank some liquor in Dyson's place. Lawyer F. Closs argued that Dyson was being persecuted by Sol Green, and that he was being assisted by certain officers for personal or pecuniary reasons. Judge Miller seemed satisfied that liquor had been sold in Dyson's place and fined him $105.

The Cuban is Ahead.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The match of pool between Alfedo d'Oro, the Cuban, and Albert Powes of this city was opened here this evening. The game will continue three nights and will consist of 600 points. This evening d'Oro came out with 202 to 142.

A 13-Year-Old Boy's Suicide.

CONTOOCOOK, N.H., May 7.—Eddie, the 13-year-old son of Frank Scribner of Hillsborough, hanged himself yesterday. A punishment inflicted the day before was the cause of the act.

No Public Bars in Boston.

BOSTON, May 8.—The House this afternoon, 102 to 105, refused to adopt the substitute bill relative to a repeal of the statute prohibiting a public bar.

UNSTABLE AS WATER.

Mysterious Disappearance of an ex-Priest at Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 8.—Rev. Louis Martin, an ex-priest from France, who has been in Montreal for the past two years, has mysteriously disappeared. He is about 30 years of age. Four years ago he crossed the Atlantic and became parish priest of the village of St. Martin, Wis. There he fell in love with his pretty housekeeper and married her. He then renounced his allegiance to the Church of Rome and came to this city with his young wife. It is believed he has re-entered the church.

WANTED TO GET RID OF HER.

A Sane Woman Incarcerated in a Madhouse by Her Husband.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Mrs. M. Beach of 319 Washington-street, Hoboken, told Prosecutor Winfield a remarkable story yesterday. Her husband is an employe of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway Company. Some months ago, she declares, he told her that he had business at Morristown and invited her to accompany him. She gladly accepted the invitation, and they boarded a train. Casually she observed that his tickets were for Morris Plains. "Why," she said to him, "I thought we were going to Morristown." "That's all right," he answered; "Morris Plains is a station this side. We will stop there on our way out, so that I may attend to a little business there." The unsuspecting wife said no more.

When the train reached Morris Plains she was hurried into a carriage and driven rapidly to the state asylum at that place. At the door her husband produced a certificate of her insanity and she was hustled into a cell in spite of her protests that she was sane, and that the manner of her imprisonment was an outrage. She managed to let her father know of the treatment she had received and of the place of her concealment, and he interested himself to secure her release. He didn't succeed in freeing her, however, till she had been imprisoned for a month.

She learned that the certificate on which she was received in the asylum had been signed by Dr. Atwell, her family physician, and by City Physician Simon. Her father says Dr. Atwell had not seen her for two months before he signed the certificate, and that Dr. Simon never saw her. Dr. Simon admitted he never met the unfortunate woman and says he signed the certificate because it had been signed by Dr. Atwell, and he had besides learned from the police and her neighbors that she was crazy. Prosecutor Winfield will bring the case to the attention of the Grand Jury.

Coke Workers to Strike.

PITTSBURG, May 8.—A strike of 8000 workmen in the Connellsville coke region is almost certain to begin next week. General Superintendent Lynch of the H. C. Frick Company, was to-day notified by the Knights of Labor leaders at all the Frick plants that the wages scale at the valley plant has been violated, and at the end of six days there will be a general cessation of work. The Connellsville region supplies nine-tenths of American iron and steel works with coke, and the Frick Company has bought up nearly the entire district, Frick being now styled the "coke king of America." His partners are Andrew Carnegie and E. M. and Walter Ferguson.

The Soo Line Slashes Rates.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 8.—To-day the Soo line made a big cut in east bound rates to go into effect May 13. The new tariff includes a 2½ per cent. reduction upon all flour rates both by lake and rail routes. The rail rate to Boston is reduced from 37½ to 35 cents, while the all-rail route is reduced from 32½ to 30 cents. The lake and rail rate to Boston is reduced from 32½ to 30 cents, and the lake and rail rate to New York is reduced from 27½ to 25 cents. No effort will be made by any of the local roads to meet the 45 cent westbound rate recently made by the National Despatch.

They Will Parade in Toronto on Aug. 6.

DUNDAS, May 8.—The officers of the Grand Branch of the Emerald Beneficial Association were elected at the convention which closed last evening. They are: D. A. Cary, Toronto, president; John F. Smith, Dundas, vice-president; William Lane, Toronto, secretary; Charles Burns, Toronto, treasurer; Jerry McDonald, London, marshal; William Jamieson, Hamilton, J. Hogan, Peterboro, organizers.

The next annual parade will be held in Toronto, Aug. 6.

Obsequies of the Late U.S. Senator Beck.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 8.—Immense crowds of people were in the city to-day to witness the obsequies of Senator Beck. The body lay in state at the Southern Presbyterian Church all morning and thousands of people passed by it to see the well-known face of the dead. At 12 o'clock the funeral services were held in the church.

Accidentally Shot by His Brother.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 8.—Rev. George Green, one of the best known ministers in Arkansas, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday in Saline County by his brother, Martin Green, while they were inspecting a revolver. The brother attempted suicide after the accident.

The Bachelor Won.

BARNSTABLE, Mass., May 8.—In the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Eliza B. Dolliver against William A. Atkins of Princetown, in the Supreme Court, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant this afternoon. Atkins is 73 years old and Miss Dolliver 68.

Springhill's Practical Joker.

HALIFAX, May 8.—Springhill is greatly excited over "a joke" perpetrated there. It consisted in sending anonymous letters to prominent married women of that place accusing their husbands of infidelity.

IDIOTS ROASTED ALIVE.

TEN UNFORTUNATES PERISH IN THE FLAMES.

The Chenango County (N.Y.) Poor House and Insane Asylum Burnt to the Ground—The Fire Supposed to Have Originated From an Old Woman's Pipe.

UTICA, May 8.—The Chenango County Poor House at Preston was burnt last night at 11 o'clock and the lives of ten of the inmates were lost. The fire started in the insane department. All the departments in the institution were crowded and it can well be imagined that the rescue of the poor creatures, many of them old and very feeble and others wild with fear and terror, which added to their insane delusions, was by no means an easy task. The victims were:

Sarah Mills, Afton.
S. Beardsley, Columbus.
Arvilla Attwood, Norwich.
D. Dibble, Bainbridge.
A. Austin, county charge.
A. Babcock, co. charge.
L. Warren, county charge.
Laura Gray, Greene.
S. Gallagher, Norwich.
M. A. O'Daniels, Preston.

The bodies were entirely consumed except the trunks. Keeper Hall was in Norwich in the afternoon. Upon returning to Preston he was eating a luncheon when one of the attendants ran in and exclaimed: "We are all on fire." Keeper Hall and the attendants immediately set to work rescuing the inmates some of whom assisted materially in saving the others. None of the provisions or household effects were saved. Nothing remains but the cistern in the cellar.

The buildings destroyed were the asylum, in which there were about 80 inmates, and the pauper house and idiot ward, in which there were about 40. Both were three-story wooden buildings in good repair, having wings two-story in height. They stood side by side, a driveway separating. They were valued at $35,000 and insured for $20,000 and are a total loss. The horrible part of the disaster was the burning of the 10 idiots who were penned in their cells and were roasted alive. The fire started in this portion of the main building and as the inmates were asleep and no sounds were heard it is probable that the smoke and gases smothered them before they felt the pain of the fire.

The origin of the fire was probably the smouldering sparks of a slight fire which occurred Wednesday afternoon. Deborah Dibble, a feeble-minded old woman, was smoking a pipe and set her clothing and bedding on fire and was burned fatally before the flames could be extinguished. Her corpse was burned last night. It is supposed that the fire started from some undiscovered smouldering sparks from this event. The keeper was awakened by a pauper and attempted to release the idiots, but was driven back by the fire. He then ran through the other buildings in his nightclothes, rousing the inmates and turning them out of doors.

The insane patients had, some of them, to be forced out and fought against release, but all were saved. Most of them were taken under guard to the Methodist and Universalist Churches till other quarters are provided, and such a gibbering, motley congregation was never seen in churches before. Some escaped and took to the woods, where the sheriff and a large number of deputies are hunting for them. Keeper Mainwaring rescued several at the peril of his life.

The scene at the burning was indescribable and the horrors of Longue Pointe were reenacted on a smaller scale. Demented and terror-stricken inmates wandered around the burning piles in a hopeless manner. The great wooden buildings lit up the hills for miles around. The coroner will hold an inquest.

SICKENING SCENES.

The Keepers' Stories—Friends Searching for Lost Inmates.

NORWICH, N.Y., May 8.—The excitement here over the destruction of the poor house and county insane asylum is intense. All who had friends among the unfortunates have eagerly sought information of their fate. A procession of all sorts of vehicles has been going to Preston all day. The smoke and stench from the holocaust are perceptible here. At the scene of disaster it was sickening. The idiots were locked in and roasted like beasts.

Their unearthly screams first aroused a pauper named Edward Francis, who slept near them. Francis says he arose and called Keeper Mainwaring, who came down stairs from his room in a hurry. By that time the building was a goner and the folks inside were screaming and calling for help but no one could live a minute in there. Keeper Mainwarning says that when he was aroused he did not wait to dress himself but bounded down-stairs in his bare feet. On opening the door leading from the hall to the idiot department he saw the interior was one mass of flames and the smoke overpowering. He attempted to rescue the inmates who were shut in their cells but was driven back by the heat and smoke. He then ran out and gave the alarm, returned to his room and dressed himself and then ran through the corridors and aroused the paupers.

In some instances the people were dazed and it was necessary to carry them bodily down from the house. Mainwaring says that when he took possession as keeper he threw out all the old stovepipe and replaced it with new besides putting heavy sheeting iron screens around every stove and he did everything to prevent a conflagration.

Keeper Hall of the insane department says some of the lunatics were ugly and refused to be rescued until main force was used. All the corpses were burned beyond recognition. In some instances only a portion of the body is left.

DOLLY COMES TO GRIEF.

The Noted Confidence Woman Arrested at Brantford.

BRANTFORD, May 8.—Miss Dolly Beeby, alias Miss Blain, alias Miss Edwards and a dozen other names, was arrested here to-day by Policeman Adams. It will be remembered this lady victimized Rev. Dr. Cochrane last December, representing herself as bringing two nieces from Brampton to attend the college here and the reverend gentleman advanced her $16 to go to New York. Since then she has been swindling the citizens of Port Dalhousie, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Milton and other places. At the hospital here she represented herself as Mrs. Wright, wife of a Dundas lawyer, and engaged a nurse to go to Dundas. A telegram was received to-day from Hamilton by the Chief of Police here advising him the woman was supposed to be in Brantford and asking for her arrest. Policeman Adams was detailed for the duty and after some search discovered Dolly in a passenger car at the station just about leaving for Paris. Her examination will probably come off Saturday.

Will Meet the Cut.

CHICAGO, May 8.—At a meeting of representatives of the east-bound roads to-day the Lake Shore was censured for reducing the rate on oats without giving proper notice. All the lines with the possible exception of the Baltimore & Ohio will meet the 22 cent.

THE ELECTION LAW.

FREEDOM in voting and purity in election matters are not in the platform of the Mowat Government and its supporters. Not only did they refuse to allow the ballot used in Provincial elections to be made secret, but they also refused to make the election law more stringent. Mr. Whitney, the Conservative member for Dundas, introduced at two sessions a bill to provide for imprisonment as a punishment for bribery, and the Liberals voted it down. Is it any wonder that they did so, when the chief of the Cabinet himself tried to protect a follower from being exposed in the courts and by Legislative enactment relieved him of the penalty imposed by the courts? A Mr. John A. Harvey professed to have knowledge of acts that would unseat and disqualify Dr. Dowling. Mr. Harvey wished an appointment—a License Inspectorship, we believe—and wrote Mr. Mowat on the subject and also referred to being able to unseat Dr. Dowling. Of course, a Minister anxious for the purity of elections would be glad to see electoral corruption exposed and punished! Let us see. This is what the Premier wrote to Mr. Harvey:—

"MY DEAR SIR,—I have your letter of the 12th March. From what you say of your services to the Liberal party you certainly are entitled to every consideration. As your letter is marked private I cannot without your permission communicate its contents to Dr. Dowling. The appointment must be made on his recommendation though his nominee must be a fit person. With regard to your taking steps to unseat him, do not forget that by unseating Dr. Dowling, should this be in your power, you accomplish something much more important, and that is you do an injury to the cause which you have so long supported. I have not yet seen the copy of the Pembroke Observer which you mention in your P.S. as having sent me, O. MOWAT."

That was it. Corruption in the interest of the party must be covered up and the guilty ones protected. Again Mr. Mowat wrote:—

"MY DEAR SIR,—I have your letter of the 26th, which partly through absence from the city and partly from pressure of business I have not before acknowledged. It is really impossible to deal with the inspectorship, except through Dr. Dowling. I am extremely sorry for the trouble that has arisen about it. I think it probable that I may have before long an opportunity of recognizing your continued services (as I have learned from you) to the party, though there is no opening in any of the departments just now. I hope that in the general interest you will do what you can to defeat the petition, which I see has been filed, and thereby afford another proof of your good feeling towards us.

"Yours truly, O. MOWAT."

"John A. Harvey, Esq., Renfrew, Ont."

Mr. Harvey said he possessed knowledge of facts that would unseat and disqualify the member. Mr. Mowat not only wanted him not to use it, but to do what he could to defeat the petition, and he thought it probable there would "before long" be "an opportunity for recognizing his services to the party." Is it any wonder that Mr. Whitney's bill was opposed by the Premier and his followers?

ANOTHER ONE OF MANY.

Mr. MEREDITH delivered an address at Oakwood on Wednesday, and at the conclusion of the address the audience received a surprise by Mr. Thomas Broad, a well known and influential gentleman, who had been a staunch Liberal, rising from his seat to speak. Mr. Broad said:—

"I have followed Mowat, as you all know, for a great number of years, and would gladly follow him further if he was carrying out proper principles, but I cannot follow him further. What I have heard today is more than party politics. I haven't a drop of blood in my veins now of partisan politics. I am perfectly independent today, and I indend to vote for Mr. Meredith's principles as my conscience dictates. I will do so believing that Mr. Meredith is worthy of our votes. He has treated this burning question so impartially and so Christian-like that I believe him. For this I beg to move that a cordial vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Meredith for his presence here to-day."

Liberals like Mr. Broad are Liberals still, but they believe in "measures, not men." There are many of his party who share his views and will not support the Government candidates.

Correspondence of the Review.

BUSY SEEDING TIME.—Your correspondent, who has been so negligent in the few weeks past, hopes to be more attentive in the future, when the busy days of spring time have gone and when the agriculturist can rest a little from his labors. Though the time is matured that grain should be sown much of the land is yet unprepared to receive it.

FUTURE FRUIT.—A large supply of fruit trees arrived during last week to be be distributed among the farmers of the township. They are from the Rochester nurseries and seem to be large and strong. Some of the plum trees, however, do not seem to be proof against dogs.

A TOWN LOT.—Mr. Michael Collins, sr., has succeeded in purchasing a town lot in the village and is at present engaged in removing the stones. When removed it is thought he will strike water.

POLITICAL.—An enormous election meeting was held in the Town Hall on Monday night. Opposition is expected shortly.

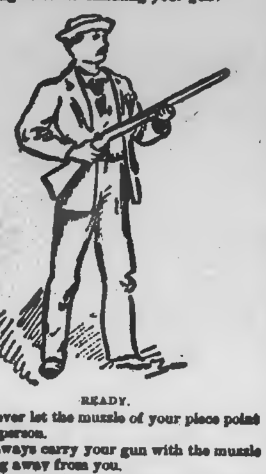
HOW TO HANDLE A GUN.

Some Good Advice to Boys by a Veteran Sportsman.

Let me tell you how to learn to aim a shotgun. It is a very simple thing when once you have mastered it.

Lift the weapon with both hands, the right clasping the stock just below the guard, the left supporting the barrels. Look with both eyes steadily at the object to be shot at, and at the same time bring the midrib of the barrels straight under the line of the vision of the right eye. Pull the trigger instantly.

When you are ready to go into the field to shoot game you must keep well in mind the following rules for handling your gun:



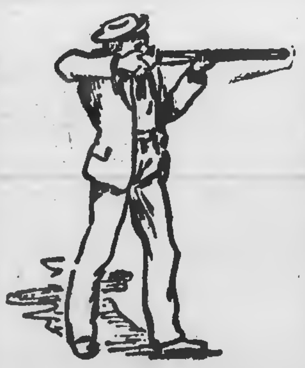
READY.

1. Never let the muzzle of your piece point at any person.
2. Always carry your gun with the muzzle pointing away from you.
3. When climbing a fence put your gun over first, after taking out both shells.
4. Never drag a gun towards your.

Nearly half the accidents that have happened to boys from the handling of guns have been owing to the neglect of the fourth of the above rules.

Most boys know that it is considered unsportsmanlike to shoot at any bird when it is not flying, or at any hare or rabbit that is not running. It is the law of "polite shooting" that the game must have a fair chance to escape, especially when the shotgun is used.

Target practice is well enough to train the shooter in aiming, but there is no way of learning to shoot game save going into the field and banging away at it.



AIM.

Even after you have learned to control your nerves you will find it very hard at first to hit your bird, because you will forget to aim ahead of it if flying across your line of sight, or above if rising, or below it if flying downward.

In hare shooting it is necessary to "allow" for running by aiming a trifle above the game when it is running straight away from you. This is because your line of sight is above it as you stand.

The shotgun requires the very best of care in order to do good work. It must be kept perfectly clean and must always be loaded to suit its "habit," as I call it. By this I mean that each gun has a capacity or quality for shooting a certain load best, and any other load will lessen its effectiveness. By a little experimenting you can find out the load that best suits your piece.

Carry your gun on your shoulder with the muzzle elevated and the hammers down, save when you are expecting game to rise, then you may hold it at "ready," which is as follows: Cock both barrels, grasp the stock with the right hand, as in firing, and sustain the barrels at an upward angle in the left hand, just in front of and across the breast, the breech-heal a little below the right elbow. This gives perfect freedom of action when the game rises. Moreover, it is the safest position in which to carry the gun both for yourself and your companions, if you have any.

Never be in a hurry with a gun, no matter what the apparent emergency; it is the deliberate and cool sportsman that is quickest and surest. Remember that what is done as a habit is done perfectly, and all that you have to do to make a crack shot of yourself is to learn to fire habitually by the most approved rule.

Too Many Sisters.

"That's all right," he said, as he took up his hat, "but I have got seventeen sisters already. You are now down on the list as the eighteenth. Speaking with a full knowledge of all the facts, some girl has got to stop this one-sided streak of relationship pretty soon or I will disown the whole family."—Philadelphia Times.

At School.

Teacher—Somebody has been throwing paper behind my back. Mewes, can you tell me who it was?

Mewes (who was the culprit himself)—I know who it was, but I hardly like to tell.

Teacher—A trifle too scrupulous, perhaps, but it shows honorable feeling on your part. You may sit down.—Humoristische Blatter.

FUN AND FOLLY.

Her Criticism.

She was visiting her artist cousin's studio upon an invitation to criticise his latest work. He had the canvas upon the easel, and occasionally touching it up here and there, would walk away a few paces, then turn to observe the effect.

"Fred," said she, finally, "I think I would be afraid to turn my back upon that picture and walked away as you do if I had any desire to finish it."

"Why?"

"Why, I'm almost certain that if I had painted that picture and should get a little start away from it I would keep on going and never come back any more."—Texas Siftings.

Due Deliberation.

Clergyman (to eloping couple)—You are sure you are doing the right thing in getting married; that you have deliberated on this step?

He—Deliberated! Parson, we were two hours on the road and the gal's father is only ten minutes behind us!

Clergyman—Join hands—man and wife—spliced—two dollars. No; there's nothing like due deliberation in matters of this kind—Judge.

The Dog's Share.

One of the customers in a barber's shop sees a dog of ungainly aspect sitting opposite, intently watching him.

"Why does that dog look at me so?"

"Why, sir, occasionally my hand slips, and I am so unfortunate as to snip off a bit of ear."

"Eh! and what then?"

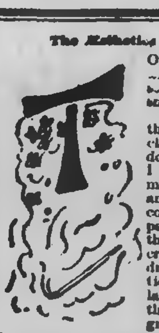
The Æsthetics of Smoking.

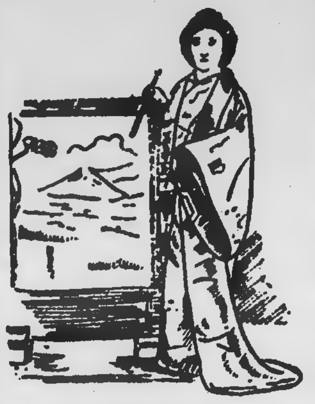


TO understand smoking as a fine art, one must see a Japanese lady smoke.

As I travel much in the cars, and second class, as the better-to-do of most Japanese do, I get an insight into many national traits and manners. The coolies and farming people and the like go third class, and in such crowds one thinks on drawing up to a station that the whole village is going to board the train. They are great travelers, both for pleasure and business.

Smoking is practised by all, great and small, old and young, and both sexes alike enjoy the weed.

Japanese tobacco is rank and strong and not liked by foreigners. It is cut very fine, after the manner of fine-cut chewing tobacco in America, but it is not chewed, nor is snuff used.



JAPANESE LADY SMOKING.

The Japanese pipe is a miniature affair, and though one sees costly ones of amber or fine metal-work, the usual pipe is a small tube of bamboo, about the size of a lead pencil and four inches long, with a white metal mouth piece and a tiny bowl, not so large as the tip of the little finger of a child. This is carried in a silk or leather pouch to which is united a silk cord, a pouch of tobacco, shaped like a common leather pocketbook, the whole carried in a belt or obi.

When a Japanese lady gets on the car—if not with her husband or family she is sure to have a lady friend or a female servant with her—she generally drops her sandals on the floor and, carefully arranging her robe, folds her feet and legs under her on the seat, just as at home on the mats. The Japanese are not comfortable when seated in European chairs or on car seats. She next takes out from the obi—or great silk belt which encircles her waist and which really keeps all her garments in place—the tiny pipe, case and pouch, and filling the bowl with a pinch of the fine cut weed, strikes a match and lights it. She draws in one full whiff and then lets most of the smoke float out of her mouth little by little, but finally the rest is blown out through the nose. She then knocks the tobacco out of the pipe, against the toe of her sandal, on the floor, and replenishes the bowl with tobacco immediately, lighting it from the former contents which are still smoking on the floor, and of this second bowlful she slowly inhales about three whiffs, then empties the bowl again. I have seen the filling, lighting and smoking repeated one after the other four times, but generally it is but twice. After this the pipe is replaced in the pouch and the whole put away in the belt. It is easy enough to describe this in words, but impossible to point them with the absolute perfection of grace which animates every move.

Everybody smokes, and the first thing done when you enter a shop, a house, an office or anywhere of the kind, the Hibachi or little furnace with lighted charcoal is placed within reach by which to light the pipe.

I would not state that the men are equally graceful in the art of handling the pipe and its contents; they are not; but if one must smoke, I recommend him to the art as practiced by the refined Japanese woman.—Kobe, Japan Letter.

Davis Growing Fat.

Peter Davis, the condemned Belleville murderer, according to the local papers in that city, is growing fat in his solitary confinement. As the day of his execution approaches he sets himself about more resignedly to prepare for his fate. He eats three hearty meals each day and derives great comfort from the daily visits of his spiritual adviser who is indefatigable in his efforts to save the soul of a man so soon to solve life's problem at the end of the hangman's rope. The prisoner has now a small library in his cell given to him by Rev. S. Dew and other Christian citizens who have interested themselves in his behalf.

A Chance for a Celebrated Organist.

Since Mr. Seward's resignation the special musical committee of St. John's have been in negotiation with one of the most accomplished organists in this country, and though it was thought at first that there was no chance of a man of Dr. Davies' stand coming to Peterborough, a letter which was received yesterday indicates that there is at least a possibility if not a probability of that being the case. Dr. Davies is a graduate in music of the University of Oxford, was organist for several years at one of Montreal's leading churches, St. James the Apostle, and for some time at St. James Cathedral, Toronto, and has lately been engaged at St. Alban's Ottawa. He has previously given organ recitals at Peterborough and other Canadian cities and is probably one of the best known organists in Canada. Dr. Davies has arranged to give an organ recital in St. John's church next Wednesday evening at 8.30, immediately after the usual short service, when the congregation and others of Peterborough's musical circles who may choose to attend may form some estimate of the man who is within their reach. In the interest of good music in the town it is to be hoped that St John's may secure Dr. Davies and that he may be located in Peterborough.

FESTIVITY AT ST. JOHN'S.

A Social and Largely Attended Congregational Reception.

St. John's congregation seems to have committed itself to holding congregational receptions twice a year, at which the members of the congregation meet for social intercourse to the accompaniment of music and the clattering of tea cup. Last night's reception, the third of the series, was distinguished from its predecessors in that it was taken in hand by a band of ladies who had not taken a part in previous receptions, except the president of the committee. These amateur workers are to be congratulated on the brilliant success which attended their efforts last night. On entering each gentleman was presented with a bouquet of flowers, and having adjusted them in his buttonhole, he had time to look around on the decorations, which had transferred the schoolroom from its usual appearance to that of a drawing room with curtains, hangings, pictures, easy chairs and all the comforts and attractions of the modern drawing room. The platform was a mass of flowers in full bloom, between which snowy table cloths could be seen with pyramids of dishes, indicating a subsequent feature in the evening's entertainment.

Soon after eight o'clock the Peterborough Amateur Orchestra struck up and continued to play at intervals throughout the whole evening, to the great delight of all present. No doubt to the efforts of the orchestra the pleasure of the evening was largely due. There were only two vocal numbers, a duet by Messrs. Lech and Elliott, and a quartette by Mrs. D. Lundy, Miss Hales, Mr. Drope and Mr. Elliott. A striking feature in the musical part of the evening was Dr. Jebb's banjo selections, which were rapturously encored. They were quite a remarkable exhibition of skill. The refreshments, tea and coffee, ice cream, cake and other edibles were passed around and increased the pleasant feeling of all present and the comfort of their inner man. The congregation was very largely represented in the company, the school room being crowded at times during the evening. The scene was brightened after nine o'clock by a number of members, young soldiers belonging to the 57th Batt., who came in uniform. There were also a number of members of congregations of sister towns whom the members of St. John's were glad to welcome. Altogether the whole evening was of the most pleasant and enjoyable, and in some features, especially the musical, excelled anything of a similar character which had been given before.

Mrs. Geo. Rubidge was the President of the committees and was ably assisted by the following committees of ladies:—

REFRESHMENTS—Mrs. Law, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Geo. Stevens, Mrs. George Cluxton, Mrs. Snowden, Mrs. F. Rubidge, Mrs. McNeill, Miss Jenkins, Miss White, Miss English and Miss Gilchrist.

Peterborough Talent in Demand.

An organ recital and "at home" is to be held in the Presbyterian church at Norwood this evening, at which Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss E. Hall, of town, are on the programme for vocal contributions.

A grand concert is announced by Mrs. O'Neil, of Norwood, for Monday, the 26th inst., in the Town Hall in that village at which the following from Peterborough are expected to take part;—Messrs. Doucet, McIlmoyle, Clegg, Butcher and Dunn and Miss Sanders.

Mamma (to her little boy). "Now, Bennie, if you'll be good and go to sleep, mamma'll give you one of Dr. Ayer's nice sugar-coated Cathartic Pills, next time you need medicine." Bennie, smiling sweetly, dropped off to sleep at once.

A Pair of Inebriated.

Two young men who had tarried too long with the wine cup were gathered in by Constables Adams and McGinty last night. Louis Mayhew and John O'Donnell were the two unfortunates at the Police Court this morning. They pleaded guilty of having been drunk and the Magistrate fined them two dollars each or ten days in gaol. They asked for time to raise the money to pay their fines, but the Magistrate told them they should never get drunk before they knew they had money enough in their pocket to pay their fine. They both went up on the hill, being a little short financially.

Juvenile Mission Workers.

Juvenile Mission Band of St. Paul's church may feel elated over the success of the entertainment which was held in the Sunday school room of the church under their auspices last evening. There was a good attendance of the parents and friends of the children who are identified with the band and the manner in which the young people, from the little tots in the kindergarten songs to the older ones in the dialogue, acquitted themselves was most praiseworthy to themselves and reflected much credit upon the young ladies who had trained them. Miss Tucker, the President of the Mission Band, had superintended the preparation of the programme and the Misses Cameron trained the Kindergarten children. Mr. F. Hall was in the chair. The programme was varied in its character. Masters Duff, Lewis, McKee and Ferguson gave an instrumental quartette which was excellently rendered, Jeannie Cameron and Marion Hall sang a pleasing duet, six little girls, Jeannie Cameron, Eva Paterson, Marion Hall, Ethel Brodigan, Katie Davidson and Ethel Best, gave a mission recitation, Jeannie Hall sang a solo, Master W. Connal and Bessie Connal rendered a duet, Reg. Thompson recited, as also did Jessie Cameron and Georgie Dennistoun, and Eva Paterson and Ethel Brodigan gave an instrumental duet. The feature of the evening was the "Coming of the May Queen," which was very effectively presented by eight little girls. Lottie Smith was the May Queen, while the other girls in the dialogue were Mary Erskine, Lillian Hall, Bessie Connal, Katie Hall, Annie Hall, Elsie Cameron and Flora Ferguson. Interspersed through these renditions were several kindergarten songs by the small children, led by Miss Sophy Cameron. These were very pleasingly rendered. The entertainment was closed with "God Save the Queen" and the happy children dispersed highly pleased with their success.

FISH IN STONY LAKE.

The Inspector's Story of Trout Catching—Good Bait From a Duck's Mouth.

A reporter recently interviewed Mr. George Cochrane, the Fishery Overseer, in reference to the fishing in Stony Lake. We give the result of the interview:—

REPORTER—Mr. Cochrane, have you caught many salmon trout in Stony Lake?

INSPECTOR—No; nor has anyone else. No doubt there are thousands of them there, but in summer, when it is lawful to fish, they rarely bite. Just about this time of the year they are occasionally caught at the Burleigh shute or at the mouth of the creeks. Many of our sportsmen try them, and perhaps a party may get half a dozen—more likely one or two fish, and frequently none. It is not very cheerful work sitting all day in the cold, early spring, just after the ice goes, waiting for some timid trout to take the bait, and so only very enthusiastic fishers try it.

REPORTER—I have heard of several gentlemen catching them in the summer.

INSPECTOR—Yes, so have I. Every season I hear of two or three fish being caught, but though I have tried I never got one. They are in very deep water in summer. In November they go on the beds to spawn and then they are caught—speared and caught in nets. Of course it is dangerous work killing them at that time of the year, but there are always men who appear to delight in doing what is wrong and illegal.

REPORTER—What size are these fish?

INSPECTOR.—They generally run from ten to fifteen and eighteen pounds; they are very fine fish. I would be glad if they were more easily caught.

REPORTER—What bait is used?

INSPECTOR—Small herring, indeed any small fish. I know I may be doubted, but if you will promise not to tell I will give you what some call a fish story—well, it is a fish story, but it is true nevertheless.

REPORTER—All right, Mr. Cochrane. We all know you have not a very vivid imagination, so we will pledge you beforehand not to question your veracity.

INSPECTOR—Well, one early spring morning I was trolling for salmon at the mouth of Eels Creek. A duck, a red head, flew over my head I gave a quick sharp shout, when the duck dropped a fish—a small sucker about five inches long. I picked up the fish and put it on my hook and trolled. I got a bite and I got my fish—a splendid 15 lb salmon trout. I put the sucker on again and in a few minutes I got another bite.

REPORTER—George!

INSPECTOR—Honest, I did—and I landed him, another salmon, 16 lbs!

REPORTER—Now Cochrane!!

INSPECTOR—'Tis true as gospel—I did; and that's not all.

REPORTER—Don't George!

INSPECTOR—I tell you I put on that sucker and got another salmon trout.

REPORTER—Oh, George!. perhaps you are going to tell me you got the duck—the red-head

INSPECTOR—No, I am not, but honestly, I tell you I got those three fish with the bait that duck dropped.

REPORTER—Well, Mr. Cochrane, I said I would not tell, but I had no idea you would try me so. I must tell it—the responsibility will be on you. Down here, of course, they will all say I am lying, but in Lakefield, where they all know you, what will they say?

INSPECTOR—Say—what will they say in Lakefield? Young man, you haven't been much in Lakefield, if you had you wouldn't think there was anything strange about it. If any other man in Lakefield had had my experience with that sucker he would have rounded off the story with the red head on his line, but I sometimes lay awake at night thinking, so I am a little careful what I tell in the day time. By-bye.

The Campaign.

The Conservative convention to nominate a candidate for the west riding will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the old Music Hall.

Three political meetings were held last night. Mr. Kidd held a meeting in Ashburnham, which was largely attended, and at which he and Messrs. E. B. Stone and E. Duff spoke.

Mr. Carnegie addressed a meeting at Young's Point, at which Mr. C. J. Leonard appeared for Mr. Stratton.

At Selwyn Mr. Stratton held a meeting, and Messrs. R. R. Hall and Geo. M. Roger assisted him, while Mr. R. Weir spoke from the Equal Rights standpoint. The school questions were the principal topics at these meetings. The division and disorganization in the Government ranks were shown by Mr. Roger declaring at Selwyn that he "had a strong opinion that Seperate schools should not exist," while at Young's Point Mr. Leonard, also speaking for Mr. Stratton, was defending the existence of these schools.

A meeting of Mr. Carnegie's committee will be held to-night, in the Old Council Chamber, Opera House block.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Directors was held last evening. President Early occupied the chair. There was a fair attendance. After devotional exercises the General Secretary read his monthly report of work. Mr. Isaac Richardson, chairman of the Devotional Committee, gave a report of the spiritual work of the past month, which, praise God, has been the most fruitful for results we have had, two very important recommends were made and adopted. 1st. The Gospel and Song service held Sabbath evening will in future be open to ladies as well as gentlemen. 2nd. During the summer months open air meetings will be held Sabbath afternoons.

Special efforts will be made to reach the men of the Q.O.R. and have them make use of our rooms during their visit. Hon. Chancellor Boyd will be invited to give an address to our young men during his visit to our town. We hope to secure him for our anniversary "At Home" May 28th.

Special effort will be made this month by the Finance Committee to lift the incubus of debt off our Association and we have claimed the promise of our Lord and any one interested in our work wishing to have a blessing will confer a favor by sending in their donations, no matter how small, to Mr. J. W. Bennet or General Secretary.

We praise God for the past and thank Him for the future. A hearty and unanimous vote of thanks was passed to the I.O. of Oddfellows for their generous donation of $23 33 towards the funds of our Association.

SYMPATHY FOR NEWFOUNDLAND.

Resolutions Adopted by the Prince Edward Island Legislature.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., May 8.—The Prince Edward Island Legislature has unanimously adopted a resolution reciting the grievances of Newfoundland in regard to French aggressions regarding its fisheries, and resolving: "That the action of the citizens of Newfoundland in protecting against any further concessions of fishing rights to the citizens of France and that the contention of Newfoundland in denying the right of the Imperial Government to enter into any treaty or arrangement with the French Government affecting said fisheries without the consent of the Newfoundland Legislature meets with the approval of this House."

TORONTO TOPICS.

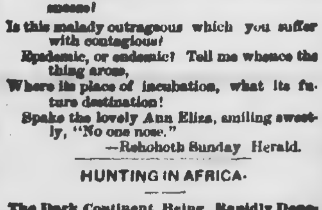
The British America's Stolen Bonds—A Verdict of Murder.

TORONTO, May 9.—It transpired yesterday that the $80,000 bonds stolen in New York by William H. Guion were the property of the British America Insurance Company of this city.

Mrs. Annie Dawson of Oshawa has had a writ issued for $5000 for slander and defamation of character against Mrs. Ann H. Rogan of the same town.

In the case of the infant found under a veranda in Bulmer-street the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder against some person unknown.

Composite Affliction.



Speak, O lovely Ann Eliza, with a terrible coryza,
And a wheezy respiration full of sighs and husky moans,
With a constant lachrymation, and a nasal intonation,
From catarrhal inflammation o'er the turbinated bones!
Why, thou young and happy maiden, in thy conversation laden
With a copious addition of abortive b's and d's!
And from whence did you derive a red and swollen conjunctiva,
And a frequent inclination to incontinently sneeze?
Is this malady outrageous which you suffer with contagious?
Epidemic, or endemic? Tell me whence the thing arose,
Where its place of incubation, what its future destination!
Spake the lovely Ann Eliza, smiling sweetly, "No one nose."

—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

HUNTING IN AFRICA.

The Dark Continent Being Rapidly Depopulated of Its Big Game.

Royal Phelps Carroll, son of the former governor of Maryland, left this city in October last, says the New York Sun, for a hunt in the game country around Mount Kilima-Njaro, in Africa. This was not his first visit to the hunting-grounds of the dark continent, and it may not be his last, for the news comes from Zanzibar that he has returned there after three months of glorious sport on the great Masai plateau, and that 200 head of large game, including many lions and elephants, fell before his rifle. The same dispatch informs us that the recent fashionable epidemic has invaded inner Africa, and many men in Mr. Carroll's Caravan suffered severely from influenza.

The region Mr. Carroll visited, though near the equator, is very high and comparatively salubrious, and it is now the paradise of sportsmen who go to Africa on hunting tours. The stories that Thompson and other travelers have told of the game of many varieties that wander over those vast plains have thrilled the Nimrods of the north, and not a few English and Russian hunters have abandoned India and South Africa and sought the new region, where they have found such sport as they have seldom seen elsewhere. An English party of four gentleman, headed by Sir John Willoughby, recently returned from the Kilima-Njaro country with numerous trophies of the chase and reported killing thirty varieties of the larger game, including elephants, lions, rhinoceroses, giraffes, a dozen species of the antelope family, ostriches, and crocodiles.

The onslaught that has recently been made upon these new game preserves raises the serious question how long the animals will hold out. There is ample proof that African game, like many of our American varieties, is by no means inexhaustible. The South African rhinoceros, like our bison, is becoming rapidly extinct. Formerly three species roamed in great numbers through the southern part of the continent. The largest of them, the white rhinoceros, is now rarely seen, and few of the other varieties can now be shot further south than the northern part of the Transvaal. Wissmann tells how the elephant used to come down to the very shore of the ocean in Angola, but hardly a specimen of this animal can now be found throughout that vast region. Hunters travel sometimes for days from the Zambesi southward without getting a single shot at any of the larger game. The days of wholesale sport are over in many African regions that were once famous.

A good many friends of Africa like Mr. Stanley, who, by the way, does not believe in killing game for fun, think it is about time to call a halt. Mr. Stanley severely criticises the British East African company for the unbounded privileges it has given to hunters in the Kilima-Njaro country. In an interview at Cairo the other day he said the company was permitting sportsmen to exterminate the game that would be sorely needed some day as food for railroad laborers. He condemned as senseless and murderous the practice of hunting the big game of Africa merely that sportsmen "may decorate their stuccoed walls with furs, hides, and horns."

Sportsmen will not sympathise with this view, but the fact that large parts of Africa are being depopulated of their big game shows that it is not difficult to overdo the mania for hunting in wild countries. Not many native chiefs are so far-sighted as the savage king of Matabele land, who has prohibited elephant-hunting in his country during a part of every year. There is little doubt that unless the wholesale slaughter of game in Africa is restrained the country will be swept clean of many varieties that white men would hereafter find very useful.

A Baptist Sugar Social.

A sugar social was held last evening at Mrs. J. Fowler's, Fowlers' Corners, and proved a very enjoyable and successful event. The social was held under the auspices of the Baptist church, and the choir of that church and a good number of the congregation, together with Rev. P. Clifton Parker, were present. An informal programme was rendered during the evening, the choir rendering several selections, while Dr. Scott, Mr. Geo. Matthews and others contributed vocal music.

A Denial.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks about statements which Mr. Adam Hall made at the last meeting of the council. Mr. Hall said that "the team which watered the north end of the town last summer were unable to do their work." I deny this and defy him to prove his statement. Mr. Hall, in making this injurious remark, has certainly over-rated his judgment about something that he knows but very little about. Yours truly,

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by mothers for children teething for over fifty years with perfect success. It relieves the little sufferer at once, produces natural, quiet sleep by freeing the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE TWO SINNERS.

The following poem by Ella Wheeler Wilcox is quoted by Mrs. Bradley in her lectures.

There was a man, it was said one time,
Who went astray, in his youthful prime.
Can the brain keep cool and the heart keep quiet,
When the blood is a river that's running riot?
And boys will be boys the old folks say,
And the man's the better who's had his day.

The sinner reformed, and the preacher told
Of the prodigal son who came back to the fold,
And Christian people threw open the door,
With a warmer welcome than ever before.
Wealth and honor were his to command,
And a spotless woman gave him her hand.
And the world strewed their pathway with flowers a-bloom,
Crying "God bless lady and God bless groom."

There was a maiden went astray,
In the golden dawn of her life's young day;
She had more passion and heart than head,
And she followed blindly where fond love led,
And love unchecked is a dangerous guide,
To wander at will by a fair girl's side.

The woman repented, and turned from sin,
But no door opened to let her in;
The preacher prayed she might be forgiven,
And find her way through Christ in heaven.
For this is the law of earth we know,
That the woman is scorned, while the man may go,
A brave man wedded her, after all,
But the world said, frowning, "We shall not call."

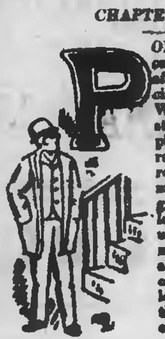
THE JUDGE!

CHAPTER XV.



POND made his way one afternoon soon after his return to the city to the house on Walnut street. He stopped before the place long enough to raise his eye-glass and regard the dressmakers sign with a grin. The officious landlady showed him up the stairs with many original remarks about the probability of a late spring, and left him reluctantly at the door of her boarders' room. He knocked once—waited—knocked again—listened—and at last heard a small voice bidding him enter. Slowly opening the door, he caught a glimpse of a small figure topped with red, sitting in the sleepy-hollow chair rubbing her eyes. It was evident that the princess of the enchanted palace had been sleeping. The minute the eye of the princess fell on her visitor she gave a horrified little scream, put her hands hurriedly to her skirts to be sure that they were not indecorously awry, and turned a beautiful scarlet.

"I have never done any thing in my life but make blunders," protested Pond, with fluency that the little damsel found so captivating.

Jeanne tried to stammer out a reply. She held out her hand tremulously, essayed to say a dozen different things, failed in all, met Pond's quizzical glance and covered her face with her hands. Pond stood still and regarded her with a delighted expression. Then he went up to her and took down her hands.

"Am I an ogre, Miss Whitfield? Do you want me to go away?"

The question brought Jeanne to her senses. What if he should go away! Whatever came, that must not be. She grew demure and self-possessed out of sheer alarm.

"Did you ever see such a foolish girl, Mr. Pond? Sit down, do. She will be home in a little while. You must wait for her."

"Wait for whom?" asked Pond, with fell intent, having an inner consciousness that the question would flatter her.

"Why, for Miss Margaret, of course. You came to see her, I suppose?"

"Well," said Pond, "I suppose I did, if you say so. I know when I have received a hint as well as the next man, and if you say I came to see Miss Margaret, I suppose I am to understand that you wish me to confine my attentions to her."

"Of course," snapped Jeanne, getting up and going for the door. "And since you came only to see her, I may as well give you the morning papers and leave you till she returns. Then I shall be very happy to tell her you are here."

"Thank you," retorted Pond solemnly; "so good of you, I am sure. But I have a few questions I would like to ask you."

"Oh! if I can be of any use ——" sighed Jeanne, sitting down again.

"You are always of use, Miss Whitfield. Jeanne sniffed.

"Are you happy here?" asked Pond after a moment's pause.

"Certainly," said Jeanne coldly. "We find the place very funny."

"Funny? Yes, the neighborhood looks hilarious, and I always thought dressmaking must be one of the most humorous of things."

"Oh! we are in society," explained Jeanne, maliciously. "There are parties, and we are invited. We meet young men."

"You do, do you," said Pond, unbuttoning his overcoat.

"Yes. They ask us to go the museum—the dime museum. The people here go in parties."

"Great heavens! And do you go? Does Miss Barthwait go? Who are the young men?"

"I don't know who they are," murmured Jeanne, smilingly. "Oh! yes; one is an undertaker. He says he is engaged in beating up business. But he pays no attention to me. He looks after Miss Margaret."

"By Jove!" cried Pond.

"Yes," said Jeanne. She got up and put some fresh perfumery on her handkerchief. "I don't know what Mr. Barnum does. He is the one that asks me to the dime museum. You might think he was connected with it from the name; but he is not."

"No?" ejaculated Pond, white about the mouth.

"No. And such a good name for a museum, too, don't you think? He has hair like mine."

"A bond of sympathy, I suppose?" sneered her guest.

"Well, yes, if you look at it so."

"Oh! I look at it so," cried Pond. "How many times have you been to the museum?"

"Well, of course one wouldn't care to see the same attractions twice. One visit is enough for the big-footed girl, though it might do to pat two—that is, to devote two, to the dog-faced boy. By the way, they let any one take the snakes that wants to"—this in a charming burst of confidence.

"Where is Miss Barthwait?" said Pond severely, rising. "If you can tell me, I think I will go to meet her."

"Haven't any idea where she is. She goes out walking every day."

"With the undertaker?"

"Oh, my! no. He's at his place through the day. It would never do for him to neglect his business."

Pond murmured something about being willing to give his assistants some work. Jeanne smiled more charmingly than ever.

"Sit down awhile," she pleaded, "I want to tell you some more."

"No, I thank you," said Pond decidedly, "I have heard enough."

"A little seems to satisfy you, doesn't it? How nice. I think a contented spirit is one of the greatest things on earth, don't you, Mr. Pond." At this remark the young man turned suddenly, as if struck by an idea. Then he marched up to where the young lady sat swinging her little feet. They were encased in slippers of the most uncompromising red, and her short dress betrayed the red clockings on her black stockings. Pond was not interested in her slippers, however. He was concerned with her eyes.

"I want to know," he cried, shaking one gloved fist in her radiant face, "if you are the most consummate—romancer on earth? If you are, you deserve to be shaken till you can't see."

"Well, returned Jeanne, lifting her blue eyes to his, "I do as well as I can with my natural advantages. Of course I am no Rider Haggard."

"But," cried Pond, sitting down again, this time with his overcoat off, "why do you do it?"

"Now, see here," said Jeanne, putting her fingers together in what might be termed an argumentative position, "a young man we do not know at all, at all, comes to us and says: 'Go away from home. No matter why. I say go. Do not tell any one where you are going. Indeed, you will oblige me by telling a falsehood and saying to all your dearest friends—whom you would rather die than deceive in any large matter—that you are going to a place where you do not go. Keep as quiet as the grave and all will be well. Why? Because I say so.' Then you go, and like an idiot do all that young man says. And every time you think of it you get vexed, and the more you think about it the worse you get. Then that young man appears, and you are outraged to find that you are not as angry with him as you thought you were. You feel that you must take it out of him some way, and you do. That is all."

"That is all, is it?" repeated Pond, looking at her with-stretched eyes. "Now you put it that way, I must say that your faith in me does seem a tremendous compliment to pay to a stranger. I thank you very much. How does Miss Barthwait feel about it?"

"It isn't easy to tell what Miss Barthwait thinks about anything. She doesn't eat much now, and I know she doesn't sleep well nights. When morning comes she is cheerful, though, and is always finding something to laugh about."

"Bless her brave heart," murmured the young man with moist eyes.

"She works very hard," went on the girl. "You would think to watch her that she actually had to make her own living. She makes beautiful dresses, and the people round here think there never was such a woman. Sometimes I can see that she would rather be alone for a while, and then I say I think I would rather not go out walking. She would never go without asking me, you know."

"Poor girl," sighed Pond, "I wonder how she bears her trouble as well as she does!"

"It's a great deal harder for her, now that she is away from her father," said Jeanne. "Don't you think she might go back now?"

"Great God, no!" burst out Pond. "I tell you she must be kept here. Do you imagine I was romancing when I said that a great danger threatened her? I tell you, if she had not followed my advice and come here, she would have been dead now. I know what I am talking about, Miss Whitfield."

(To be Continued).

CHOOSING CANDIDATES.

P.E.I.'S ASSEMBLY.

Resolutions Passed Touching Reciprocity With the United States.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., May 8.—This resolution was adopted by the Legislature previous to prorogation:

"Whereas, The Dominion Parliament did in the year 1879 place on the statute book of Canada a standing offer to reciprocal free trade with the U.S. on the same basis as the treaty of 1854, and the Government of Canada in 1874 and again in 1887 invited the American Government to a full consideration of the trade relations of the two countries, and

"Whereas, The said offer and invitations were not met in a friendly spirit by the American Government, but the said Government have shown clearly that no measure of free trade with Canada will be considered by them except on such terms as will ruin our trade with other countries, destroy our political independence and result in an oppressive system of direct taxation, and

"Whereas, all questions of trade and commerce are under the British North America Act assigned to the exclusive control of the Federal Parliament, therefore

"Resolved that this House, while anxious for as full a measure of free trade with the United States as the interests of this country will permit, do not accede to the request of the Legislative Council by appointing a committee to prepare an address to the Governor-General on the subject of trade relations of Canada and the United States."

Chicago Carpenters Resume Work.

HEALTHFUL EXERCISE.

Only a few months ago these romping, rosy-cheeked lasses were puny, delicate, pale, sickly girls. By the aid of Dr. Pierce's world-famed Favorite Prescription, they have blossomed out into beautiful, plump, hale, hearty, strong young women.

"Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic and as a regulator and promoter of functional action at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, it is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is carefully compounded, by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been faithfully carried out for many years.

CARPETS! CARPETS! CARPETS!—A Large Consignment of Brussels, Tapestry and Kidderminster Carpets came to hand to-day. Some very handsome designs in Hall Carpets, with stair to match.

BARGAIN SEEKERS—We are showing this week many lines purchased from the bankrupt stock of a large wholesale house in Toronto. Among these is a very choice lot of German Table Linens, selling fast at 65c. a yd. former price 75c., and a lot of 50 dozen fine bleached Table Napkins in ⅝ and ¾ sizes. Also square and oval shaped Fringed Doyl'ets, one case of Striped Ginghams, sold everywhere at 10c., our price 8c.

OUR DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT is full to overflowing with all the latest novelties; Printed Wool Challies, All Wool Grenadines, Silk Grenadines, Persian Cashmeres and many new styles in Trimmings. A choice lot of Buckles direct from New York.

OUR TAILORING DEPARTMENT is very attractive at present. A customer remitting for a suit recently, sent these remarks: "I have seldom paid a bill with so much satisfaction as I do this. I am highly pleased with the suit. Fit, finish and material up to the best London make, ever turned out to my order."

DRESS MAKING DEPARTMENT—The popularity of our Dressmaking Department under the management and supervision of Miss Reid, is evidently appreciated. All work tastily and artistically done with promptness.

Boys' Ribbed Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy 8 years for 12½c.

Boys' Ribbed Knickerbocker Hose, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, for 17c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 4 years, 18c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 8 years, 25c.

Boys' Extra Heavy Knickerbocker, wide ribbed, large enough to fit a boy 12 years, 30c.

We are now opening another job line, all sizes at 10c.

We consider ourselves fortunate in securing these goods for our customers, as knitting factories would want more than our price for the Hose to knit them, if you furnished the yarn.

This season we have imported largely of the Stainless Black Hose as we proved them last season to be exactly as represented. Read what the "German Manufacturer says about them :

"Ever Stainless Black Dye is true to its nature to the very last thread. When persons perspire very much, the natural acid from perspiration may sometimes turn the wet parts rather greenish, but washing with soap and water brings back the beautiful color of the "Everfast Stainless Black," whereas the so-called fast black dyes turn into various shades of rusty brown after washing. Every pair stamped or not genuine."

Agent for domestic patterns. By sending 5c. we will send a fashion book containing about 900 styles.

SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1890.

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REVIEW OF BUSINESS.

A More Favorable Outlook in General Distribution of Merchandise but Disheartening Crop Reports—The Industrial Situation—The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report substantial gains in the movement in general merchandise, notably at Western and Southern points. Exceptionally favorable reports come from the recently flooded region of Louisiana, where the demand for goods is more than meeting expectations and collections are improving. In the Northwest higher prices for farm products have stimulated trade and made collections easier. In some regions, however, frosts affected the previously bright crop outlook, while in others rains have had an opposite influence. San Francisco advices are that signal service wheat crop reports from California to Washington present too gloomy an aspect. On May 3 San Francisco resumed shipment of breadstuffs to Australia, a significant fact, sending to Sydney 18,348 centals of corn and 225 barrels of flour.

Stock speculation at New York is active and strongly bullish and public interest is increasing. Industrial stocks were the feature of the first days of the week and at its close the Granger shares began to move up on supposed improvement in the western railroad situation.

The number of strikes during the first nine days of May exceeds all previous records for a similar period. They number 145, involving probably no fewer than 50,000 strikers. There were 65 strikes on May 1 alone. Thus far the strikers have made substantial gains. The carpenters' strike for a shorter day has practically succeeded, meeting at New York and Brooklyn hardly any opposition. In Illinois 15,000 coal miners have obtained an advance and will resume work.

Exports of wheat (and flour) from both coasts this week equal 1,978,270 bushels against 1,978,718 bushels in the like week a year ago and 2,747,048 bushels last week. The total shipped July 1 to date is 88,225,000 bushels against 75,357,048 bushels in a like share of 1888-89. Stocks of available wheat on both coasts are slightly in excess of total held a year ago, but American, European and afloat stocks of wheat as specially telegraphed to Bradstreet's decreased 10,200,000 bushels during April as compared with a decline of only 5,000,000 bushels in March last.

Dry goods are in fair demand from jobbers in the regular way. Cotton goods are strong in price with agents and tend upwards. Print cloths have advanced ⅛c. A large number of buyers have been attracted to New York by the flannel sales May 9, 13 and 15. In all 38,000 pieces are advertised to be sold. Raw wool is firm in price at Eastern markets on steady but conservative buying by manufacturers and limited stock. Raw cotton is slightly weaker, 1-16 off.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 152 in the United States this week against 133 last week and 174 this week last year. Canada had 29 this week against 23 last week. The total number of failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 4300 against 4570 in a like portion of 1889.

THE CHINESE PUZZLE.

Mr. Tichenor's Report on Smuggling Celestials from Canada into the U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Assistant Secretary Tichenor of the treasury in response to a Senate resolution calling for information relative to evasion of the Chinese Exclusion Law to-day sent to the Senate reports from special agents stationed along the border. He says that Chinese found unlawfully within the United States, smuggled from Canada, do not have certificates showing they paid the Dominion customs tax of $50 per head. The Canadian customs officers will not admit such persons into Canada. They will therefore have to be smuggled back into Canada or placed on the bridges between the two countries, where they will suffer greatly. He recommends that copies of the laws affecting Chinese and of decisions thereunder be sent to consuls and collectors along the Canadian border. Special Agent Brooks says 300 Chinamen during the past year entered the United States unlawfully from Canada

KILLED BY CANNIBALS.

THE FATE OF COMMANDER MUSY AND HIS MEN.

After a Gallant Fight Against Terrible Odds They Are Massacred and Eaten by Congo Savages—The Government Defeated in the Prussian Diet.

BRUSSELS, May 9.—The news is confirmed of the killing of Mr. Musy, commander of the French post at Bangui, on the Mobangi branch of the Congo. He is the second white man who has been killed by the natives in the Congo basin. The first was the comrade of Capt. Trivier in his trip last year across the continent. Musy was killed with twelve men on his station on Jan. 3. He had left his post with many allies from the Botambi and Jacobi tribes to chastise the village of Salanga for making slave raids upon villages that were in friendly relations with the French. During the fight which followed his arrival at Salanga all his allies deserted him, and he and the twelve men of his station were left alone, surrounded by the enemy in overpowering numbers. Musy kept the savages at bay until his ammunition was exhausted, when he was killed. All his men perished with him, and their bodies were eaten by the cannibals. The station at Bangui was re-established twenty-four days after the death of its commander.

Adopted Over Ministerial Opposition.

BERLIN, May 9.—In the Upper House of the Prussian Diet to-day Count Pfeil of the Extreme Right moved that the Government take measures to remedy the evils arising from the large number of Jewish pupils in the superior schools. He declared the existing conditions constituted a social danger.

Herr von Gossler, Minister of Public Instruction, said it was impossible to exclude Jews from any educational establishment. Such an attempt would force them into a position leading to disruption instead of union. The matter should be considered as a purely mechanical question of education and be the subject of a general political demand.

Notwithstanding the opposition of Herr von Gossler the motion was adopted.

Emperor William to-day received the president and vice-president of the Reichstag. The Emperor referred to the importance of the new Military Bill, the demands of which he said were limited to urgent requirement.

Diplomats believe General von Caprivi will soon resign the chancellorship. He is said to be disgusted with the details of the work of the foreign office and not in sympathy with the officials under him.

Capt. Hanssens is at Zanzibar on a mission for King Leopold. It is believed he will negotiate for the ceding of a slice of the Congo territory to Germany.

The East Bristol Election.

LONDON, May 9.—At the election in East Bristol to-day to fill the parliamentary seat made vacant by the death of Handel Cossam, Weston (Glad.) received 4775 votes, Inskip (Con.) 1900, Wilson (Labor) 602. At the last election the polls stood: Cossam (Home Ruler) 3672, Inskip 1986.

A Russian Sensation.

LONDON, May 9.—A sensation has been caused in Russia by the discovery that large and systematic thefts of bombs and shells from the magazine at Sebastopol have been going on. Numerous employes at the magazines have been arrested.

The telegraph says the negotiations with Germany on the African question are tending toward a satisfactory settlement. German papers state Germany claims the Nile from Lake Victoria northward as the dividing line between the English and German spheres.

The War in Dahomey Ended.

PARIS, May 9.—The war in Dahomey is practically ended. The King of Dahomey has signified his willingness to exchange the prisoners captured by his forces for captive Dahomians in the hands of the French. France will not carry her operations into the interior of Dahomey, but will strengthen her garrisons at Porto Novo and Kotonan.

Advices from Kotonan state that an exchange of prisoners has taken place between the French and Dahomians.

Russianizing Finland.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 9.—The use of the Russian language in the schools of Finland has been made compulsory.

The commission on the proposed railway through Siberia reports the road will be completed in ten years. Work will be begun simultaneously at several points along the line.

Portugal and Africa.

LISBON, May 9.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the Minister of Colonies stated the occupation of Chiromo, East Africa, by Portuguese volunteers was the subject of negotiations with Great Britain. He said no official news had been received regarding the reported massacre of the Valadim expedition by Makalolos.

The Progressist papers attack the Government for consenting to the submission of the Delagoa Bay Railroad question to international arbitration.

In the Chamber of Deputies to-day the Minister of Justice announced that an agreement had been reached by which the Delagoa Bay question was to be submitted to arbitration.

Mwanga Expelled from His Capital.

ZANZIBAR, May 9.—News has been received from Uganda that the Arbs swarmed to assist Kalema, who has again expelled Mwanga and the missionaries from the capital, to an unassailable position on Sesse Island. The German conquest of Kilwa will be of undoubted benefit to civilization. An immense quantity of slave irons has been found in all Arab stores, showing the activity of the slave dealers. The Germans have captured Kassim, an influential Arab at Saadani, who is accused of murdering a merchant some years ago.

A DOUBLE MURDER.

Ex-Priest Martin Broke First His Church and then His Marriage Vows.

MONTREAL, May 9.—Archbishop Fabre has addressed a communication to the Associated Press which fully explains the disappearance of ex-Priest Martin. Martin has deserted his wife and children, re-entered the church and is now doing penance for his marriage, which in the eyes of the church is null and void. Martin has asked the Archbishop to find homes for his wife and children.

His Family's Troubles Ended.

MANKATO, Minn., May 9.—Constantine Schaefer killed his wife and child at Chester to-day and then committed suicide. It is supposed he became insane and conceived the idea of ridding himself and family of all further trouble in this world.

None But Sisters Need Apply.

BUFFALO, May 9.—The Council Committee on Ordinances this morning adopted an ordinance prohibiting the employment on municipal work of laborers and teamsters who are not residents of Buffalo. The ordinance is aimed to exclude Canadians

COMING CANDIDATES.

Hon. Charles Drury Renominated by East Simcoe Reformers.

ORILLIA, May 9.—At the Reform convention held here to-day, Hon. Charles Drury was proposed as the nominee by George Radcliffe and seconded by J. D. Huff. No other nomination was made. The meeting was addressed by D. Anderson, Dr. Spohn, C. J. Miller and J. D. Huff.

R. A. Lyon (Ref.) in Algoma East.

ALGOMA, May 9.—Sixty delegates representing 82 polling divisions in Eastern Algoma met here to-night in convention. P. C. Campbell of Sault Ste. Marie occupied the chair. R. A. Lyon of Manitoulin was unanimously nominated as a supporter of the Government.

Richard Hall (Con.) in West Algoma.

PORT ARTHUR, May 9.—Richard Hall of Rat Portage, a member of the lumber firm of Ross, Hall & Brown, has been nominated to oppose Mr. Conmee for the Assembly by the Conservatives of West Algoma.

A. F. Campbell (Con.) in East Algoma.

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 9.—Ex-Mayor A. F. Campbell of Brampton has accepted the Conservative nomination for East Algoma.

George Hess (Con.) in North Perth.

LISTOWEL, May 9.—The Conservatives of North Perth in convention here re-nominated Mr. George Hess for the Assembly.

North Brant Conservatives.

PARIS, May 9.—The North Brant Liberal-Conservative Association met here to-day. These officers were elected: President, J. P. Lawrason, St. George; vice-presidents, Frank Bell, South Dumfries; George Simpson, Onondaga; R. L. Hamilton, Brantford township; Henry Strowd, Paris; secretary-treasurer, William J. Turnbull, Paris. It was decided to call a meeting at Cainsville on Friday, May 16, at 1 o'clock for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the riding at the approaching election.

Editor Moyer to Run in North Waterloo.

BERLIN, May 9.—It is now definitely decided that Mr. P. E. W. Moyer, editor and publisher of The Berlin Daily News, will be the Conservative nominee for North Waterloo in the forthcoming elections for the Assembly. His address to the electors of the riding will appear in a day or two.

Rykert's Uphill Task.

ST. CATHARINES, May 9.—The air here is full of talk regarding the by-election for the Dominion House which comes off on May 26. There has been no convention held as yet by either party. The Reformers will meet here on Tuesday to select a candidate. Meanwhile Mr. Rykert is making a vigorous canvass and is holding meetings nightly. The papers all oppose him.

The Quebec Elections.

QUEBEC, May 9.—At the Cabinet council held this afternoon Mr. Robidoux, M.L.A., was sworn into his new office of Provincial Secretary.

The ministers are very reticent as to the date of the forthcoming general election. It is supposed, however, that the proclamation dissolving the Legislature will soon be published and that the general elections will take place in the beginning of June.

EQUAL RIGHTS QUESTIONS.

The Kingston Candidate's Answers Not Considered Satisfactory.

KINGSTON, May 9.—The Equal Rights Association submitted these questions to the city candidates for the Assembly:

1. Are you in favor of the measure providing that all ratepayers in Ontario be assessed as public school supporters, and that notice in writing must be given to the assessor if a ratepayer desires to be assessed otherwise?

2. What are your views concerning the use of the ballot in elections for public and separate school trustees?

3. Are you in favor of making English the language of instruction in all schools supported by the people and the only language in examinations?

4. Are you in favor of requiring all teachers to undergo the same examination for certificates before being allowed to teach in Ontario?

5. Are you in favor of the abolition of separate schools supported by public funds?

6. Are you in favor of having all inspectors of schools, both public and separate, paid in the same way, and whether are you in favor of paying from funds of the province or of municipalities?

The replies which have been received not being considered satisfactory the Equal Rights Association Committee have recommended that a candidate be put in the field. A public meeting will be held in a few days.

Losses Caused by Flames.

HALIFAX, May 9.—The furniture factory of A. Stephen & Son was destroyed by fire this morning to the extent of $20,000.

NORFOLK, Va., May 9.—The saw and planing mill of the John L. Roper Lumber Company at Gilmerton Locks was burned to-day with 600,000 feet of dressed lumber. Loss $50,000.

GROVE CITY, Pa., May 9.—The most disastrous fire in the history of this county occurred here this morning. It started in a barber shop and spread rapidly, destroying nearly a score of buildings, including stores and dwellings. The total loss is $30,000. The fire is supposed to have been incendiary.

A Grand Trunk Brakeman Killed.

TARA, May 9.—At 5 p.m. to-day an accident happened here at the Grand Trunk railway station by which Henry Brown lost his life. He was on top of a box car putting on brakes when the train shunting brought the cars together with such force as to knock him off. He fell between the cars. Two wheels passed over his body causing instantaneous death. He was the son of a widow and has only been in the service of the Grand Trunk railway a few days.

An Unneighborly Law.

SARNIA, May 9.—For several years Bessie Campbell, Flora Ross and Jennie Jenkinson of Sarnia have been working in a Port Huron tailor shop, and living with relatives in Sarnia. The Port Huron custom officers have now stopped them crossing under the alien labor law

THE RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

A TOTAL OF $3,485,000 DIVIDED AMONG 41 ROADS.

Fourteen Ontario Enterprises Receive $1,435,000—The List for the Province—The Export Duty on Logs—The Anderson Mail Contract.

OTTAWA, May 9.—A motion for adoption of the report of the printing committee raised a discussion in the Commons this afternoon on the question of the amounts due by certain members for extra copies of their speeches which they had printed at the Government bureau last session. It was brought out that these debts could not lawfully be charged against their sessional indemnity as proposed.

Mr. Blake announced that he intended on the first day of next session to move for a return showing the names of the defaulting members, as he thought Parliament was justified in adopting the wholesome practice followed in clubs of posting the names of members in arrears.

Mr. Davin thereupon entered the plea that he and some other members had agreed between themselves that they would not pay their printing bills at all until the Government made a reduction of the amount, which the members considered too large.

Sir John Macdonald in answer to a question on the order paper announced that the Government had concluded to remove the export duty on pine and spruce logs in the event of the United States reducing the import duty on sawn timber to $1 per 1000 feet. An intimation to this effect will be sent to the authorities at Washington.

The House then went into consideration of the land subsidies to Northwest railways, the system of granting land without a limitation of the price at which the companies shall sell being made the subject of lengthy criticism from the Opposition side, coming up to recess and renewed afterwards.

The land subsidy resolutions were reported from committee.

Sir Richard Cartwright, bringing up the matter of the Anderson mail contract on a motion to go into committee of supply, Sir John Macdonald said there was no objection to bringing down such of the correspondence as related to the termination of the contract arrangement. Mr. Foster said Anderson's letter in The London Times, taking exception to his alleged declaration that the contract had been cancelled by the Government, seemed to be based on an error, as what he said was that the contract had been surrendered, not that it had been cancelled.

The railway subsidy resolutions were laid on the table of the House this evening. They provide for these subsidies to Ontario roads at the usual rate of $3200 per mile:

Montreal & Ottawa	$ 96,000
Waterloo Junction	38,[illegible]
Railway from Woodstock to Chatham via London (in lieu of subsidy granted for railway from Ingersoll to Chatham)	[illegible]
Ottawa & Morrisburg	160,400
Erie & Huron (from Petrolea to Dresden, via Oil Springs)	70,400
Brockville, Westport & Sault Ste. Marie	[illegible]
Manitoulin & North Shore	[illegible]
Port Arthur, Duluth & Western	16,000
Lake Erie & Detroit River	160,000
Lindsay, Bobcaygeon & Pontypool	51,000
Kingston, Smith's Falls & Ottawa	115,000
Ottawa & Parry Sound	[illegible]
Bay of Quinte & Lake Nipissing	[illegible]
Cobourg, Northumberland & Pacific	[illegible]

The total for Ontario is $1,435,000. Quebec gets $1,272,000 granted to 16 enterprises, New Brunswick $367,600 to 7 roads, Nova Scotia $290,000 to two roads, British Columbia $119,000 to the Kootenay road and Prince Edward Island $96,000 to one road. The grand total is $3,485,000. The roads are all to be commenced within two years from July 1 next.

The House then went into supply, considering the public works appropriations in the supplementary estimates, and adjourned at 1.55 a.m.

Dr. Hickey gives notice that at the first opportunity next session he will move for a reference to the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the charges against Mr. Charlton contained in the resolution he proposed the other night and withdrew on account of the lateness of the session.

THE APRIL STATEMENT.

Nearly a Million Dollars Excess of Revenue Over Expenditure.

OTTAWA, May 9.—The monthly statement of revenue and expenditure on account of consolidated fund shows for April:

Revenue	$3,315,24[illegible]
Expenditure	2,696,[illegible]
Surplus	$619,[illegible]

For the ten months of the fiscal year ending April 30 the statement is:

Revenue	[illegible]
Expenditure	[illegible]
Surplus	[illegible]

The debt decreased $712,[illegible] during the month of April and the net amount is now $239,[illegible],415.

The William Radam Microbe Killer Company of Canada give notice of application for incorporation for the manufacture and sale of their medicinal preparation. Their chief place of business will be Toronto and the capital $20,000 in $100 shares. The applicants are S. M. Strong, Walter Bishop, S. E. Strong, L. Cobb, Cleveland; George P. Macatee, Chicago; C. W. Lyman and E. S. Northrop of Toronto.

A DOUBLE TRAITOR.

The Result of a Line Fence Quarrel at the Flour City.

ROCHESTER, May 9.—Thomas Lynch, one of the Rochester detective force, and a man named Samuel Stoddard had a dispute over a line board fence yesterday. This evening the dispute culminated in a bloody tragedy. The detective shot and instantly killed Stoddard and his wife. Lynch gave himself up and is now detained at Police Headquarters.

By the Gallows Route.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 9.—Sandy Jones was hanged here to-day for the murder of Police Officer Manning. On the scaffold Jones said he was ready to die and was going straight to heaven.

AUGUSTA, Ala., May 9.—Bob Hill (colored) was hanged to-day at Warrenton for the murder of A. B. Rogers (white). Hill was surprised by Rogers while attempting burglary and shot him.

COLUMBIA, S.C. May 9.—William Davis, colored, was hanged at Union to-day for the murder of Susie Fernandes, whose throat he cut during a quarrel. He met his fate firmly and said he was ready to meet his God.

The Cronin Convicts' Underground Mail.

JOLIET, Ill., May 9.—The "underground" mail scheme to benefit the Cronin convicts was devised by Harry Meyers, the Manhattan Bank robber, now doing time for attempted murder. He informed Burke how the necessary money was to be secured and put up the job in accordance with which Burke wrote to his Chicago friends for $50 for "inside use." Meyers is now strung up by the wrists in solitary confinement.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity of the Blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies, for a while, thinking the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alterative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being above all others, we used it with marvelous results. The sore healed and health and strength rapidly returned." —J. J. Armstrong, Weimar, Texas.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time." — E. L. Pater, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier." — W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"Ayer's medicines continue to be the standard remedies in spite of all competition." — T. W. Richmond, Bear Lake, Mich.

GOVERNMENT EXTRAVAGANCE.

FRIENDS of the Mowat Government profess a desire to discuss financial matters, but on this question the record of the Government is far from being impregnable.

From 1879 to 1889 the total expenditure has increased from $1,580,000 to $3,653,356—an increase of $2,072,000.

The consolidated fund expenditure, which does not include expenditure on capital account, has increased in the same time from $1,074,000 to $2,648,971, an increase of $1,574,100.

The increase in the cost of civil government—the expenses simply of running and oiling the Government machine—has increased from $104,900 in 1879 to $215,556 in 1889, an increase of over 100 per cent.

And the cost of legislation has increased from $37,497 to $121,400, a modest addition of 250 per cent.

To come down to the year 1885, when the Mowat Government had got their methods established, the increase in 1889 in the total expenditure over that year is $1,200,000.

But we are told that though the expenditure has been increased more is spent in education, agriculture, etc. The appropriations for education were increased from 1875 to 1889 by nearly $100,000, a respectable sum. But how much more is given back to the people in aid of the schools? Notwithstanding the large increase in the total expenditure the appropriation for Public and Separate schools in 1875 was $240,000, and in 1889 it was $241,412—an increase that distributed over the Province would not be a tremendous benefit. And the the grants to the agricultural societies of this county have not been increased at all.

The expenditure has not been kept within the revenue, and in the past four years the Province has gone further behind. In 1886 there was a deficit of $83,949, but as $238,842 was borrowed that year, there really was a deficit of $371,791. In 1887 there was an apparent surplus of $393,681, but $242,836 98 had been borrowed and Dominion bonds sold bringing in $320,428.00 more, a total of $563,050, so that in 1887 there was a deficit of $169'369. In 1888 there was a surplus of $43,576. In 1889 there was a deficit of $101,761. Adding these deficits together, and deducting the surplus of 1888, leaves an aggregate deficit in the four years of $599,000.

During the years previous the record had been similar. In 1882 there was a deficit of $89,111; in 1883 of $448,937; in 1884 of $333,100, and in 1885 of $40,000, a total for the four years of $900,196. But in 1884 the Government had borrowed $250,648, and in 1885 $371,809, which makes for the four years 1882-1885 a deficit of $1,421,100, and for the eight years the large deficit of $1,981,211.

The Government exceeded the revenue by this amount, although large sums were received from the sale of lands and timber, and although in 1884 the amount received from the Dominion Government was increased.

This may not be the most important question before the people now, but on their chosen ground the Government is shown to have an undesirable record and one that, if continued, bodes ill to the Province.

NORWOOD NEWS.

Correspondence of the Review.

THE 24TH.—The Queen's Birthday will be celebrated here with unusual eclat. The football tournament promises to be not by any means the least attractive feature of the coming events.

THE SWAMP.—The Village Council seem to be very slow to undertake any work this year. A standing disgrace to Norwood is the unsightly and unhealthy swamp extending through the middle of it. The owner of the marsh is neither able to do anything with it, nor is he willing to accept any reasonable offer from the corporation for cleaning it up, and so it has stood and will likely stand for some time.

THE RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—The shocking railway accident which occurred last week cast quite a gloom over the village. Reggie Fry, who was so badly injured, is still living and hopes are entertained that she will pull through. The parents of both children have the sincere sympathy of the community.

THE POPE OF NIAGARA.

That Is What It Is Said the Bishop Has Become.

HAMILTON, May 9.—A circular was sent out yesterday to the members of the Church of England in this diocese calling upon them to co-operate in lessening the power of the bishop and regain the proper position of lay members in the conduct of affairs. The circular asserts that the powers given to the bishop by the constitution of the diocese are excessive. Some of the clauses complained of are:

Clause 28 enacts that "no act or resolution of the synod shall be valid without the concurrence of the bishop," etc., and further, that "all proceedings of committees shall be submitted to the bishop and shall not have effect until approved of by him." Clause 29 allows the bishop to appoint the members of first the Executive Committee, second the Special Trust Committee, third the Mission Board. Clause 10 gives the bishop the power to call the synod together at any time or place, or to adjourn or dissolve at his pleasure. Clause 26 relates to the patronage of rectories and parishes and has been, as is well known, the occasion of no little difficulty.

The circular says: "It must be evident to almost every one carefully considering the matter, that these clauses bear upon the face their own condemnation. They make the bishop, the one single individual, the supreme and final arbiter of almost all matters affecting the interests of the church. The synod becomes simply a convenient machine for accomplishing that purpose. It creates a spiritual autocracy, a species of diocesan popedom. This condition of affairs may suit the views and gain the support of those among the clergy who aspire to the parochial autocracies, but it certainly will find no favor with a large number of that body, and still less with a large majority of our lay members."

The remedy suggested by the circular is the calling of a mixed assemblage, such as that which on May 26, 1876, adopted the present constitution, for the purpose of repealing it and adopting a new one.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Provincial Appointments and Incorporations—The Newfoundland Delegates.

TORONTO, May 10.—These provincial appointments have been gazetted: J. S. Cartwright, clerk of process for the High Court of Justice, pro tem., vice W. [illegible] Howard, deceased. P. W. Thistlethwaite, Vankleek Hill, police magistrate for said village without salary. H. W. Fraser, Thamesville, associate coroner for the county of Kent. H. T. Jones, Halifax, commissioner for taking affidavits at said city and elsewhere, for use in Ontario courts. C. A. Ghent, Toronto, notary public.

These Ontario incorporations are gazetted: The Toronto Belt Line Company (limited), capital $600,000, in $100 shares. The M. Langmuir Manufacturing Company of Toronto (limited), capital $100,000, in $100 shares, business trunk making. The York Soap Company (limited), capital $20,000, in $50 shares. The Walkerville Brewing Company (limited), capital $65,000 in $100 shares. The capital stock of the G. & J. Brown Manufacturing Company (limited) of Belleville has been increased from $15,000 to $60,000.

The announcement was officially made to the public last evening that Henry W. Darling will not offer himself for re-election as a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. This of course means that after June 17 he will cease to be president of the institution. Vice-President George A. Cox is mentioned as his probable successor.

Donald Morrison, M.L.A., and D. J. Greene, Q.C., M.L.A., two of the Newfoundland delegates to Canada, are in the city to present their case to the Board of Trade. They saw their first game of ball yesterday, a sport which is almost unknown in the island.

WHERE THEY WORK LONG HOURS.

Halifax Bakers' Demands—Intercolonial Railway Employes' Petition.

HALIFAX, May 9.—The bakers will strike to-morrow unless their demands are acceded to—$10 a week and 10 hours a day. They have hitherto worked 15 hours a day for $8 a week. The employers offer $9 and 10 hours, but the men refuse to accept it.

The Intercolonial Railway employes are petitioning the Government to reduce the hours of labor to nine per day and to continue existing pay. The men will not strike at present and think that in view of the general inauguration of the eight and nine hour system that the Government will willingly concede their demand.
